When there came to the household of the Duke and Duchess of Portland a baby daughter some years ago, the duchess insisted on the duke's converting the gift of diamonds he contemplated purchasing for her into an hospital where the tenants on his estate might be cared for. Now that a son has come to inherit the name and title, the duke has remitted 20 per cent of the rents of the tenants on the Welbeck estate and has directed his agent to prevent the carrying out of the proposed baptismal present from the tenants to the infant marquis, because in these times such a gift would be a serious tax on the resources of his friends.—Exchange.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL.

The murder of old Mr. Weathercraft created the usual nine days' sensation, which died away temporarily at least on the committal of James Thompson, the deceased's butler, to take his trial for the crime. The case could not come on in the ordinary course of events for four or five months at nearest, so the public, having taken the learned opinions of the various newspapers, entered a unanimous verdict of guilty against the accused and turned its attention to other matters. The law officers were to be trusted to do their duty at the appointed time, and the papers would, of course, make things as amusing as possible when the time came, so James Thompson languished in his cell, forgotten, save by those officially interested in introducing him to the awful majesty of the law.

Vox populi, vox dei! Let us follow the example of the sovereign people and leave old James in his solitary cell while we give a short account of Mr. Weathercraft and his melancholy end.

He was a man of 60 or thereabouts, a retired stockbroker, rich, and of good standing in the community, living in a well appointed house, with a large staff of servants, much given to quiet hospitality, and since his retirement paying more attention to his kitchen and wine cellar than to the fluctuations of the market and the gambolling (save the mark) of bulls and bears. An old housekeeper presided over his establishment, and next to her in importance came the butler, almost as old both in age and time of service, he whom we have just left waiting trial for the murder of his master.

It would have been difficult to point out any particularity about Mr. Weathercraft, anything to distinguish him from other hale, genial old bachelors of the same class. He was commonly supposed to have no eccentricities, no hobbies and a few strong opinions; in fact, those who knew him said he was only a crank on one subject.

To be called a crank is the penalty nowadays for holding and airing an opinion in which at least nine-tenths of the community do not concur.

Mr. Weathercraft was what may be called a circumstantial evidence crank.

He held indirect evidence in the deepest distrust, and though as firm a believer in hanging for murder as any criminal lawyer on or off the bench, yet held that no evidence save that of reputable eyewitnesses should send a man to the gallows.

On this cheerful topic he was much given to after dinner discourses, nor was his rather halting style unknown to the correspondents' columns of the daily papers. He was known to have written a magazine article on the subject, which, however, never saw the light, though it spent a whole year making the rounds of the magazine offices. Such is the blindness of the editorial mind. His "Letters to the Editor" got him interviewed once or twice when newspapers were very hard up for copy. He enjoyed the process hugely and always asked the reporter to "call" again.

When the old man was dead and his butler arrested, people said it was a clear case of Nemesis that the evidence against his slayer should be so conclusive and at the same time so purely circumstantial, and some wag of a reporter was heard to wonder whether after Thompson's trial, conviction and execution old Weathercraft's ghost would address ghostly denunciation to ghostly newspapers from mere force of habit or would sulk in a corner of ghostland and refused to be interviewed. The case indeed seemed clear enough. Weathercraft had gone to bed on the 19th of November well and in good spirits. On the following morning he was found dead, stabbed to the heart. The weapon which was found buried in the old man's heart was an old fashioned silver skewer, part of the family plate, and had clearly been sharpened for its deadly purpose. The sharpening seemed to have been done with a file or some such rough implement. There was very little external hemorrhage, only a few drops of blood being visible.

The last person who saw the master alive was the accused himself. According to his story, he had gone up to Mr. Weathercraft's room with the plate chest, it being the old man's habit to keep the silver in his own room at night, though the key was left with the housekeeper after the chest had been locked up. This had been the custom in the house for many years. His master was in bed reading a novel and said "good night" in his usual way. Mr. Weathercraft never locked his door at night as the footman was expected to come in at 8 o'clock in the morning, fill the bath and light the fire.

This was all the accused could or would say beyond denying all knowledge of how his master had come to his death.

The footman, on being examined, testified to having found the body. He had entered as usual at 8 o'clock, scarcely waiting to knock, and had made arrangements for his master's toilet, thinking him asleep. Mr. Weathercraft was a heavy sleeper, but usually awoke when the bath was being filled. As his master did not move, the witness went to the bedside, and to use the poor fellow's own expression, "As I hope for mercy, sir, the face was the face of a dead corpse." The witness further added that the bed was but little disordered, the lamp was out, and the novel lay open on its face on the floor. He did not remove the skewer or attempt to do so, but ran and told the housekeeper, who sent him for the police.

The housekeeper being summoned identified the skewer as part of the usual contents of the plate chest, which led to the recall of the butler, who, being asked whether he had counted the silver on the night of the murder, answered in the affirmative, but, being pressed, admitted that he did not often count the silver that was not in everyday use. Then finally, as if divining at length his real position, he broke down, calling on God to strike him dead if he knew anything about his old master's murder, and was led aside after saying it was a judgment on him for "leaving the silver uncounted."

The strongest evidence against the accused was found when a search was made in his room. It looked as if old Thompson must have been almost mad to have left so many mute witnesses against himself. In a tall vase on the mantelpiece was found a cheap file, which, when examined by an expert, proved to have small particles of silver still adhering to it. On a ledge in the chimney was Mr. Weathercraft's purse, containing $45 in notes and some change. Finally, at the side of the coverlet, rather more than half way down toward the foot of the bed, were discovered three distinct stains, which expert evidence asserted to be blood stains, and seemed to have been left by a human right hand.

If motive were wanted for the crime, Mr. Weathercraft's will seemed to offer it. The will had been drawn up for some months previously and witnessed by the two men servants, the last clause consisting of a bequest of $10,000 to the accused himself. It seemed possible that Thompson knew of this bequest and that he had perpetrated this awful crime in order to benefit by it the sooner.

It is not surprising in the face of all the evidence that James Thompson was fully committed to take his trial for willful murder of his deceased master, so that public opinion almost unanimously condemned him in advance.

During the four months that elapsed between the arrest and the trial James Thompson sat despairing in his cell. He spoke but little, answering his lawyer apathetically, throwing no new light on the case, but continuing to deny everything. He seemed like one in a hopeless maze, who can't exactly understand how he got there and has given up all hopes of ever getting out.

As we have said before, the public was tolerably unanimous in believing him guilty, though, strange to say, there was one notable exception. His lawyer, a sharp criminal practitioner, who had taken up the case with his eye fixed on the $10,000, almost believed him innocent—we say almost, for Mr. Sharply made a point of never allowing himself to quite believe anything of anybody. Mr. Sharply, as a rule, almost believed his clients guilty; in the present instance he almost believed him innocent, and that was all.

Indeed there was something pathetic in the puzzled expression which never left the old man's face, and his occasional remark, with a melancholy shake of the head, "It was all along of me leaving my siller uncounted." Mr. Sharply, who was practical even in his softer moods, once expressed an opinion to his partner in the privacy of their inner office that "if the old fellow would only get off that twaddle about the siller to the jury, they would bring him in insane without leaving the box."

But if the lawyer believed or half believed his client innocent, he found it difficult to offer even to himself any reason for the half faith that was in him, and it was with the worst forebodings that he saw the day of trial dawn at last.

The case was called, and Sharply did his best, but there was indeed very little to be done. There is an end to all things, even things legal, an end to challenges, an end to exceptions asked and taken. The judge delivered his charge, and the jury left the box. It is supposed that they did this as a compliment to Mr. Sharply, who was always popular with juries. At all events they soon filed back again with a verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment." Old Thompson was formally condemned to death.

He was led back to his cell, where his lawyer visited him and tried to cheer him up by talking of "stays" and "appeals." He recommended him to make himself comfortable, explaining that by the grace of God and the laws of the state he had still a couple of years or so to live, unless things went very badly.

But the old man shook his head and said "No!" He had been condemned to death and the sooner he died the better. He didn't want any more palavering about it since it was all along of that "siller" he had left uncounted. In vain Sharply pointed out that uncounted siller was not a hanging matter. Old Thompson was firm, and the lawyer departed not altogether without hope and demanded a commission to inquire into his client's sanity.

The doctors came in due time and examined the prisoner. Then they talked it over among themselves and decided that, though he was certainly a little odd, he had sense enough to hang satisfactorily and handed in their report to that effect.

So old Thompson was told that he had nothing further to hope for in this world and sat down to wait through the months which the wisdom rather than the mercy of the law ordains shall elapse between a condemned man's sentence and execution. And here we must leave him while we pay a visit at the office of Mr. Fogey, the late Mr. Weathercraft's lawyer and confidential man of business.

It was Monday morning, just six months after Mr. Weathercraft's death. Mr. Fogey was busy, but when his clerk entered and handed him a card he glanced at it and ordered the visitor to be admitted.

The card bore the name of Mr. C. T. Lacey, and underneath, "on business connected with the late George Weathercraft's estate." He was just acquainted with Mr. Lacey and knew him to be a very old friend of his deceased client, but he was at a loss to divine the reason of his visit. The lawyer rose as his visitor entered, and motioning him to a chair asked how he could serve him, to which Mr. Lacey replied by producing a packet from his pocket and laying it down on the table in front of Mr. Fogey. Then he sat down and began:

"Mr. Fogey," he said, "I have come here today in obedience to a request of poor, dear Weathercraft. There is a packet which he gave me some six months or more before he was murdered, asking me to give it to you or your successor exactly six months after his death. The time is up today, and here I am."

The lawyer took the packet. It was a tolerably thick one, inclosed in a long business envelope. He turned it over in his hand and then remarked:

"I am not sure, Mr. Lacey, whether in view of his strange and sudden end you should not have had this examined before."

"Probably you are right from a legal point of view," replied the visitor, "but I promised him so, and I didn't see any reason in the manner of his death for breaking my promise. If it had been suicide, now it might have been different, but as it was I thought I had better wait."

"Well, I suppose you are right from your point of view," said Mr. Fogey as he slit the envelope methodically along the top edge and opened the package. It contained a foolscap paper wrapped around 10 United States notes, each for $1,000. He counted the notes, and laying them down opened the paper and read without comment, while Mr. Lacey listened in silent attention:

10 Washington Avenue, April 20, 18—.

Dear Fogey—I must begin by apologizing for committing the letter to Lacey's charge rather than to yours, as might have seemed more natural. But I have thought that as a lawyer you might feel it your duty to make its contents known before the appointed time. At all events you would have found yourself in a trying and difficult position. By obeying me you would possibly, as a lawyer, incur censure. By opening the letter before the time you would defeat all my plans and hopes, so I shall hand this to Lacey in trust for you and beg you to forgive me.

I am confident when you read this I shall have been dead six months, murdered—for so the law has doubtless decided—by old James, my butler, with a skewer, part of the silver committed to his charge.

There will not have been wanting abundant evidence legally conclusive against my murderer or even motive for his deed. I may therefore suppose that by the time you read this he has been condemned and sentenced, but not executed, since the law requires an interval between sentence and execution.

The legacy left him in my will, besides supplying possible motive for his crime and enhancing its heinousness, has probably furnished him means for proper defense on his trial. Yet in spite of this he has been convicted and sentenced. Is it not so?

And now to explain everything, to make the dark clear and the crooked straight.

On the 19th of November last I committed suicide, having previously arranged that everything should point clearly to the guilt of James, my butler. I abstracted the skewer. I sharpened it with a file and placed the file in Thompson's room. I stained his coverlet with blood, my blood, for it came from a cut on my finger. I hid my purse in his chimney, and finally, on the night of Nov. 19, I committed suicide by stabbing myself to the heart.

And now for my reasons.

In taking my own life I have doubtless committed a crime against the laws of God and the state, but I believe that the life of one man is of little value when weighed against even a possible good to the community. If my death fulfills the object I have in view, then my life has been well sacrificed. And even if it fails, the intention will absolve me.

Next, I have inflicted great anguish of mind on an innocent and virtuous old man. But here again the agony, even if it run to martyrdom of one, must be weighed against the benefit of the many. For James Thompson himself I have endeavored to supply consolation, if not compensation, in my legacy of $10,000 and the supplementary sum of $10,000 which I inclose herewith. May he understand and forgive me.

Perhaps even now you scarcely understand what I hope to have accomplished by my death, but I will endeavor to explain. You have heard me speak, you have perhaps read my written words on the use of circumstantial evidence. I am convinced that so long as men are done to death on indirect evidence so long must the constant possibility of judicial murder lie heavy on the conscience of the nation. By my death and Thompson's conviction I hope to awaken the public conscience to a sense of its shameful burden. If I am successful, then all has been well done.

Here is an innocent man sentenced to death on circumstantial evidence of the clearest description, and but for this letter his sentence would eventually be executed.

All that I have done to fix my death upon Thompson might have been done by a third party had I been really assassinated.

In conclusion I beg that a copy of this letter be sent to each of the newspapers, and that the inclosure be handed to James Thompson with the assurance of my affection and thanks for his services voluntary and others.

For myself I feel that if this case leads to a revision of the law touching the infliction of the death penalty neither my life nor Thompson's peace of mind will have been vainly sacrificed. Your affectionate friend,

GEORGE WEATHERCRAFT.

The two men sat silent for a minute while the lawyer folded up the paper and laid it on the little pile of notes. Then Mr. Lacey spoke:

"I always thought poor Weathercraft was a bit of a crank on circumstantial evidence, but he must have been stark, staring mad. I wonder what old James will think of it. I wouldn't have gone through it for millions."

"I doubt if old James would if he had been given a chance," replied the man of law; "not but what $20,000 is a good round sum for the old fellow to earn in six months, though he might have preferred earning it in some other way."

"Do you think it likely to have the desired effect on the minds of our law givers?" asked the other.

"Not the least in the world," replied Mr. Fogey, "rather the reverse, I should imagine," he continued, with a half smile. "People will say that Weathercraft was as mad as a March hare and may even infer that everybody who shares his views is a little cracked too. No, no! Poor Weathercraft has thrown his life away, old Thompson is richer by $20,000 minus his law expenses and plus a vast deal of experience, and the law will remain just as it was before.

"Now good by. I'm off to show the letter to the governor. It's a rum case anyhow."—Philadelphia Press.

The Work of a London Writer.

"T. P." stands alone among popular journalists in that practically all his work is done for one paper, The Weekly Sun, of which he is the founder and editor. He knows as well as any one the value of his own pen, and he takes care to write the most important parts of the paper himself and to append his famous initials to all his work. A casual glance through a number of the paper will serve to show the amount and variety of his weekly labors.

First there is a review of the "book of the week," which invariably extends over five closely packed columns. This article, always conspicuously brilliant, would be a good two days' work for any writer. Then there are the editorial notes from one to two columns; an interview with some celebrity, one column; theatrical critiques, two or three columns, and lastly a few paragraphs on the correspondence page. All these are signed "T. P." Yet Mr. O'Connor contrives to keep in the forefront of the political battle and also to write an occasional book.—London Tit-Bits.

A Terrible Threat.

A janitor in a blue shirt was cleaning the windows of a bank at Broadway and Park place the other day after office hours, when a tramp came along, who, after eying him a few moments with envy, yelled to him:

"Hello, there, you chap in the bank, can't you throw a fellow out a little money? I'm clean broke, and almost anything would be welcome."

The janitor went on cleaning the windows. He heard what the tramp said, but wouldn't admit it.

The tramp paused a few moments and then yelled: "Come, now, don't be a hog. There must be a million dollars in there, and all you've got to do is to chuck a bundle of it out. Are you going to do it or aren't you?"

Still no response.

The tramp began to chafe under the galling hauteur with which he was being treated.

"If you don't give me some of that money, I'll start a report that the bank's in trouble," he yelled. "If ever there was a first rate hog, it's you."

After 10 minutes had elapsed and no one had taken the least notice of the tramp he began to walk slowly away. As he reached the gutter he turned round, shook his fist at the window cleaner and muttered:

"When the commune is declared, any one who wants money will only have to walk into a bank and ask for it. I'll be there, my beauty, when the day comes, and I'll point you out to the fellow citizens as an insolent and bloated symbol of wealth. You just wait, my friend, till the call to arms is sounded, and you'll find me right on the spot ready to tell what I know about the enemies of the proletariat."—New York Herald.

Norwich, Monday July 24, 1893

THE EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Two weeks from today congress will meet in extraordinary session in response to the call of President Cleveland. It is gratifying to note a steady improvement in the financial condition of the country, and the wisdom which has marked the utterances of public officials upon the situation. It is to be hoped that the president's message will be so clear, wise and patriotic that it will make a good impression upon the whole country. No man in the country has the opportunity which this occasion offers him, by good sense and wise counsel, to endear himself to the people and restore public confidence in the administration. The utterance of a few platitudes and an attempt to quiet the people by words which do not clearly set forth the policy of the administration will only make matters worse. The people do not expect President Cleveland to speak for his party, but they do expect him to speak for himself. The declaration of the party in its Chicago platform is revolutionary; and this has been the cause of great alarm and distrust. The people expect him to state his position on these great issues fairly and squarely, and if he is right his party will not with ease pass the "wildcat" and destructive legislation to which the democratic platform commits it. He has the veto power, and if the people are assured that he will be true to the best interests of the country, an immediate change for the better will take place. There is no reason why the extraordinary session should be a long session, and if the business interests of country are regarded it will not be. If the democrats insist upon going on after the Sherman law has been repealed, to repeal the 10 per cent. bank tax, or to pass the ad valorem tariff bill proposed, the alarm in business circles will be increased and a crisis may confidently be expected which has not been equalled during the present century.

OF INTEREST TO SMOKERS.

The scientists have at last discovered the source of the aroma of tobacco, and know how to produce the different aromas in native leaf. It all depends, too, upon the bugs. Suchland has studied the chemical changes which tobacco is supposed to undergo in the process known as "sweating," and learned to his surprise that the aroma results from bacteria found in the different kinds of tobacco. He has examined fermented tobacco from all parts of the world, and found large numbers of micro-organisms, although but few varieties, only two or three species, in any particular brand. Pure cultures of bacteria obtained from one kind of tobacco and inoculated on to another kind, generated in the latter a taste and aroma recalling the taste and aroma of the original tobacco. The American tobacco can be improved by inoculating on to it pure cultures of bacteria from the best flavored foreign leaf, producing similar fermentative changes and giving a quality resembling the leaf from which the bacteria are taken.

THE SCHOOL-FUND DEFICIT.

The news that the Connecticut school fund has been impaired by the dishonesty of the loan agent at Lima, Ohio, seems to be a sweet morsel to certain democratic papers that wish to see the Hon. Jeremiah Olney, commissioner of the school fund, removed, and a democrat put in his place, although they do not attempt to connect him in anyway with responsibility for the loss.

On the 6th of July the state auditors carefully examined the accounts of School-Fund Commissioner Olney and found them to be correct. Some of his vouchers may be fictitious or some of the securities held may be worthless but that cannot affect the integrity of Mr. Olney, or give any grounds for his removal from office.

The shortage in the accounts of Loan Agent Gunn may not be as large as reported; and if the accounts and vouchers were satisfactory to the state auditors Mr. Olney cannot be blamed for not discovering there was anything wrong about them. When the case has been honestly and carefully investigated it will be time enough to come to conclusions. It is not at all likely that Mr Gunn's dishonesty will compromise the school fund commissioner.

If any kind of an excuse can be found for Mr. Olney's removal there is no doubt that he will be removed. The democratic office-seekers were never more numerous or persistent than this year.

FALLING OFF IN IMMIGRATION.

Since the cholera scare of last season there has been a falling off in immigration from European countries of over a hundred and twenty thousand. During the year ending June 30, 1893, there arrived 497,936 immigrants from abroad in this country. Following is an official comparative statement:

Countries.	1893.	1892.
[illegible]	3,3[illegible]	5,4[illegible]
Austria-Hungary	57,401	57,[illegible]
Other Austria (except Poland)	30,879	34,968
Denmark	8,75[illegible]	10,478
France	6,519	5,943
Germany	86,813	1[illegible]
Italy	72,400	60,944
Netherlands	6,114	7,259
Poland	13,660	38,189
Russia (except Poland)	42,537	84,208
Sweden and Norway	38,872	57,152
Switzerland	5,383	7,403
United Kingdom, England and Wales	47,067	50,152
Scotland	12,117	11,346
Ireland	39,155	58,251
All other countries	15,471	28,034

The proportion of last year's immigrants who could talk English was larger than usual. It is believed that this year will see a still further falling off of immigration from European nations.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The trout fishermen in the Adirondacks are reporting two and a half pound trout, in strings of sixteen.

If you do not want to be called an "Onychophagist" you must stop gnawing away at those finger-nails.

The Norwalk Gazette says the city charter just adopted by that city "is made up of sixty-six sections of lawyer's jargon."

Congressman Payne of Auburn, N. Y., says: "The democrats in congress do not dare to formulate a tariff on the lines of the plank in the Chicago platform, which says: 'Protection is a fraud.'"

President Cleveland is said to count the house as twenty majority for the repeal of the Sherman law, and one majority in the senate. If there were a few more republicans in congress Mr. Cleveland would feel easier.

The New York Churchman, commenting upon the secession of the Rev. Henry A. Adams from the Episcopal church, says: "If one happens to have a sense of humor, the reasons set forth by eccentric and hysterical minds for abandoning the church must sometimes strongly appeal to it."

In olden times a Christian church used to be founded upon the bones of Christian martyrs; but the latest is one founded on Jay Gould's pile, as a memorial. The structure is to cost a quarter of a million, and The Springfield Union suggests that among the art decorations there should be a picture of "A camel going through the eye of a needle."

The attempt to smirch the character of ex-Commissioner Simonds has compromised the originators of the charges against him. Commissioner Seymour exonerates him, and that places his accusers, Freeman and Foster, in bad odor. Mr. Simond's friends had faith in his integrity, and he has proved worthy of the confidence and support they gave him when under a cloud.

STATE TOPICS.

Sanford Gets His License.

Commissioners Reynolds and Lindsley have voted to give a license to Rumseller Sanford of Woodmont. These commissioners have ignored the wishes of 90 per cent. of the residents of Milford and have demonstrated clearly and unmistakably that they care more for the influence of a man who, by his own declaration, left the republican party because republican commissioners had refused to grant him a license in the face of the opposition of 90 per cent. of those directly interested.—[New Haven Leader.

The School Fund.

Our esteemed contemporary, The Hartford Times, cannot quite recover from its disappointment that a republican house refused to unseat School Fund Commissioner Olney. Accordingly it has undertaken to remove him itself. It also suggests that Governor Morris may join it in the effort. But it knows that neither of them can do this. Mr. Olney is commissioner, and it is time wasted trying to get his place for a democrat just now. The recent absconding of a agent of the fund is a misfortune, but whether the fund suffers, and if so, how much, no one yet knows. The excited dispatches from Lima that some papers are printing are in all respects doubtful. It is too early yet. Better get the facts first.—[Hartford Courant.

Simonds' Vindication.

Another democratic investigation—that is to say an attempt to smirch a republican official—has come to naught, and out of the mouth of a democrat the accused man stands acquitted. The charges against the Hon. William E. Simonds, commissioner of patents during the last part of the Harrison administration, never commanded serious attention from discriminating persons. Yesterday they were dismissed by his successor, Commissioner Seymour, the appointee of President Cleveland, who finds that in all things Mr. Simonds acted "within his discretion as commissioner." This action follows closely after the exoneration of Chief Harrington by Secretary Morton. Next!"—[New York Tribune.

Business Failures in Bridgeport.

The condition of business in New Haven is much better than prevails in Bridgeport. The Bridgeport Standard reports that business is very dull in every department and collections are very slow. The banks in the city are very sound and it is largely owing to this fact that failures are fewer.

At the present time there are 2,908 people in business in this city. Of this number 160 firms have been started since January 1. During the past six months there have been eleven failures in the city. The total liabilities of these amount to $63,927.59 and the assets $21,390.91. These failures have been in the cigar, jewelry, plumbing, grocery and meat business.

In the whole county during the same period of time there have been sixteen failures. This number includes the number in this city and the liabilities of all amounted to $65,960.24, while the assets were $23,470.91. Ten of these failures have occurred during the past three months. In the whole county there were 4,923 business firms up to July 1, of which 327 were started since January 1, and 238 had gone out of business during that time.

The figures for the first six months of last year show that there were twenty failures with total liabilities of $144,478, and assets of $48,487. Thus it will be seen that the failures of last year were more in number and their liabilities heavier.—[New Haven Leader.

His Personal Experience.

The Hon. James W. Husted, while serving his sixth term as speaker of the assembly of the state of New York, writes:

"STATE OF NEW YORK,
ASSEMBLY CHAMBER,
ALBANY, Jan. 12, 1880.

I desire once more to bear my testimony to the value of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I have used them for twenty-five years past, and can conscientiously commend them as the best external remedy that I have known. Years ago, when thrown from a carriage and seriously injured, I gave them a thorough trial. In a very short time the pain that I was suffering disappeared, and within a week I was entirely relieved. On another occasion, when suffering from a severe cough, which threatened pulmonary difficulties, which I was recommended to go to Florida to relieve, I determined to test the plasters again. I applied them to my chest and between the shoulder blades, and in less than a fortnight was entirely cured. On still another occasion when suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the shoulder to such an extent that I could scarcely raise my arm, I again resorted to the plasters, and within a few days the rheumatism entirely disappeared. I have them constantly by me, whether at home or abroad. My family as well as myself have found them to be a sovereign remedy, both for external and internal troubles. I never had but one kidney difficulty in my life, and the application of the plasters cured me in a week. I desire, as I said before, to bear my testimony in a public way to their efficacy, and I know of no better way of doing it than by giving you my personal experience."

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. Try them.

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

PROGRESSIVE LOVE.

I remember [illegible] Florence, my very first love,
And all that I told her was true, every word,
But my love was so swift as the wings of a dove,
And ere she loved me in the distance I heard

The sweet voice of dear Blanche—she was best of them all,
And I keep her blest memory fresh in my heart.
But the roses of summer must fade in the fall,
As the night follows day, so we met but to part.

Then Emma and Isabelle, Mary and Mame,
Each in turn were loved lightly, and Agnes and May.
My song every summer would bear a new name,
But these, like the others, soon drifted away.

And then came a season of sadness for me,
A season in which I tried hard to forget
The marvelous musical voice of Marie
And the faraway, oceanlike eyes of Lisette

E'en as the gay candle fly flirts with the flame
I played round the hearts of the maidens I knew.
My song every season would have a new name,
And others would fade from my mind like the dew.

Now I look at the past as 'twere all in a mist,
For my bosom's own queen is enthroned on my knee.
I remember one name, one alone in the list,
As I gaze in the beautiful eyes of Marie.
—Cy Warman in New York Sun.

BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS.

Felix Morris will have in his repertory the coming season a comedy by Grace Livingston Furness.

Isabelle Evesson says that the assertion that she has signed with the Coghlans for next season is premature.

William Barry's daughter will play the ingenue role in Mr. Barry's comedy drama, "The Rising Generation," next season.

Margaret Barrett Smith, authoress of "Captain Herne," is rewriting that play for Dowling and Gleason, who will take it out next season.

Edwin Vroom, who played the dual role in "Ruy Blas" at the Fifth Avenue theater, New York, this spring, will be starred by Harry Miner.

Emerson Bennett is writing a play for Edwin Gordon Lawrence, director of the Lawrence School of Acting, in which he will star the coming season.

Eugene Cowles, the basso of the Bostonians, has tendered his resignation from that organization to Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald. It has been accepted.

Edgar L. Davenport, who was the leading man of the Boston Museum company for a number of seasons, has signed to originate the leading part in "Darkest Russia" next season.

There have been many theaters on paper, but St. Louis proposes to have one in the air. It will be on the lofty roof of the new Union Trust building in that city, 240 feet above the street level.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings In Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 22.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 5 to 9 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

London came weaker by nearly 1 per cent. for the whole list this morning, but there was good reason for thinking that it was the result of selling orders from New York. Other than that the situation was unchanged from yesterday. The opening of the market, however, was irregular, with a weaker tendency. There are two factors which militate against investment buying just now. One is the belief that the market is going still lower. Holders of this opinion do not attempt to say that the bargain counter is not already piled high, but they contend that the stock is to be put there in increased, and that by waiting they will get more for their money.

The other factor is the fear among Englishmen that they will not get a gold dollar for every gold dollar that they put in here. The collapse of the Reading, the downfall of cordage and whisky, all had their effects there, but Englishmen have not become frightened out of the American market because of special weak spots or because of particular bonds. It is a fear of general weakness that scares them.

The local market was dull and quotations showed only a narrow range, the tendency being down. Boston & Maine continued to be sold in small lots, but its range was higher than yesterday. Sugar was pounded again and General Electric about held its own. The most important changes, comparing final sales with those of Friday, were:

SIAM WILL SETTLE.

Willing to Pay the Indemnity France Demands.

TERRITORIAL DEMAND IS GREAT.

Would Dismember and Ruin Siam—The Claim Arouses England.

LONDON, July 22.—Siam manifests all willingness to pay France the indemnity demanded for injuries to French citizens and property, although the indemnity specified by France is far in excess of the damages.

The Bangkok correspondent of the Times says concerning the terms of France's ultimatum: "Europe, and especially Great Britain, should know that this territorial demand represents 95,000 square miles. It includes the province that Burmah ceded to Siam on the condition that it never should be ceded to any other power, and 50,000 miles of northeastern Siam, into which the French have never advanced.

The demand for the evacuation of the left bank of the Mekong river proves that Governor General de Lanessan's statements regarding previous French possession of the tracts claimed are untrue.

The indemnity demanded amply represents France's previous claim, and should satisfy the most grasping government. In fact France demands the dismemberment and ruin of Siam, and will make war and blockade the country, with which her trade in 1891 amounted to £8000, while the British trade, all carried in British bottoms, reached a value of over £1,500,000, to which the British subjects number 13,500, while the French subjects number but 250.

"These French demands confirm what I stated from the outset, namely, France's attack on Siam is in reality directed against England, although that country has hitherto been loyal and friendly to her in Siamese affairs."

The Bangkok correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: The Concession of the French Demands

tomorrow is probable, although a section of the cabinet counsels defiance.

The French gunboats are making special preparations for the event of refusal. The British minister has warned British subjects, in view of the critical situation, that the Siamese navy will be unable to afford any protection, and will undoubtedly be captured in the event of fighting.

The landing of the foreign troops is regarded as probable. The acting governor of the district near Luang Prabang is acting in the French interests.

FLAG OF TRUCE.

Siamese Commander Begged French Captain to Cease Bombardment.

PARIS, July 22.—The Temps special correspondent in Saigon says: "The Siamese chief, Priapitcha, commanding at Khong, sent a flag of truce on Tuesday to the French captain, begging him to cease firing, as, according to Priapitcha's advices from Bangkok, a French admiral had arrived there to treat for peace.

The captain replied that he was without instructions, but would cease as soon as the Siamese forts should be abandoned. The result is unknown in Saigon.

The exact amount of indemnity demanded by France from Siam is not known.

It is said that the original demand of 3,000,000 francs has been abated to 2,500,000 francs or less.

Five hundred of the Foreign Legion of the French army have sailed from Oran for Marseilles, whence they will be conveyed to Siam.

A dispatch to the Temps from Saigon says 250 men under the command of a colonel, have been sent to reinforce the French garrison on the island of Khong in the Mekong river.

ENGLAND CAUTIOUS.

Does Not Recognize Any Obligation to Assist Siam.

LONDON, July 22.—Important communications have passed between the foreign office and Captain Jones, British minister resident in Bangkok. Vice Admiral Fremantle, commander-in-chief of the Chinese division of the fleet, is hastening to Singapore, where dispatches to the admiralty await him. The greater part of his squadron accompanied him.

Great Britain informed Siam yesterday that she could not recognize any obligation to assist her. In the territorial arrangements, however, Great Britain will have a voice. France has given Siam a month in which to withdraw from the ports on the lower Mekong.

Russia Says It Is False.

LONDON, July 22.—In the House of Commons Sir Edward Gray, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, responding to questions on the subject, stated that on Wednesday last Russia had assured the foreign office that the stories about an armed Russian force being dispatched to seize the Pamir country was entirely false.

Franco-Russian Alliance a Hoax.

PARIS, July 22.—Baron de Korff, an attache of the Russian embassy, today said that the statement that Baron Mohrenheim, the Russian ambassador, had assured the French government that Russia would support France in the dispute between herself and Siam was a hoax.

Bank Troubles in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, July 22.—The Milwaukee National bank and South Side Savings bank failed to open their doors Saturday morning. Runs are in progress on all the leading banks in the city.

Another Unfortunate.

BOSTON, July 22.—The body of an unknown man was found Saturday morning floating in the water near Warren street bridge. The man was about 55 years old and 5ft. 8in. tall. He weighed 200 pounds, had a light complexion and moustache, and was dressed in white shirt, black necktie, dark mixed cutaway coat, dark trousers and vest. He had a gold watch and chain and gold cuff buttons marked "M."

Haverhill's Shoe Trade.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 22.—Shoe shipments from Haverhill for the week ending July 22, 4783 cases; corresponding week last year, 6,273 cases. The report that 700 cases of shoes had been returned by jobbers to manufacturers here is incorrect. The number returned was 240 cases, as was learned at the Boston and Maine freight depot.

Money But No Territory.

BANGKOK, Siam, July 22.—The opinion is general here that Siam will offer to pay in full the indemnity demanded by France. It is doubtful, however, that the French claims to territory will be allowed. Much depends on the response of Great Britain to the efforts Siam is making to gain her moral or material support.

Silver's Lowest Price.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The treasury department bought silver Friday at a lower price per ounce than it ever paid before. The price paid was 70 cents per ounce fine, and although 870,000 ounces were offered only 300,000 ounces were bought.

THE WEDDING STOPPED.

Annie Lydon Won't Allow Another Girl to Wed Her Lover.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The marriage of James Reynolds, a young man who lives at 712 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, which was to have taken place tonight, has been stopped by the service of a warrant. He was arrested on complaint of Miss Annie Lydon, aged 18, of 450 Henry street. She charges him with breach of promise and betrayal.

Annie told Justice Tighe of the Butler street police court her story between sobs. "I wouldn't have had him arrested," she whimpered, "after all the mean things he said if I hadn't found out that he had another sweetheart. I am bound she shan't have him."

She said she got acquainted with Mr. Reynolds at a New Year's party last January at the house of a friend, Mrs. McCarren of 712 Twenty-second street. "I liked him real well. He was very nice and hugged and kissed me frequently," said Annie, smiling through her tears; "Then the day for our marriage was set for April 20 last."

Miss Lydon said he begged off then because he had too little money to warrant him in taking a wife. In pity she loaned him $80. She said she hadn't got it back. The prisoner was loud in denouncing the proceedings.

"I was to be married Sunday," he said. "I had rented a house on Twenty-second street to begin life with my wife in." When Miss Lydon heard this she said it served him right, as she had bought a trousseau to begin life as a bride in, but was disappointed. Police Justice Tighe held Reynolds for examination.

HERBERT IN BOSTON.

Secretary of the Navy Makes Inspection of Charlestown Navy Yard.

BOSTON, July 22.—With the colors of the secretary flying at her main, the fleet Dolphin, the dispatch boat of the white navy, steamed up Broad sound into the harbor Saturday morning, and came to anchor opposite the receiving ship Wabash, whose black hull floats like a leviathan sentinel before the piers of the navy yard.

The arrival of the craft was announced by the booming of cannon, the national salute of 21 guns being fired in honor of Secretary Herbert, who was the honored guest on board the Dolphin, and this salute was answered by 11 guns from the ship's battery, in official recognition of the new commandant of the navy yard, Joseph Fyffe.

This is the first visit of the secretary of the navy to the navy yard, and it was made the occasion of a thorough inspection of the premises. Secretary Herbert was taken from the Dolphin in Commandant Fyffe's steam launch.

All the officers attached to the station, the naval hospital, the United States hydrographic and United States navy pay officers and those on the retired and waiting order lists assembled at the dry dock landing, in full dress uniform, to meet the secretary.

The marines, in full dress, under command of Major Percival C. Pope, U. S. M. C., were drawn up in line and saluted him upon his landing.

The commodore then escorted Secretary Herbert to the official residence, where lunch was served. Subsequently a tour of the yard and a visit to the various workshops was made.

The Dolphin will remain in port until Monday evening, during which time she will receive 125 tons of coal. She will then proceed to Portsmouth N. H. navy yard.

The secretary accepted an invitation to dine with Mayor Matthews in the evening. It was a private affair and given at one of the clubs. Governor Russell, Congressman O'Neill, Josiah Quincy and Commodore Fyffe and some of the officers of the naval station were among the guests.

ECKELS DOESN'T EXPLAIN.

Considers That His Language in New York Was Sufficiently Plain.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 22.—In response to a telegraphic query from the editor of The Pacific Banker and Investor of this city the following was received from Comptroller of the Currency Eckels:

"I am in receipt of your telegram of yesterday. At New York I said, 'disasters have fallen upon speculative institutions in the boom cities of the states of Washington, California, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri, which have injured solvent ones.'

"I do not see that any explanation of that language is necessary. This is no reflection upon the state as a state, or upon any institution or any city, except such as has been known and looked upon as cities where speculation is rife. There is no one but believes that the great majority of the financial institutions of the states named are absolutely solvent. On the other hand, no one will deny that in recent years speculation has been carried on in certain localities west to a degree not warranted by the growth in population. It is just as well to be philosophical, and to state honestly the cause of the present depression, and not to grow excited without any reasons therefor."

LOWELL ALL RIGHT.

The Cry of Hard Times Is Not Yet Justified.

MECHANICS IN GREAT DEMAND.

New Buildings Going Up and Improvements Being Made.

LOWELL, Mass., July 22.—The cry of hard times in Lowell is not yet justified. There has not been a season for many years when there has been a greater demand for mechanics than the present one. It is true that two or three of the small machine shops have shut down temporarily for want of orders, and the Middlesex mills (woolen) has begun to run on reduced time, and also that there have been rumors that some of the large corporations would be compelled to suspend operations for a few weeks in order to allow the market to catch up with the goods now on hand, but thus far there has been no comparative cessation of the stream of money that is regularly expended for labor in this city. The strike of bricklayers has prevented some of the brick work that might have been erected under other circumstances, but at the same time many bricklayers have been obtained from outside the union, and in other cases the union men have had their terms acceded to.

At the present time probably more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of construction is

In Progress In This City.

The new postoffice will be ready to be roofed in about two weeks. The Massachusetts mills are engaged in extensive improvements that will largely increase the production of fine goods, it being intended to add 10,000 spindles to the present number this fall and other machinery in proportion, considering the fact that a finer class of goods is to be produced hereafter than has been the case in the past.

C. I. Hood & Co. are engaged in doubling the size and capacity of their present large laboratory for the manufacture of sarsaparilla "peculiar to itself." A large brewery is in process of erection that will require a million and a half of brick to be laid, and the work must be done this fall. Ex-Mayor Fifield is erecting a large machine shop; at least two new business blocks are being erected, and an indefinite number of residences are being erected in all directions.

It is a fact that the mills of this city have run through all business depressions in the past except during a portion of the war period when some of them were caught without supplies of cotton.

The Reason For This Is Obvious.

A shut down causes the help to become scattered, no matter if it be only for a couple of weeks, and when the mills start up there is embarrassment that is unpleasant until a regular supply of employes can be secured. For this reason the mills will run as long as possible before they decide to do anything to curtail production, and as their credit is of the best it is more than possible that with a letting up of the financial stringency so that people will begin to purchase goods they will be enabled to go along without interruption.

The consolidated statement of the national banks of the city also shows remarkably well. Since May 6 loans have decreased $166,286; overdrafts have decreased $14,930; surplus and profits have increased $47,372; and deposits have decreased only $119,061. At the present time the surplus and undivided profits of the national banks is $1,156,933, while individual deposits amount to $4,072,846. There has nothing to indicate that the savings banks of the city cannot make an equally good showing.

BLAZE AT GLOUCESTER.

Sophia Pinkham Severely Injured Jumping From a Window.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 22.—Fire Saturday morning partially destroyed the Grier block, a large brick structure on Duncan street. The upper story was occupied as a boarding house, and the inmates had a narrow escape.

Sophia Pinkham, who jumped from a window, was severely injured. Everett Smith, while attempting to get out of the building, was so badly burned that it was necessary to send him to the hospital. Loss on building and furniture, $5000; insurance, $3700.

Drought In New Hampshire.

EXETER, N. H., July 22.—The protracted drought is becoming serious in many sections of Rockingham county. Crops are sorely in need of rain, and wells and brooks are getting dangerously low. The mown hayfields are parched, and it is feared in many instances must be resown. In Portsmouth consumers have been requested not to use water for sprinkling, otherwise to "observe great care." Exeter's public supply is still ample for all demands.

Cholera In Providence.

PROVIDENCE, July 22.—Joseph Nugent, aged 22 years, living at 190 Helen street, is a victim of cholera. Friday morning he was taken violently ill with cramps in the stomach, followed by profuse and violent purging which left him extremely weak. Shortly before 12 o'clock Saturday Nugent was removed to the Rhode Island hospital. The physicians are of the opinion that he cannot recover.

Town Destroyed by Fire.

TOLEDO, July 22.—The entire business portion of Edgerton, a small town of 1200, in Williams county, has been destroyed by fire. The flames started in a vacant building in the middle of the town, and had assumed large proportions before the citizens realized the extent. The loss is about $160,000, with about two-thirds insurance.

Both Duelists Dead.

VICTORIA, Mex., July 22.—Fran Villareal, a prominent young law student, and Juan Rangel a young business man, fought a duel over a young woman Thursday. Villareal was stabbed three times, but as he fell he fired a bullet into the body of Rangel. Both men lived but a short time.

Castilhistas Whipped Again.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Herald correspondent in Montevideo telegraphs that the committee representing the revolutionists of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, has received a telegram announcing a victory over the Castilhistas near Yaguaron. General Saores was killed.

When the Innocent Suffer.

I stood on my head at midnight,
With my feet through a mirror thrown;
My neck was bent like the letter S
And I hadn't the strength to groan.

Six inches of skin had parted
From each of my bruised shins
Then I knew this retribution
Awaiteth human sins.

But seldom, oh, how seldom,
It falls upon the one
Who's guilty of the crime—
By whom the hurt is done.

For well I know my youngest,
Though, my, lady, unawares,
Had left that broken broomstick
Upon the hallway stairs.

EDUCATIONAL ECHOES.

There are 90 endowed scholarships at Princeton.

A university for women, to be known as the University of Germany, is soon to be established in that country.

Ex-Governor Ames will present to the town of Easton, Mass., a new high school building which will cost about $80,000 when completed.

Henry R. Wolcott, brother of Senator Wolcott, has given Colorado college, at Colorado Springs, an astronomical observatory for the telescope which he presented to the institution last year.

Bryn Mawr is only 8 years old, and already 20 per cent of her graduates are taking postgraduate work. In each graduating class the student whose scholarship is highest receives $500 to enable her to continue her work in some foreign university.

KLEPTOMANIA.

Bogus kleptomania is often successfully treated by seclusion and prison fare. The real thing is well nigh incurable.

In true kleptomania the victim does not always distinguish between articles of value and those which have none. Some will pick up chips of wood or bits of gravel rather than nothing.

A club of amateur shoplifters in Vienna was found to have secreted queer things of no earthly use to them, like hardware, mathematical instruments, prayer books and the like. None of them was needy.

A Danish author told Dr. Felix Oswald of the case of a relative who would steal from himself. He used to tiptoe into his own pantry and make off with uncooked prunes, raw onions or anything of the kind.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Residents of the state of Washington want a nickname or a pet name for the state. There is a strong sentiment expressed in favor of the Evergreen State.

Wasted Ammunition.

I paid two dollars for a tie—
Oh, it was just immense—
And then I started for the shore
With anxiety intense.

Said I: "I'll paralyze the girls
With this most gorgeous tie.
With them 'twill be love at first sight
As I walk smiling by."

But when I stood upon the beach
At last I had a fit—
By Jove! the first girl that I saw
Had on one just like it.
—Clothier and Furnisher.

Opening His Eyes.

It takes awhile to get used to a woman's ways. When a young husband steals up behind his wife while she stands at her dressing case and suddenly leans forward and prints an unexpected kiss on her lips, he gains the knowledge that a woman holds almost 127 pins in her mouth when she is dressing.—Tit-Bits.

NORWICH AND VICINITY

CITY NEWS.

The Rogers Cutlery works now close every Friday night for the week.

A large bluefish party patrolled the Race Sunday on Comstock's vessel, "Hattie."

The National Croquet association meet will occur on the Rockwell grounds the third week in August.

Thomas Barry of Montville was arrested by Officer Stanley for drunkenness early Sunday afternoon.

F. P. Robertson was appointed postmaster at Quaker Hill Saturday, vice A. O. Woodworth, resigned.

The assistant engineers and foremen of companies will meet the chief engineer at his office this evening.

The Rev. C. H. Hamlin of East Hampton, Mass., occupied the pulpit of the Park Congregational church Sunday.

Mrs. Joseph J. Fields of this city is a grand niece of Mrs. Austin, the poetess, who has written much upon the subject of the Pilgrim fathers.

The young people's societies of the Broadway and Second churches met with the Christian Endeavor society of the Park church Sunday evening.

The steamer Chelsea of the Norwich Propeller line has had a general overhauling and appeared on the line Saturday morning in a glistening new dress of paint.

Walter Fisher, contracting agent for Walter L. Main's World's Greatest Railroad shows, was in town Saturday. This circus will exhibit on the Preston lot on August 11.

Capt. W. H. C. Bowen, Fifth United States infantry, is a recent arrival at St. Augustine, Fla., and has taken command of Company E of his own regiment at St. Francis barracks. Mrs. Bowen is still in New Haven.

Captain Fellers and Lieutenant Chapin of the Salvation army will attend the army council in Waterbury today and Tuesday. On the evenings of those days the open air service on Washington square will be omitted.

Christopher L. Avery, Jr., of Groton, who was graduated from Yale this year, has been appointed adjunct professor of mathematics in Central university, Kentucky. He is well remembered here as a Free academy graduate.

The funeral of little Henrietta Oelhoff was held Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. J. D. Herr officiated, and the bearers were her playmates, Willie Murray, Willie Blicque, Fred. Hill and Eddie Murray. She was buried in Yantic cemetery.

Saturday night about 8 o'clock, as the grating in front of B. A. Herrick's drug store was open to receive ice, a man passing by walked over the edge of the opening and fell into the cellar. He received a thorough shaking up, and next time will look where he goes.

The announcement was made in the local Catholic churches yesterday that the pastor's assistants would be absent during this week attending the diocesan retreat at Brighton, Mass. This implies a week spent in prayer, religious conference, and other spiritual exercises.

The sea wall of the outer harbor at Block Island is so far completed that it shows plainly at low water, and has already added considerably in quieting the waters within its enclosure. There is now a depth of ten feet in the entrance to the inner harbor and nine feet in the outer harbor at mean low water.

A Distinguished Guest.

Ex-Governor Thompson of South Carolina and Mrs. Thompson are passing a few days with Norwich friends. The governor, who served with much distinction during the civil war as a brigade commander, and for four years as chief magistrate of his own state, early accepted the results of the war with much patriotism and loyalty. Retaining a warm affection for the people of his early home, whose confidence he has always kept; he nevertheless considers himself first of all a citizen of the United States. During the first administration of President Cleveland the governor held the office of assistant secretary, and was appointed by President Harrison one of the three civil service commissioners of the United States.

Personals.

Sally Backus Briggs has an interesting story in the New York Evening Post, entitled "A Land-Lubber."

The Hon. J. D. Park returned from Watch Hill on Saturday evening.

Robert McMullen, assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, is spending a week on Block Island.

Mr. Archibald Mitchell spent Sunday with his family on Fishers Island.

Mr. H. C. Murray of Willimantic was the guest of John Porteous of this city over Sunday.

Miss Winnifred Murtagh of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting friends in this city.

Mr. Charles Hammond of Willimantic spent Sunday with friends in town.

Master Charles Noyes, editor of the Norwich News, with a party of friends, is spending a week on Block Island.

Among the guests at the Larkin house, Watch Hill, are Judge Peelle of the court of claims, Washington, and Mr. White, one of the six reporters of the house, who enjoy what is practically a life tenure of this fat-salaried office.

Misses Bessie Mobbs and Emma Kales of Willimantic, who have been visiting friends in Norwich the past week, return home today.

Mrs. Monroe Nichols and her niece, Miss Williams, are at the Watch Hill house.

Miss Edith Shurtleff of Providence, R. I., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Starr of the West Side.

Mrs. J. B. Shannon and family are staying at the Larkin house, Watch Hill.

An exchange says that Miss Margaret Murphy of Norwich is visiting Mrs. Daniel Flynn of New Britain.

Frank Stanley has returned from a visit to his brother, Lawrence F. Stanley of The New Haven News.

Miss Anna Wulf is at Watch Hill.

Mr. James L. Case and mother, Mrs. W. H. Hovey and daughter and Miss Grace and Frank Lester are at the Spring house, Block Island, for a week.

Capt. W. F. Lester, of the Rose of New England Wheel club, returned Saturday from a fortnight's sojourn at Sharon Springs, N. Y.

Dr. L. B. Almy and family returned Saturday night from Canada, where the doctor has had his piscatorial ambitions gratified by landing his full share of the trout which abound in one of the preserves in the country midway between Montreal and Quebec.

Lena M. Fuller of Newton street, accompanied by Master Walter Fuller, is visiting at different points on Narragansett bay, Newport, Wickford and Narragansett Pier. In her absence Mrs. Cantle will be organist at the First Baptist church.

Mr. Perry Byrnes of the Norwich Belt company has returned from a visit to Chicago in the interests of the company. While there he was an interested observer of the World's fair.

Mr. William Greeneberg, clerk in Preston Brothers' hardware store, has returned from a week's vacation spent in New York city.

Misses Annie and Margaret McNaught of Holyoke, Mass., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Wm. Hoar of Greeneville.

L. R. Southworth of The New York World city staff passed through Norwich Saturday on his way back to New York from a month's vacation. Mrs. Southworth will remain in eastern Connecticut until September.

Mr. J. A. Ballinger of New York, well known as an expert telegrapher, is Associated Press operator for THE BULLETIN in the absence of Mr. E. J. Thompson. Broker J. C. Davis filled the position acceptably last week.

Crowds for the Seashore.

The hot wave of Saturday sent an unusually large number of people to the shore resorts. The steamer Ella carried a good-sized company, whose interests were carefully attended to by Captain Walker.

This year, more than ever before, the Ella merits the reputation of a clean, safe, fast-sailing, family steamer. Among her patrons are some of the best people of the city, who are season ticket holders, and who travel back and forth daily sure of courtesy, quiet, accommodation and excellent service generally.

Purser William Walker is at his post as in former seasons, and Lester B. Walker is in charge of the news stand.

Small Fire at Greeneville.

The fire department was called to Greeneville at 6.15 Sunday evening by an alarm from box 27. The flames were located in the cellar of the grocery store of A. C. Greene on Central avenue, lately occupied by H. M. Durfey, and were quickly extinguished. The loss will not exceed $500. The origin of the fire is thought to be spontaneous combustion.

At the time of the alarm Chief Engineer Greeneberg was investigating a break in the Falls circuit. He was near the engine house in the Falls when the fire broke out, but owing to the trouble on the wires no call sounded and he knew nothing of the matter till he had repaired the break and returned to the city. Then he made all haste to the scene of the fire and rendered aid "at the death." It was owing to the fault of the circuit that the Second Congregational church failed to respond.

MANY HEAR MR. SWAN.

Golden Words from the City Missionary at the Wharf Meeting.

After listening for two Sundays to speakers from out of town who should naturally draw large crowds, it was a very gratifying feature of the Y. M. C. A. wharf meeting on Sunday afternoon to notice as large an audience of men of all classes gathered to hear City Missionary George W. Swan.

In fact the interest seemed increased, as many personal friends and acquaintances of Mr. Swan sought another opportunity to listen to his words of penetrating truth, concerning how the work of the grace of God made a complete change in his own life right in this city during the past ten years, and how the old records and the old associations have been lived down, and during these recent years he has been enabled to work mightily for the rescue and salvation of his fellow men from the paths of vagrancy and pauperism as well as vice in higher life.

The entire meeting was characterized by earnestness and the testimonies of many saved men were added to the remarks of the speaker of the day. Other portions of the service were congregational and solo singing and Scripture reading.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. C. H. Hamlin, who supplied the pulpit at Park church for the union Congregational services on Sunday.

The speaker for the meeting next Sunday on the steamboat wharf will be the Rev. R. H. Nelson of Christ Episcopal church.

STOLE MONEY AND TEAM.

An Erring New London Man Flees to These Parts.

Late Saturday night Captain Burdick received a telephone dispatch from Niantic requesting that the Norwich police keep an eye open for a stolen livery team. At 4.30 o'clock Sunday morning Officer Toomey discovered the turnout at Thamesville. The horse was feeding on the roadside, and there were no signs of a driver.

The owner was Duane Reed, well remembered as a former resident here and proprietor of Hyde Tavern. A New London man who was working for Chas. Gates, keeper of the Bay View house, Niantic, hired the team early in the afternoon Saturday, and when at nightfall he had not returned it was found he had stolen his employer's pocket book.

Mr. Reed called for his property and drove home Sunday afternoon. The thief's whereabouts are not known.

SHOLES' TRIAL POSTPONED.

The Hearing Will Commence Aug. 2—The Murdered Man is Daniel Quinn.

Early Saturday morning Ransom S. Sholes, Jr., was taken to the house of Judge Hugh King on Penobscot street, Preston. The charge against him is murder in the second degree. Wm. H. Jennings, Jr., appeared as counsel for Sholes. The case was continued until Wednesday, August 2, and bonds to the amount of $7,000 were furnished by Ransom S. Sholes, father of the accused. The elder Sholes is a well-to-do farmer of Preston, who resides near the Poquetannock turnpike, just beyond Fox's hill.

Saturday night Daniel F. McNeil, chief clerk in the Norwich post office, viewed the body of the dead man as it lay in Undertaker Allen's barn where the autopsy was held the night previous. Mr. McNeil identified the body as that of Daniel Quinn, who last week received a registered letter from a brother in Pascoag, R. I.

A young brother of the accused man, who carries milk for his father, was questioned in regard to the tragedy while making his customary round Saturday morning. His story corroborated that of young Sholes himself.

A story that in evidence would be damaging to Sholes is that told by two boys who were huckleberrying in a lot near the Congdon house at the time the fracas took place. One of them alleges that the tramp threatened to thrash Sholes for three brass buttons; that he struck at the young man and was in turn knocked down and brutally beaten.

A BATTLE ROYAL.

Fifteen Innings of Base Ball on the Greeneville Grounds.

The Clippers and White Rocks gave the most interesting and exciting exhibition of base ball Saturday afternoon, that Norwich has ever seen. The game lasted for fifteen innings, abounded in good batting, sharp fielding and base running, and ended in a victory for the Clippers. The hardest earned game in their history. The White Rocks made five runs in the first five innings, and did not make another run during the next ten innings. They had men on the second and third bases during that time, but the necessary hit failed to materialize. They would knock a sky-scraping fly into the ever-ready hands of Fogarty, or die at first on an assist from Manchester or O'Brien.

It took the Clippers seven innings to get their first five runs. After that they struggled for seven innings more, but the brilliant playing of the White Rocks prevented a single score. In the fifteenth inning a couple of hits and an error enabled the Clippers to score three runs. It is hard to speak of any particular play or player in a game like this. All the players deserve great praise, but the palm belongs to Driscoll, the Clipper's pitcher. He was in the box thirteen consecutive innings, struck out eleven men and allowed the White Rocks to make but one run during that time. He was finely supported by Counihan.

During the present season the Clippers have been giving as good exhibition of ball playing as was ever given here by a team composed of local players. They have played against some of the best amateur teams in New England, and have made a very creditable record. They have not canvassed the town for subscriptions, but they have asked and continue to plead for that patronage their merit deserves. The score:

AN AMERICAN MISSIONARY BEATEN

Miss Anna Melton Severely Injured by Unknown Assailant

HER TENT ENTERED AT NIGHT.

Washington Authorities Notified of the Affair.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Letters received by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in this city, describe an unprovoked attack last month upon Miss Anna Melton, an American missionary at Dunse, a little village in Turkey.

Miss Melton was mercilessly beaten with sticks, and severely injured by an unknown assailant who entered her tent at night, and who had several accomplices.

After much insistence on the part of the Rev. Mr. McDowell an inquiry was instituted by the authorities, but little satisfaction was had.

It is believed that the men engaged were persons who were incited to the deed.

The matter has been called to the attention of the authorities at Washington.

Miss Melton has been a missionary of the Presbyterian church for many years.

WANTS HIS BACK PAY.

A New Haven Rabbi Makes a Demand for $3,500.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—The Rev. Dr. Lewis Kleeberg, formerly rabbi of the congregation Mishkan Israel here, has made a demand for $3,500 back salary, and this action has brought to light a somewhat spicy piece of church history. Seven years ago charges were preferred against Kleeberg, to the effect that he was altogether too much interested in a pretty servant of one of his parishioners.

For some time it was thought that the doctor would be asked to resign, but to break the force of the opposition he offered to submit to a reduction in his salary of $500 a year. In consequence of his making the reduction and his previous good record the charges were dismissed by a small majority vote. His demand now is for the $500 yearly for seven years and interest.

The matter will not come up for consideration until January, and judging from the remarks of the members of the congregation who understand the case, the doctor will not get enough out of the body to pay for the postage on the letter he sent to the board of trustees.

THE INSULT RESENTED.

And Stock Broker Randall is Now Dying in the Hospital.

BOSTON, July 24.—John O. March, of the real estate firm of Worcester & March, having an office in the Equitable building, is under arrest tonight upon the charge of assault with intent to kill, upon John L. Randall a stock broker, having an office at 208 Washington street.

The assault was the result of an insult said to have been offered by Randall to Miss Julia Jordan, a stenographer employed in Worcester's office but who formerly been employed by Randall.

She reported the insult to Mr. Worcester, who at once proceeded to Randall's office and after a few words struck the broker a blow in the face with such force as to cause the fracture of the base of the skull.

March then went to the police station and informed the officer in charge that he had assaulted Randall, and was willing to be locked up at any time it suited the officer.

Randall was taken to the city hospital where it was found that his injuries are very dangerous and that he will probably die.

Thereupon March was taken into custody to await the result of Randall's injuries.

March is 40 years old while Randall is 52. He is married and resides in Arlington.

Office of The Naugatuck Valley Advocate Burned.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—At about 11 o'clock tonight fire broke out in the woodyard of F. W. Andrews on Church street, Naugatuck. The flames quickly spread to the four-story brick block immediately adjoining, which was also owned by Mr. Andrews.

In about two hours the block was entirely destroyed. The loss on the property destroyed will aggregate $75,000, but the exact amount of insurance cannot be ascertained tonight.

The block was occupied by a bakeshop, C. P. Andrew's shoe store, J. M. Paige, hardware and general stores and the Naugatuck Valley Advocate. Paige's loss is about $50,000, well insured. The Advocate loses about $5,000 and carried no insurance.

An Organ Manufacturer Arrested.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Daniel F. Beatty, ex-mayor of Washington, N. J., who was indicted in June for alleged use of mails for swindling purposes and was bailed, was arrested again this afternoon by the post office inspector as he was about to board a ferry boat.

The complaint against him this time is made by N. S. Sawyer of Fairchville, Windsor county, Vt., who alleges that Beatty sold him an organ for $500 which was worthless. Beatty was turned over to two United States marshals, who will arraign him before Commissioner Shields tomorrow.

Collision in the "Race."

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., July 24.—Schooner Emma Green of Bangor, Captain Gimons, from Providence for New York in ballast, was run into while in the Race off Long Island sound, at about 1 30 by an unknown three-masted schooner loaded under deck. The Green was struck on the starboard side at the main rigging and had her mainsail and several stanchions carried away, her bulwarks stove, and her jib badly torn. She arrived here this afternoon. The damage to the other vessel is not known.

A Manchester, N. H., Bank to Suspend.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 24.—The National Bank of the Commonwealth will suspend payment tomorrow morning. This action was determined on at a meeting of the directors tonight, and the national comptroller was notified. This bank was the youngest of six national banks in the city but had reason to be the second according to its deposits. Assets and liabilities are about $625,000; deposits, $310,531; capital stock, $200,000.

The American Yacht Navahoe Entered.

LONDON, July 24.—The first race in which the American yacht Navahoe will take part will be in the regatta of the Royal London Yacht club, which will take place on July 31 off the Isle of Wight. She is also entered in the regattas of the Royal Yacht Squadron and the Royal Southampton Yacht club, which will be held during the week beginning August 6.

ELECTED PRISON WARDEN.

Chief of Police Jabez L. Woodbridge Succeeds Warden Chamberlain.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—Chief of Police Jabez L. Woodbridge of this city was today elected warden, on the third ballot, of the state prison, to succeed Warden Chamberlain.

On the first and second ballots the five votes were divided between Colonel Woodbridge, Henry W. Sanford of New Haven and General Haven, who has been acting warden since the retirement of Warden Chamberlain.

Chief of Police Jabez L. Woodbridge, who was today elected warden of the state prison, was born in Manchester March 4, 1839, and is therefore 54 years old. He prepared for college, but never entered, going out into the south and west to battle for himself. At the outbreak of the war he was in the southern part of Texas cattle-raising. For a time he held the position of quartermaster in a Texas regiment of cavalry, in the state service. He joined the Texas service a good while before the war. He got back to Manchester December 1, 1860. On getting home he took a position as superintendent of Windermere woolen mill at Rockville. He was afterwards successively a clerk on a Fall River steamer, a store keeper in Rockville and a drummer for a Boston oil company.

His local military career dates from his enlistment as a private in Company C of Rockville, which was disbanded in 1861. In 1877 he was appointed inspector of rifle practice on the staff of Colonel Herman A. Tyler, succeeding the late Major John C. Kinney in that position. He was reappointed by Colonel Lucius A. Barbour in 1878, and held the position until January 8, 1883, when he was appointed assistant quartermaster general with the rank of lieutenant-colonel under Quartermaster-General Thomas McManus on Governor Thomas M. Waller's staff. He was succeeded by Lieutenant-Colonel Bernard F. Blakeslee in January, 1885, and then retired permanently from the military service of the state.

Colonel Woodbridge had charge of the clerical force preparing the Record of Connecticut Men in the War of the Rebellion, and subsequent to 1887 was chief of the supply division of the post office department at Washington, D. C. In 1889 he retired from that position and returned to Connecticut, when he was appointed clerk in the state treasurer's office, a position he held until his election as chief of police of Hartford, which position he assumed January 1, last.

He has not mingled much in politics. In 1886 he ran as democratic candidate for sheriff of Hartford county, and was defeated by Sheriff Spalding by seventy votes. He is a Mason and also an Elk. He is married.

Their Wages Cut 25 Per Cent.

CINCINNATI, O., July 24.—The Lane & Bodley Machine company, employing 200 men, shut down today over a question of wages. On Saturday the firm notified all their employes that wages would be cut 25 per cent. This morning when the men reached their shop they refused to work under the reduction unless a definite date be fixed upon when the former scale would be restored. This was not done, and the men went home.

Louisville City National Bank Suspends.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 24.—The Louisville City National bank suspended payment [illegible] this afternoon. The bank has a capital of $400,000. The announcement that the bank had closed for business was not unexpected. The bank found that it was impossible to realize on its assets owing to the financial stringency. Deposits received today will be returned to the bank's patrons.

5,000 Men Resume Work.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 24.—The extensive iron and steel plant of Jones & McLaughlin resumed in all departments today after an idleness of several weeks. The steel, iron and finishers' scales of the Amalgamated association were all signed. In the case of the finishers all were returned to work. The resumption gives employment to 5,000 men. The situation at the other mills here is unchanged and there is no immediate prospect of a settlement.

James Curran Killed on the Shore Line.

SAYBROOK, Conn., July 24.—James Curran, twenty-seven years of age, of New Haven, a brakeman on the Shore Line railroad, was thrown from a freight train near here this morning. His arm and one leg was cut off. He was placed on board the 10.40 train to be removed to the New Haven hospital. He died before he reached the depot at New Haven.

Warden Chamberlain Bids Farewell to the Convicts.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—Warden Samuel E. Chamberlain bade farewell to the 380 convicts at the Connecticut state prison on Sunday. He was present at the chapel service and made a ten-minute talk, at the close of which he was heartily applauded. This week he removes from this state to Barre Plains, Mass., where he has a well-stocked farm.

Indebtedness Over $500,000.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 24.—This morning the Ohio Oil Well Supply company, operating in the oil fields at Findlay, Fostoria, Marietta, Rising Sun, Van Wert and Pittsburg, Pa., went into the hands of a receiver upon the application of Edward H. Cole of Brooklyn, New York, one of the largest stockholders. The petition states that the company's indebtedness will amount to over $500,000.

Dragged to His Death.

PORTLAND, Me., July 24.—Sunday morning Jacob Strout of North Raymond was found in an unconscious condition, his body hanging between the shafts of his carriage. He had driven late Saturday from Poland Springs. His feet were entangled in the reins in such a way that he was thrown over the cross-bar and dragged several miles. There is no truth in the report that foul play is suspected.

Fractured His Backbone.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 24.—Henry M. Dunham, a well-known resident of East Hampton, fell from a hay-mow in his barn yesterday afternoon, a distance of sixteen feet. His backbone was fractured. At last accounts he was still alive, but there is no hope of his recovery.

Right Hand Mangled by a Buzz Saw.

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn., July 24.—George Robinson, an employe of the Coffin paper mill, caught his right hand in a buzz saw today. All the fingers were badly mangled and the third finger was cut clean off. The hand was done up by Dr. Kelly, who made the man comfortable.

Death of a Connecticut Editor.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., July 24.—Julius M. Ellendorf, editor of The Mechanics Journal and The Fairfield County Anzeiger, died this morning after a lingering illness.

HANLON—GAUDAUR BOAT RACE.

Hanlon Leads First Half Mile—Gaudaur Wins Easily.

TIME 14.50.

Hanlon Protests to the Stakeholder that the Race Was Not Fairly Won.

O'REILLY, Ont., July 24.—The Hanlon-Gaudaur boat race attracted another large crowd. Betting during the day was mostly even, a little money at odds in favor of Gaudaur. Both men were in splendid condition. A stiff breeze continued all day and made the course rough at the turn. At 5 05 Hanlon said he was satisfied with the condition of the water and was quickly followed by Gaudaur. The start was made at 6.08. Hanlon shot to the front like flash and was leading by a full boat's length. Both men were rowing about 34 strokes a minute. Hanlon kept to the front for half a mile, when Gaudaur reduced the lead to half a boat length and then spurted by his opponent.

When the turn was reached Gaudaur was leading by a boat length with Hanlon apparently out of it. Gaudaur increased his lead until within half a mile of the finish and stopped rowing and waved his hand in response to the cheers. Then he made a magnificent spurt and crossed the line an easy winner by several lengths in 4 50. Hanlon finished 18 seconds behind. Hanlon has told the stake holder not to pay the money on a claim it was not won fair.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Acting Mint Director Preston this afternoon, in response to his counter offer, purchased 50,000 ounces of silver at $0.7050 per ounce. There is no expectation of purchasing the full quota of 4,500,000 ounces of silver per month. Mr. Preston states that the department, if it fails to purchase the full quota this month, will not make up the deficiency next month. That is, if only 2,500,000 ounces of silver are purchased this month, the department will not purchase the two million ounces short this month and the 4,500,000 ounces next month, the usual monthly purchase. Each month's purchase will stand by itself and thus it may happen that at the end of the fiscal year the aggregate purchase, instead of being 54,000,000 ounces, may be only half that amount.

This is the construction placed upon the Sherman law as to the requirements of silver purchases by Secretary Carlisle. As a consequence of short purchases, the amount of coin or Sherman notes issued against the silver bullion purchased under the law will of course be correspondingly less.

A Yale Professor Near Death's Door.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—Prof. Edward T. McLaughlin of Yale, is in a critical condition and it is not believed that he can live more than a few hours. He has been ill with typhoid fever for several weeks. Professor McLaughlin graduated from Yale in '83. He was one of the editors of the Yale Literary Magazine during his student days. He is assistant professor in English and is considered the brightest man that Yale has in English literature.

Good Attendance at the Fair Despite the Extreme Heat.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Visitors at the exposition today hugged the shady side of the big buildings to escape the blistering rays of the sun. Once in a while some one succumbed to the heat and the ambulance took the exhausted one to the hospital. There were many cases of exhaustion, but no fatalities from the heat. But with all these disadvantages the patronage was good.

In the Hands of Receivers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 24.—The extensive manufacturing firm of Bradley & Co. went into receivers' hands today. The firm manufactured trip hammers, wagons, and fancy carriages and sulkies. The buildings and plant are valued at half a million dollars; the liabilities are about $300,000.

Steam Yacht Alde Floated.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., July 24.—Steam yacht Alde was floated off the rocks at Cedar Tree Neck this afternoon and towed here, where she was hauled on the marine railway. She has two small holes on the starboard side and her bottom is chafed, but she is otherwise in fair condition. She will soon be sold at auction at this port.

A Laborer Found Dead.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—Thomas O'Malley, a laborer 23 years old, was found dead on the bank of the Connecticut river above the city yesterday afternoon. He was to go in bathing but did not enter the water. Medical examination found a verdict of heart disease.

Meteorological Expert Dead.

HAVANA, July 24.—Prof. Vines, the well-known meteorological expert, whose illness from an affection of the heart was announced some time ago, died at midnight last night. He was in priestly orders.

Syracuse Business Houses Assign.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 24.—Three Syracuse business houses assigned today. They are R. L. Stevens, cloak dealer; Joseph M. Hill, picture frames, and Sapery & Muscat, scrap iron dealers.

Silver for Europe.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Three hundred and ninety-five ounces of silver will be shipped abroad on the Trave Wednesday.

T. V. Powderly to Resign.

NEW YORK, July 24.—It is stated that T. V. Powderly will resign as master workman of the Knights of Labor in October, and will then practice law in Pennsylvania.

SUNDAY DROWNING ACCIDENT.

A Boat Containing Three Intoxicated Men is Capsized.

GARDINER, Maine, July 24.—A sad accident occurred at Horse Shoe pond, six miles from this city, yesterday afternoon, resulting in the death by drowning of Charles Bleam of this city and an unknown man and the narrow escape from the same fate of George Silver of this city. Bleam had been working the past week for Mr. Fred Babcock, who lives on the shore of the pond. Sunday afternoon he started to visit Wakefield's camp, situated on an island in the pond where Mr. Ed Wakefield and George Silver were spending Sunday.

According to the testimony of Silver all got intoxicated, Bleam and the unknown man more than the others. Silver says he started to set them across the stream in a boat, when they commenced rocking it. He tried to quiet them when, suddenly it capsized, throwing all three into the water. Silver immediately struck out for the shore, which he reached after a hard struggle exhausted. As soon as able he looked for the others. He saw the boat upside down, but could see nothing of the men. He notified Mr. Potter, who lives near by, what had happened.

Harry Dunn, who was at Mr. Potter's when Silver arrived, said he was very much under the influence of liquor and could not tell much about what had happened or how. He had a cut on his head and his lip was swollen, but he did not know anything about it. City Marshal Davis started this morning for the pond and grappled for the bodies all day without finding anything except the hats belonging to Bleam and Silver on the shore. Search will be continued tomorrow.

TROUBLE NEAR AT HAND.

Kansas State Militia to Be Ordered to Scene of the Strike.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 24.—Governor Lewelling received a number of telegrams from Weir City last night and today, but he declines to make public their contents. They were regarded as of sufficient importance to be the subject of a special meeting of the state officers and other advisers of the governor in his private office this morning. The meeting lasted till noon, then Private Secretary Close sent the following message to the sheriff at Weir City:

"Under no circumstances can the state authorize or permit violence. Strikers must not trespass nor assault United States deputy marshals, nor destroy property. Read this to the miners.

"(Signed,) L. D. LEWELLING, Gov."

It is generally understood and not denied at the state house that a request for arms for the strikers or deputy sheriffs was made from Weir City.

It is reported that the governor has sent for Lieut. Gov. Daniels, who is at Weir City, and it is generally believed that the result of an interview with Daniels will be the ordering out of the state militia to go to the scene of the strike. Secretary Close said that a number of letters received this morning from Cherokee county indicated that trouble was near at hand. As far as known all is quiet today at Weir City, Pittsburg and Litchfield.

Strange Snake Story from Danbury.

DANBURY, Conn., July 24.—George Fraleigh of this city, while working at haying for Wm. Odell in Brookfield one morning last week, lifted a fork full of hay to place it on a load, when he fell to the ground with the hay on top of him. Fraleigh laid hold of a black snake which was coiled about his head. The serpent did not bite him but it left a black mark. Fraleigh was disabled from work all the morning and this morning at the same hour that the snake wound itself around the man's neck he was taken with choking spasms and fits of strangulation and is growing weaker every day. The case is being watched by local physicians whose efforts to allay his sufferings have thus far proved futile. The snake measured four feet, three inches.

Bridgeport Pool Room Raided.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 24.—A squad of police raided Wm. Young's pool room this evening and captured thirty-seven men, including the proprietor. Nearly fifty others got out of the pool room into a saloon in front. A policeman approached from the rear before these had reached the main entrance. These men were therefore released. In their haste a partition was knocked down, but when the policemen drew their pistols quiet was restored. Young was released under $2,500 bonds, his five assistants under $100, and the players under $12 each. The arrests were made under the old law, as the new statute does not take effect until August 1. The proprietor intended to close the place in a few days.

Resignation of Prison Physician Fox.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—After electing Warden Woodbridge, this afternoon, the state prison directors accepted the resignation of Dr. Edward G. Fox of Wethersfield, the prison physician, to date August 1. Both General Haven, acting warden, and Acting Physician Thompson declined to remain after August 1, although urged to stay until August 15, to enable the police commissioners of Hartford to select a suitable successor for Woodbridge. Warden Baisden, who has been at the prison nineteen years, it is expected will retire at the next meeting of the directors on August 1.

The Dolphin at Gloucester.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 24.—U. S. steamer Dolphin with Secretary Herbert and others on board arrived late this afternoon at Magnolia and fired a salute in honor of Gov. Russell, whose guests they will be this evening. On landing a large number of summer visitors welcomed the distinguished party.

New Jersey Militia Poisoned.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 24.—About sixty members of the Second New Jersey militia in camp at Sea Girt have been poisoned by oxalic poison from the tinware used. The surgeons are hard at work. None of the cases will prove fatal.

Tacoma National Bank Suspends.

TACOMA, Wash., July 24.—The Tacoma National bank, one of the strongest in the northwest, suspended this morning. This bank has been assisting other banks in the city for the past six months.

A State Bank Robbed.

PLAINVIEW, Neb., July 24.—The Plainview state bank was robbed last night of about $3,000 in cash. In consequence the bank did not open its doors this morning.

The Sheriff Has Possession Now.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Judgment was secured by the Continental bank against Parkhurst & Wilkinson, iron merchants, for $37,175. The sheriff took possession of the firm's business. The assets are estimated at $1,000,000. It is believed the concern will be able to resume business as soon as the financial stringent is over.

TOY BANKS WERE FURNISHED,

And Poor People are Minus the Small Change Dropped In.

BRADFORD & CHURCH, BANKERS,

Skip from Chicago with the Nickel Deposits of Many Citizens.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Bradford & Church, Dearborn street bankers, have closed their institution without even posting a notice. Their whereabouts seem to be known only to themselves. The deposits are said to aggregate between $30,000 and $50,000. The firm started banking after a successful land speculation at Tolleston, Ind. The first thing they then did after having a bank sign painted, was to distribute several thousand small iron banks among the poor people of Chicago. The banks could be opened only by the Bradfords. From day to day he who was unfortunate enough to possess one of the little chests dropped in pennies and nickels and when he had it filled he would bring it to the bank where the contents were most carefully removed and credited to the depositor. The bank has been in existence only about a year.

The French Minister to Leave Bangkok Wednesday.

BANGKOK, July 24.—M. Pavie, French minister resident, has lowered the flag over his office and has notified the Siamese government that he will leave the city to go aboard the French ship Inconstante on Wednesday. He has requested the government to provide pilots to conduct the Lutin and Comete down the river. French subjects in Bangkok will be placed under the protection of the French consul.

Anxiety Over the Siamese News.

LONDON, July 24.—The Franco-Siamese complications have been the one absorbing topic in the lobbies of the house of commons today. The situation is regarded with apprehension by all parties and the last news from Bangkok and Paris is read with as much anxiety as eagerness. On all sides regret is expressed that the British war ships in Siamese waters were not reinforced a month ago.

Powder House Explosion.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., July 24.—While Homer Householder and Hugh Harvey were shooting a rifle today a bullet entered a window of Schaefer's powder house causing an explosion. Both men were blown clear across the Little river and their bodies torn to pieces. Houses were wrecked all around and several persons were injured.

Germany Is Pleased, Says The Tageblatt.

BERLIN, July 24.—The Tageblatt says that Germany would be pleased should France in an overreaching spirit cause serious complications in Asia. Nor would the German government be disturbed, says The Tageblatt, if the present trouble should result in acute rivalry in eastern Asia between the French and Siam.

A Swede Hangs Himself.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—John Carlson, a Swede, aged 28, employed by Wm. T. Andrews in Orange, committed suicide by hanging himself to a tree. Carlson has been a sober and industrious workman and what led him to commit suicide is not known. He leaves a widow.

British Steamer Michigan Libelled.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 24.—The owners of the schooner Holland of Dover, N. H., which was sunk in a collision with the British steamer Michigan, June 16, filed a libel suit against the latter vessel in the United States circuit court. The value of the boat was placed at $65,000 and the cargo at $125,000.

A Montana Bank in Distress.

GREAT FALLS, Mon., July 24.—The Merchants' National bank closed today. The directors state the amount deposited will be paid in full. The bank has $23,000 of public funds.

Blockade to Take Effect This Week.

LONDON, July 24.—A dispatch from Paris to the Central News states that the blockade of the Siamese coast will become effective on Thursday or Friday next.

Rockville Dealer Assigns.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., July 24.—H. C. Parker, dealer in bargain goods, has assigned to L. B. Brown. The assets are $1,300; liabilities, $3,500.

Suicide by Hanging.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Elected a Delegate.

At a regular meeting of the N. H. S. E., No. 6, last evening, G. H. Bennett was elected delegate to the national convention of Stationary Engineers, to be held September 7 at Cleveland, Ohio. George Johnson was elected alternate.

The Ashwillet Post Office.

The people of Ashwillet are so discommoded by the removal of the post office by the new postmaster, E. C. Eccleston, to its present remote situation in Ludlow, that they are changing their addresses to Glasgo and North Stonington. The former official, S. P. Eggleston, was a popular and efficient postmaster, and the town evidently has not profited by the change.

Schooner Capsized and Cook Lost Overboard.

The two-masted schooner Lizzie Raymond, Captain Davis, engaged in carrying oyster shells between different ports in Long Island sound, was capsized off Westbrook during a sudden squall Sunday afternoon, and one of her crew, the cook, was drowned. The yacht Tillie brought an account of the disaster into New London Sunday evening, and Captain Scott sent one of his tugs to the schooner's assistance.

The cook's name was William Phillips, who had shipped from Greenport. He was helping take an extra reef just as the first squall struck the schooner, and was carried overboard. A heavy sea was running and he disappeared before assistance could be rendered him.

AN AGED PEDESTRIAN.

A New London Octogenarian Wants to Race to Chicago.

Ray Earl of New London, 80 years of age, is ready with an offer of a $150 wager that he can walk from New London to Chicago in forty-two days. The conditions of the wager will be that he shall carry a fifteen pound satchel and two suits of clothing. He also agrees to mail each day a letter signed by the postmaster of the place he has reached, showing the progress he is making on his journey. Furthermore, he agrees to make the trip without taking any money with him, depending entirely upon his wits and the novelty of his undertaking to furnish him the necessary sustenance. Mr. Earl is familiar with the topography of the country, having made a similar trip about thirty years ago.

CONNECTICUT BUTTER.

It Scores a High Average at the World's Fair.

The Jersey cow belonging to Hon. E. S. Henry, of Rockville, stood first in her class of twenty-five at the World's fair exhibit. Her record for the first thirty of the ninety-day test was 85 95 pounds of butter, the next highest being 68.19.

In the test just completed at the fair the butter from Connecticut co-operative creameries scored a higher average by from one to two points than the average in which private creameries and dairies are included. In the former the range is from 86 to 96, the average 94 to 95 out of a possible 100.

The highest score was obtained by the Windsor Creamery company, 96, with several others close following. New England butter lacks mainly in flavor, in which particular it is at a disadvantage when compared with butter from states near by, like Illinois and Wisconsin, whose samples were fresher by nearly ten days. Connecticut cheese scored an average of 90.25 ranging from 86 to 96, the latter score being obtained by Edward Norton's pineapple cheese from Goshen. The highest score on domestic cheese, 94, was awarded to Mrs. F. B. Chaffee of East Woodstock.

IN CASE OF WAR.

Map of the Connecticut River for Government Uses.

The war department is having prepared a map of the Connecticut river and its banks, which is for the information of the department in case of war. The surveys were taken last year. The work of preparing the map is now in charge of an engineer and will soon be completed. The map will take in the river from the sound to Hartford and is divided into three sections. The first section includes that portion between the sound and Higganum, the second section between Higganum and Cromwell, and the third section between Cromwell and Hartford. A careful survey of the river and its banks was made from the high elevations back from the river. These elevations will be noted on the map, which will show the nature of the soil and whether it is cultivated or not.

All roads and lanes will be designated, and whether troops can pass over them or not. All farmhouses, barns and other buildings on the river banks will be shown, and the map is intended to be a careful plan of the river and its surroundings. The country was found much more hilly than had been anticipated by the surveyors. At some points the hills rise 330 feet above the level of the river. The map when completed will cost about $10,000, but will be of great value to the department.

STATE FARMERS' DISPLAY.

The World's Fair Exhibit Thought Not Representative.

Connecticut's agricultural display at the fair is voted unsatisfactory by some of the visitors at the big fair, and The Hartford Courant remarks on the subject: A good many visitors from Connecticut to the fair express dissatisfaction at the agricultural exhibit of the state in the agricultural building. It is quite true that the display is not as elaborate as that of many of the western states. It is probable, however, that Connecticut will not be the sufferer in the long run, for her agricultural exhibit, as well as that of her neighbors, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, possesses a quiet character and dignity, which is entirely lacking among most of the western exhibits. The difference is just that between display and substance, and is illustrated by the remark of the old farmer who, in speaking of his two boys, said that Jim had the most stock in his windows, but that John had the most in his warehouse.

Among the articles in the Connecticut display are some of very great age. On that account they are especially interesting. There is a flax brake, loaned by Martin Parker of South Coventry. There is also a flax wheel, the property of Mrs. Charles Baker of Andover. For three generations this has been owned in one family and is shown just as it was left the last time it was used by the old grandmother. Near it are a pestle and mortar, used 150 years ago for cracking corn. These also are loaned by Mr. Parker, and, despite great age, are in a good state of preservation.

Speaking generally of Connecticut's agricultural showing, there are two features about it which attract attention at once. One is the absence of tobacco. The other is the minuteness with which details of cultivation are given of products shown. This latter feature is admirable, and is possessed to the extent to which the Connecticut exhibit has it by none of the western states. The most prominent feature of the exhibit is a display of Indian corn, put together so as to represent an Indian wigwam. The work has been admirably done and the effect is very successful. There are "oats, peas, beans and barley" without number. The grains are especially numerous and well arranged.

Near the wigwam mentioned is a large collection of grasses from the Storrs agricultural school experimental station. The corn display is extended, a specimen being shown of nearly every variety that is raised in the state. The seed display is also large. The seeds are arranged in glass jars, appropriately labeled. There are a large number of photographs of products and places of Connecticut.

FEEDING THE TROOPS.

Strong Protest Against Commissary-General Jamieson's Action.

The proposition of Commissary General Jamieson to deduct one-half of the cost of feeding the troops at Niantic from the pay of the men, is meeting with considerable criticism and opposition from not only the privates but the line officers. In speaking of the matter, a well-known private expressed himself as follows:

We have been ordered to Niantic for six days and a fine of $5 a day will be imposed if the order is not obeyed. The law under which the order was issued provides for the pay which we are to receive, which is graded according to the length of service rendered. The law also explicitly states that we are to be fed by the state and at the expense of the state. There is no authority whatever for deducting anything from our pay to help out the commissary general. The quartermaster general might just as well charge us half our fare. There is just as much authority for one as for the other. The men might, with the same right, be called upon to pay for every other car ridge fired or every other shell exploded. The state has taken upon itself to feed us and it is pretty small potatoes to ask the men to do it or any portion of it. If the commissary general can't afford to feed the men in a reasonable manner, after the extravagant example set him in other respects by the legislature which passed the law, then it will be time enough for the men to feed themselves. But I for one will carry what extra grub I want down in my knapsack rather than let the state go through my pockets in that way. I will take what food General Jamieson sees fit to serve out to me and not complain, but I also want the full pay the law of the state guarantees me.

WOULD-BE SPANISH SWINDLERS.

An Elaborate Confidence Game Attempted on a Norwich Family.

The New York Sunday World exposed an elaborate confidence game attempted by Spanish sharps upon the family of Mr. L. W. Carroll of this city, and of which it says many Americans have fallen victims. The World explains the scheme as follows: "A Spanish official of high standing in Madrid, a married man with a charming daughter, discovers a deficit in his accounts amounting to $500,000, caused by the thieving practices of his brother-in-law, who met gambling losses with the public funds which he as clerk handled. Fearing that his fortune and that of his wife would not suffice to replace the missing sum, and shrinking from beggaring his family, the official converts all his property into cash and deposits the amount obtained in a bank where the Spanish government cannot touch it. He then acquaints his superiors with the condition of affairs and submits himself to the proceedings of justice. He is sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penal institution at Melilla in Morocco, and the brother-in-law is condemned for life with hard labor.

"Overcome by grief and shame the wife dies. The daughter has been placed in a school at Malaga. Fearful of the future, the unfortunate man addresses a letter to a supposed relative in the United States, and, stating all the facts in the case explains that he wishes to intrust the charge of rearing his beloved child to a God-fearing manner to one who is probably of her kin.

"To explain how a Spaniard can have a name that is truly American the letter says that the father of the writer came to Spain from North America. Having written this much to touch the sympathy and win the confidence of the intended victim, the writer then gently appeals to the sordid side of human nature. He promises to make a will, leaving a generous sum to the person who will assume the guardianship of his child, and place all the rest in the hands of this guardian in trust for her. Josefa B. Munoz, to whom any reply of the letter might be sent, was the name of the prisoner's father confessor. In this particular letter the name of the unfortunate prisoner was given as James Carroll. The only other name that appears in it is that of Joseph Genis, the father confessor, who plays a very important part towards the close of the plot. The swindlers had clearly set about their rascally work in the most deliberate manner. They had time enough on their hands, and, as their work was evidently designed to cover a wide field, the reward promised to be ample enough to pay them well for the labor. The desirability of selecting the intended victims from small towns, where no Spanish consul could be appealed to for advice, was thoroughly understood. In this particular instance they overreached themselves, for if they had furnished some information in the first letter as to the parentage of the prisoner's wife the Carrolls would have examined their genealogical tree, and, having convinced themselves of the fact that a thieving scheme was on foot, would have laughed at it and forgotten it.

"The letter was received by Mr. Carroll on November 24 last. He read it carefully two or three times, and then submitted it to his sons, with the remark that he thought the writer of it was a fraud. After the two boys had mastered its contents they fell to talking about it with the old man, and during the discussion a dead page in the history of the family was referred to. Mr. Carroll's first child was a boy, who, as he grew up, developed a taste for roving. He wanted to go to sea, and his mind seemed so set upon it that it appeared likely he would follow his inclinations in spite of all opposition. Fearing this and desiring to humor the lad, Mr. Carroll fitted out a ship for him, placed a crew on board and supplied money enough for a trip around the world. This was thirty-two years ago. The lad was twenty years old when he sailed away, and he has never been heard of since. Thoughts of this boy kept connecting themselves with the letter, and while it was very unlikely that the prisoner in Melilla and Mr. Carroll's missing son were the same, so many strange things are always happening that it might be so. Of course, none of the family could explain why the prisoner, if he really were the missing son, should refrain from saying so; but then he might have met with an accident and lost his memory, or maybe he was ashamed, or there might be a number of other reasons for his silence on this point."

The World says that then a correspondent began with the swindlers with the idea of leading them on and discovering their plans. Finally word was received of the death of James Carroll, the alleged Spanish relative. The daughter was committed by him to the care of the Norwich Carrolls, and a request for $3,000 to assist in the payment of the tax on direct or indirect inheritance. The amount of money to be disposed of under the will, it was claimed, was $230,000. At this juncture the whole scheme was renounced by the intended victims.

Mr. Carroll informed a World reporter that he intended to lay the matter before the state department, and would go to Washington in a very few days.

This notice to lifesavers appears in a popular French bathing place: "When a lady is in danger of being drowned seize her carefully by her garments and not by her hair, as the latter is very apt to come off in your hands."

One half dollar is one-half the weight of the silver 5 francs piece of France, Belgium and Switzerland, of the 5 lire coin of Italy, of the 5 pesета of Spain, of the 5 drachma of Greece and exactly the same as the florin of Austria.

NOW THE BLOCKADE.

Siamese Warships Ready to Give Battle.

FRENCH GUNBOATS ALSO IN TRIM.

Siamese Intend to Ram French Vessels and Board Them.

PARIS, July 24.—M. Develle had long conference with Premier Dupuy all yesterday. Only at the last minute was it decided to impart to the press Siam's reply, and the government's decision. It is stated that M. Develle has notified Admiral Humann to proceed at once to declare the blockade.

The Soir comments thus in an extra edition on Siam's reply: "Siam concedes only the least important of the conditions put by France. Her resistance is due obviously to English influence. M. Develle would do well to speak clearly and firmly to Lord Dufferin."

All the other Paris newspapers, led by The Temps, are conducting a vigorous campaign in favor of the government's full demand, and are against any interference in the present complication.

Dispatches from Bangkok last evening say that the territorial demands of France are regarded there as very vague. The Siamese, although intensely excited, are displaying great self-control.

The Inconstante, which of all the French gunboats in Siamese waters has the greatest draught, will be able to cross the bar easily before July 27, when the monsoon will increase the depth of the water.

The Bangkok correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle telegraphs under yesterday's date: "The Siamese warships, which are anchored one mile from the French, are crowded with men ready for action.

"Their intention is, in case the French commence hostilities, to steam down and

Ram the French Gunboats, attempt to board them in force and attack the crews with fixed bayonets."

The German gunboat Wolf has arrived at Bangkok.

The Bangkok correspondent of the London Times says: On Saturday the French gunboats were fixing chain armor amidships. The Siamese vessels are also preparing for action. All have steam up.

The French legation professes to believe that the gunboats cannot cross the bar until high tide on Wednesday, which would leave time to complete an amicable settlement.

The territory that Siam offers to sacrifice fully covers the extreme point of recently attempted aggression. The cession involves the evacuation of the Siamese posts of Poowadона, Attopen and Sampang. On the river itself the French have been unable in four months to place a single station excepting Kong, and that Was Obtained by a Surprise.

The complete failure of Governor General de Lanessan's attempted land advance was the cause of the naval attack now made through Bangkok. I am credibly informed that Russia recently sounded Siam as to whether the latter was disposed to concede the island of Salang or Junkceylon, on the eighth degree of north latitude, and west of the Malay peninsula, for a Russian naval station.

The naval authorities consider Salang as of great strategical importance.

It is stated that M. Pavie, the French minister to Siam, has been ordered to leave Bangkok in 24 hours.

ENGLISH OPINION.

France Really Trying to Strike at the Commerce of England.

LONDON, July 24.—The Times this morning publishes an editorial which it is thought expresses the general English opinion of the merits of the Franco-Siamese dispute.

In commenting upon Siam's answer to the French ultimatum The Times says: Siam's refusal to go beyond just and reasonable limits or to concede territory to which France never put in an effective claim until the other day, is no excuse for a measure of hostility, ostensibly directed against the Siamese, but really striking at the commerce of England and other countries having commercial relations with Siam.

A dispatch to The Chronicle from Paris says: "The tenor of the French ultimatum to Siam leaves no doubt as to France's intentions. She would much prefer not to receive money down from Siam. The alternative of becoming the tax gatherer in the coveted districts of Angkor and Battambang is far more to her taste."

The Globe says: The flagrant French aggression is aimed at England. Siam is merely a pretext. Hence the duty of the British foreign office is one of extraordinary difficulty. England's place in the situation is paramount. Firmness is necessary, for doubtless France is counting upon the feebleness of the British councils. She is not hungry for war any nearer home than the Mekong river.

The St. James Gazette says: One thought conveyed by Siam's reply to the French ultimatum is that she has suffered enough humiliation for a small power that has been unfortunate enough to get in the way of a big one. But France has gone forth to grab and extort her desires at the cannon's mouth.

We can endure the pillage of Siam to the 18th parallel of latitude, but the pillage of Siam, China and Burmah to the 22d parallel is a different matter.

We are afraid that Lord Rosebery (the British foreign minister) must let the governments at Bangkok and Paris know that this is going a trifle too far. Such a check in the present temper of the French may have serious results.

The Pall Mall Gazette commenting upon the situation in an article headed "Blackmail," says: Siam has spoken with dignity and moderation. She gives up too much, but she does not for a moment recognize the other preposterous demands made upon her. In regard to these demands France must reckon with England. We must not hesitate to let our voice be heard.

Lord Rosebery and Lord Dufferin (the British ambassador to France) must be alert, and M. Develle (French foreign minister) careful. If France cherishes the idea of bombarding Bangkok let her remember that the English gunboats in Siamese waters could blow the French gunboats out of the water in half an hour. Let France pocket her blackmail and be content.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT.

West Point Engineers and Cavalry Settle a Feud by Combat.

CRANSTONS, N. Y., July 24.—Twenty West Point soldiers of company E, engineers, and a similar number from the cavalry detachment, engaged in a hand-to-hand fight at Nissen's dancing pavilion in this village Saturday night just before midnight.

The fight was a culmination of a feud that has been brewing between the companies for 10 days, growing out of jealousy of the relative social standing of the two bodies. The time and place for the combat had been prearranged.

The weapon used by the engineers was a piece of rubber hose 18 inches long, loaded at the end with lead. That used by the cavalrymen was a carbine swivel and sabre butt fastened together with strong cords.

A dozen or more from each side were knocked down and badly beaten. The engineers were put to flight, and two of their number, Frank Constable and Gus Davis, were so badly injured that they had to be carried off.

About midnight a fight was started between civilians and cavalrymen, the former using beer bottles for weapons.

The village constables, Silas and Isaac Newell, took a hand and were severely clubbed, as were two of the cavalrymen, Baxter and Wallace.

Captain Craig, commanding the detachment of cavalry, was notified of the affray shortly after midnight, and he promptly arrested his men, took their guard passes from them and confined them in the barracks pending investigation.

Captain Lusk of the engineers also placed under arrest those of his men who are not in the hospital and who participated in the fight. A general courtmartial will be the result.

STRIKING LESSON.

Seymour Man Horsewhipped and Sent Home to His Wife and Family.

SEYMOUR, Ind., July 24.—Early yesterday morning mob of masked men went to the residence of Mrs. Sarah Hughes on "Smoky row," in the lower part of this city, and, "knocking upon the door, asked if William Pickerel was in the house.

The woman told the men that he was not. The story was not believed, and the leader ordered the door opened, which request was complied with.

The room was in darkness, and the leader, striking a match, discovered Pickerel standing against the wall behind the door.

Several revolvers were pointed at his head, and he was seized by the men and taken out of the house. The woman had also been asked by one of the men, who commanded her to follow.

This she refused to do, and the mob decided to allow her to remain, but gave her notice to pack up her goods and leave the town.

Pickerel was taken to a vacant lot and given 25 lashes with a whip, with which the men had supplied themselves.

After the mob had punished him they turned him loose, with orders to go home and provide for his family of five children.

He resides on a farm four miles east of this city, and the woman was his housekeeper for three years, but, becoming tired of country life, moved to this city, since which time he has spent most of his time with her.

ABSOLUTELY UNTRUE.

Joseph Jefferson Says He Was Never Better In His Life.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., July 24.—The reports in the morning papers stating that Joseph Jefferson was afflicted with a cancerous growth in the neck and was critically ill are absolutely untrue.

Your correspondent called at the Whittier cottage, the summer home of the veteran actor, this morning. Mr. Jefferson, when shown the dispatch, was greatly surprised and quite indignant. Said the comedian:

"I was never better in my life than I am at present, and such reports are very annoying to me and my family."

Mr. Jefferson has not had medical attendance since he was at Fall River, where he was attacked with gastritis.

The appearance of the actor did not belie his words that he was enjoying perfect health.

THIS IS SERIOUS.

New York Hotel Keepers Propose to Make Actors Pay Their Board.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The upper Rialto on Broadway is in a ferment of excitement and the actors have stopped talking shop for the time being.

Their attention is now turned to the general threat made by the city hotel keepers to sue every actor, agent and manager who owes them board and room money.

For some time past the hotel men have been bitterly complaining of their treatment by the actors, and a few evenings ago the hotel men got together and compared notes.

As a result they propose to sue every debtor, and if they cannot recover they intend to give them several doses of supplementary proceedings.

Mitchell Lost Pocketbook.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 24.—Fire broke out in a dwelling house on Privilege street, Fairhaven, this morning, at 5 o'clock, and before it could be extinguished the building, which belonged to the Improvement society, was badly gutted. The occupant, Amos D. Mitchell, in the excitement, lost a pocketbook containing $600. A defective flue caused the fire.

Seventh Annual Regatta.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., July 24.—The seventh annual regatta under the auspices of the American Yacht club, the day of which has become known as Newburyport day, will be sailed on Wednesday, Aug. 2, at 10 o'clock p. m., free to all keel or centerboard yachts in New England, 30 feet and under on the water line, whether belonging to a club or not.

Haven't Been Seen Since.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 24.—Two young men, James Cook and David Waters, who were arrested for disturbance on Saturday escaped from the lockup yesterday by breaking the locks on their cell doors, and have not been seen since. Evidently they had help from persons outside.

Declines a Reappointment.

PROVIDENCE, July 24.—Arnold Green, one of the prominent members of the Rhode Island bar and for many years the official reporter of the supreme court, has declined a reappointment by the chief justice, and George Darrows is a candidate to succeed him.

Safety Valve Blew Out.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 24.—Elias H. Woodman, engineer at the Portsmouth shoe factory, was frightfully scalded this morning. He was on top of the boiler when the safety valve blew out, and was at once surrounded by the escaping steam. Before he could be removed to a place of safety, the steam had scalded his head and body so that the flesh was ready to drop off. It is not expected that he can live.

Idle and Disorderly.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 24.—In the police court this morning Mary Drew, the Rochester (N. H.) girl who told the runaway story, was charged with being idle and disorderly. Her case was continued until next Monday. Meanwhile the Rochester authorities will be heard from.

Election of French Deputies.

PARIS, July 24.—The Journal Officiel announces today that Aug. 20 is the date fixed for the election of members of the chamber of deputies. The second ballots will be taken Sept. 3.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Suffered Every Minute

Since I came out of the war, with catarrh in my head, chronic diarrhoea and rheumatism, says Mr. J. G. Anderson, a well known blacksmith in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad at Scottdale, Pa. "I had pains all over me, my sight was dim, and there seemed to be floating specks before my eyes. The food I ate seemed like lead in my stomach. The rheumatism was in my right hip and shoulders. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills did me more good than everything else put together. They are the only medicines I use now. All my disagreeable symptoms have gone."

OLD TIME SMUGGLING.

How the Business of Cheating the Government Has Degenerated.

Instead of a run by night in an open boat from the French coast to the shores of Hampshire, Sussex, Essex or Kent, we have to content ourselves in these prosaic times with petty attempts to cheat the revenue, for which women are more frequently responsible than men. Such an incident once happened at Belfast, where an Irishwoman named Mary McMahon was brought to the police court charged with keeping whisky on premises which were unlicensed. Sergeant Jones deposed that he went into the defendant's house and found a woman named Grayton, who was seated before the fire. Upon searching her the sergeant came upon 38 bottles of porter and two bottles of whisky stowed away in her petticoats. To the inexpressible amusement of the spectators the sergeant produced the peccant garments in court. Each petticoat was made of coarse sacking and was girt with innumerable pockets, and all of them lined with soft material so as to keep the bottles from clinking and possibly breaking each other.

Unhappily for poor Mary McMahon, the petticoats, whisky and porter were confiscated by the relentless police magistrate, and the chief delinquent was sent to jail for three months. I entertain no doubt that the hearty sympathies of nine-tenths of those present in court went with Mary McMahon to limbo. There has, we fear, never been a time in Scotland or Ireland when surreptitious potheen and mountain dew which never paid a bawbee to the state exchequer did not, like stolen kisses, taste the sweeter because of their clandestine birth.

He, however, who would fain find amusing stories about running the blockade and smuggling contraband of war through an enemy's lines may turn with advantage to many transatlantic magazines which teem with articles revealing the illicit trade carried on during the American civil war. Ladies of the Belle Boyd and Mrs. Greenhow type were caught trying to make their way down south with countless boxes of copper caps and packages of quinine stitched into their crinolines. Captain Roberts, better known under his real name, Hobart Pasha, tells us that he smuggled great quantities of Cockle's pills into Secessia, but that the southerners, differing in taste from the lamented Colonel Fred Burnaby, would have none of them.

A certain young lady, who appeared to be in delicate health, took ship at New York for Havana, whence she hoped to run the blockade into Mobile. Overpowered by seasickness during the voyage, she could not prevent the stewardess from discovering that she was girt round about with linen bandages, among which many costly drugs were stowed. Such is the complexion to which modern smuggling has come at last. Our coast guards have no preventive duties to perform, and their only raison d'etre is to watch that no foreign foe makes a descent on our coasts. The Dirk Hatteraicks of the past are as dead as the pirates of the Captain Cleveland order, and in their stead petty larceny revenue-cheaters like Mary MacMahon have sprung into existence.—London Society.

She Fed the Dog.

An awfully swagger girl came into an up town drug store the other day. She led a tiny pug by a slender silver chain. Her hat was all a-bloom with purple flowers, and an Alsatian bow of purple ribbon was tied about puggie's neck so big as to give the impression that there was more bow than dog.

Milady seated herself on a stool in front of the soda fountain and tenderly lifted his small canineship to another seat beside her. The order was given for chocolate ice cream soda. When it was served, this rather remarkable young woman conveyed a teaspoonful of the cream first to her own lips and then to puggie's. This process was repeated until not a drop was left.

It developed during this interesting episode that the dog's name was Nig, and to see Nig blink his eyes and lick his small chops was very funny indeed.

"Ugh!" exclaimed a matter of fact woman looking on. "How that girl can put that spoon back in her mouth after that dog has licked it passes my comprehension. I think it is perfectly disgusting."

But Nig only blinked the more knowingly, doubtless thanking the good Lord that all women were not made alike.—Chicago News.

Charmed by a Snake.

As I was several miles out in the country, riding horseback from Pomona to Etiwanda, I saw a jack rabbit standing still only a few feet from the road. I drove up close to the animal, which still refused to scamper away. On the contrary, the rabbit stood or sat transfixed to the spot, though making a constant nervous, shuddering motion, as if anxious to get away, but at the same time being held to the spot. I was surprised that the rabbit did not flee at the approach of myself and horse, and when I looked a little sharper I saw a large rattlesnake coiled up under some bushes, his head uplifted, about six feet from the rabbit.

I shall never forget the scene. The rabbit was looking with indescribable eagerness straight at the slowly approaching snake and heeded nothing else. I dismounted, and seizing a long stick by force pushed the rabbit away, when the snake instantly swelled with rage and sounded its rattles. I wounded the snake and then dispatched it. The rabbit for a second or two seemed benumbed and was hardly capable of motion. That was over quickly, and the animal hopped away.—Pomona Progress.

Chinese Temples In America.

The census bureau has issued a bulletin which shows that there are 47 Chinese temples in the United States, valued at $62,000, claiming 100,000 worshipers. Forty of these temples are in California, 4 in New York, 2 in Idaho and 1 in Oregon.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

POOR WOMEN IN CITIES WHO SEE LITTLE OF THE SKY.

Current Comment About Well Known Women—Seasonable Suggestions to the Housekeeper—Hints About the Care and Management of Children.

It was an extremely plain house, or rather two houses, which had been offered as a country clubhouse to a club of women whose homes for the most part were east of the Bowery, in New York. The club was composed of the wives of self respecting, self supporting workingmen. They were good housekeepers. The plan was for each family to go up for not less than a week and as much longer as was possible. Some families can remain four weeks, but the average time per family will be two weeks.

The houses are as simply furnished as possible. A committee from the club went up to inspect the houses and make the final arrangements for the summer's occupancy. One of the committee, sitting by the wall of an up stairs bedroom looking through the large double window on the opposite side overlooking a plowed field hedged by trees, with the hills beyond, now crowned with dogwood and the dark green of the pines, clasped her hands, and heaving a long drawn sigh said, "My God, to think of seeing so much sky!"

It was the expression of a soul born that moment into a new life. She had never known any but a city life. There, two front windows looking at the tenement houses across the street, and side windows less than two feet square looking against similar openings in the side wall of the next house; here, windows all about looking at great stretches of sky, and when the eye dropped earthward to rest on trees and sweeping fields of green—is it any wonder she was overcome?—Christian Union.

Dress Reform.

The continued agitation of the dress reform question may be fairly accepted as an indication that there really are changes impending in the costumes of our women which only a very few years ago would have been looked upon with horror. But as time goes on the world changes, and its inhabitants, including even the women, revise and devise new standards.

The movement is very much in the nature of a rebellion, as it stands, against the tyranny of the modistes, who find it profitable to crowd upon our women all manner of gewgaws, frumpery and frippery, and in order to accomplish this devise costumes which year by year grow more and more dangerous to health and comfort, and, to say the truth, more and more inappropriate and ungraceful.

So far as the public may judge from what has been given forth as to the purpose of our gentle rulers, the tendency of the reform is in the direction of simplicity, health and comfort. The costumes look strange now, but use will develop their beauties. They are undeniably graceful and are designed with that perfect good taste which eschews overelaboration and the ostentatious.—New York Advertiser.

Bag to Make Jelly.

To make clear, sparkling jelly that will retain its shape, yet stand quivering when turned out of the glasses, use fruit that is not only firm, large and fine flavored, but that which is under rather than over ripe. Wash it thoroughly, but quickly, and remove every withered leaf, hull or stem. Stew, covered closely until it can be easily crushed, then extract the juice by pouring the hot fruit into a strong linen bag that has been soaked and wrung dry from hot water and suspend the latter in a warm place where it will hang free and drip into a large earthen bowl. Do not wring the bag in the least with the hands, but press against the sides occasionally with two wooden ladles. Too much economy in this direction is sure to result in cloudy, firm, inferior flavored jelly. Allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar for every pint of juice. Place the sugar in the oven and boil the fruit juice steadily uncovered for 20 minutes. Then add the hot sugar, stir until it is dissolved and boil together two minutes. When filling the molds, strain again through cheesecloth and let the jelly remain uncovered 24 hours. Use paraffin or brandy saturated paper, as for jam, and keep in a cool, dry place.

Writing About an Intimate Friend.

Anne Thackeray Ritchie's chapter in Macmillan on Fanny Kemble is, with the exception of Henry James' recent sketch, the only really adequate notice of that remarkable woman published since her death. Mrs. Ritchie, who knew her well, says that the most distinguishing stamp of Mrs. Kemble's character "was her great and fervent piety. Her convictions were very deep. What she said of her own religious faith was that it was 'invincible, unreasoning.' I have heard a friend describe how, as they came along the mountain pass from Rosiani, Mrs. Kemble made her bearers set her down at the summit of the ascent. 'I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills,' she said, breaking out into the words of the psalm and repeating verse after verse. She used to go regularly to church when she was in London, though I do not think any of the steeples and pulpits which adorn South Kensington exactly suited the deep and fervent spirit of her faith. She was neither high church nor low church nor broad church."

Where Woman Is a Power.

At the Columbian fair half the clerical and other writing work has been done by women. Half the exhibits are managed by women or consist of women. The clerkships are mostly filled by women, and there are 25,000 stenographers, typewriters and press women. Women have put the finishing touches on the buildings in frescoes and statuary and suggested the comfortable seats, resting rooms, nurseries for children and other essentials for the comfort of sightseers. One woman has a mending booth, where she sews on buttons and repairs rents and rips. Another woman has a collection of simple remedies for minor ills to relieve the suffering. Still another keeps an "information booth," and she will tell you where to find a cheap luncheon or check your satchel while you eat it. And all along the line between the most pretentious and most simply feminine extremes, woman's work and suggestion and influence are everywhere. In 1492 a woman sent Columbus to discover a continent wherein, 400 years later, woman should discover herself.—Woman's Journal.

Return of the White Stocking.

The fiat has gone forth in England calling the white stocking back into vogue. England is always and forever making a mess, and when it comes to fashions in feminine apparel England is particularly unfelicitous. Our pretty, tasteful fashions all come from Paris.

White stockings have never gone out in Germany. Tabooed elsewhere, they have continued in favor with the average Teuton frau. And in England the older ladies have continued to wear white cotton hosiery. It is well known, we think, that Mrs. Gladstone has never incased her nether limbs in any but white cotton stockings.

But the white stocking is a horror—an offense unmitigated and not to be palliated. Let England decree or do what she pleases, she cannot win or drive us back to the ridiculous old heresy—the absurd abomination of white hosiery.

The one article of feminine dress in which man's taste is properly deemed infallible is the hosiery, and in America mankind is a unit against the white stocking.—Chicago Record.

High School Graduate Harnesses a Horse.

Here's one in favor of the American girl: Fourth of July morning two stalwart young men borrowed a team and went down to Mount Tom to fish in the Old Bed, leaving their team hitched in a farmer's shed. The family arose early, found the team and concluded that some young vandals had taken it from its owner, and getting all the ride they wanted had left it there. So the farmer unhitched the horse, fed him and then went to the fields. By and by the fishermen came back, found the horse all right, and then ensued a serious struggle with the harness problem. Whether the tugs were the reins or the back strap went around the front, and where in the world the holdbacks went, they could not decide, and an alarming complication was in progress when they gave it up and called for help, which was promptly rendered by one of the farmer's able young daughters, and a high school graduate at that, while the young men stood by and looked on admiringly at both work and worker.—Easthampton (Mass.) News.

Miss Morris Won the Wager.

Mrs. Richard Irvin, the classic featured dame who keeps all society guessing as to what she will do next, has departed for Narragansett Pier with her charming niece, Miss Lulu Morris. Miss Morris was not always the tall, slender, graceful maiden she is now. Just about three years ago she was passing through the awkward age of girlhood, where freckles and forwardness constitute the omnipresent features.

It was during that period that her parents took her to Bar Harbor, Me. During a boating expedition at that resort there came up the subject of wading. A bet was made between herself and a diplomat as to which could wade the farthest, and out they jumped into the water, being near the shore, to prove their [illegible]. To this day the natives of Bar Harbor talk of the society maid who ran through the village with her beautiful clothes hanging in wet strips around her. But Miss Morris won the bet.—New York Letter.

A Child's Nap In Summer Time.

Children who are allowed or rather encouraged to take a nap in the daytime during the warm weather will not only sleep just as well at night, but they will sleep much better because of it. Children who have been accustomed to it, when for some special reason it is necessary to miss it, become overtired, their nerves are overtaxed, and it is sometimes quite a trial of patience to get them quieted for the night. The little ones need plenty of sleep and if well will not sleep any more than is good for them. Therefore I say let them sleep all that they will or can, and if your boy will take a nap during the day until he is 5 or 6 years of age he will not be any the worse for it. Rather, in my way of thinking, he will be a great deal better for it and so will the mother—that is, if he is as active and noisy as the average wee laddie.—New York Telegram.

Jolly English Girls Give a Party.

The freedom and gayety enjoyed by the average American girl are quite unknown to her English cousin. The latter, until she has a home of her own, is rarely allowed to give any festivity on her own account. Three English girls, however, recently took advantage of the absence of the rest of the family to have an afternoon party of their girl friends. The invitations had a picture of a lady in semi-evening dress—that is, with elbow sleeves and bodice cut half low in the neck. In one corner of the card was "Tea and chatter" and in the other the notice, "In consequence of the extreme heat ladies are requested to come in semi-evening dress." The innovation was such a success that the company voted to revive the fashions of their grandmothers, who always wore sleeveless and low necked frocks in summer.—London Letter.

A Leader of Kansas Women.

Mrs. Laura M. Johns, president of the Kansas Equal Suffrage association, is an indefatigable little woman, filled with the one idea of suffrage, to which she directs all her energies. She is shrewd, knowing what so few women seem to know—when to broach her peculiar ideas. Her work has been in this line so long that she has become imbued with the belief that, given suffrage, the world would at once become a paradise from which all evil would be banished.

While not a "man hater," Mrs. Johns does not seem to be particularly in love with the sex from which she expects the concession of her desired rights. The mythical thing of "rights" has become with her a reality, the attainment of which is her only object in life. Given these rights she would reform man.—Topeka Letter.

A Rose Jar.

How to make a rose jar the incense bearer it should be, instead of the sad disappointment it generally proves, may be of interest to my readers. The chief secret of success in the preparation of a jar of this kind lies in having the rose petals perfectly dry before placing them in the jar. If the slightest moisture is [illegible] certain to mold. After carefully drying them sprinkle a little salt on each layer as it is arranged in the jar, and every 10 days add a teaspoonful of alcohol. Keep the jar tightly closed until it is well filled with the petals, and then when it is desired to perfume a room remove the cover and allow the aroma to escape.—Housekeeper.

Hundreds of Miles on a Bicycle.

Probably one of the first lady bicyclists to ride from Hartford to Boston awheel and alone passed through the city this week. She is a good rider and withal a mighty plucky maiden. She started out knowing nothing of the roads over which she was to pass, trusting to guideboards and kindly farmers to give her directions. Tuesday night she started for Three Rivers about 7 o'clock, reaching her destination at 9. The following afternoon she started from Three Rivers for Worcester, where she arrived early in the evening. This lady bicyclist rides a 51 pound machine, but has thus far suffered no inconvenience from her long jaunts.—Springfield (Mass.) Homestead.

Novelties For Bridesmaids.

One of the newest ideas for carrying flowers for bridesmaids is the green wickerwork watering pots, filled with lilies of the valley or any other bloom suitable to the dresses. They have this advantage—that they are so placed that they appear as if they were growing, and the handles of the watering pots are tied with colored ribbons. This is even prettier than the high heeled shoes filled with flowers which used to be slung from the arm. Other novelties are ribbon chatelaines, with small bouquets hanging from the ends of ribbons and bracelets of flowers to correspond.

Books by Massachusetts Women.

Mrs. Potter Palmer would be glad to receive for the library in the Woman's building at the exposition a copy of every book written by a Massachusetts woman. But 100 have been sent out of the 3,000 that should have been. The books can be sent by mail to the librarian, Woman's building. The sender should send her address and a statement as to whether she would like the books returned. The library is to be a permanent one, and nearly all of the states have promised to donate their books to it.—Boston Commonwealth.

English Women and Mathematics.

When Philippa Fawcett came out at the head of the wrangler's list three years ago, the university authorities smiled in a dazed sort of a way and hinted that it was an accident. But this year no fewer than 10 women have passed the Cambridge mathematical tripos examinations, two of them having attained the rank of wrangler. However, they cannot label themselves as such. Examined only as a favor, they cannot take the degrees which their intellect and industry have won.—New York Sun.

A Lettuce Bed In Midsummer.

Many people fail to have crisp, tender lettuce in the hot, dry weather of midsummer, but it may be raised under proper conditions then as well as any time. Sow seed in any shaded location, provide a deep, rich soil and cultivate often, giving plenty of water at evening. It should grow quickly and luxuriantly and is quite as nice in August as in the spring. The same is true of many other spring vegetables.—Mildred Thorne.

A Maine Woman In Jaffa Awaiting Christ's Second Coming.

An interesting story came to the surface at Friday's midweek meeting at the old Stone church. The Hon. George H. Ely related an incident of woman's faith that came under his notice during a recent trip through the Holy Land. In company with four or five tourists, Mr. Ely was seated on a piazza of a hotel in Jaffa when his attention was attracted to half a dozen boys playing in the street below. All but one of the boys had swarthy complexions characteristic of the country, and the one exception was light complexioned, with perfect Caucasian features.

"That boy," said one of the gentlemen, "looks to me as though he belonged to the streets of New York instead of Jaffa." Their interest in the little fellow was aroused to such an extent that they went down to inquire, and to their surprise he spoke a little English. He said he lived with his mother a short distance up the street, and the party, including Mr. Ely, walked up street and entered the woman's house, which proved to be a hovel of the worst kind. They addressed her in English, and she was beside herself with joy to hear her native tongue spoken, and to their utter astonishment she told them that her home is in Maine.

"Maine, my good woman! What in the world are you doing here?" asked one of the party.

The woman then explained that many years since a number of men and women in the Maine village she came from were carried away with the idea that the second coming of Christ was near at hand, and that when he does come he will first appear in Palestine. A colony scraped up all their savings of years, and with their families they emigrated to Jaffa to be on hand when Jesus appears.

"Do they all live here?" was asked.

"They did," she replied, "but some of them, discouraged and tired of waiting, went back to America, the rest died, and I am here all alone with my boy."

"And how do you support yourself?"

"By washing for strangers, and I have a hard time doing it. Some weeks all I can do is to keep from starvation."

One of the men told the woman that Jaffa was no place for her and advised her to go back to America with her boy, give him a good American education and bring him up as an American citizen, but the woman simply smiled at the suggestion.

Returning to the hotel, the gentlemen, all of whom were well to do, figured out the cost of sending the woman and her boy back to her native village in Maine, made up a purse and threw in enough for incidental expenses and spending money. This done, they offered her the money—and a good round sum it was—but she absolutely refused to touch a penny of it.

"This is quite a temptation," she said, "but I came here to await the second coming of Christ, and I intend to remain here until [illegible], unless I die first."

That was her ultimatum, and no amount of argument could [illegible] her from her purpose.—Cleveland World.

A Woven Corset Cover.

A new corset cover is woven and jersey fitting, thus helping materially in the smooth setting of the outer frock. This is as important nowadays as when the tailor made gown was the only wear, although amateur dressmakers are prone to forget the fact.

Another prolific source of women's summer colds is housecleaning. The unusual exercise for a woman bent on cleaning house knows no discretion of effort, induces perspiring warmth, and even a warm breeze is too cooling by contrast.

White skirts have come again. There is nothing so charming as a laced underskirt. It is the real ideal for a woman. A white skirted woman will marry sooner than a woman with a dark colored skirt.

The straw sailor hat of 1893 cannot by any process of reasoning be called dressy, but it is without doubt neat, natty and practical. It is seen everywhere.

[illegible] bath is being [illegible] the watering places, and [illegible] given to the invigorating or [illegible] effects of the bath if there [illegible] company and it is pleasure [illegible] who bathe for pleasure in [illegible] many skins by tarrying in [illegible] too long, and those who bathe [illegible] ordinary purposes frequently [illegible] long in the water and do not [illegible] benefit.

[illegible] writing upon this subject for [illegible] number of Worthington's [illegible] says: "Sea-bathing is a more [illegible] tonic than the ordinary cold [illegible]. The stimulation of the cutaneous [illegible] by the dissolved salt, the [illegible] and cooler currents of air, the [illegible] the waves upon the body, and [illegible] effect of the unusual surroundings [illegible] to improve the system very [illegible]. While such conditions may be [illegible] in effect upon one who is [illegible] to them, they are highly [illegible] stimulating to him who is [illegible] enough to make sea-bathing safe." [illegible] first ordinary results the doctor [illegible] the plunge, which is followed [illegible] of exhilaration, on account [illegible] stimulated action and the [illegible] of the body heat, a reaction [illegible] sought for in the therapeutic use [illegible] bath. Two or three plunges [illegible] all the good that can be [illegible].

[illegible] bath, he claims, should not be taken [illegible] any emotional excitement or when [illegible] fatigued; and that convalescents [illegible] should use much discretion in seeking [illegible] for a renewal of strength. [illegible] should be taken that the body is [illegible] the bath, the bather should [illegible] covered with water, and remain [illegible] than is required to produce [illegible] effect.

[illegible] LOSSES WILL BE LIGHT.

[illegible] Jeremiah Olney, school fund [illegible], has gone to Lima, Ohio, to [illegible] the condition of Agent Gunn's [illegible]. He writes The Courant: "I soon [illegible] that the facts had been greatly exaggerated [illegible] and wired Assistant Clerk [illegible] at the school fund office in substance [illegible] the losses would be light.

"[illegible] Clark Spencer, with legal and [illegible] assistance, had been making careful [illegible], so the conclusions given [illegible] you briefly were reliable. Apparently [illegible] crooked transactions in the execution [illegible] of papers in three or four cases [illegible] involve some loss, but the aggregate [illegible] very small in comparison with the lowest [illegible] statements of the past week. [illegible] had collected about $2,100 of July [illegible]. All prior interest collected by [illegible] had been paid to the department [illegible] due. Have found and attached, it [illegible] sufficient property to cover the [illegible] of interest collections and to [illegible] reduce any loss accruing from his [illegible].

"[illegible] has never been a general agent for school fund investments or otherwise, [illegible] specifically, when he would have [illegible] to show his authority to act; nor [illegible] money ever been placed in his hands [illegible] investment except upon the written [illegible] of the borrower after the necessary papers were executed and completed and mortgage lodged for record, evidenced by certificate of the recorder and other [illegible] forwarded to the school fund department. He was in all cases the agent only of the borrower.

"Investigations will be continued by Mr. Spencer and assistants to the end, but from the general character of the remaining mortgages and securities and the prompt payments thereon we have full confidence in their sound condition.

"Not one of the various published reports as to the school fund or otherwise have emanated from Mr. Spencer or with his sanction in regard to Gunn's liabilities or defalcations during the examination of these matters."

These assuring words from Mr. Olney will be received with confidence by the people. It is a gratifying fact to know that Gunn's opportunities were limited, and that there is no occasion for alarm about the impairment of the fund.

PENSIONERS' RIGHTS.

The policy of the pension department under the present administration is to [illegible] the pensioners [illegible] their rights [illegible] the facts of [illegible] charging every pensioner with fraud whom they suspend, they challenge him to prove that he is not guilty. The last case to command the attention of the mugwump press and to call forth their endorsement, is that of Justice Charles Dean Long of the supreme court of Michigan, who has been drawing a pension of $72 a month for several years. Judge Long was wounded in the left hip, and also lost his left arm above the elbow, and has been something of a sufferer from both injuries. He has always been able to practice his profession, and has served as judge for some time at a salary of $7,000 a year, and has been physically able to perform the duties of that position.

It will probably be found that Justice Long is a republican. It seems strange that Commissioner Lochren should have gone to Michigan to have discovered a case like this while Secretary of State Gresham of his own party is, in addition to his salary of $8,000, drawing a pension of $30 a month.

The right of every pensioner to be on the list in Washington has been already proven by evidence on file; and as the law provides a fixed pension for the loss of a limb and for wounds of different kinds, the absent arm or leg, and the honorable scars entitle them to those pensions, whatever their wealth or physical condition, as much as the law entitles a congressman to his salary. To say that Justice Long is a swindler is a lie worthy of a partisan of the democratic stripe. The American people will not applaud wrong-doing, whatever they may think of high-salaried and wealthy and well-to-do men who draw small pensions from the treasury of the government.

Few people would be willing to take Justice Long's crippled and impaired condition upon themselves for the money he is receiving from the government.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The trolley promises to emancipate the mule and tow-boy from canal service.

The populists of the west are getting to be as unpopular a party as has ever come to the front in this country.

The mugwump papers are favoring Gresham for the democratic nomination for the presidency in 1896. He has been picked out too early to win.

The American soldiers will soon be carrying aluminum canteens. They are lighter than canteens at present carried, and will keep the water cooler.

The silver men do hate to come down to the market price for bullion. The treasury has not purchased a third of the July requirement yet, and refuses to do so unless seventy cents an ounce is accepted.

Nearly a hundred years ago a New York paper offered a hundred dollars reward for a recipe that would enable a person to hold his hands in melted lead without injury. The reward has not been taken yet.

Arctic tramps are getting to be too common. Another man has come to the fore looking for $10,000 to enable him to loaf around on the polar ice and study the geography of the country for the benefit of future explorers.

The biggest diamond, as well as the oldest Mason, comes up now and then for comment. The greatest diamond now known has been found in South Africa and weighs 970 carats, which is nearly as large as the "Kohinoor" is alleged to have been before it was cut.

A straw hat has been invented to protect the heads of working horses from the heat at midsummer. The summer-horse wearing a straw hat promises to be as common a sight in the future as the summer girl now is with a scarlet parasol.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

The Billion Dollar Phase.

That "billion dollar" phase has a new and startling significance now. Four months of democratic incompetence has made the country a billion dollars the loser.—[Springfield Republican.

What Is Repealed.

In making up the democratic party's record it may be convenient to record that its first act after coming into office was unconditionally to repeal the country's commercial confidence.—[Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Reminder.

The failure of 200 national banks since January 1, against the failure of fifty for the same period last year, is another reminder that the change which the country voted for last year has arrived on schedule time.—[New York Press.

A Western Way.

A Cincinnati woman who was notified that her bank account was overdrawn $100 immediately sat down and wrote a check for $100 on the same bank to make her account good. Here is a timely hint for Secretary Carlisle.—[New York Press.

Will He Do It?

Seventy thousand citizens of Chicago have petitioned Mayor Harrison to enforce the laws and close the saloons on Sundays. But Carter Harrison was elected on the "wide open" issue and no 70,000 Sabbatarians will move him to offend his supporters.—[Springfield Union.

The New Boards.

The reconstruction of the pension examining boards out of solely democratic material goes steadily forward, and it will not be long before the thousands of veterans suspended on suspicion will confront boards solidly hostile when they attempt to get back their pittances and rehabilitate their characters.—[Boston Journal.

NEW MAGAZINES.

Lippincott's for August has for an opening story "In the Midst of Alarms," by Robert Barr. The illustrated paper for the month is: "Zachary Taylor, [illegible]" [illegible] "The Lady of the Lake." The poems are: "Freedom," "The Dream Ship," and "Mortality."—[J. B. Lippincott Co., publishers, Philadelphia.

Godey's Magazine for August has water color portraits of Mrs Horatio O. Stone and Mrs. Archibald Valentine of Chicago. The complete story is "A Problem Unsolved," illustrated, by Durand. The table of contents consists of "The Flower Markets of Paris," "Music at the Columbian Exposition," "Fidelia," a short story, "Flower Talks," "Review of Books," "Illustrated Fashions." Poems and an illustrated song with music entitled "The Serenade."—[Godey Publishing Co., 21 Park Row, New York.

Worthington's Illustrated Magazine for August is a superb number. The table of contents contains: "Random Notes on Hawaiian Life," "First Love," "In Ole Virginny Fifty Years Ago," "Mental Characteristics of the Japanese," "Reminiscences of an Army Bride," "By the Sad Sea Waves," a comedy. Poems: "A Summer Cloud," "An August Eve," "Behind My Vines," "The Wild Sun-Flower." The departments are filled with interesting matter.—[A. D. Worthington & Co., publishers, Hartford.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pill may well be termed "Perfection."

Surrounded by Mystery!

A GREAT MISTAKE.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine

is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

DAYS GONE BY.

O the days gone by! Oh, the days gone by!
The apple in the orchard, and the pathway through the rye;
The chirrup of the robin, and the whistle of the quail
As he piped across the meadows sweet as any nightingale;
When the bloom was on the clover, and the blue was in the sky,
And my happy heart brimmed over, in the days gone by.

In the days gone by, when my naked feet were tripped
By the honeysuckle's tangles, where the water lilies dipped,
And the ripple of the river lipped the moss along the brink,
Where the placid eyed and lazy footed cattle came to drink,
And the tilting snipe stood fearless of the truant's wayward cry,
And the splashing of the swimmer, in the days gone by.

Oh, the days gone by! Oh, the days gone by!
The music of the laughing lip, the luster of the eye;
The childish faith in fairies, and Aladdin's magic ring,
The simple, soul reposing, glad belief in everything,
When life was like a story, holding neither sob nor sigh,
In the olden, golden glory of the days gone by.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Doubtful Signboard.

Owner of Fishpond (to man who is trespassing)—Don't you see that sign, "No Fishing Here?"

Angler (with an injured air)—Yes, and I dispute it. Why, there's good fishing here. Look at this basketful. The man must have been mad who put that board up.—Exchange.

She Got There.

The maiden her best talents used
And hours in writing spent,
But all the editors refused
The pieces that she sent.

One day the maiden went to town,
Where shopping women go
And bought herself a handsome gown
Of figured calico.

And as before the mirror she
Admiring glances cast,
Upon herself she said, "I see Myself in print at last."

Explaining It.

Lady Vere—Oh, you will take me down to supper, won't you, Mr. Blinks?

(Delight of Mr. Blinks.)

Blinks—But pray tell me, Lady Vere, why I am so honored.

Lady Vere—Well, you are the only man my husband isn't likely to be jealous of.—Tit-Bits.

THE STOCK [illegible].

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 24.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 3 to 4 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market opened weak and irregular. London came considerably stronger for two or three specialties and was a moderate buyer, but the situation here is somewhat disturbed pending the fortnightly settlements, which begin on Wednesday. Nothing serious is anticipated by the conservative operators. One failure has already been announced, that of Sutton & Co., an old house formerly doing a large commission business, but lately of no great importance. As a result the orders from London did not have the bracing effect on quotations here that might have been expected, especially as the short interest had been greatly reduced.

The report of the Boston national banks in response to the call of the comptroller for their condition at the close of business July 12 is made public and, considering the general strain to which institutions have been subjected, is very satisfactory. The amount of reserve held averages nearly 25 per cent.

The local market opened with a downward tendency in the active stocks on the list. Atchison started off ¼ weaker at 17[illegible] and weakened to [illegible], with a subsequent recovery to 17. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy opened [illegible] down at [illegible] and declined to [illegible]. Pullman declined 1 to [illegible], while New York and New England opened [illegible] up at 22, losing ¼ subsequently. Sugar started off at [illegible], ½ down, while the preferred weakened ½ to [illegible], advancing to [illegible] on further sales. Bell telephone at 173 was down 1, and West End railway at [illegible] was down ½.

VICTORIA'S LOSS.

Said to Have Been Caused by an Irish Plot.

SWORN BROTHERS ON EACH SHIP.

Admiral Tryon a Victim of His Country's Sins.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Morning Advertiser prints what it alleges is a copy of the confidential circular letter distributed by the leaders of the Irish revolutionary party in America among its friends, felicitating them upon the destruction of the British warship Victoria, and claiming that the supposed accident was the result of a deep laid plot on the part of the physical force party in Ireland, which contemplates the destruction, if possible, of the whole British navy and the infliction of dire injury on England in every quarter of the globe where her flag flies. The following are the quotations from the alleged letter:

"Admiral Tryon is not guilty for the loss of the Victoria. He is the victim of the sins of his country. The maneuver which he proposed the fleet should perform would have been successfully carried out had our brave brothers in England's service not been equal to the opportunity offered them and given themselves a willing sacrifice.

For the Cause of Ireland.

For the better protection of the interests we have at heart we will not announce whether any of our brothers who were on board the Victoria escaped death in the waters of the Mediterranean.

"It is sufficient for you, for the present, to know that a noble deed has been done, and that Ireland still has sons for whom death has no terrors when their lives are asked for her sake. The spirit of Tone and of Emmet still lives, and the fight must be carried on until England hauls down her flag in Ireland.

"We have sworn brothers [illegible] every English warship. We have them in the English regiments at home and abroad, and wherever the English flag floats there also may our men be found. We are now in a position which we never before attained for striking England in every corner of the globe. Henceforward, brothers, the fight must go on unceasingly, no opportunity must be lost in striking England, nor must we hesitate to use against her whatever science and inventive genius may place in our hands.

OLDEST PERSON DEAD.

Bridget Mullen Passes Away Aged One Hundred and Seven.

LOWELL, Mass., July 24.—Mrs. Bridget Mullen of Collinsville died this morning at 107 years of age. The body will be taken to Amesbury for burial.

Mrs. Mullen was the oldest person living hereabouts. She was born in the town of Cloveam, parish of Dunmore, county Galway, Ire., and comes of a very rugged and hardy race, and of a family noted for longevity, two sisters having lived to be 90 years of age. Mrs. Mullen could speak very little English. Her memory was good to the last, and she could recall the failure of the crops in the years following the passing of the act of union under Lord Castlereagh, the insurrection of 1798, the French armament destined for the liberation of Ireland, which looked in on Bantry Bay and also Wolfe Tone's efforts in France and Holland in behalf of his native country.

Mrs. Mullen has been the mother of seven children, five sons and two daughters, and was the seventh daughter herself, her own mother having given birth to seven children. Four of her own children died before she came to this country in 1854. Her first place of abode in the New World was in Amesbury. Her husband lived there until his death in 1860, and the family until six years ago, when they moved to Collinsville.

Of the children who are living, Bridget Mullen Maloney lives west of the Ohio river. Patrick resides in Hyde Park, and the other, Michael, makes his home in Collinsville. In all her long life she was never much affected with illness. Her only ailment was a weakness of the eyes, which confined her to the house.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Fred Davis Locked Up For Robbing John Kehoe of $12.

DOVER, N. H., July 24.—This morning Officers Stevens and Wilkinson arrested Fred Davis, who is charged with highway robbery.

Last Friday night Davis and a companion, who has not yet been arrested, met John Kehoe near the city farm, and, as charged, held him up, and after knocking him down, relieved him of what money he had, about $12.

Davis was arraigned before Judge Frost, and his case was continued until tomorrow, he being held in $500 bonds. Davis bears a bad record, and has been before the court on many occasions.

ORGANIZED HOSTILITY.

Ex-Commander-In-Chief Palmer Talks of Veterans' Pensions.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Speaking of the suspension of pensions, ex-Commander-in-Chief Palmer of the Grand Army, who is in this city, says:

"It looks like organized administrative hostility to the old veterans. I have always said that if a man were on the pension rolls fraudulently he should be summarily cut off, but I believe that there have been gross exaggerations of the number of people who were drawing pensions they were not fairly entitled to.

"I notice in the papers the case of Judge Long of the Michigan supreme court. Well, it seems that in the generosity of his heart, Jim Tanner, while commissioner of pensions, [illegible] the judge's case without application on the latter's part. Doubtless Tanner went a step too far, but, after all, the outside world is not often able to fairly judge of the merits of a particular case. I know a man who had to go abroad four times for treatment of injuries received in the service of his country. His expenses amounted to a good many thousands. Besides that, at the close of the war he had three dependent families left on his hands. That man did not apply for a pension for many years, but when one was granted him he was severely criticised for accepting it."

SULLIVAN KNOCKED OUT.

Not John L. but Jerry, Another Well Known Boston Slugger.

EASTPORT, Me., July 24.—At an early hour this morning the long-expected prize fight between Harry Gardner, champion middle weight of New Hampshire, and Jerry Sullivan, a noted boxer of Boston, took place at Campobello, on the spot made locally historic by the Kelly-Tilmany fight, which occurred there 20 years ago. The fight was under Queensbury rules and lasted barely 10 minutes. Sullivan was knocked out in the third round.

The fight was for $200 a side and gate receipts. Nearly 400 sports from Eastport, Calais, Lubec and Campobello were in attendance. Warren Parker and Mike Barry were seconds for Gardner, and Duke Webber and Billy Carr for Sullivan. Jack [illegible] of Ohio was referee and Fred Gil[illegible] and Captain Alex [illegible] timekeepers. Four-ounce gloves were used.

STRUCK BY THE SQUALL.

Unknown Catboat, Three Women and Two Men Go Down.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., July 24.—Word has just been received from Falmouth that a large catboat was struck by a squall late yesterday afternoon while sailing off the Highlands at that place, capsizing and sinking immediately.

On board the yacht were supposed to be three women and two men. The boat was seen from the mainland but the name could not be ascertained. It was a large, black painted yacht, bound down the bay.

After the squall was over a number of boats went to the place where the boat was seen to go down, but no signs of the yacht or the unfortunate occupants could be found.

HEARTLESS MOTHER.

Buries Her Child and Sits on the Grave to Prevent Its Struggle.

PARIS, July 24.—A horrible story of maternal cruelty comes from St. Firmen-des Bois. A domestic servant, Francoise Crois, aged 24, had a child, which her employer would not allow her to keep in the house. She took the child to a secluded part of a forest near by, dug a hole and buried the child.

As the mother was going away she noticed that the child had struggled and had moved the earth. She accordingly returned and sat down on the grave until the child was dead. Later its body was discovered, a dog having dug it up. She was arrested and confessed everything.

Pigeons Have Not Arrived.

LYNN, Mass., July 24.—The carrier pigeons released at the World's fair, Chicago, Thursday forenoon, have not yet arrived in this city. There were seven of them, and they were owned by the Lynn Homing club members, and they are now overdue. It was expected that some of the birds would finish the fly Saturday, but not one of them arrived at the loft up to 11 o'clock this morning. These birds have a record of covering over 500 miles.

Bullet Still In His Lung.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 24.—Abraham Mills, the victim of last week's sensational shooting, is still at the general hospital, and though much improved, his condition is not wholly reassuring. The bullet is still in his lung, and the physicians have determined not to probe for it just yet. Giles J. A. Hall, who shot Mills, is out on bail. He persists in his claim that when he shot Mills he mistook him for a burglar.

No Tidings of Olmstead.

NORWALK, Conn., July 24.—No tidings have been obtained of William A. Olmstead of Wilton, who left for New York on June 20 to hire some farm hands. Diligent search has been made, and is still being made, but no trace of the missing man has been found. Mr. Olmstead is 63 years of age, of medium height and weighs about 150 pounds.

Desired to Earn Her Own Living.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 24.—Addie Lyon, the 16-year-old girl, who has been missing from Merrimac for some weeks, is at home again. When she left Merrimac she went to Boston and found work in a family there, with which she went to Old Orchard, Me. Her only fault has been a desire to earn her own living.

Hard Fighting in Nicaragua.

PANAMA, July 24.—News has just been received here showing that hard fighting has been in progress near Matagalpa, Nicaragua, between the Leon revolutionists and the government troops. Five thousand men were engaged in the battle, the result of which is not known here.

RYAN'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Kicked by a Horse and Severely Burned as He Lay Insensible.

WOBURN, Mass., July 24.—Thomas F. Ryan is suffering from the effects of burns and the kicking of a horse. He went to his stable Saturday night, carrying a lantern. The latter was knocked out of his hand and into the straw bedding, setting it on fire.

Mr. Ryan stooped to extinguish the flame, when the horse kicked him in the face, making a bad wound. He lay insensible and the fire gained headway.

Hugh D. Murray saw the light of the fire from his chamber window and hastened to the scene. He arrived none too soon, for another second of delay would have put the fire beyond control.

Ryan was pulled out of further danger, but not until he had been considerably injured.

Ainsworth Indicted.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The grand jury this afternoon found a true bill against Colonel Frederick C. Ainsworth, George W. Dant, the contractor employed to make the excavation for the electric plant; William E. Covert, superintendent and Francis Sasse, engineer of the building, holding them responsible for the old Ford's theater disaster of June 9 last, in which 22 persons lost their lives and a large number of others were injured.

Old Railroad Man Dead.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 24.—Calvin Wheelock, operator of switch tower 20 on the Boston and Albany railroad here, died at his home, 8 Evergreen street, this morning at the age of 71. Mr. Wheelock was a veteran of the late war and a member of post 163, Grand Army. For more than 40 years he was a railroad man. It was not until his health began to fail from pulmonary troubles that he relinquished his duties.

Hanged Himself In a Cell.

HOLYOKE, Mass., July 24.—David Brown, aged 62, a veteran of the civil war, hanged himself with a pair of suspenders at the police station shortly before 1 o'clock this morning. Brown tied his suspenders to the bars at the top of the cell, stood on the bench and leaped over so that the weight of his body came on his neck. He had been an inmate of the soldiers' home in [illegible].

Dover's Morning Blaze.

DOVER, N. H., July 24.—A fire was discovered in Central hall, on Central avenue, this morning, but it was extinguished before it had gained much headway. The building was owned by John Holland, who estimates his loss at $300. The stock in the boot and shoe store of John Cunningham, underneath, was damaged to the extent of $1000; fully insured.

Old Resident Dead.

SCITUATE, Mass., July 24.—Enoch Gardner, an old resident of this town, was stricken with apoplexy Sunday and died this morning. Mr. Gardner was well known throughout this vicinity and highly respected. He was 71 years of age and leaves a wife and five children.

To the Holy Land

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 24.—Next Sunday Rev. C. R. Gale will end his pastorate of the Calvinistic Congregational church by resignation. Mr. Gale will go to the Holy Land in the fall for study and personal research.

The Fall Killed Him.

PORTLAND, Me., July 24.—Dennis Judge, aged 26 years, died this morning from the effects of a fracture of the skull received by a fall into the hold of the coal barge Lykens Valley yesterday.

PREHISTORIC CITY.

Ruins Discovered by Party of Mining Experts.

LOCATED IN COLORADO DESERT.

Wind Had Laid Bare Walls and Remains of Stone Buildings.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 24.—The ruins of a prehistoric city were recently discovered by a party of prospectors from Yuma when on the Colorado desert in search of the Pegleg mine.

The wind had laid bare the walls and the remains of stone buildings. For a distance of 450 feet by 200 feet in width gigantic pillars, quaintly carved to represent dragons' heads and rattlesnakes, still stood in the sand of the desert, supporting on their tops huge slabs of granite weighing many tons.

The frieze ornamentation resembled Egyptian sculpture, and exhibited a greater degree of skill than is possessed by the Indian artisans of the present day. Fragments of pottery were found underneath the debris, and together with crumbled pieces of the frieze, were brought by one of the prospectors to this city.

Prospector Ferguson called the matter to the attention of H. C. Jordon, who interested John F. Gay, Jr., a wealthy man of this city, in the discovery, and a week ago yesterday, in company with four others, they went to the desert to explore the ruins. They were driven back by a sand storm, reaching this city yesterday, but will make a careful examination of the ruins in a season when the conditions are favorable for extended exploration.

From the relics exhibited, it is evident an important archaeological discovery has been made.

STUDYING THUNDER STORMS.

Most of Those In New England Come From Outside the District.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—A study of thunder storms was made during the summer of 1892 by the weather bureau to determine the feasibility of making thunder storm forecasts. A bulletin based on the data compiled from a large number of reports says that while there is no infallible rule laid down for forecasting thunder storms from the daily weather chart, yet certain conditions indicate the development of a thunder storm belt which generally follows during the succeeding 24 hours.

Robert de C. Ward of Harvard made the report of the investigation of thunder storms in New England. He says the thunder storms in New England had their origin outside the district and came to it ready made from the west. They were mostly large disturbances, covering a wide area, in several cases 300 or 500 miles, and moved in a systematic way in an easterly direction.

FRENCH MANUFACTURER

Inspects New England Mills and Talks About McKinley Tariff.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Among the World's fair visitors who stop in Washington on their way west is A. Badin, the largest spinner of cotton flax and jute in France. He is the owner of three large factories, besides being the president of a French and an English company engaged in the same business. He has just been to Boston, Fall River and Lowell to compare the methods of spinning in vogue there with those of his country. Mr. Badin gives his testimony to the fact that the McKinley bill has injured European manufacturers. He says: "So far as French fabrics are concerned there is about as large demand for them now in America as there was before the McKinley bill was passed but that bill has been disastrous to the British manufacturers. If it should remain a few 10 years it would mean ruin to many of them.

"There are two things I would like to see, the McKinley bill repealed and an advance in the price of cotton, I mean the raw material. At present most of our supply of that product comes from the United States. But every year the amount imported from Egypt increases, and it is better even than the cotton raised in this country. The India cotton is not so good."

Mr. Badin was greatly interested in the machinery in the mills at Lowell and Fall River.

WAGES REDUCED.

Depressed Iron Market Made the Action Inevitable.

ISHPEMING, Mich., July 24.—The depressed iron market has caused many mines to reduce the output fully one-half, and a general reduction in wages has been decided on through the five iron ranges of the Lake Superior districts.

A general reduction of 10 per cent was made by the mines, but at most properties day laborers will have only a light cut, while skilled laborers will be reduced 10 to 25 per cent. The mine employes make no objection to the cut, considering it inevitable.

Prince Antoine, husband of Princess Eulalie, is a prince of the Bourbon-Orleans line and son of the Duke of Montpensier.

The queen consort of Siam has a lotus shaped thimble of gold studded with diamonds which spell her name and dates of birth and marriage.

Philip VI after his defeat at Crecy, when he applied for shelter at the castle of Blois, did not respond to the sentinel "It is the fortune of France," but "It is I, the unfortunate king of France."

Kaiser Wilhelm is reported to have gone through the Hebrew quarter of Berlin recently in the guise of a Hebrew peddler with a view to obtaining an idea of the condition of the poorer Jews.

The Princess of Wales is very deaf. She uses an ear trumpet in the family, but in public she simply smiles and nods as if she understood. It is very hard to communicate with her at public functions, and she avoids state balls and the like for this reason.

Queen Victoria is said to know the names of all her household servants, although there are a great number of them. She calls them by their Christian names and encourages them to speak freely to her and not stand in awe of her. She is a kind though exacting mistress.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

A micrometer screw having its bearing pivoted to calipers at the end of one of the caliper legs.

A steel or iron box column composed of flanged bars, each riveted by a flange to the web of one of the adjoining bars.

An automatic boiler cleaner in which the water circulates from the boiler into settling vessels and thence back to the boiler.

A machine for making cans, including all the operations of cutting the tin, putting the parts together, seaming, wiring and burnishing.

A roofing plate constructed on the edges with moldings having transverse strengthening ribs adapted to engage with similar moldings on the adjoining plates.

A machine for breaking pig iron, consisting of a reciprocating hammer carrying dies [illegible] stepwise so as to strike the pigs in succession and mechanism for feeding the iron forward.

A tool for removing burrs from the interior of a pipe, consisting of a body provided with a longitudinal cutting edge and clearance space and a series of stop shoulders to bear against the end of the pipe.

THE MOVING WORLD.

A new and important industry is the production of soap from cottonseed oil.

A young English woman has been appointed lecturer on fruit growing before the Derbyshire county council.

The Cockerill works in Belgium boast of a 100 ton hammer, but Krupp's gun works in Essen, Germany, "goes them one better" with one weighing 150 tons. This last hammer is the largest now in use.

NORWICH AND VICINITY

CITY NEWS.

A. O. U. W. meets tonight.

Congressman C. A. Russell was in the city Monday.

Louis H. Ballou of Providence, R. I., with his sister Jessie, are visiting relatives in Greeneville.

Next Sunday the steamer City of Richmond will make an excursion from this city to Block Island.

Miss Belle M. Stanton has returned home from St. Louis, where she has been since early last winter.

Mr. Caro S. Love of New York city is visiting his mother and brother at the residence of Mr. William H. Cardwell.

The first regular council of Sebequanash No. 11, I. O. R. M., will be held this evening at Red Men's hall, 91 Main street, at 8 o'clock.

There will be a meeting of the court of common council tonight to consider the matter of locating the electric street railway poles on the extensions.

Palmer Smith of this city has purchased the steamer Gypsy, which he intends to run daily between this city and New London for the balance of the season.

Miss Clara Harwood, daughter of Mayor Harwood, is at the World's fair. She will spend two months with friends in western New York state before returning.

The Wauregan house barber shop will on and after August 1 be closed at 8 o'clock every evening except Saturday, on that night 11 o'clock will be the hour.

On Thursday evening of this week the Rose of New England Wheel club and their friends will take a moonlight trip on the steamer Block Island. The boat will leave the wharf at 7.30 sharp.

Either East Great Plain soil is naturally adapted to the culture of raspberries or Mr. D. W. Hilven is a connoisseur in the business, for never were berries more large, luscious, juicy and firm of flesh than the box presented to THE BULLETIN.

John List of New London, a reputed deserter from a United States schoolship, is charged with theft of the pocketbook of C. H. Gates of the Bay View House, Niantic, and the stealing of Liveryman Reed's horse and carriage. He is still at liberty.

Rev. Henry A. Adams of New York, who recently created a sensation in the religious world by his retirement from the Episcopal denomination and announcing his intention of becoming a Catholic, is at present a guest at the Fort Griswold house.

Many Norwich friends attended private funeral services over the remains of Major Tibbits at his late home in New London Monday afternoon. Many letters and telegrams of condolence have been received by Major Tibbitts' family, and there have been many callers to express sympathy. This morning at 10 o'clock a solemn requiem mass will be sung at St. Mary's church.

The New Greeneville Postmaster.

Among the fourth-class postmasters appointed Monday appears the name of James Connors at Greeneville. Mr. Connors is a well-known resident of the village, having been a member of the firm of Connors & Rigney.

No Fire Parade This Year.

At a meeting of Chief Engineer Greeneberg, the four assistant engineers and the foremen of the fire engine companies, it was voted to omit the annual fall parade this year. There is an increasing conviction that a good parade of the department once in two years is often enough.

City Court—Kellogg, Judge.

The continued case against Charles Allen, charged with breach of the peace, was called up in Monday morning's police court. Allen settled by paying the costs of the case, which amounted to $11.44.

Peter Fitzpatrick, for being drunk, contributed $9.58 to the city treasury.

Thomas Barry was convicted of a Sunday drunk, and fined $5 and costs—$11.28, in default of which he was committed.

James Fitzgerald was found guilty of a breach of the peace, and paid $10.48.

A Big Brewery in Groton.

Messrs. Bjerrum and Kessler of New York are looking for a site for a brewery in Groton. They would depend chiefly upon New York for a market, but the proximity to New Haven, Providence, Springfield, Worcester and Hartford is also a strong recommendation. The water, it was thought, would prove excellent. A sample was taken away for analysis.

The probable cost of the brewery would be $200,000. One-half of this Messrs. Bjerrum and Kessler would expect to contribute and secure the rest in Groton. The site considered most desirable is that of the old glass works near the fort, which George D. Whittlesey offers to sell at practically what it cost him. He will take $5,000 worth of stock in the new enterprise.

The Dead Stranger.

Monday Coroner Park received a telegraphic dispatch that the registered letter to David Quinn of Norwich, killed in Preston Friday, was sent by Peter Quinn of Pascoag, R. I. A search has been instituted for the man, but late last night no particulars had been received.

The body of the dead man still rests in Undertaker Allen's rooms. It will probably be buried by the town of Preston this morning, unless news of his identity is forthcoming. Monday afternoon Officer Stanley conducted a colored neighbor of the Sholes' to the remains, and the man thought that he had seen the unfortunate at work on the Sholes farm.

Last night the police of New Britain telephoned to Norwich to inquire whether the dead man's nose was scarred. A negative answer was returned, and the reply was that the man did not then hail from those parts.

An Early Morning Arrest.

At 1 o'clock this morning Officer Ebberts was summoned to a Water street house, where a one-handed stranger, evidently suffering with delirium tremens, had terrified the inmates by his antics. After a sharp tussle, the man was taken out of the building by the policeman and, though resisting stoutly, escorted to the bank building corner. Summoning all his strength, he then threw himself on the ground, and announced his intention of not going another step. Officers Doty and Lewis and Watchman Ashwell came to Mr. Ebberts' relief, and the man was carried by main force to a cell in the lockup.

TIME BY THE FORELOCK.

An Unknown Driver Crosses the Laurel Hill Bridge Safely.

The roadway of the new Laurel Hill bridge was temporarily opened for travel at 12.30 o'clock this morning, when a wild horseman, driving a bay steed attached to a top buggy, successfully accomplished the feat. The horse came up Little Water street on a mad run, and before the bridge watchman could stop his headway, had mounted the grade, knocked down the frail wooden barrier, sped over the bridge, his metal shoes ringing out sharp and clear in the still night air, and jumped the chasm on the Laurel Hill side.

The unknown driver heralded the safe accomplishment of his crazy act with a loud shout, steered clear of the swinging derrick, and dashed out of sight over the hill.

DESCENDANTS RESPECT HIM.

The Monument of the Third Lord of the Isle of Wight to be Repaired.

David Gardiner, at present a guest of the Pequot house, has made application to Mayor Beach of New London for a stone cutter to enter the First burying ground to repair the monument over the grave of John Gardiner, third lord of the Isle of Wight.

Such an act of reverence for the memory of one's ancestors is rare among the American people, who, as a rule, live entirely in the present with a possible eye to a future state, but none at all to the past. The Isle of Wight is the old name for Gardiner's Island.

A SHORTAGE CLAIMED.

A Young Station Agent Arrested While En Route to New York.

Henry W. Lester of Mansfield, N. Y., was arrested by Officer Doty on the south-bound 6.28 Norwich & Worcester train at the Ferry street station Monday evening. Lester has been agent at Sterling on the Providence division of the New England road for several months, and a shortage of between $50 and $100 is charged against him by General Auditor Miller.

He started for New York Monday, but Mr. Miller was on his track and telegraphed ahead for his apprehension. The alleged embezzler is only 20 years old, but his reputation is rather cloudy.

Sheriff Thompson of Central Village will take the prisoner to Sterling for trial this morning.

A BOOM FOR NEW LONDON.

Stonington Steamers Soon to Make Their Headquarters There.

The rumor has been revived that the Consolidated railroad officials are preparing to change the terminus of the Stonington line of sound boats. This is caused by the presence of the officials of the Shore Line division and the Old Colony road in New London.

They have been discussing the advisability of building more tracks about the union passenger station, the location and erection of a new car house and other matters along this line. From one of the officials of the road, however, it was learned that there is no prospect of an immediate change of this site. There is no doubt that it will occur some time. A large amount of water front must be obtained by the road before the terminus could be placed there, but the price now asked by owners is too high for consideration. The changing of the boat landings would greatly improve the service of the road, but it is not probable that the company will decide upon such a change until it be done.

JEWETT CITY'S BLEACHERY.

Rapid Progress on the Aspinook Company's Plant.

The work of the Aspinook company in Jewett City has been pushed with great rapidity during the last few weeks. The first story of the immense machine shop is nearly done; a part of the foundation of another large building is laid; the excavation moves on as fast as between one and two hundred men and a complement of teams can make it.

Both ends of the dam are well started, a long stretch of the east end being nearly done; and this week it is expected, if all things work well, that the bed-timbers will be laid its entire length. The temporary dam is being put in, which will turn the water away from the middle of the river to a sluice left at one end of the dam, and thus give an opportunity for the most important part of the whole work. So far the foundation for the dam has been solid rock and on a recent visit of inspection which the state dam examiner is required by law to make, he pronounced the work among the strongest in Connecticut, if not in New England.

The corner stones of the head-gates and the flood-gates are in position, and work will soon be begun on the masonry of the east abutment and the canal wall.

Mr. E. P. Gardner is watchful of all departments of the work. There is no smoking permitted among the men in work hours, and an observer will notice but few idle hands among the hundreds employed.

The company has its office in the second story of the Jewett City savings bank building. The workmen are orderly and all seems to be going on well.

There are 23 revolutionary widows still drawing pensions.

WILLIMANTIC.

The Borough Meeting Adjourned Without Action—Matters of Local Interest.

The special borough meeting was called to order by Warden Carpenter promptly at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The hall was well filled. Borough Clerk H. A. Sanderson presided as clerk, and read the call for the meeting, which was to see if the borough would vote to pay H. C. Murray $2,000 for about three (3) feet of land to keep his building on a line with adjoining property.

A resolution was offered by James Walden favoring the payment of $2,000 to Mr. Murray and the same was duly seconded. The previous question was then moved as it was stated, that the matter had been thoroughly discussed.

This was objected by Mr. M. E. Lincoln, who asked the chair to rule on the motion.

Geo. W. Burnham thought the question should be debated and he hoped the chair would rule that way.

The chair then ruled the debate out of order.

A motion to adjourn was then made by M. E. Lincoln.

Mr. P. J Kelley thought the previous question was a privilege question and should therefore take precedence.

The chair ruled the question to adjourn had precedence and the meeting voted to adjourn, 60 to 49.

In all probability this settles the matter, and Mr. Murray will now go ahead and put up his building when, where and as he pleases.

Chief Engineer C. E. Leonard and family leave for Stonington this week Thursday on a vacation.

The Rev. C. A. Dinsmore will be absent from the city until Thursday.

About seventeen members of the Thread City cyclers went to Norwich on their wheels Sunday and enjoyed a sail to Watch Hill on the steamer Ella. All report a good time.

Several clambakes were held in this vicinity Sunday, and as usual all of the participants ate their fill.

JEWETT CITY.

A Successful Physician—Village Improvements—Gossip.

George Soule, M. D., of Wickford, R. I., made a flying visit to our village Monday. He is one of the many Jewett City boys that are making a success of life. His many friends gave him a cordial greeting.

R. R. Church, the coal and lumber man, is pushing the work on his new site. He will have every convenience for serving his customers.

The new house of Alfred F. Brown, our long time postmaster, is looming up grandly. It will be a great addition to the upper part of the village.

The dry weather makes a busy time with our blacksmiths. Everybody, almost, has to have tires set to the wheels of their vehicles.

Gardens will go by if we do not have rain soon.

Nervousness in Milwaukee Banking Circles.

MILWAUKEE, July 24.—There was a good deal of nervousness in banking circles this morning and runs developed on a number of banks. Toward noon things quieted down and the alarm of depositors is rapidly subsiding. It now looks as if the crisis has passed. The nervousness of today was the result of senseless rumors Saturday afloat after banking hours.

The kindling wood forests in the Highlands of the Hudson are cut over once in about twenty years. Nature quickly repairs the ravages.

CHOLERA EMIGRANTS COMING.

A Large Number Preparing to Leave Naples for America.

CONDITION GROWING WORSE.

Reports from Other Cholera-Infested Districts—New Cases Daily.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Surgeon General Wyman has received the following cable dispatch from Assistant Surgeon Young of the marine hospital service stationed at Naples:

"Cholera prevails. Condition is worse. A large number of emigrants are preparing for America. Isolation on shore is impossible. Authorities refuse to permit detention on board. Passengers are transferred from train to ship, and isolation on the way imperfect."

To this dispatch Dr. Wyman has sent the following answer: "Refuse bill of health unless all regulations are complied with. Inform companies fall fine will be imposed without the bill."

So long as cholera or other contagious and infectious epidemic disease prevails in Naples or its vicinity the marine hospital service will not permit emigrants from that point to land in this country, unless steamship companies comply with the regulations for safety issued by the secretary of the treasury. As these regulations require the erection of barracks, in houses of which intending emigrants must be maintained for five days prior to sailing and the disinfection of clothing and effects of emigrants, it is not probable that the United States will have any emigrants from Naples for some time to come.

Speaking of the matter today, Dr. Wyman said: "The facilities for carrying out the treasury regulations do not exist at Naples and the bills of health, therefore, cannot be granted and ships cannot bring immigrants."

Fifty Deaths a Day.

PARIS, July 25.—A dispatch has been received here stating that cholera has broken out in St. Louis, Senegal, capital of the French possessions in Senegambia. The deaths have already reached an average of fifty daily. A genuine panic prevails among the inhabitants. The disease is spreading among the European residents. The population of St. Louis is about 20,000.

Five Cases and Two Deaths at Smyrna.

ATHENS, July 25.—The Greek consul at Smyrna, Asia Minor, reports that five cases of cholera and two deaths from the disease have occurred there. The Greek government has ordered that all vessels arriving from Smyrna be subjected to an eleven days' quarantine.

New Cases Daily at Alessandria, Italy.

ROME, July 25.—Notwithstanding the official denials of the Italian government of the reports that the cholera had appeared in Italy, it is known that the disease is prevailing in Alessandria, capital of the province of that name in Piedmont. Many cholera cases have been reported there and new cases are of daily occurrence. The disease is not confined to Alessandria. Cases are reported in a number of other places in Piedmont.

Robbed United States Express Company Wagons.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Samuel Bernstein, 18, and Harry Spairo, 19, were held in the tombs police court Monday on charges of robbing the United States Express company.

For some time valuable packages have been lost from the company's branch office in Canal street, disappeared while on the way to Jersey City. The matter was placed in the hands of detectives, and they at once suspected Bernstein, who was a helper on one of the express wagons.

On Friday the detectives crossed the North river on the same boat with Bernstein. They saw him take the marks from a roll of silk valued at $190, and later they saw Spairo coming back to the city with the silk. Both young men were arrested and were confined at police headquarters.

Colored Waitress Drowned.

LYNN, Mass., July 25.—Lena Wesman, 20 years, colored, a waitress living in Chelsea, was drowned by the overturning of a boat on Flax pond this afternoon. Samuel Johnson and U. S. Burns, also colored, were rescued.

Organ Works Take a Vacation.

BOSTON, July 25.—Mason & Hamlin's organ and piano factory at Cambridge, has shut down for three weeks on account of dull business.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.

Electric Road Petition Referred to a Special Committee.

A special meeting of the court of common council was held Tuesday evening. Present, his honor, Mayor Harwood, presiding; Aldermen Palmer, Sevin and Aborn and Councilmen Henderson, Whittaker, Brewster, Halliou, Murray and George

The Norwich Street Railway company, through its attorney, Solomon Lucas, petitioned to erect, place and maintain poles, wires and conductors in Shetucket street, Laurel Hill avenue, Thames and West Thames streets for the purpose of propelling, keeping and lighting its cars.

On motion of Alderman Palmer the petition was referred to a committee consisting of Mayor Harwood and the street committee, to inquire into the matter and report to the common council.

The disposal of three obstructing trees on Thames street was also referred to the committee.

Alderman Palmer said that there would be a public hearing by the committee, at which all parties interested could appear. He moved that when the council adjourn, it be to next Tuesday evening. The motion prevailed.

Mayor Harwood set the date for the hearing on the matter next Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Attorney Lucas left with the committee plans designating the position of the poles.

The following petitions were referred to the fire committee with power: James Watrous, to build a two-story tenement house on Oak street; P. F. Murtagh, to erect a wooden residence on his Coit street lot; B. H. Palmer & Son to build a wooden addition to their grist mill in Greeneville; S. & J. Gregson to build a wooden two-story tenement and one store block on the lot south of their laundry on Franklin street; B. J. Wright to build a two-story cottage on Asylum street.

The petition of P. F. Murtagh and other taxpayers for the city to accept and grade for a sidewalk the Ann street extension was referred to the street committee.

The meeting was then adjourned to next Tuesday evening.

A $15,000 FIRE

In Willimantic Tuesday Morning.

WILLIMANTIC, July 25.—Soon after 4 o'clock Tuesday morning fire was discovered in the west show window of Pease & Edwards' dry goods store by A. D. Boscville, a night watchman, employed by the New York & New England Railroad company. An alarm was sent out from box 23 on Bank street and by this time the flames were creeping up the front of the building and a large volume of smoke pouring forth.

The Alerts were on hand promptly and soon had two streams of water playing on the fire. In a short space of time the fire was put out. Considerable damage was done by water—far more than by fire. Mr. Edwards estimated the value of their entire stock at $30,000 and thought their loss would reach $15,000, a small portion by fire and the greater loss by water. The stock was insured for $5,000 in the agency of A. J. Bowen, $2,000 being in the Hanover of New York, $2,000 in the National of Hartford, and $1,000 in the Connecticut of Hartford.

R. M. Hooper who owns the Franklin building in which the fire occurred was insured for $10,000, and his loss will not be over $1,000.

Just how the fire originated is a mystery.

GUNN'S MONEY.

Lima Banks Enjoined by Treasurer Sanger from Paying It Out.

LIMA, Ohio, July 25.—Marvin H. Sanger, treasurer of the state of Connecticut, yesterday began an injunction suit against the Ohio National bank, the Metropolitan bank, William Duffield, cashier; William Stahl, F. G. Steuber and J. D. Douglass.

These proceedings are brought to prevent the defendants from getting possession of $265 34, in the Metropolitan bank, plaintiff claiming that it belongs to the school fund and not to Gunn, the missing loan agent. A temporary restraining order was granted.

The suit is only the forerunner of others.

WANTS $20,000 DAMAGES.

Two Families at Darien, Conn., are in Great Trouble.

DARIEN, Conn., July 25.—Papers were served this morning in a suit for $20,000 instituted by John W. Haddock against Hiram H. Draper. Both men reside here. Haddock claims that Draper harbored his wife and prevented her from performing her household duties.

It appears that after the numerous quarrels in the Haddock family, Mrs. Haddock would go over to Draper's house, tell her troubles and remain there for days at a time. Haddock and his wife have not been on good terms for several months, while Haddock, who is a retired New Yorker and wealthy, claims that his wife is crazy. She charges that he is a brute.

Last spring he instituted divorce proceedings, alleging intolerable cruelty, and a few days ago Mrs. Haddock sued her husband for non-support. Both suits are now pending. Considerable interest is manifested over the suits and public sympathy is about evenly divided. Mrs. Haddock's adjourned suit will be tried next week.

Work on the Gettysburg Trolley Suspended.

GETTYSBURG, Penn., July 25.—Work on the Gettysburg trolley road was suspended Monday. Whether this was the result of Colonel Nicholson's notice to quit, or inability to raise funds by the sale of bonds is uncertain. The contract has been abandoned by Doer & Co. The laborers ought to have received their pay Monday, but were put off till Wednesday. Blasting was being done on the face of Little Round Top as late as Saturday, and the friends of the road assert that operations will be begun again this week.

Proprietor of Worcester Dispatch Arrested.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 25.—Hugh D. Magee, proprietor of the Worcester Dispatch, was arrested this afternoon on the complaint of Dr. Edward R. Frost, a well-known dentist and proprietor of the Lincoln house and Exchange hotel in this city. The charge is that on July 1 Magee threatened to accuse Dr. Frost of a crime for the purpose of obtaining money. Frost alleges that Magee said to him: "I want you to pay me $150 or I will close your place." Magee has not yet obtained bail, which is set at $5,000.

Meriden Strike Declared Off.

MERIDEN, Conn., July 25.—The Building Laborers' union strike that was on since May 1, has been declared off. The men struck for an increase of wages and expected the support of the Brick Layers' and Masons' union, which they did not get. Nothing was gained by the strike as the H. Wales Lines company and James Kane & Son would not grant the demand.

Birdseye Blakeman's Generous Gift.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 25.—Birdseye Blakeman of New York city has presented $25,000 to the town of Stratford for the purpose of establishing a free public library. Mr. Blakeman formerly resided in Stratford. The building is to be erected on property owned by Judge Russell of the probate court, adjoining the Stratford Congregational church.

Arrested and Fined for Spending Found Money.

ANSONIA, Conn., July 25.—Frank Robinson found a pocketbook containing $20, a check for about $12, and some notes. He spent the money but claims that he lost the notes. He passed the check on S. F. Tolles & Co. of Ansonia. He was arrested and fined $50 and costs, from which he appealed.

Death of Prof. McLaughlin of Yale.

NEW HAVEN, July 25.—Edward T. McLaughlin, aged 30, professor of English literature at Yale, died this morning of typhoid fever, after only a week's illness.

He was one of the brightest members of Yale faculty and author of Literary Criticisms and other works. He was married a few months ago to Miss Brush, daughter of Professor Brush of this city.

In Favor of the United States.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A rumor reached Washington that the arbitrators on the Bering sea controversy, who have been in session at Paris since March, had decided in favor of the United States. No confirmation nor denial of the rumor are to be had.

Congregational Church Dedicated.

ANSONIA, Conn., July 25.—The new Congregational church was dedicated at Huntington today. It was the first anniversary of the burning of the church and the seventieth anniversary of the origin of the society. The Rev. A. F. Pierce of Danbury preached the sermon.

Failure of a Brewing Company.

MILWAUKEE, July 25.—The J. Oberman Brewing company failed today. Oberman is the assignee. His bond is for $1,300,000.

FIRST DAY OF HARTFORD RACES.

A Good Day and Track Open the Week's Meeting.

INTERESTING PROGRAMME.

An Audience of 800 Witness the Events of Tuesday.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 25.—A large attendance, probably 800, and a grand day and track opened the week's meeting of the Gentlemen's Driving club this afternoon. A drop or two of rain brought a cloud of dismay and remembrance of last month's rainy week to the officers of the club. The weather settled, however, and before the 2.45 class was called, the first on the programme, it was a perfect afternoon, cloudy but fairly cool and pleasant.

GENERAL BUSINESS SITUATION.

More Gloomy View Taken by the New York Bankers.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Bankers this morning are disposed to take a more gloomy view of the general business situation than they were a week ago. The shutting down of manufacturing interests all over New England, and the private advices received by the New York bankers as to the condition of the New England banks, continue to make the prospect for a betterment of the condition in that quarter anything but good.

From the west the banks continue to receive calls for currency, and there is a constant withdrawal of New York balances. The failure of the Wisconsin Marine & Fire Insurance Co. in Milwaukee, and the two banks in Indianapolis, all of which were considered as strong institutions as existed in their respective localities, only added to the uneasiness felt here about the western situation.

In Wall street the expression regarding the collapse today is that the trouble appears to be more wide-spread and nearer home than a few days ago. As a rule bank presidents and leading brokers are averse to saying anything about the situation for publication. They hope for a turn for the better, but do not anticipate any great change until congress repeals the Sherman law.

Otto Klett is "Schuetzenkoenig."

HARTFORD, Conn., July 25.—The twenty-fourth annual two days' shoot of the Southern New England Schuetzenbund closed at Union grove this evening. Otto Klett of this city was crowned "schuetzenkoenig," or best German marksman, being excelled by two Americans, H. M. Pope of this city and F. K. Rand of New York. Their scores were respectively 73, 71 and 71 out of a possible 75.

Equity Suit by a Theatrical Manager.

PORTLAND, Me., July 25.—In the United States circuit court of appeals, before Judge Putnam today, a suit in equity brought by David Henderson, the Chicago theatrical manager, against Eugene Tompkins of the Boston theater, Boston, was argued. This is a suit to stop the use of the topical song "I wonder if dreams come true," now being sung in "Babes in the Woods," as produced by Tompkins. A. P. Browne of Boston appeared for the complainant and L. L. Dexter of Boston appeared for Tompkins. Decision was reserved.

Working-time and Wages Reduced.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 25.—The Schuyler Electric company has reduced the working time to five days per week.

The W. H. Chapman Manufacturing company has reduced wages and the Middletown Plate company has reduced all its employes 10 to 25 per cent. This action is attributed to the tightness of the money market and dull times.

Tossed by an Infuriated Cow.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 25.—Hattie White, a six-year-old child, was tossed by an infuriated cow on Oak street this afternoon and received injuries which may prove fatal. The animal's horn penetrated the child's temple. The owner of the cow, a Russian Jew, has been arrested.

5,250 Pension Payments Suspended.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The total number of pensioners under the act of June 27, 1890, who have been notified since the incoming of the present administration that the payment of their pensions had been suspended is approximately 5,250.

Striking Moulders Return to Work.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 25.—The striking moulders at Sargent's factory will return to work in the morning. The questions in dispute which caused the men to quit work will reach a settlement in a day or two.

THE LAUREL HILL BRIDGE.

It Will be Officially Opened for Public Travel This Morning.

There is a great amount of speculation about town as to the identity of the driver who tempted fate by crossing the Laurel Hill bridge Tuesday morning, but he is as yet unknown to the outside world. The Berlin Bridge company officials say they will prosecute the offender for trespass if his name can be ascertained. They took infinite precautions last night to prevent a recurrence of the feat. Heavy ropes were stretched across both entrances, and the brand new watchman had instructions to allow no vehicle on the structure at any cost.

The new parabolic truss bridge will be formally opened for travel at 11 o'clock this morning, at which time it will have been practically finished. The three selectmen, Mayor Harwood, City Attorney Crandall, several prominent citizens and city fathers and Secretary George H. Sage of the bridge company, in two hacks, will be driven over, and then the bridge will be thrown open to the public. It represents a large class of iron highway bridges for cities where the traffic is heavy and frequent, and where it is desired to have a structure of ornamental design as well as strong and rigid. The parabolic truss is peculiarly adapted to bridges on a grade.

AT KITTERY NAVY YARD.

Secretary of the Navy Herbert Arrives—An Informal Reception Tendered.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 25.—Secretary Herbert of the navy department arrived at Kittery navy yard shortly before 11 o'clock this morning on the Dolphin. He received the customary salute, and on landing, found the officers of the yard and of the United States schoolship Kearsarge and Machias, with a marine guard, drawn up in line to receive him.

The party was accompanied by ex-Chief Constructor T. D. Wilson and Paymaster-General Stewart. At 12 30 the party was entertained at Commodore Carpenter's residence.

The secretary stated that the inspection of the yard would consume the greater portion of tomorrow. Tonight Col. J. Albert Walker will tender an informal reception to him at the Rockingham house. Tomorrow evening Commander Crowninshield and officers of the Kearsarge will tender the secretary a reception on board that vessel from 4 to 7 o'clock.

A complimentary dance will be given by the yard officers and those attached to the Kearsarge and Machias and the old frigate Constitution. It is probable that the secretary and party will leave before Thursday morning.

Have Everything Except the Water.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 25.—The western counties will hold an irrigation convention Aug. 7 at Great Bend. They have the canals and ditches and a state law covering 100 pages, but they have no water in the Arkansas river, their supposed supply.

The convention will endeavor to ascertain some means of compelling Colorado to divide the use of the river, which, by the time it reaches the Kansas line, becomes a mere ribbon of sand.

"Burying" Veterans Who are Still Living.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 25.—The grand jury today indicted Supervisor Harvey P. Lewis and Richard Corey, a politician, charged with complicity in frauds alleged to have been committed under the law which allows the supervisors to appropriate $35 for the burial of every veteran who dies in the county, and $15 for a headstone. Lewis and Corey are accused of having drawn money for the burial of a veteran who is still living. The county is alleged to have lost $40,000 "burying" veterans who are still alive.

Accepts a Call with Twice the Salary.

WESTPORT, Conn., July 25.—The Rev. Henry N. Wayne, rector of Christ Episcopal church, has accepted a call to St. Mark's church, New Britain, and will soon resign. Mr. Wayne's salary here is $1,000 and a rectory, while at New Britain it will be doubled.

Middletown Plate Co. Start Up.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 25.—The Middletown Plate Co. of Middletown, which has been shut down for two weeks, has started up again with about ninety hands, one-half the former number. A cut in wages of 10 per cent. has bee made.

The Drought in Worcester Broken.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 25.—About noon the sky became overcast with clouds and before 1 o'clock a gentle rain began to fall, which is steadily increasing. The pavements are already wet and slippery and it appears as if the long drought in this vicinity was about to be broken.

Troops Overawe Mexican Miners.

DURANGO, Mexico, July 25.—Fears are entertained of serious labor troubles at the Velardena mines in this state. Several days ago 700 men employed in the mines went on a strike against a proposed reduction in wages and against the method of paying them in checks or tickets redeemable at the company's commissary or store, instead of by cash. The arrival of troops has had a soothing effect, but nobody can tell how long it will last.

Y. M. C. A. Corner Stone Laid.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 25.—The Y. M. C. A. laid the corner stone of its building at 4 p. m. according to programme. It was a beautiful day and 3,000 people were present. The location of the building is one of the best in the city and young men will ever find a welcome and an uplifting power within its walls. The structure will be completed in May, 1894.

The French Minister Leaves Bangkok.

BANGKOK, July 25.—M. Pavie, French minister, started down the river this afternoon in the warship Inconstante, accompanied by the warships Lutin and Comete. All is quiet in this city.

WILLIMANTIC.

Y. M. A. C. Field Sports—Horse Thief Bound Over—Wrestling Match.

The Young Men's Athletic club have already commenced to make arrangements for the field sports on Labor day, and have appointed Wm. J. Moriarty, John Rourke, John Sweeney, Edward Flynn, Herbert Clark, Dennis Danahee and Eugene Sullivan a committee to make and complete all arrangements for the same.

John Loomer, who is charged with horse stealing, was bound over to the next term of the superior court under bonds of $500.

A special drill will be held by Company E, Third regiment, C. N. G., on Thursday evening, preparatory to going into camp in August.

Peter McGrath and Glover E. Gray occupied the boards in Washburn's hall Monday evening in a wrestling match, catch-as-catch-can. McGrath won the match in two straight falls, much to the surprise of all.

THE RAJAH AT NEWPORT.

Registered at the Ocean House—Occupy 12 Fine Rooms.

CAN EAT EVERYDAY FOOD.

Object to "Frills" and Act in a Purely Democratic Manner.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25.—The Rajah of the Indian province of Kapurtha and suite arrived here at 7 30 this evening. On the trip down the bay from Wickford, the prince entertained a Sunday school excursion with native songs and chants, explored every part of the steamer and talked with all from the captain down to the firemen. The rest of the party conducted themselves in the same democratic way.

The party were driven to the Ocean house, where they are registered. They were given twelve of the finest rooms in the house, three being assigned to the prince, but just where his wife was located was not known at the office, for according to the custom of their country her name was not signed as one of the party.

It had been intended by the Messrs. Weaver of the hotel, to serve their meals in a private dining room, but the prince objected to such frills and they were taken to the main dining hall, where the regular cookery was served.

At a late hour, the party rose from the table and went into the parlors, where a little exhibition by Krieger was in progress.

The programme will not be decided upon until tomorrow and the length of their stay in the city will depend upon the prince's impression of the place. From here he will go to Boston for a brief visit, then on to the World's fair, via Saratoga and Niagara Falls.

China Filled with Amazement and Indignation.

TIEN SIN, July 25.—The Chinese government has received news of France's territorial demands upon Siam with amazement and indignation. That France should lay claim to country up to the twenty-third parallel is regarded as an intrusion upon the rights of China, for at Pekin the contention is that both banks of the Mekong to a point well south of the twenty-third parallel are Chinese provinces. The Mandarin party, which is bitterly anti-French is trying to force the government to interfere.

Unknown Tramp Killed.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 25.—An unknown tramp tried to steal a ride on a freight train on the Boston & Albany railroad about two miles east of the city tonight. He fell under the wheels and both legs were ground up. He died on reaching the emergency room. A companion said the dead man belonged in Milford.

Crew of the Vigilant Take French Leave.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A New Rochelle dispatch to the Evening Sun says: Twenty men belonging to the crew of the Vigilant, the Morgan-Iselin cup defender, left the vessel in a body last night. They said they had too much work and did not like the fare nor quarters in the new boat. Captain Hansen will take the boat to New York and try to get men to fill the vacant places. It is feared it will have some effect on the trial sails of the boat, as the crew had been practicing for four months and had been kept at Mr. Iselin's expense.

Nine Men Killed by Exploding Dynamite.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Young man wanted.

Preston Brothers are selling haying tools cheap these days.

A. Plaut makes another cut in second hand bicycles to get the room.

The fruit puddings and wax gelatine make fine hot day dishes. Try them. Welcome A. Smith.

A. B. Kingsbury has a fine selection of tortoise shell combs and hair ornaments at prices lower than ever.

The attraction this week at B. Gotthelf & Co's is white and black shirt waists, torn hair pins, ladies' belts; and bargains in all the departments including a general mark down in millinery. See advertisement.

A successful business firm gains that success through judicious advertising. Porteous & Mitchell do not hesitate to say in their advertisement that advertising pays. If they have a big drive for the public, they put it in a legitimate advertisement and almost before time for opening the store the same morning the public is on hand to secure the bargains. Take their advertisement this morning. In it they mention several new bargains. Get around early or you lose them.

A New Invention.

Adolphus Mousch of this city, who was for nine years connected with the Norwich Lock shop, has invented and patented a burglar proof safety door latch, made of malleable iron, polished, plated and fitted with a steel screw, that can be instantly attached to windows, doors or blinds in such a manner that they cannot be opened from the outside. When not in use the catch can be carried in one's pocket. The catch is a very simple and handy device that commends itself wherever shown. It will be placed in the hardware stores for sale at a very low price, and Mr. Mousch, the inventor, who is a well known and reliable man, will make a personal canvass of the city and vicinity. He will attach the fasteners to window blinds without extra charge.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Called to Mystic Baptist Church.

Rev. Archibald Wheaton of New York has been given an unanimous call to the Baptist church at Mystic. For some time back Mr. Wheaton has been a coworker with Dr. MacArthur of Calvary Baptist church in New York city, and comes highly recommended by that celebrated divine. The church he is called to is the largest in Mystic, and one that affords ample work for its pastor.

Noank's New Bridge.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in their steady onward march of progress are making extensive improvements at the bridge near Noank. It is proposed to take out the wooden bridge which is in as good condition as ever and substitute a new iron girder, three span bridge. They also propose to erect a new foundation in which the distance from one foundation to the other will be twice as great as at present and thus lessen the force of the current. To this end the company are driving some 360 piles through the road bed, 75 feet west of the bridge. It will take some three months to finish the work.

A Reminiscence of Mrs. Sigourney.

Hartford people are regretting the fall of an old tree in last Tuesday's cyclone. It stood in front of the house long occupied by Lydia Huntley Sigourney, and under it in a hot day in June, 1846, President James K. Polk, then on his visit to New England, alighted from his carriage to pay his respects to the famed poetess. But while he was thus complimenting her, sneak thieves slipped around to the rear of the house, entered and stole all her jewelry and silver spoons. They were subsequently discovered and served the state four years in the penitentiary. And the kind hearted woman visited them often and took them delicacies.

CAUSE OF DEATH QUESTIONED.

Sudden Demise of Mrs. Edward Welsh of Stafford Springs.

The town of Stafford Springs is somewhat agitated over a sudden death. The victim is Mrs. Edward Welsh, who died Monday of injuries alleged to have been inflicted by her husband.

She said before her death that Welsh dragged her from bed and otherwise misused her. The man was said to have been intoxicated at the time and was arrested for this crime and sentenced to jail for thirty days.

The woman had been sick for some time and was confined to her bed when the alleged assault was made.

TO CHICAGO ON FOOT.

Ray Earl, 80 Years of Age, Will Start from New London Thursday.

Ray Earl has deposited a wager of $100 that he can cover the distance between New London and Chicago on foot, in 43 days, and will start on the trip Thursday. He is eighty years of age and is willing to give any man seventy years of age $100 to follow him.

Mr. Earl will take only enough money to pay his way across ferries, and after being out four days he will stop each day thereafter at a post office and have the postmaster write to New London, that people may know where he is. Half the forefinger of his right hand is missing, and postmasters will recognize him in that way.

The start will be made Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will take a bundle containing necessary supplies, weighing about fifteen pounds, strapped on his shoulders, a bull's-eye lantern and revolver.

The old gentleman has been studying up the routes for some time, and has mapped out his course as direct as possible. It is a wonderful undertaking for a man of his age, but he is confident of accomplishing it within the limit specified.

MAJOR TIBBITS' FUNERAL.

Borne to His Last Rest in New London Tuesday.

The public funeral service over the remains of Major John A. Tibbits occurred at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, New London, at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and was largely attended by the people of the town.

A solemn requiem high mass was sung for the repose of his soul. The officers of the mass were: Celebrant, the Rev. Thomas W. Broderick of St. Peter's church, Hartford; deacon, the Rev. Father Farrell of Brooklyn, N. Y.; sub-deacon, the Rev. Eugene O'Connell of St. Mary's church. The body was borne into the church by Henry W. Tibbits, Edward H. Tibbits, Ralph Tibbits, half brothers of the deceased, and his cousins Frank H. Chappell, William S. Chappell, Alfred H. Chappell. There were flowers in token of affection and esteem from many friends and the near relatives followed the remains to their final resting place in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The services were especially solemn and impressive, all present being saddened by the circumstances of Major Tibbits' death, his return home and short stay and the ending of so brilliant and promising a career untimely.

There were present fellow soldiers of the old Fourteenth Connecticut, schoolmates and scores who had participated with their dead friend in the several occupations of his busy life.

From out of town were ex-Lieut. Gov. George G. Sumner, James H. Cheney, South Manchester; Col. W. H. Tubbs, Alexander Troup of New Haven; Benjamin Douglass of Middletown and many others who loved and admired the major in life. Mrs. Tibbits was too much prostrated by her weeks of watching at the bedside of her husband to leave her room. Expressions of sympathy have been received from all over the state, showing how universally Major Tibbits was esteemed.

NEW LABOR LAWS.

Six of the Thirty Bills Presented Adopted by the General Assembly.

Labor Commissioner Vance has issued in pamphlet form a recapitulation of the labor bills considered by the last general assembly, with the action taken. About thirty distinctively labor bills were introduced, of which six were passed by both houses and became laws.

The bills which became laws were the following:

Making it unlawful for any person or corporation to counterfeit any label, trade mark, or form of advertisement adopted by any person, association or union of workingmen. Also making it unlawful to use any such label, knowing that such use is unauthorized, in or about the sale of goods or otherwise.

Providing that every person, partnership or corporation employing females in any mercantile, mechanical or manufacturing establishment, shall provide suitable seats for the use of said females when they are not engaged in the active duties for which they are employed.

Giving the factory inspector power, when necessary for the preservation of the health of the employes, to order the introduction and operation of appliances to remove dust from the atmosphere of factories. Also to order changes made for the improvement of the lighting or ventilation of factories.

Providing that nobody under the age of sixteen years shall be employed in the care, custody, operation or management of any elevator.

Providing that all lifts, elevators, hoisting shafts or well holes shall be properly and substantially enclosed, if, in the opinion of the inspector of factories, the same is necessary for the protection of those employed in the establishment where such elevators are situated. Also providing for automatic doors and a gripper device to hold the elevator cabs in case of accident.

Authorizing the factory inspector to employ special agents at a total cost of not more than $2,000 in any one year.

Because a young man refused to shave off his mustache at the demand of his Philadelphia fiancee she promptly broke the engagement. And now each is considering which has the best of the quarrel.

The sheep of the world annually grow 2,456,778,609 pounds of wool, those of the United States 307,100,000 pounds.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Large Amounts of Fine Vegetables Received Daily.

GOOD SEASON FOR THE FARMERS.

Celery and Green Corn the Two New Vegetables.

BOSTON, July 25.—Marketmen have been busy this week. The weather has been very favorable to a rapid perfection of the vegetables in the field and the farmers have brought large amounts of fine vegetables to market daily.

Thus far the season for the farmer has been a fortunate one. The dry weather which has prevailed is a potent element in bringing stock to its best growth.

The cold storage of garden vegetables is practiced by some speculators this season and its effect has been to keep prices up a trifle.

The Two Newest Arrivals

on the vegetable market are celery and green corn, the former from the west and the latter from the south. Neither are here in any quantity. The celery goes for $2 to $2.25 a dozen heads, and the corn for $1 a bushel. Some of our best new potatoes are from Bristol Ferry, Conn. These are worth $3 a barrel, while others go for $2.50 to $2.75.

Green peas are getting scarce and $1 to $1.25 are the prices prevailing, with prospects of higher prices. String beans are abundant at 75 cents a box for wax or green, and summer squashes bring $2 a hundred. Early marrows are worth $1.50 to $2 a barrel.

Lettuce sells for 50 cents a box of three dozen heads, spinach 30 cents a bushel, radishes 25 cents a dozen, parsley 50 cents a box, cabbage $5 to $6 a hundred, and bunch onions $2 per hundred bunches.

Butter.

Boston butter dealers seem to be doing an easy business. The feeling is that of confidence and it seems that the times of uncertainty are over, at least for a time. The bottom prices prevailing seem to be 21 1-2 cents for best country butter, and some is held for 22 cents. Receipts continue to be in the excess of immediate wants, and the surplus is going to increase the vast amount of stock in cold storage.

The Finer Summer Fruits

are now coming to the market from the south and California. Some very fine peaches are from Georgia at 75 cents a basket, while crates from California are worth $2. Two months ago and more the first strawberries arrived in Boston from the extreme south and since that time the source of supply has gradually been coming northward till today it has gone far beyond our latitude and berries of the finest quality are on the market from St. John, N. B. These bring 15 cents per box, with some poorer ones at a less figure.

Really fine blackberries are scarce and the best we have bring 15 cents a box. New Hampshire blueberries bring 12 to 15 cents. Native raspberries are 12 cents a quart, and a few southern sell by the crate from 3 to 4 cents a cup. Gooseberries sell for 10 cents a quart and currants the same.

The Quotations.

BEEF—In beef trade is not exactly satisfactory, and the market is easy. Choice to fancy steers, [illegible]; prime, [illegible]; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; extra heavy hinds, 10@11½c; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; fores, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; backs, [illegible]; rattles, [illegible]; chucks, [illegible]; rounds, [illegible]; rumps, 10@10c; rumps and loins, 11@12c; short ribs, 11@12c; loins, 11@15c.

OATS—Oats are nearly in firmer in the market to arrive, though some of the sellers here are withdrawn as to quotations. New clipped, to arrive in August sold at 37c and 37½c. Chicago old clipped are quotable at about [illegible]. The spot market is firmer at: Clipped, [illegible]; fancy, 41c; No. 2 white, [illegible]; No. 3 white, 38c; clipped mixed, [illegible].

LAMB AND MUTTON—For muttons and lambs the market is not brisk, with veals steady. Choice spring lambs, 10@11½c; common to good, [illegible]; poor and ordinary, 7@8c; Brightons, 11@12c; yearlings, [illegible]; mutton, [illegible]; choice heavy Brightons, [illegible]; choice eastern veals, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; Brightons and fancy, 11@12c.

FLOUR—Flour may be said to be looking a little better, from the continued slight firmness in wheat. Quotations are unchanged at: Fine and supers, [illegible]; extra and seconds, [illegible]; Minnesota bakers', clear and straight, [illegible]; winter, clear and straight, [illegible]; winter pat. [illegible]; spring pat. [illegible].

POTATOES—The potato market is well supplied, with the tendency easy: Jerseys, [illegible]; Bristols, [illegible]; extra Norfolks, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]. New sweet potatoes are arriving, and are bringing [illegible] per bbl for choice.

CHEESE—Cheese is quiet, with quotations steady: Northern full creams, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; western choice, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; Liverpool is quoted at [illegible] on white; colored, [illegible].

CORN—Corn is firmer. No. 2 yellow to arrive is quoted at 51½c and at 51c for No. 3 yellow. The spot market is also firmer. Steamer yellow, 51c; No. 3 yellow, 51½c; steamer mixed, 50c.

HAY—In the hay market there is little change to note. In mill feed the market is also dull, with sack spring bran to arrive at $16.50, and sack winter at $17@17.50.

EGGS—Eggs are quoted to be a little firmer: with quotations at: Western, 14@15c; Michigan, 14@15c; Island, [illegible]; eastern and northern, [illegible].

MEAL—Cornmeal is unchanged, though firmer, from the stronger position of corn. Bag meal is quoted at [illegible], with barrel at [illegible].

BUTTER—The butter market is rather dull, with prices not stronger, to say the least, though quotations are nominally unchanged.

PORK—No further changes are admitted in the prices of pork provisions. Trade is rather [illegible].

ANCIENT MEDAL FOUND.

Vermont Farmer Unearths a Relic of Battle of Bennington.

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 25.—A farmer residing in Hoosick, the town in New York state immediately adjoining this, recently found, while ploughing on his farm, a curious brass medal, one of those struck by Frederick the Great in 1757 to commemorate victories over the French at Rosbach and the Austrians at Lissa.

The medal bears the Latin inscription, "Nec pluris impar." On one side is represented a figure of Frederick in armor. On the reverse is a figure of Hercules, with club raised in the attitude of striking a man at his feet, who has four arms, in the hand of one of which he also holds a club. Hercules is represented as standing on a broken shield, bearing the fleur de lis of France and the eagles of Austria.

The medal is supposed to have been the property of some Brunswicker who fought at the battle of Bennington.

WOOLSORTERS CUT DOWN.

Arlington Mills Make Another Reduction in Their Wages.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 25.—Arlington mills woolsorters are suffering from another cut down in wages. For two months past work has been dull and some 50 woolsorters have been given a forced vacation. They were told to come in this week, and on doing so found a new wage schedule. The average pay made by a woolsorter at present is $11 a week.

The principal portion of the new scale of prices per 100 is as follows: Fine delaine 30 cents, now 27 cents; pulled wool 37 cents, now 60 cents; coarse unwashed 80 cents, now 70 cents; coarse washed 60 cents, now 55 cents; territory 45 cents, now 40 cents; fine medium 35 cents, now 30 cents.

DIPTHERIA EPIDEMIC.

Dread and Death Abound Among Children to Alarming Extent.

HEIGHTSTOWN, N. J., July 25.—A diptheria epidemic prevails in this village and dread and death abound among the citizens to an alarming extent. The first cases noticeable were last Friday, and on Sunday and Monday six deaths of children were reported to the board of health. Children of the most prominent families are hourly expected to die.

Doctors report 20 cases in town, with many outside the borough limits. The whole trouble seems to be fixed upon the sprinkling of the streets with highly polluted water, coming from a dammed-up stream into which the sewers of the factories empty.

HUSBAND'S TRIBUTE.

President Harrison Will Erect Massive Monument Over His Wife's Grave.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—The monument which ex-President Harrison has ordered for the grave of his wife in Crown hill cemetery will be massive in proportions and graceful in outline.

The beautiful memorial to be erected will comprise four huge blocks. On the third base line will be the name "Harrison" in large raised letters. Columns with tastefully carved capitals will be placed at the four corners of the base.

Around the massive die, near the top, will be a handsomely carved astragal. The monument will be made of granite from Barre, Vt., and will be one of the finest in the cemetery.

CHOLERA SCARE.

Man Dies in Hillsdale, N. J., Despite the Efforts of Doctors.

HILLSDALE, N. J., July 25.—The people of Eastwood, a village about two miles from this place, have a scare. They think they have a genuine case of Asiatic cholera there.

The victim was John C. Blauvelt, 56 years of age. Dr. Meer attended the sick man, and after careful inquiry determined that the whole trouble was caused by the patient eating canned corn beef, and that the meat had been poisoned.

Despite the efforts of the doctor Mr. Blauvelt grew worse and died in the evening.

Cash Basis in Manchester.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 25.—The coal dealers of the city held a largely attended meeting this morning, and after a protracted discussion voted that, on and after today, they should demand cash on delivery for all coal. The reasons for this new rule is the difficulties of obtaining money. The grocers have also in most cases adopted a strictly cash basis for their trade.

Living a Hermit's Life.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 25.—There is little doubt that George Bayliss, a venerable citizen of Edgartown, who disappeared some time ago and was supposed to have committed suicide, is living a hermit's life in the big woods of the island. Bayliss is hopelessly insane, and the farmers accuse him of milking their cows and robbing hen's nests. An effort will be made to capture him.

Looking For a Summer Home.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., July 25.—Senators Allison of Iowa and Washburn of Minnesota, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Washburn and Miss Lowry, daughter of Thomas Lowry, the millionaire railroad owner of Minneapolis, are now here. It is rumored that one of the senators is looking for a location for a summer home in St. Andrews.

Putnam Tool Company Shuts Down.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 25.—Another shut down has come in the closing of the Putnam Tool company's works. The company does not know when it will resume work. The great Putnam machine works are running, however, and the uncompleted work of the tool company will be done there.

Bank Assigns, Cashier Skips.

MEDFORD, Wis., July 25.—The Taylor County bank, owned by Hartman & Matz, assigned yesterday. The bank was the depository for county and city funds. Assets were given at $16,000. Herman Matz, the cashier, has absconded.

Orlando Bank Closes.

ORLANDO, Fla., July 25.—The First national bank of this city closed its doors yesterday. The general opinion among the bank officers is that depositors will not lose a cent.

Will Close For Two Weeks.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 25.—The York mills at Saco will shut down Saturday for two weeks, owing to overproduction.

Only Five Days a Week.

CLINTON, Mass., July 25.—The Parker machine shop began to run yesterday nine hours a day for five days in the week.

Did Not Open the Doors.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—The Bank of Commerce did not open this morning.

Quiet in Manchester.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 25.—This is a remarkably quiet day in financial circles here considering the circumstances. There is no run on any of the banks. The only special activity noticeable is on the part of the business men whose accounts are tied up in the banks which have suspended, and who are now opening accounts in other institutions. The general feeling is that the crisis is passed so far as the banks in Manchester are concerned.

Randall's Condition Critical.

BOSTON, July 25.—It is thought that when John L. Randall's head struck the floor of the hallway just outside his office door at 222 Washington street, yesterday afternoon, in consequence of a blow inflicted by John O. Marsh, there was force enough in the fall to fracture his skull at the base of the brain. If that is the case, the chances are that he will die within a day or two. Morse is under $5000 bonds to await trial.

Conductor and Brakeman Killed.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 25.—A southern Pacific engine escaped from the yard here without engineer or fireman, and went dashing east at a terrific rate of speed. It crashed into the rear end of a freight train going in the same direction, smashing up 30 cars. Conductor Harrison and Brakeman Watson were killed.

Both Sides Doubtful.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A dispatch sent out from Washington unofficially announces that the United States government expects to lose its Behring sea case. It is to be inferred that both sides are doubtful of the strength of their claims.

Navy's Chief at Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 25.—Secretary of the Navy Herbert arrived at the navy yard here today shortly before 11 o'clock. He was received with all due formality and will make an inspection of the government property.

George Cotter's House Burned.

TAUNTON, Mass., July 25.—A house at Murton, owned and occupied by George Cotter, was burned last night. Loss $1000; insured.

CUFF LINKS AND STUDS.

William Penn's will is in the possession of Frank T. Sabin of Philadelphia.

Philip J. Armour has adopted a diet of bread and milk in the hope of improving his health.

Governor McKinley of Ohio was recently made a Knight of Pythias in Columbus. He joined Champion lodge of that city.

Senator Call of Florida is very fond of the theater. He is said to be unable to appreciate the funniest dialogue and never smiles at the most amusing climax.

Lagrand Laron, a Missouri stock raiser, has also raised during the past 16 years a set of whiskers that rest on the ground when he stands erect, and he is 6 feet tall.

Lord Salisbury, who led the government party between 1880 and 1886, made the surprising declaration at Derry recently that he knew nothing of Parnell and "had never seen him."

Michael F. Chalk of Duluth, the most famous diver along the lakes, has invented a submarine armor which he believes will withstand the pressure of the sea at a depth of 1,500 feet.

Robert Chatfield Chatfield-Taylor, the Chicago Ward McAllister, is a rather tall young man who walks with a nervous step, wears a blond mustache and parts his hair exactly in the middle.

General Averill, whose cavalry division was famous during the war, is now inspector of the national soldiers' homes. He was wounded three times during the rebellion, but remained at the front until the end.

Mr. Campbell-Bannerman is proving himself one of the best war ministers who ever presided over the affairs of the British army, and he has the reputation of being as courteous as he is able and industrious.

Congressman Bynum of Indiana is one of the best amateur trap shots in America. The only American in public life said to be his superior is Governor Flower of New York, with whom the shotgun is a passion.

Logan Carlisle, son of the secretary of the treasury and chief clerk of that department, is credited with a memory rivaling that of Lord Macaulay. It is related that on one occasion he wrote from memory five columns of a speech delivered by his father.

Lord Morris, who regards the Irish question as a case of "a quick witted people being ruled by a stupid people," is a native of Galway. He succeeded Lord Fitzgerald as a law lord. The title carries with it an income of $30,000 a year, but is not hereditary.

James Tyson, lately appointed to the Queensland legislative council, is said to be the richest man in Australia. He was a squatter who realized that much money could be made in sheep and who placed every penny he could command in the sheep raising industry.

Lord Mayor Knill of London, who recently raised an uproar by toasting "the pope and the queen" at a banquet, is a rabid Tory, and notwithstanding his Roman Catholic affiliations is bitterly opposed to Irish home rule. The Orangemen are puzzled to know how to treat him.

Count de Lesseps is described by a writer who recently visited him as a complete wreck, mentally and physically. He recognizes no one and displays no interest in anything except when one of his children attracts his attention for a moment. He is very feeble and spends his days in an invalid's chair.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

Smoking carriages for ladies are now run on Russian railways.

In France the railways employ 34,000 women. Most of them, however, merely receive a small sum for opening and closing gates.

Cornelius Vanderbilt has given $300,000 for an addition to the Railway Men's clubhouse that he established in New York some years ago.

The Burlington recently received 75,000 fans for distribution on the system. The whole "Q" system uses 300,000 fans a year and pays $30 a thousand for them in Japan.

The fast train over the New York Central and the Lake Shore between New York and Chicago must, it is stated, carry 75 through passengers to pay the cost of running it.

Railroad men point to the fact that where there are vestibule cars in wrecks the loss of life and property is small, and an effort will be made to compel companies to use vestibule cars exclusively on passenger trains.

WHITE CITY WAIFS.

In the Midway plaisance it is not uncommon to see a Dahomey man sitting in front of a hut engaged in needlework while his wife sits by smoking a cigar.

The original manuscript of "Sweet By and By," just as it was penciled off in 1861 at Elkhorn, Wis., by S. Fillmore Bennett, is on exhibition at the World's fair.

The section of a tree believed to be over 400 years old—a sapling when Columbus landed—is exhibited in the forestry section of the Government building at the World's fair.

The "Time Saver," a little book which names and locates 5,000 things at the fair, has made its appearance. The 5,000 things are located, classified and graded and marked, "Interesting, very interesting and remarkably interesting."

NATURAL PHENOMENA.

The Giant's Organ is a magnificent pile of basaltic pillars bearing a striking resemblance to the instrument after which it is named in the Giant's Causeway, Ireland.

The greatest cave in the world is the Mammoth cave, in Kentucky, where any one can make a voyage on the waters of a subterranean river and catch fish without eyes.

Expedition island, 40 miles from the northwest coast of Australia, has sunk out of sight 48 feet below the surface of the sea. It was 12 miles long and a mile in width.

At Baku, Russia, there is an immense oil well that "ebbs and flows" with the same regularity as do the ocean tides. It is believed to have some mysterious connection with the sea.

A Polite Debtor.

A tailor called on the young Count C. to demand payment of an old account, but the impenitent debtor was unable to satisfy the demand of his tailor, who called out: "Let me tell you that I am tired of this business—yes, thoroughly tired!"

Count C. (to his valet)—John, bring the gentleman a chair.—Giornale dei Viaggi.

A Porker's Daughter.

Within the car, not half awake,
My gripsack by my side,
I sat absorbed, prepared to take
A blissful three hours' ride.

Away the train began to whirl.
I closed my eyes meanwhile.
I did not know a pretty girl
Was standing in the aisle.

But suddenly my dream all fled,
For o'er me in the car
That maiden stood and gently said:
"You ought to meet my pa.

"Chicago is our home, you know,
And as along we jog
He'll take to you at once, for, oh!
He dearly loves a hog!"

Nervous Prostration
And Dyspepsia in the worst form pulled me down until I could not eat nor sleep and felt if I did not soon get relief, I should surely die. As a drowning man catches at a straw, I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had used three bottles I had increased from 125 to 150 pounds, was able to work again and felt a thousand times better. My friends are surprised to see such a change. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine, and its claims are fully justified in my experience."

TALKING WITH ANGELS.

When a Baby Smiles in Sleep, Then She's Happy.

How Many Happy Infants if Mothers Only Knew More!

A Great Deal of Suffering is Directly Traceable to Ignorance.

In Ireland they have a pretty fancy that when a baby smiles in its sleep it is "talking with angels."

How many more smiling, healthy babies there might be in Norwich if mothers knew more of their babies' needs.

The only remonstrance to this want of knowledge that is possible to little children, is expressed in the language of suffering and disease.

Stale cow's milk—absolutely fresh milk in the city is a fiction—is not only unpalatable and lacking in nutrition but also harmful. Mother's milk is sometimes quite as bad. Improperly prepared substitutes are worse.

But the lactated food prepared in Burlington, Vt., has become a blessing. It is the wonderful result of the great advance that has been made in recent years in the study of infant nutrition.

Probably to the end of time healthful mother's milk will be better than any imitation. But next to this, the most eminent physicians are agreed, and the experience of thousands of parents has proved, that lactated food is the most natural and nourishing diet possible for infants. Its use in the summer is especially to be desired.

It is a better preventive of the dreaded cholera infantum than all the medicine in the world.

It is to be obtained at any drug store, and is not only easy of preparation but is so inexpensive that no family in Norwich need be without it.

The following letter from Mrs. A. Wendall, [illegible] Dana St., Rochester, N. Y., is one of scores that are received every week from happy parents the country over:

"Our baby weighed four pounds at birth. When two months old she weighed but eight pounds with her clothes on. The doctor said she was a very frail child. I commenced feeding her a certain food when she was fourteen days old, but she did not gain strength as I knew she ought. When she was seven months old I changed to lactated food. She commenced to gain at once, and to rest well at night. She has not been sick with bowel trouble once through her teething, and she was teething last summer. I consider lactated food has been a great blessing to our little girl. It has made her healthy, strong and the happiest two year old child in Rochester. Any mother wishing to address one that has used lactated food will be cheerfully answered at my expense by addressing me." jy28d

TURNING OVER A NEW LEAF.

How a Married Man Passed a Very Unhappy and Unprofitable Day.

They had been married years and years, yet never had he gone away from the breakfast table in the morning without a goodby kiss until a friend came to visit them—one of those cynical, time soured bachelors who find fault with everybody and everything and decide for themselves that the whole scheme of creation is wrong.

The friend did not say anything at the time, although the kiss jarred on his sense of the proprieties, but he waited until he had his host by the ear, so to speak, then he said:

"You seem to keep the honeymoon pretty well, George. Must be a deuced bore, too, when the romance is over."

Then good, weak George began to get wabbly in his mind and had a silly fear that his friend was making fun of him.

"Yes," he said as he lighted a cigar, "it is rather a bore, don't you know, but the little woman expects it."

"I dare say," resumed the friend, "but I wouldn't coddle her any more if I were you. It's too—too domestic, you see, for this age. Makes a man seem spoony and weak."

"Yes, I've thought so myself. Guess I'll turn over a new leaf with the little woman."

The little woman, who had more sense in her least finger than George had in his whole body, was greatly surprised when her husband threw his breakfast napkin on his plate, rose in haste and with a cackled "Ta ta, dear," ran off without the customary salute. But she didn't say anything and bided her time. It came sooner than was expected.

George went home at night without the friend, who had returned whence he came. At dinner George was silent and morose, and the little woman asked:

"Anything gone wrong today?"

"Yes. Everything. Lost $50 out of my vest pocket."

"Too bad, but it might have been worse."

"Then I mislaid some valuable papers that I carried in the inside pocket of my coat—it's just been one of my worrying days, don't you know."

"George," said the little woman in a calm, sweet voice, "don't you think it all happened because you went away without a goodby kiss? I've had a worrying day, too, and I laid it all to that."

"By Jove, little woman, I believe you're right. Queer, but I really believe there's something in it."

"And here is the money. You dropped it on the hall floor in your hurry. And the papers are probably in your other coat—you know you changed this morning."

"That settles it, little woman," and George gave her the kiss he had omitted in the morning with interest, and if the friend could have seen it he would have gnashed his teeth—but he didn't.—Detroit Free Press.

The Fertilization of Willows.

Some singular exceptions are found to rules generally deemed absolute, and remarkable ones have recently been noted in connection with theories recently established in regard to the relations between flowers and insects. Flowers have to be fertilized by pollen before they can be productive. Most flowers have stamens or pollen bearing organs and pistils, the reproductive organs, in the same flower, but these separate organs maturing at different times the wind or insects are agents for carrying the fertilizing pollen to other flowers than those which bear it. This is known as cross fertilization.

Those flowers only which require the aid of insects have color or fragrance. This is said to be an arrangement for attracting insects and insuring cross fertilization by their aid. But the exception comes in the case of willows which are in bloom in early spring and often commonly known as "pussy cats." Though in the class fertilized by the wind, they have bright golden color and a delightful fragrance, and the philosophers are at a loss to understand what this exception means.—Philadelphia Times.

Cremation and Disease.

In the efforts to prevent the spread of infectious disease there is no drawback so difficult to overcome as the burial of the dead in the ground. The microbes of disease are very tenacious of life, and they will remain with the dead for a period of 100 years. The microbes may die, but their spores or seeds have the vitality to live, and upon coming into favorable surroundings they will quickly develop. In digging up old burial places, scarlet fever, diphtheria and smallpox have been let loose so that epidemics followed. In Quebec a smallpox epidemic followed the digging up a cemetery where the people had been buried for over 100 years. Similarly in England a scarlet fever epidemic followed the removal of dead bodies from a country parish churchyard.

But occasionally epidemics seem to break out in the neighborhood of cemeteries without any apparent cause. Darwin, however, showed 30 years ago that earthworms completely turned over the soil of every part of the earth in a given time, and now Pasteur comes out with positive proof that the earthworms bring up disease germs and microbes from dead bodies buried several feet below the surface. Those who die from infectious diseases are not only menaces to their friends while they are sick, but their dead bodies are constant dangers to the public health.—Yankee Blade.

Familiarity With Snakes.

Familiarity with the snake breeds toleration. He is a lawless sort of creature certainly, with too many vertebræ and no eyelids, but he is not always so horrible as he is imagined. A snake is rather a pleasant thing to handle than otherwise—warm, firm, dry, hard and smooth on the scales, rather like ivory to the touch. He is also a deal heavier than you expect. When for good behavior I have been admitted to Tyrrell's inner sanctum at the zoo and to the corridors behind the lairs, where hang castoff skins like stockings on a line, I have handled many of his pets. I have never got quite as far as rattlesnakes, because rattlesnakes have a blackguardly, welshing look that I don't approve. But there is a Robber island snake about 3 feet long with no poison who is very pleasant company.—Arthur Morrison in Strand Magazine.

THE SUMMER NIGHTS OF LONG AGO.

Sing me a little song as night draws nigh,
Tender and loving, sweet and soft and low;
And then I'll say a tearful last goodby
To the fond remembered nights of long ago.

O moon serene, that shone on youth's bright shore
And lit the grassy slope with purest glow,
Cast a bright ray down Time's shallowed floor
From the far off summer nights of long ago!

'Tis all in vain! The joyous laugh that rang
Is still. The bitter words and tears that flow
Cannot the voices wake of those who sang
In the starlit summer nights of long ago.

—F. C. Spaulding.

THAT OLD VIOLIN.

"Here comes the doctor, Drascovy. Now I can introduce you," said Mrs. Vincent, pulling up her ponies sharply as she came alongside a gentleman who was walking leisurely out of Brighton on the London road.

"Dr. Manfield, this is M. Drascovy, of whom I have told you. It is very lucky, our meeting now, for he only stays with me another 24 hours or so, and I do want him to see your violins. May he do so?"

"With pleasure, Mrs. Vincent. I shall only be too glad if he will see them and perhaps bring out some of the sound that now lies dormant in them. When will you come, monsieur?"

"At any time tomorrow that may be convenient to you, Dr. Manfield."

"Then say after lunch, about half past 3; I am not likely to be engaged then."

After a few minutes' conversation they said goodby, and Mrs. Vincent whipped up her ponies and drove into Brighton to let her lion roar, as she laughingly said to Drascovy, the rising violinist, with a great future before him, so the critics said. Dr. Manfield was something of a musician and had an odd fancy for picking up stray instruments here and there, some of them valuable, others of no worth, for the doctor did not really know enough about violins always to judge correctly their value, consequently he was well pleased that M. Drascovy should come and give his opinion and play on some of them.

The violinist turned up at the appointed time, and soon Dr. Manfield brought out the first—a violin in dark mahogany, evidently old and well seasoned. Drascovy made some alteration in the stringing, and having tuned the instrument the room was presently flooded with a perfect volume of melody. For some time he went on playing, then ended with something like a sigh and put down the violin with a nod of approval.

"Good, very good," he said.

"I thought so, monsieur. What is that violin worth?"

"Three hundred pounds at least. It is a beauty—one of the best I have ever played on."

"Here is another that seems to me good. Will you try it?"

Once again there was approbation on the musician's face.

"And here," said the doctor, "is one I picked up last year in France, and I don't quite know what to make of it. Somehow or other I never cared"——

There was a knock at the door, and the doctor's page entered.

"Bad accident, sir, in the surgery; will you come?"

"You must excuse me, monsieur. You will be able to amuse yourself till I am able to return, I hope."

Drascovy did not reply, and the doctor in his hurry did not notice that his guest was gazing in speechless wonder at the instrument that had just been shown to him. His hand trembled as he took it up lovingly, tenderly. "Is it possible," he murmured, "the realization of my dream, or am I still asleep? A virgin Stradivarius! Surely this is imagination; it cannot be reality!"

He could hardly string and tune it, his hands so shook, but soon he took up a bow and seemed to listen entranced at his own music. Then he put down the violin and pressed his hand to his forehead, pacing up and down the room. Anon he played again and then took it to the window for a better light. He literally caressed it with his long, thin fingers. He knew there was fame and fortune in that instrument with one who could do it justice. He must have it at any cost.

But he was not rich; he could not pay the money it was worth. Then he played again, and a thought came to him.

He would dissemble. The doctor did not know its worth. He would not tell him, but he would hint that he would buy it. His resolve taken, he had time to calm himself before the doctor reappeared, and then they went on talking, Drascovy hardly able to take his eyes off the Stradivarius. Presently he rose to go.

"Yes, your two instruments are good, very good. By the bye, would you care to part with the third?" making a desperate effort to appear calm. "I have a pupil I should like it for."

"Oh, well, yes; I don't mind, if you will fix what you consider a fair price!"

Drascovy winced.

"Ten pounds?" he asked.

"Yes, if you judge that to be its worth."

He took the violin home to Mrs. Vincent, but he did not tell her much about it. He went to his room, and for the next 24 hours he never left it. Once they took him something to eat, but he sat or stood and played till Mrs. Vincent was quite vexed only as she said you never could tell what a genius was going to do next. She supposed he had an inspiration.

* * * * * * *

"My dear M. Drascovy! Can it be two years since we saw you in Brighton? Are you never coming to see me again? All my friends are anxious to congratulate you on your late phenomenal success, so do come and dine with me on Tuesday or any day you like to name. Now, I shall really take no refusal. By the bye, have you heard of poor Dr. Manfield's sudden death—heart disease? His daughter is with me now. She was left so very poor, for he was deeply in debt. I should like you to see her. Sincerely yours, Mildred Vincent."

Could he meet her, Drascovy thought, the daughter of the man he had defrauded. No! He would refuse, and yet as he sat down to write the note something made him accept.

He was not a happy man. Through all his great success, due so largely to that wonderful violin, there had been the skeleton at the feast, and now the doctor was dead and his daughter unprovided for, living, it seemed, on charity.

"M. Drascovy—Miss Manfield," said Mrs. Vincent.

He saw a tall, queenly woman, with lustrous brown eyes and bright, fair hair, dressed in a deep black gown, relieved by the least touch of white about the throat. Her movements were slow and very graceful, and when she spoke it was in a low voice full of melody. She was very beautiful. He could hardly take his eyes off her, and yet, if she happened to look toward him, he started and cast down his eyes. He could not sleep that night. He knew there was only one woman in the world for him, and she—was the daughter of the man he had robbed! It was well, or ill, for him that he could not see her next day, sitting by a couch on which a sick man lay, one hand in his, the other stroking his hair. "Patience, dear heart, patience," she whispered, "things will be better soon. I shall get introductions and pupils through Mrs. Vincent, and then, dear, it will be all right. You must be content to wait till then, for you know I shall be always true and loving."

"But it is so hard for you, Nellie. I cannot tie you to a cripple, to a life of toil for one so helpless as I am. Oh, it is hard that this should have happened to me, when six months ago I was strong and vigorous."

"Maybe it is better, dear; it should bring us closer together, and in years you may recover, perhaps. And now I will read to you, or we will talk together." And so the brave, strong woman helped the man she had loved so long and still loved, even now that he was condemned to lie on a couch for his lifetime through an accident in a London street. He was poor, and so was she. The working and waiting would be very hard, but she would persevere and conquer. Drascovy was often to be found at Mrs. Vincent's house during the next fortnight, and one afternoon, to his great delight, he found Mrs. Vincent out and Miss Manfield alone in the drawing room.

Ten minutes later he had told her he loved her—had asked her to be his wife.

She hid her face in her hand and bade him be silent.

"You do not understand; how should you?" she said. "I cannot think of what you ask, for if ever I marry it will be to some one very different to yourself—to one who loves me, whom, I too, love, and who is now a helpless invalid on his couch. You are rich, and he and I are poor, but I am going to work hard, and some day I shall be his wife if we are ever rich enough, for you see it will be an up hill task getting singing pupils. You understand now, do you not, and will never ask me any more?"

She looked at him and saw his dark, handsome face working convulsively.

"I am sorry if I have given you pain," she said, for he did not speak, "but you will soon get over it. You are rich and have the world at your feet; all that fame and fortune can give you."

"Except yourself, the only gift that can bring me happiness. Ah, child, you little know of the curse there is on my fortune, on my life itself. But you shall know, though I cannot tell you now. Goodby; forgive me if you can."

He hurried from the room, and presently she heard the hall door bang. She sat still for a long time, pondering his strange words and distressed manner, wondering what he could have to tell her.

That night the mystery was solved. By the last post there came a registered letter, thick and bulky. She slipped it into her pocket to read in her bedroom, for she knew it was from Drascovy.

For a long time she sat before the fire that was burning brightly, and her beautiful eyes were full of tears as she thought of her poor crippled lover and asked herself why she was so poor, why some people had so much wealth and she so little that she could not help and live for the man she loved so well. The tears fell one by one down her cheeks, and as she put her hand in her pocket for her handkerchief she encountered Drascovy's letter.

She broke the seal, and found to her amazement that besides a closely written letter there were 20 bank notes, each for £100. She was too utterly astonished even to conjecture the meaning or cause of this. She could only gaze at the notes until she remembered the letter.

What need to go into details? It was simply a complete confession of what Drascovy had done to obtain the Stradivarius, begging her forgiveness and future friendship and inclosing notes for £2,000 as payment for the instrument. In four years' time, if he were still successful, he said he must send her a like sum again; it was her right, her due, for the violin had done half toward making his fortune.

Nellie Manfield sat and wondered and thought and wept tears of joy over the unexpected good fortune that had come to her till the fire was nothing but a few dead coals in the grate, and a clock outside struck 2. Then she roused herself with a shiver, and having thought how she would go to her lover and tell him tomorrow, how she would soon get on in the world with this to start upon, having told herself that she must indeed forgive Drascovy, she was soon asleep in a happy, dreamless slumber.

There is hardly need for more. Drascovy is dead and has left half his fortune to the woman whose father he had wronged. She has been Nellie Harvey for years now, and her husband, although he will never be quite so strong as other men, is something better than a cripple, and, best of all, they are perfectly happy.—Exchange.

Selling Thermometers.

While talking of his experiences at Old Point Comfort, Chauncey M. Depew told this story:

"At Fort Monroe it was necessary to have an equable temperature in my wife's room. To accomplish that result I went to the store for a thermometer, and the enterprising proprietor placed six on the counter. They all marked a different temperature, and between the highest and lowest was a difference of 10 degrees. 'Great Scott! my friend,' I said, 'with these I shall never know whether it is necessary to leave the window open or to build a fire.' Bound to make a sale, the proprietor said, 'Well, Mr. Depew, suppose you take them all over and try them and keep the one that suits the best.'"—New York Sun.

SEA BATHS IN ITALY.

USE MADE OF THE BLUE WATERS OF THE MEDITERRANEAN.

Exhilarating Plunges In Nature's Great Lavatory—In the Water All the Reserved Etiquette of the Drawing Room Vanishes—Interesting Features.

Those who have been fortunate enough to glide from Italy's picturesque shores into the warm blue waters of the Mediterranean and float luxuriously in the salty sea among a perfect school of happy bathers will never forget it. Never! Venice, Naples, Capri, Amalfi! It makes one's eyes glisten at the very thought of it. To Italy's splendid title, "The Land of Poetry and Song," might also be added "The Land of Baths" were it not that the second name to some fastidious minds would detract from the beauty of the first.

The ancient Romans, borrowing as they did all the worthily imitable customs from their Greek and Egyptian neighbors, found the baths especially suited to their luxurious tastes and carried them to a degree of excellence which had never been attained, making them not only of immense benefit in a sanitary way, but establishing them as a favorite rendezvous for people of culture and talent as well as for the poorer classes, who also enjoyed the privilege of their own compartments. Look at the baths of Diocletian, which are estimated to have accommodated no less than 18,000 people at one time. And those of Caracalla at Rome. What wonderful ruins of a still more wonderful structure! In these walls bathing became a science. Cold baths, tepid baths, hot baths, oil baths, sun baths—every kind of bath! Why simply to visit the place was a rest and recreation. Statuary and paintings lent beauty on all sides. Music charmed. Orators and poets entertained.

What beauty in the remaining walls of the Pompeiian baths! The frescoes are as bright and beautiful as if they were done but yesterday, and the marble carvings and pavements which escaped the fury of the burning mountain have softened in color almost to an ivory.

Then the baths of Nero. Around the coast on the charming picturesque road leading from Pozzuoli to Baia one alights from the little carozzella and clambers up to a cave cut in the side of the mountain, wherein is a spring heated to a high temperature in its subterranean channels by veins of volcanic life which abound near Vesuvius. This spot suited well the comfort loving Nero, who made of it a favorite resort and caused the rough stone couches to be placed there, which still remain.

One reads little of sea bathing in those days. Every Roman colony thought to construct its baths as it thought of raising its temples. But now all Italy turns its face to its natural advantages, and with one accord cries as early as May, "Let us to the sea!" Not all the establishments are as convenient and as well constructed as the Lido at Venice and those of Posilipo at Naples, but they are all on the same general plan. Every place open to the use of the public is provided with a pavilion where people congregate to discuss the latest topics, or to devour with eager ears the latest gossip, while there is always music, from morning till night, if only one of those harassing "organettes" or portable pianos, which grind incessantly and seem always to be playing "Santa Lucia" or "Bella Napoli" and very sometimes with the "Trovatore."

On either side of the pavilion are the "camerini," or dressing rooms—one side reserved for ladies, the other for gentlemen. These "camerini" are the roughest kind of little wooden boxes, carpeted with a mat of braided straw and furnished with four rude chairs for the four persons each is supposed to accommodate. Then there are the steps leading to the water. The fee for the use of each room is one franc fifty (or 30 cents), including the linen sheets, the price never varying whether there be one or four persons together.

Once in the water and presto! change! all the reserved etiquette of the Italian drawing room vanishes. Then and then only does liberty exist, and the pretty little signorinas, as well as the handsome signoras, in the very simplest kind of bathing costume, generally dark blue with a little white braid, transformed into veritable water nymphs, swim off with all the grace and alacrity of a fish, never fearing, never tiring, just as if they had been born to it. And there is no end to romance. Fancy a boat full of handsome young officers towing a trail of pretty, bright eyed girls to some quiet, picturesque spot, where all indulge in a jolly little luncheon. It doesn't seem so very much, does it? And yet one recalls that these same young officers may never have dared address the young ladies on land, or if they have had the good fortune to do so it was only under the watchful eye of the omnipresent chaperon, then we realize what it really means.

Then there are the quieter places, like the placid blue waters of Sorrento, away down under the high walls of rock, where one may float and gaze up at the beautiful villas and fragrant orange gardens. And Capri, where the wonderful blue grotto is free to all who can swim there, while the hurried traveler inevitably falls a victim to the merciless boatmen who shake their hands in one's face and demand "la tariffa," which never fails to exceed the fee regularly established.

Yes, the sea is a blessing to the Italians, open to all and appreciated as well by poor as by rich. Indeed one finds himself wondering what would become of the lower classes—take the Neapolitans, for instance—if it were not for this wise provision of nature. They are said to be constitutionally opposed to the use of water in winter on the grounds that it means certain death by cold, but in summer they fairly live in the sea, and the little street urchins frolic about and dive for the pennies of the "forestieri" without even the encumbrance of a bathing costume.—Chicago Tribune.

A Spot of Oil In the Sea.

Ten miles south of the Sabine river and a mile off shore is a natural phenomenon known to sailors as "The Oil Spot." No visible boundary divides it from the open sea around, but even during a storm, even though the waters become red and turbid, they remain comparatively calm.—St. Louis Republic.

How Squire Bond Was Fooled.

Squire Bond, whose descendants are foremost in Springfield affairs, kept a general store in the early part of the century out on the borders of Worcester county, and like all storekeepers of the period he sold rum. One old tippler whose credit was very weak got badly in arrears, and Mr. Bond got wary about trusting him. The tippler came in one day with his jug half full and wanted it filled clear up, as he was going away. The liquor was poured in until it came up to the cork, but when the squire asked for the money it was not forthcoming. No pleas could induce him to trust any longer, so he poured out as much as he had put in and the tippler went away. The liquid which had half filled the jug beforehand was not rum, but water.—Springfield Homestead.

Phillips Brooks as a Schoolteacher.

It is related that the first attempt of Phillips Brooks to begin a career was a discouraging failure. After he left college he became a tutor in the Boston Latin school, but the principal was so little impressed with his capacity that he asked for his resignation. When young Brooks then decided to enter the ministry, the pedagogue predicted his failure on the ground that he had never known any one to succeed in anything else who had failed in schoolteaching.—Chicago Herald.

"Dat's meant as a disreproach for me. Is dat de way you consoles de widders and orphants? Git out, niggah, 'fore I scalds you!" retorted the dusky widow.—Texas Siftings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Merchants familiar with mixed paints that have been put upon the market during the past ten years, will tell you that many of the manufacturers of these paints seem to think that they could sell anything that was labelled paint, that the merchant cared little what was contained in these paints, and it made no difference to the consumer. The cheapness and convenience of mixed paints, however, counted much in their favor. But the demand for mixed paint that was actually paint, and not simply labelled paint, became apparent, and merchants received the Chilton Paints when they were introduced upon the market, with the greatest of favor, because they knew that they were made out of the best materials that could be bought, were full measure, and that none of the tricks used to cheapen the cost of production were resorted to. The merchant could recommend them. The standard of excellence has never been lowered. The same quality of paint is put up in pound cans as in large packages.

CRIME A DISEASE.

In his farewell to the prisoners at Wethersfield Warden Chamberlain last Sunday took occasion to say: "I have talked with many men about the care of criminals, and have been surprised to find how little some people know about the matter. I have made the question a study, and know things about crimes and criminals which I feel makes me competent to judge of their nature. I believe in treating crime as a disease. A man with a disease, say the typhoid fever, would not be sent to the hospital for three weeks or six weeks, but until he was cured. So it should be with a man who has committed a crime. I would send a man to prison for no time. I would endeavor to turn him and then make him a free man. I would have him learn a trade, improve himself and study character, and at the end of a year, or two years, if he showed that he was a better man and intended to do right, I would let him out on a ticket-of-leave, to be a free man during good behavior."

With such views the position of Warden Chamberlain must have been very trying to him, as he was constantly obliged to subject men to treatment which he could not approve. He must feel thankful that he has been relieved, and that he will no longer have to use "sick men" in such a manner as the laws of Connecticut prescribe. He will go to his well-stocked farm in Barre, Mass., and if he is sincere can profitably spend the closing days of his life in promulgating his views of crime and the most humane methods of reforming criminals.

At present few agree with him in his views, but he might by hard work convince the world that he is right, revolutionize present customs with reference to criminals, and finally succeed in having all criminals regarded as "sick people" and all prisons changed to hospitals for reforming the morally deformed.

NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

The new building for the Young Men's Christian association at Middletown was dedicated Tuesday afternoon. It is a pretty structure and cost about $50,000. The site was purchased for $17,800, and ground was broken on April 7. This association was organized in 1886, and in 1889 the Hon. Henry G. Hubbard of that city started the new building project with a subscription of $5,000.

The building is on the site of the old Commodore McDonough residence, and is four stories high with basement. The basement will contain a store, a bowling alley, a running track and bath rooms. The first floor will be devoted to social rooms and offices in front, with a well equipped "gymnasium" in the rear. On the next floor will be class rooms, a chapel, an inquiry room, and a kitchen. On the upper floor will be two class rooms and 14 bed rooms. An annex in the rear will be used as an assembly hall.

For a nine-year-old association the Middletown branch has done well, and is to be congratulated. Norwich will be next in line to dedicate a home, and it is to be hoped the spring of 1894 will see completed a handsome building upon their site on Broadway. Norwich is moving slower than Middletown, but the new building for the Young Men's Christian association is assured.

JUDGE LONG'S CONDITION.

The pension office has had its say about the swindling operations of ex-Commissioner of Pensions Tanner and Judge Charles D. Long of Michigan. "Corporal" Tanner thus describes the physical injuries of the $7,000-salaried pensioner: "Judge Long is disabled with a gunshot wound in the left hip, and his left arm was amputated above the elbow. The wound, which has never healed, and which reaches through from the left to the right hip, where the bullet still lodges, requires to be dressed at least twice a day, and as Judge Long cannot attend to this himself, having but one hand, he must be regularly attended by a nurse for that purpose. If you take away that attendant and let the old wound alone for one week Judge Long would be a dead man, for it is a place that cannot be allowed to heal without producing blood-poisoning."

Since the above has appeared the pension officials do admit that Judge Long is entitled to a $50 "Gresham" pension, and allow that the increases to $50 and $72 a month were made upon affidavits, and were regular. A pension department that slanders crippled soldiers is a disgrace to the country.

UNDENIABLE FACTS.

The committee on national affairs of the New York republican club in its report on "The democratic panic of '93," calls attention to the following facts:

"On June 22, 1892, the democratic party publicly declared the republican adherence to the American doctrine of protection, an unconstitutional fraud, and the advance agent of the sheriff.

"Thence, until election, Mr. Cleveland and other democratic oracles prophesied disaster to the American people unless a policy the reverse of protection should be adopted. According to them the country was menaced by no evil but republican legislation, which, at the end of thirty years, found no laboring man in enforced idleness, and no producer without a market. Voters sufficient to elect Mr. Cleveland indorsed this contention and demanded a change. Soon after inauguration seeing unmistakable evidence of shaken confidence in the community, Mr. Cleveland submitted to an interview, wherein complaisantly forgetful of pre-election assertions, he informed the people that the one solitary menace to public prosperity and success is the monthly purchase of silver under the Act of '90. Thus by his own lips is it proven that democratic success was reached through false pretenses, which has already cost us two thousand million dollars in property depreciation and business stagnation.

"It was declared at Chicago, and reiterated by Mr. Cleveland, that the McKinley bill fostered no industry 'so much as it does that of the sheriff,' and yet, with the assurance of the speedy introduction of a democratic substitute, the amounts involved in commercial failures increased in six months over two hundred per cent., comparing the first six months of the present year with the first six months of 1892.

"During the four years of Mr. Harrison's administration there was an increase of 126,048 in business concerns, yet the failures in the last year of his administration were 225 less than in the last year of Mr. Cleveland's first administration, and the total amount involved in such failures was less by $3,785,806. In 1888 the balance of trade against us was $28,002,607; in 1892 the balance of trade in our favor was $202,875,686. During the four years of the Harrison administration, pig iron production increased over forty per cent. Savings bank deposits increased over thirty-eight per cent., while the number of depositors increased from 3,418,013 to 4,781,605.

"Commercial business and the varied industries of the country are now the suffering victims of false pretenses, which has already extended to that large army of victims—the industrious workmen and their families who are dependent on daily employment.

"The democratic panic of '93 is not of Wall street, nor is it purely financial. It is not poverty, but distrust. The silver purchase repeal alone is not a specific for present ills. Distrust of silver did not cause restriction of commercial orders, nor the countermanding of those previously given, which began early in the year. It did not dictate the policy of retail dealers and small jobbers to carry a stock sufficient only for present demands nor did it suggest fears of overstocking to the manufacturers, all of which features characterized the incipient stage of present troubles. Contraction all along the line included necessarily workmen's wages, the the production of raw materials. These in turn operated on small trade, made the "circuit" again and again, contracting each time more and more, until mills which have been run continuously for thirty years during business days, have been compelled to shut down for want of work. This action and reaction was not the sudden creation of the silver purchase by our government.

"The democratic panic of '93 is the people's panic; it is not poverty, but distrust of democratic politics."

These strongly contrasted facts show the disaster which a confidence-destroying democratic policy can bring to a prosperous people in less than a year. Who wonders their party leaders are dumb upon the tariff issue.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

An Effect.

One effect of the democratic "change" is to put a good deal less change in the workingman's pocket.—[New York Press.

Philological.

"Another bank gone democratic" is the forcible way in which a Kansas City man refers to bank failures.—[Kansas City Journal.

A Hint.

The democratic senator who has most to republicanize his party on financial questions will be best thought of by the country.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Sub-Title.

A sub-title of the ad valorem "revenue tariff," which the democrats propose to pass, should be "An Act for the Encouragement of Perjury and Fraud."—[New York Press.

Cleveland Hard Times.

These should not be termed Jeffersonian nor Jacksonian hard times. They are Cleveland hard times. Both Jefferson and Jackson were protectionists.—[Albany Journal.

A Singular Fact.

It is a significant fact that no democratic newspaper or democratic statesman has attributed the critical condition of business to the operations of the McKinley tariff.—[Albany (N. Y.) Evening Journal.

Be of Good Cheer.

The general condition of affairs in America, coupled with the uncertainty as to when any change will be made in the McKinley tariff, has a very depressing effect on the Welsh tin plate trade. So soon, however, as these changes do take place, we may anticipate some benefit accruing to English trade.—[The London Economist.

Cheer up, neighbor, congress will meet August 7, and then Messrs. Cleveland, Carlisle & Co. will begin a system of American shop keeping to suit the British manufacturers.—[American Economist.

Kansas Laws.

During the closing days of the recent session of the Kansas legislature two bills were passed and approved by the governor which are of particular interest to persons doing business with residents of that state. The first of them prohibits any lender of money to a person in that state to contract or exact a condition that his loan shall be paid in gold; the second of them provides that any person whose property may be sold under foreclosure of mortgage shall have 18 months in which to redeem it; he during that time to remain in undisputed possession.—[Exchange.

How Many are Loose?

There's another gyascutus loose. The Hon. W. J. Bryan, member of congress from Nebraska, attended a bimetallic convention at Topeka, Kan., one day last week, and being called upon for some of the burning eloquence which that portion of our country delights in, and with which he was loaded to the muzzle, just threw the bridle off his mouth and played the limit. And W. J. Bryan, when he is feeling well and can get anybody to stay, is a sirocco. He has gifts of speech that when turned loose under favorable conditions can sway large audiences, paralyze industry, arrest growing crops and break up families. When roused by the contemplation of man's inhumanity to man or any sickening outrage upon human rights—such, for instance, as the insistence of a hard-hearted, greedy and intolerant creditor upon one hundred cents upon the dollar—he can't "rile up" the emotional natures of a community oppressed with debt and smothered with mortgages to such an extent as to drive men to homicide and depopulate whole counties. And what everybody wants to know is how many gyascutuses are loose.—[N. Y. Tribune.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. Try them.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

His Personal Experience.

The Hon. James W. Husted, while serving his sixth term as speaker of the assembly of the state of New York, writes:

STATE OF NEW YORK,
ASSEMBLY CHAMBER,
ALBANY, Jan. 12, 1880.

I desire once more to bear my testimony to the value of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I have used them for twenty-five years past, and can conscientiously commend them as the best external remedy that I have known. Years ago, when thrown from a carriage and seriously injured, I gave them a thorough trial. In a very short time the pain that I was suffering disappeared, and within a week I was entirely relieved. On another occasion, when suffering from a severe cough, which threatened pulmonary difficulties, which I was recommended to go to Florida to relieve, I determined to test the plasters again. I applied them to my chest and between the shoulder blades, and in less than a fortnight was entirely cured. On still another occasion when suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the shoulder to such an extent that I could scarcely raise my arm, I again resorted to the plasters, and [illegible] the rheumatism entirely [illegible]. I have them constantly by me [illegible] home or abroad. My family as well as myself have found them to be a sovereign remedy, both for external and internal troubles. I never had but one kidney difficulty in my life, and the application of the plasters [illegible] a week. I desire, as I said before, to bear my testimony in a public way to their efficacy, and I know of no better way of doing it than by giving you my personal experience."

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pill may well be termed "Perfection."

A Young Girl's Fortune.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—[Mrs. R. S. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

The Bulletin.

[illegible]

[illegible],
[illegible] to the wood,
Just at its edge a refuge have ye found;
Like partridge chicks in fright,
Keeping yourselves from sight
Under the dry leaves covering the ground.

[illegible]
From our fond sight and touch
If only our hearts' feelings could be known;
We wait with watching eyes
To mark your mild surprise
That, coming early, ye come not alone.

[illegible]
Came flying home this way,
He piped his very sweetest song of you;
In fullest faith and love
We are now here to prove
That bluebird's prophecy shall turn out true.

We push the leaves away,
And there in silken gray
[illegible] tenderly wrapped up your forms;
Open for us your eyes,
Look to the April skies,
Blue as in summer after heavy storms.

Within the opening lid
A thought of blue is hid,
A memory of heavens watched long ago;
A dream ye fondly kept
All that long night ye slept
Beneath the downy coverlets of snow.
—[illegible] in Home Journal.

A Hint to Him.

The grave young man in ordinary black leather shoes was reading his Bible when the summer girl in white Eton jacket entered the car.

The young man's lips moved, but he did [illegible].

He pretended not to see.

Presently a look of pain flitted across his face.

"Excuse me," he growled, "you are standing on my feet."

She smiled sweetly.

"I beg your pardon," she murmured, "but you did not seem to be using them yourself."

Glowering ferociously at the dainty slippers beneath the snowy skirt, he made his way to the front platform.—Detroit Tribune.

Secretary Herbert Goes to Portsmouth.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 25.—Secretary Herbert and daughter, who were the guests of Governor Russell at his summer residence at Coolidge point last evening, embarked on the dispatch boat Dolphin at 9 a. m. and proceeded to Portsmouth.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Quotations in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 25.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 5 to 9 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The most satisfactory feature of the market now is the increase in the number of small orders which brokers are receiving. These are all for cash and are for persons in moderate circumstances for investment. The stock always [illegible], great portion of them odd lots, and yet [illegible] increase in [illegible] from day to day.

That, however, is about the only satisfactory thing that can be extracted from the general [illegible], which reigns in the market. London came from ½ to ¾ higher this morning, and was a moderate buyer. The bears took up their hammering where they stopped last night, and Atchison, Erie and Northern Pacific were [illegible] down to still lower levels.

Of greatest local interest is the drive at Atchison. Opening ⅛ down at 16, it weakened by ½ until 15½ was touched. Then there was a slight rally which sent it back to 16. The campaign against this stock appears to be conducted in New York, but Boston was a free seller during the early hours. So far as can be learned, there is absolutely nothing new that should lead to such a sharp decline. There have been some strong critics of the Atchison management, but the points of their criticism were known to holders of the stock long ago, and the full weight of them should have [illegible] then. With the decline in the stock was a corresponding weakness in the bonds, the [illegible] opening down from [illegible] to [illegible].

The remainder of the local list opened fairly steady. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy started off ⅝ stronger at 71½, though weakening later to [illegible]. Boston & Maine opened ½ down at 141½, New England ⅛ down at 21⅞ and Union Pacific ⅛ down at 18. Sugar opened ⅝ up to [illegible], but declined to 71½, while General Electric after selling ⅛ up to [illegible], weakened to [illegible]. In the copper group Tamarack was [illegible] at [illegible] and Boston & Montana ¼ off at [illegible].

GIVING SIAM AID.

England Vigorously Scored by French Press.

OPPOSING FRANCE IN SECRET.

Will Surreptitiously Provide Siam With Arms.

PARIS, July 25.—The Liberte says that the French gunboats probably will go down the river, shell and destroy the Paknam forts and then return to their positions before Bangkok to bombard the palace. Some painful measure is necessary, adds this journal, for the preservation of France's prestige.

The Debats says that Siam, as a rice producing country, probably does not fear greatly the blockade. As for the operations on land, The Debats thinks the Siamese will be provided surreptitiously by England with all the arms they need.

The majority of the Paris newspapers devote as much space to

as to the matter at issue between France and Siam.

England is reproached by them with supporting the Siamese in their opposition to France's just demands, and with planning to give the Siamese secret aid when hostilities begin.

The extreme Conservatives and Radical newspapers alone abstain from discussing the situation. They are holding back so as to denounce the government in case the Siamese venture prove a fiasco.

A dispatch from Rome says that

Italy Has Asked England

to protect Italian subjects in Siam. The Siamese minister in this city has not yet received his passports from the French government.

Immediately after M. Pavie's departure from Bangkok, however, he will go to Lisbon or Madrid, as he is accredited to Spain and Portugal as well as to France. The minister still hopes for a peaceful settlement of the trouble.

The Siamese secretary of the legation said last evening that no further news had been received at the legation yesterday from Bangkok.

THE ENGLISH PRESS.

France Insists Upon Terms Indefensible in International Courts.

LONDON, July 26.—The Times says editorially this morning: England's main objection in the matter is against making British and French possessions in Asia conterminous. If she desired she might warn France of the dangers she is running by reminding her of the Tonquin fiasco.

The Daily News comments at length on the opinion prevalent in the German press, that a squabble between France and England over Siam would be of advantage to Germany, and expresses the belief that such a squabble would afford a rest to the historic fire-eaters on both sides of the Vosges.

The Standard's letter on France and Siam contains this passage: The terms that France is trying to impose on Siam would be indefensible in any court of international morality. The remarkable experience which we gained from the occupation of Tunis of the methods of French diplomacy forbids us to accept too confidingly the published program of the quai d'Orsay. It is the Earl of Rosebery's duty to tell France plainly that she is pledged to respect the independence of this buffer state. We cannot remain inactive in the face of France's preparations for contrary action.

In conclusion the Standard says: The cynical tone of the German press is a much safer guide for M. Develle than all the acclamations of the Paris cafes.

WITH FALSE KEY.

Burglars Enter a Deering House and Make a Good Haul.

PORTLAND, Me., July 25.—Burglars entered the house of J. S. Ricker in Deering last night, gaining entrance by unlocking a door with a false key. Only Mrs. Ricker and two daughters, who slept on the second floor, were in the house. A big mastiff was loose on the grounds, but the burglary was not discovered until this morning.

Mr. Ricker's desk was broken open, also a closet, and their contents scattered about. From the pantry the thieves stole much silver plate. In the dining room they opened the refrigerator and helped themselves to lunch. In the reception room they stole a large quantity of souvenir spoons and bon-bon dishes.

The total amount of the property missing is $300. There is no clue, but the police are at work on the case.

SILVER TO SPARE.

Sub-Treasury at Chicago Will Not Receive White Metal.

CHICAGO, July 25.—A notice was posted yesterday in the United States sub-treasury to the effect that silver would not be received. During the day many employes of banks brought in sacks of the white metal to get currency in exchange, but they had to shoulder their loads and go back as they came.

There is more silver lying around uncounted behind the rails of the sub-treasury than the force can handle. Canvas sacks filled with dollars and other silver coin are stacked up so that there is hardly room to get about.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Thirty buildings were destroyed by fire at [illegible], O.

One of Rutland's (Vt.) largest grist mills has been burned.

The treasury department refused offers of silver at $0.6975.

Lord Harry, Saragossa and Galline were winners at the Saratoga races.

An explosion in an Indiana powder house blew two men to pieces.

Several persons are reported killed or injured in a railroad wreck at Dodgeville, R. I.

The National Bank of the Commonwealth, at Manchester, N. H., has suspended.

The electric street railway line from Wakefield to Lynn, Mass., is to be begun at once.

Suspicious circumstances are said to attend the death of Jacob Strout of Raymond, Me.

Chief of Police Woodbridge of Hartford has been elected warden of Connecticut state prison.

H. S. Collins, wife and child, narrowly escaped death in a runaway accident at Haverhill, Mass.

Men have been discharged from the department of water works of Fall River, Mass., because the city has no money to pay them.

Hanlon was defeated by Gaudaur at Orillia, Ont., but claims that the course was changed, and protests against the money being paid over.

Miss Grace Shattuck, a young society woman of Springfield, Mass., was killed and a young lady friend seriously injured by a runaway horse.

Drowning accidents—three persons [illegible] at Great Barrington, Mass.; [illegible] drowned at Gardiner, Me.; [illegible] at Portland, Me.

WITHOUT NOTICE.

Revolutionists Begin the Bombardment of City of Managua.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A special to The Herald from Managua, Nicaragua, says: The city of Managua was under bombardment by the revolutionists for four hours on the morning of the 23d.

Two of the steamers seized by the Leons when they started to revolt appeared off Managua at 4 o'clock in the morning. They opened fire at once, and continued to shell the city until 8 o'clock. Thirty shells in all were thrown into the city. Considerable damage was done to public buildings and private houses, and two persons were killed.

No notice of the proposed bombardment was given, but the shelling was begun before the women and children had a chance to leave the city. One shell burst near the house occupied by Minister Baker and his daughters.

Minister Baker has sent a protest to the leaders of the revolution against the violation of the rules of civilization, and acts of barbarism in shelling the city without first giving notice.

CORBETT-MITCHELL FIGHT.

Judge Newton Must Raise His Bid or Contest May Be Off.

NEW YORK, July 25.—It looks like a sure thing now that Jim Corbett will not fight Charley Mitchell at any other place than Coney Island, so unless Judge Newton raises his bid for the contest it may never take place.

No one can reasonably expect Mitchell to box here when an apparently solid club offers $5000 more than the Newton syndicate is willing to put up.

"Parson" Davies is back in town, and he says Corbett told him positively he would not fight Mitchell before the Columbian club. No other reason than that he had been unfairly treated in Chicago was given by the champion.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY.

Laboring Men of Denver Receive Food From the Missions.

DENVER, July 25.—The feeding of the hungry was resumed yesterday at the missions. At the Haymarket [illegible] men were fed.

The crowd was truly a representative one of laboring men. Their faces and hands were clean and bright, but all had troubled looks in their eyes, as if the future was an unknown sea of trouble.

At the People's tabernacle 1000 out of work were registered. They were chiefly young men and wanted to go east, the preference for transportation being St. Louis. A few wanted to go to Dakota points.

ANOTHER BRAZILIAN PLOT.

Officers Proposed to Surrender San Gabriel to Revolutionists.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A special to The Herald from Rivera, via Valparaiso, says that the Brazilian government has unearthed a plot among some of the officers of the troops stationed in San Gabriel to surrender that city to the revolutionists of Rio Grande do Sul.

The plot was discovered just in time to prevent its execution, and the officers implicated have been sent as prisoners to Porto Alegre.

The correspondent adds that in an engagement near San Luis the revolutionary forces were defeated.

CASHIER DISAPPEARS.

Simultaneously the Ledger of Savings Bank Is Missing.

MILWAUKEE, July 25.—John A. Koetting, cashier of the defunct South Side Savings bank, has disappeared from the city, and simultaneously with his disappearance the discovery has been made that the general ledger is not among the effects of the institution.

President Trumpff of the bank says the cashier left Milwaukee last Friday, and that before taking his departure he left with him (Trumpff) a power of attorney to convert his real estate and homestead, worth $50,000, into cash for the benefit of the bank's creditors.

Italian Warships Coming.

BOSTON, July 25.—Dr. Brindisi, the Italian consul here, has just received the information that the Umberto I., the big Italian cruiser, is now on her way across the Atlantic, and within two or three weeks will be in Boston harbor. The Etna, [illegible] Bausan and the Dogali, all three among Italy's most powerful warships, will bear her company during her stay in Boston waters. The ships will remain four or five days.

Pythians Out Clams.

PROVIDENCE, July 25.—One of the biggest excursions of the year was that of the Pythian order down the Narragansett bay today. There was an early morning parade, with some 1600 men in line, and then special excursion steamers were boarded for Rocky Point, where games and concerts and clambakes are going on. There were many prominent members of the order from Massachusetts as guests.

Lacombe to Succeed Blatchford.

NEW YORK, July 25.—It is given out as a sure tip in political circles that President Cleveland will when congress meets send to the senate the name of E. Henry Lacombe for United States supreme court justice to succeed the late Samuel Blatchford. Judge Lacombe was appointed United States circuit court judge by Mr. Cleveland during his former administration.

Think Uncle Sam Has Won.

OTTAWA, July 25.—Sir John Thompson, one of the British arbitrators in the Behring sea court, is minister of justice here. The impression prevails at the department that the United States has won its case and that Thompson is now trying to secure concessions. This confirms the information received here shortly before the close of the argument in Paris.

World's Fair Train Wrecked.

CLEVELAND, July 25.—A World's fair excursion train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was wrecked eight miles east of Akron this morning. Three coaches were derailed by spreading of rails and thrown over an embankment. It is reported that many have been seriously injured, although no one was killed outright.

Sage Gets More Time.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Judge Bookstaver this morning denied the motion of the plaintiff's attorney in a suit of Dell Keegan against Russell Sage, asking for vacation of the order extending defendant's time to serve an amended answer.

Killed by Lightning.

OTTAWA, July 25.—At Clarence Creek, Russell county, today, lightning struck the house of J. B. Landry, killing his two daughters, aged 18 and 16 years. Mr. Landry was also struck, but not seriously hurt.

[illegible]

BOSTON, July 25.—The gentlemen who will determine the value of the Bay State Gas company's plant are George O. Shattuck, Colonel Thomas L. Livermore and Otis Kimball. These three were appointed by Judge Barker in the supreme court this forenoon on the petition of the Bay State Gas company and under the provisions of the Lyford act. The names were agreed upon by Mayor Matthews and counsel for the gas company.

A SERIOUS WRECK.

Mail Section of Shore Line Express Smashed Up.

TWO ARE KILLED, MANY INJURED.

Narrow Escape of Fifty Passengers From Frightful Death.

PROVIDENCE, July 25.—The first section of the "Owl" express, leaving Boston at midnight, was partly wrecked at Dodgeville early this morning, and about 50 passengers had a narrow escape from frightful death.

As it is, two deaths have resulted, and possibly there may be two more, the victims all being mail clerks.

The "Owl" left Boston on time, and ought to have had a clear track. Preceding it, however, was the regular way freight, which had left Boston on time, and was due in this city about 1:03.

When the freight was directly opposite the Dodgeville station, one of the box cars jumped the rail and hung over the track on which the express was due. The accident was promptly discovered, and efforts were made to right the car and get it out of the way. But the trainmen were unable to do anything, and before any danger signals could be set, as is asserted here by some of the passengers, the express came rushing along at full speed.

The Locomotive Struck

the overhanging car, but escaped with slight injuries. But the first mail car, immediately behind the tender, received a thorough raking.

The crash of the two box cars as they came together was terrific. The whole side of the mail car was completely torn off.

There were six clerks in the car busily engaged in sorting the mail bound west of New York.

There was one passenger car on the train beside a smoker, but there was not a large number of passengers, and the casualties among them were confined to a general shaking up and slight cuts from flying glass.

The Dead and Injured Are:

Dead—C. J. Miller, postal clerk, unmarried, of Westbrook, N. Y. F. C. Murphy, postal clerk; leaves family at Putnam, Ct.

The injured are: Captain Robert A. Gray, postal clerk of Dunn, Mass., seriously, skull fractured; has a family. C. B. Buckingham, unmarried, of Milford, Conn., scalp wound, but has reported for duty. Royal E. Blake, examining clerk of the railway mail service at Boston, slightly hurt. Edwin Blake, son of the former, slightly hurt. J. C. Nickerson, brakeman, cut in the face by glass. A. L. Youngerman, passenger, left leg hurt and face cut. Jacob General of Providence, eye filled with broken particles of glass. J. J. McGarrigal, East Providence, severely cut by glass. S. E. Wetherell, passenger, cut and bruised. F. G. Prout, passenger, of Lynn, slightly hurt. T. C. R. Demerts, passenger, of Alstead, N. H., neck cut by glass. David Heffernan, passenger, of Cambridgeport, sprained left knee. Miss Brennan, passenger, of Boston, slightly bruised.

With very few exceptions, nearly every one on the train, passengers and employes included, were more or less injured. In some few instances the injuries received may be fatal.

Miller Was Instantly Killed.

His skull was crushed in, and there was hardly a whole bone in his body—his right arm, leg, neck and back being broken and his left hip dislocated. Murphy also sustained a compound fracture of the skull, and he was generally badly smashed up. He was alive when found, and was taken to the Providence hospital, where it is reported he died in two hours after his reception there.

Captain Gray has a very serious scalp wound, beside a fracture of the skull. His condition was reported to be quite precarious this morning.

Popular Physician Dead.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 25.—Dr. Andrew F. Shea died at 12 o'clock today at his residence on Bradford street. He was taken ill Saturday with inflammation of the bowels, and, heart trouble setting in, his death became only a matter of a few hours. Lawrence is shocked at the sad news, as in professional, social and political circles there was no more popular citizen.

After the Clouds Roll By.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 25.—The committee on organization of the new national bank in this city has decided not to organize until after the financial situation looks brighter, even though the stock is all subscribed for and the subscribers are willing to pay in their money now. This is the bank in which ex-Congressman Coolidge is a leading spirit.

Safe Blowers at Wakefield.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., July 25.—The safe in Haley & Jones' coal office on Vermont street was blown open by burglars last night. They got but $12 for their trouble. The office door was forced open with a crowbar. The burglars drilled a small hole in the top of the safe, which they filled with giant powder and exploded, wrecking the safe.

Contest to Be Postponed.

LONDON, July 25.—Aug. 5 is the date that has been fixed for the race for the Cape May cup, in which Lord Dunraven's cutter, Valkyrie, and Royal Phelps Carroll's Navahoe will take part. It is probable, however, that the contest will have to be postponed, owing to the fact that the Valkyrie is entered for other races that will prevent her from sailing for the Cape May cup on the date specified.

Dublin's Mayor Coming Over.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Alderman Madden announced at a meeting of the city council last evening that the Lord Mayor of Dublin and the officers of the Dublin city council would visit the World's fair Sept. 16. On his motion a committee of nine will be appointed to receive them in a manner befitting the dignity of their position.

Germany Would Be Pleased.

BERLIN, July 25.—The Tageblatt says that Germany would be pleased should France's over-reaching spirit cause serious complications in Asia. Nor would the German government be disturbed, adds the Tageblatt, if the present trouble should result in acute rivalry in Eastern Asia between France and Great Britain.

Orange Has a Small Fire.

ORANGE, Mass., July 25.—At 4 o'clock this morning a small block on Main street, owned by Frank Fitz and occupied by him as a coal office and by Mr. Smith, a tailor, was burned, the fire starting from an unknown cause. Loss on building, $800; loss to Smith on stock, $1000; not insured.

Shoe Shop Shuts Down.

LOWELL, Mass., July 25.—Pilling's shoe factory will shut down Wednesday, and the reason given is the stringency in the money market. A number of operatives have already been laid off. About 200 people will be thrown out of work by the shutdown.

BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS.

W. H. Crane will revive "Henry IV" next season.

John A. Stevens' latest play is called "The Searchlight."

John L. Sullivan's profits this year have exceeded $50,000.

Wilton Lackaye is to be made a star next season by John Stetson.

Composer Woolson Morse and Miss Agnes Reilly are soon to marry.

Sardou is writing a new play for Charles Frohman to be delivered inside a year.

Young Boucicault will be starred next year in "The Shaughraun" by W. A. Brady.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke received a proposal by cable to appear in June and July in London.

Minnie Seligman-Cutting and Mr. Cutting have gone to London in search of a new play.

Giles Shine will be "the other" Dromio in Stuart Robson's revival of "The Comedy of Errors" next season.

"Pat" is the title of a comedy drama by John Dignam, the Irish comedian, in which he proposes to star next season.

"Golden Wedding," called on the bills "a ballad comedy romance" in three acts by Fred Miller, Jr., made a success at Boston.

Among the summer novelties is a melodrama by Scott Marble called "The House With Green Blinds," which will soon be produced by Harry St. Ormond.

Another sporting drama has been written to join the ranks of "The Prodigal Daughter" and the sad memory of "The Outsider." The new work is called "The Days to Come," and it is from the pen of Forbes Dawson of London.

CROWN AND SCEPTER.

Queen Victoria employs four doctors.

Charles V of France was a bibliomaniac. He had 900 rare volumes in his library.

The Duke of Edinburgh wears a gold bangle fastened with a gold lock on his left wrist.

The present sultan of Morocco is descended from an Irish girl who became a member of the then royal harem more than 100 years ago.

The ex-Empress Eugenie is said not to put trust in French medical men. When she fell ill of a sore throat in Paris not long ago, she telegraphed to England for a physician to attend her.

The dowager Queen Maria Pia of Portugal, who is a sister of the king of Italy, is a great sportswoman and one of the best lady shots in Europe. She is also a finished musician, a good artist and an exquisite needlewoman.

The empress of Austria, whose tastes range from expensive Pompeiian palaces at Corfu to thoroughbred horses and an enthusiastic longing to learn modern Greek, is so fond of flowers that her dinner table is frequently covered with them to the exclusion of everything but the plates.

CURIOUS CULLINGS.

Zulu magic has a method unknown to Europeans of raising human bodies in the air.

The state of Massachusetts at one time previous to the Revolution claimed the Pacific ocean as its western boundary.

Southern negroes believe that the bluejay carries sticks to the devil to burn them with if they reach satan's dominions.

When a Paris restaurateur died, he left a will stipulating that the epitaph on his tombstone should be a culinary recipe, to be renewed annually.

Oculists say that the use of the typewriter is harmful to the eyes, the strain on the vision caused by following the letters over the keyboard being very great.

The Hungarian miners in Pennsylvania believe in vampires. Some of them once dug up the body of a mining boss and burned his heart to cure a mate of consumption.

It is said that if a person is trying to deceive you he will invariably draw his thumb in toward the palm. On the other hand, if he is telling the truth the thumb will be relaxed and point away from the palm.

PULPIT AND PEW.

The Methodist church of Kansas has dismissed the Rev. V. H. Biddeson, the Populist chaplain of the state senate, because of the prayers made in that body last winter.

Henry Chapman, 73 years old, is a student of theology at Princeton seminary. It has long been his wish to enter the ministry, but until recently he had no opportunity to gratify it.

P. W. Fauntleroy, a prominent St. Louis attorney, has given up the practice of law and entered the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal church. Mr. Fauntleroy was the lawyer who defended Hugh M. Brooks, who murdered Arthur Preller.

The Presbyterian minister of Ecclefechan, Carlyle's native place, excused himself recently for not sending in a report on "the religion and morals" of his parishioners, on the ground that "there is neither religion nor morals in the district."

NATURAL PHENOMENA.

An Arizona rock 60 feet high is a perfect facsimile of a camel.

In Queen's county, Ireland, right in the center of a level tract of country, there stands a single rock in solitary grandeur. It is the rock of Dunamase, covered from base to summit with the ruins of an ancient fortress.

In Wyoming there is a mound of rock and earth, standing alone in the middle of a plain, called Church butte. It is of most fantastic shape and looks in the distance like the ruins of some grand old cathedral.

From base to summit of an immense mountain of dark red sandstone, 800 feet high, in Weber canyon, Utah, is [illegible] white stone floor with all the appearance of a slide, reaching from the top of the mountain to the bed of the Weber river. This is named "The Devil's Slide."

Commercial Item.

"Dot McGinnis has got some galls," remarked Moses Schaumburg, one of the merchant princes of Harlem.

"What has he been doing now?"

"You remember when it rained hard yesterday?"

"Yes; what a shower!"

"Vell, he comed into my store vile it rained. I asked him if he didn't vant to puy some umbrellas, and vat you dink he say?"

"I've no idea."

"He say he vould prefer to vait in my store until dot shower vas passed over."—Texas Siftings.

Too Much to Stand.

Owner—What's that? The men in my boiler factory out on a strike? What's the matter?

Bookkeeper—I haven't heard; but now I think of it, the new superintendent has moved into the house next door to the rivet driving shop.

Owner—I don't see what difference that should make.

Bookkeeper—You are probably not aware, sir, that he has six daughters and they are all studying music.—New York Weekly.

YOUNG MAN WANTED

To collect and canvass in and about Norwich. German preferred. Security required. CALL THIS MORNING BEFORE 10 O'CLOCK at 62 Thames St. jy26d

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL.

Last Saturday morning we advertised 84 Ladies' Waists that had been 38c. for 15c. each. Within one hour from the time business opened the cream of the lot had been taken. Exactly 52 of the 84 waists were sold before 9 o'clock.

We simply mention this to show that our advertisements are read, and that if we do call attention to something away down in price and you want a part of it, don't delay in coming for it. Bear in mind that there are hundreds of others who read these advertisements and they may all want to take advantage of these money-saving offerings. Therefore, don't delay until it is too late.

Here is Another Chance.

We have several odd lots of garments in our Cloak Department which we want to close. Nothing the matter with them! They are all right in every respect. Only the quantities are small, but they are all we have left of several of the best selling lines of garments we have had this season, and we want to clear them up. Note these:

Lot 1.—30 Ladies' Linen Chemisettes, 8½c. each. Regular price 36c.

Lot 2.—4 dozens Ladies' White Laundered Waists, 39c each. Regular price $1.00.

Only two to a customer.

Lot 3.—14 Ladies' Silk Waists, black and blue with white stripes, $1.39. Regular price $3.00.

Lot 4.—12 Ladies' Blazers, all this season's styles, $1.49 each. Regular price $3 50 to $5.00.

Lot 5.—30 Ladies' Cambric Suits 50c each. Regular price $1.25.

Lot 6.—17 Ladies' Cambric Suits 75c each. Regular price $1 50.

Lot 7.—13 Ladies' Serpentine Suits $1.15 each. Regular price $2.50.

Lot 8.—10 Ladies' White Cashmere Shawls $1.00 each. Regular price $1 50.

These go on sale this morning at 8 o'clock. If you are interested, don't delay. You know our methods. You know that when we make a statement about quantities and prices, it is right. The quantities of each lot and the reductions quoted are exactly correct. Further comment is unnecessary.

Other attractive items are:

Ladies' Underwear.

8 dozens Ladies' Union Suits, short sleeves and knee lengths, for 49c a suit. Regular price $1 00.

Three items in Ladies' Silk Vests.

Ladies' Silk Ribbed Vests, assorted colors, 45c each.

Ladies' Silk Ribbed Vests, assorted colors, 59c each; have been 75c.

Ladies' Silk Ribbed Vests, assorted colors, 79c each; have been $1 00.

Hosiery.

25 dozens Ladies' Hose—Grey-mixed, Tans and Fancy Colors, 5c a pair.

Three of the best styles of Ladies' Black Hose, that were 37½c a pair, are now 39c a pair; 3 for 85c. This is a good chance to lay in a stock for future needs.

NORWICH AND VICINITY

CITY NEWS.

Mrs. A. T. Otis and daughters are at the Niantic house.

Miss Katherine Baird will leave today for a visit to relatives in New Haven and Milford.

The steamer City of Richmond takes a New Haven excursion to Block Island today.

Mrs. Fiske of Hartford is visiting Mrs. Avery Smith of this city at the latter's cottage in Niantic.

Tonsorial Artist Gus Jetter is enjoying the pleasures camp life at Mumford's cove offers this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold and child of Webster, Mass., are guests at the home of Chief-of-Police John A. Bowen.

Mr. Carl and Miss Minna Adams of Stafford Springs are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Frederick Richter, of this city.

Mr, and Mrs. Thomas Kingsbury of Enfield, have been visiting Mr. Kingsbury's sister, Mrs. Eva T. Lane of this city.

Mrs. Isaac Plant and children, who have been spending a fortnight with friends in Thomasville, have returned to their home in Meriden.

Mr. C. S. Sands and family of Montville and Miss Emma Cook of Cottage City are the guests of Mr. C. W. Scott and family on Fisher's Island.

Thirty union grinders at the Norwich Cutlery works were discharged Tuesday morning, Superintendent Watrous refusing to recognize trades unions.

Mrs. Miller, wife of Mortimer E. Miller of the firm of C. H. Case & Co. of Hartford, will spend the month of August at Mr. Miller's old home in Brooklyn.

Martha Washington council, Daughters of Liberty, of New London, will make a moonlight excursion to Norwich Friday evening, by the steamer Summer Girl.

Town Clerk S. H. Freeman has not been able to attend to business duties for the past three days, being confined to his summer home in Franklin by a throat affection.

Miss Nancy G. Mitchelson of Hartford, a graduate of the New Britain school, has been chosen teacher of the cooking department which is to be reopened this fall in the Willimantic Normal school.

The placing in position of the new telephone poles entertained a large audience on Shetucket street Tuesday afternoon. New and substantial looking poles have been placed on most of the country roads to the west of the city.

Country Boy and Happy Doctor, two well known Norwich trotters, are entered in the Fitchburg, Mass., races. Country Boy is entered in tomorrow's 2 24 event, and Happy Doctor is scheduled in the 2.50 and 2.24 races today.

Palmer Smith has purchased land for and will build a dock at the foot of Rose alley, below Preston Brothers' store, for his newly purchased boat, the Gypsy, which will make several trips daily to White Beach, below the New London lighthouse.

A party of thirty Norwich gentlemen chartered Comstock's steamer Hattie Tuesday and steamed out into the Race for bluefish. The result of the day's sport is a witness to the falsity of the published reports of the fish abounding in these waters this season.

The last stone of the Laurel Hill approach to the new bridge was laid Tuesday afternoon. The roadway in the evening was closed to travel, but both footways are now in use. The construction of the bridge passed the three months limit Friday last, the 21st inst.

The Clipper base ball club of Norwich wants to arrange a series of games with the Mystic team. Mystic is playing very good ball lately. She has two fine pitchers in Lovett and McGregor, and the rest of the team is of a character to make the Norwich boys hustle.

Ralph B. Colt, the 16-year-old son of General Colt, a second year student of the Norwich Free Academy, has been tendered and has accepted a position in the actuary department of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York.

The Laurel Hill Acmes came up on the steamer Ella last evening, gleefully announcing that they had beaten the Eastern Point nine by a score of 9 to 0. They had arraigned to try conclusions with the Young Eastern Pointers, but the latter, on the arrival of the home nine, refused to play.

Harry Trafton, Albert Reynolds and Walter Buckingham, who are camping out in the Columbia college boat house, paid a visit to the city Tuesday. They say that the weather is delightfully cool at Gales Ferry, and that the campers upon the banks of the Thames are enjoying themselves to the utmost.

Charles E. Evans and William Hoey, the well-known comedians, are spending part of the season at the Fort Griswold, and studying up new business for "A Parlor Match," the coming season, which will open in Indianapolis, September 3. William D. Mann, the manager of the company, is also at the Fort Griswold.

The Springfield Republican says editorially: "The Haverhill Gazette gives notice that Senator Edward Shaw of Newburyport will be a candidate for state treasurer. It says he is highly thought of by Boston financiers, and that no man in Essex county, which has heretofore been ignored in the make-up of the state ticket stands higher."

Work on the Thames street extension of the electric road has been carried past Gear avenue. Considerable space near the Richmond Stove works remains untouched, awaiting the removal of the old High street corner building, which is being rapidly torn down and carried away. Unhappy the horses forced to travel that street just now!

The sites for the electric poles on Laurel Hill avenue were marked off yesterday, and Superintendent Shaw is in consultation with the superintendent of construction regarding the curve which the road must make in ascending Bridge Hill. It is said that the work on this extension will be begun next week.

The Humane society and the board of public works of New Haven have established twelve fountains for dogs to drink from. The device is a trough about ten inches from the ground, a foot deep and eight inches across. The plumbing is connected with the water main and the trough is kept full. The project is new for New Haven. It has 3,500 dogs, many of great value, and the drinking fountains will gratify a good part of the human population and everybody that has a right heart.

The funeral of A. W. Willey was held from his late residence on Asylum street Tuesday afternoon. Miss Clara Banks of Haydensville officiated. Mr. Willey was born in Hadlyme, in this state, and he engaged in the woolen manufacturing business. Twenty years ago he removed to Norwich and engaged with his son in the manufacture of cigars. For the past year his health has been so poor that he had to give up business and for most of that time was confined to the house. Mr. Willey leaves a wife and seven children. He will be interred in the family burial plot in Old Lyme.

Bricklaying Delayed.

There were no bricks laid on the Masonic temple Tuesday, owing to a delay in the appearance of a new supply. The trusses for the third story were put in position Tuesday.

Railroad Hearing Postponed.

The hearing on the proposition of the Norwich electric street railway to cross the track of the New London Northern railroad at Yantic has been postponed from Thursday to August 15, at the request both of the railroad commissioners and the legal counsel. It will be held in the Union station.

Not Jumping for the Chance.

Of the seventy-two dealers in oleomargarine, who would be required to take out the government license under the new law, August 1, only five have applied. The wholesale license is $480, and the retail license $48 Neither of the two wholesale houses in New Haven have applied. The only wholesale dealer who has taken out a license is in New London. The cost of the license is considered too great to justify the dealers in applying.

The Electric Poles on the Extension.

There promises to be an animated public hearing on the placing of the poles along the electric road extension routes in the council chamber Friday evening. Some of the Thames street residents take exception to the proposed locations, and to facilitate matters the special committee will go over the line with Surveyor Chandler and mark the position of the poles with chalk. The committee is composed of Mayor Harwood, Alderman Aborn and Councilman Henderson and Stetson, and justice will prevail.

City Court—Kellogg, Judge.

The one-handed stranger who occupied the attention of two police officers and two assistants early Tuesday morning, proved to be William F. Leach of Hartford. He was found guilty of disturbing the peace, in the city court Tuesday morning and was fined $5 and costs—$11.66. Leach was committed.

John Aflick of Providence was presented for drunkenness. He was found guilty and fined $15 and costs—$21.66. Committed.

John Erwin of Greeneville was convicted of breach of the peace, and fined $10 and costs, amounting to $19 12. Paid.

NEW VESTIBULE TRAIN.

New York & New England Competing With the Consolidated for Through Travel.

A complete vestibule train will be run by the New York & New England Railroad company hereafter, in connection with the Norwich line steamers. The train will leave Boston daily, except Sundays, at 7.05 p. m., connecting at New London with the steamers of the line. Returning, will leave New London at 5 35 a. m., due in Boston at 9 a. m. This train is in connection with the improved service which has recently been arranged.

A FINE BARN BURNED.

Brush Brothers of Bozrah Suffer a Heavy Loss.

The fine barn belonging to the Brush Brothers, on the cross road connecting the Lebanon and Colchester turnpikes, with its entire contents, including over eighty tons of hay and valuable farming implements, was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon. The origin of the blaze is unknown. When the flames were discovered they were beyond control, and licked up the building in a short time.

The barn was one of the most modern, ornate and commodious in eastern Connecticut. It had accommodations for sixty cows, besides other cattle.

TENNIS RECEPTION.

The Greeneville Club Entertain Thirty of Its Friends.

The Greeneville Tennis club gave a reception to thirty friends Monday evening at their grounds on Prospect street. A flag gaily floated from the pavilion where the games were watched and sets made up for lawn tennis and croquet. Tea was served at dusk across the street on the lawn of the secretary of the club, and the choice refection was under the care of the patronesses, Mrs. C. W. Carey, Mrs. B. H. Palmer and Mrs. W. P. Potter. The grounds were decorated with Chinese lanterns, and a large screen hid the diners from the street. Progressive conversations in nooks under the trees and arbors filled up the evening, and just before the gathering closed all met in the house and had half an hour of old-fashioned jollity, with dancing, singing and story telling by the professors and college students present.

The Dodgeville Horror.

Edward C. Murphy, the chief clerk of the crew in the mail car, one of the victims of the railroad accident at the Dodgeville depot, was born and spent his youth in this city. When a young man he left Norwich to accept a position as postal clerk at Putnam, receiving the appointment through the Hon. John T. Wait. He is cousin to Assistant Engineer Charles E. Rogers.

The mail bags of the fated car which came through to this city bore horrible evidences of the catastrophe, broken glass and wood and human gore being mingled with the mail matter.

DIED.

COUGHLAN—In Norwich, July 25, Mrs. Catherine Coughlan, wife of the late David Coughlan, aged 65 years.

Funeral from her late residence, No. 24 Seventh street, Thursday morning, July 27, at 8.15 o'clock. Services at St. Patrick's church at 9.

To Whom it may Concern:

The Mayor of the City of Norwich and the Street Committee of the Court of Common Council of said City having been appointed a committee to inquire into and report to said Court of Common Council upon a petition of the Norwich Street Railway Company, asking said Court of Common Council to pass an order relative to the erecting, placing and maintaining poles, wires and conductors by said company, in Shetucket street, from Main street to a point in said street southerly of Laurel Hill Bridge, in Laurel Hill Avenue from Laurel Hill Bridge to the City line; in Thames street from West Main street to West Thames street; and in West Thames street from Thames street to a point near Dunham street, and also to designate the size, kind, quality and finish of said poles, wires and conductors.

We therefore give notice that we will meet at the Common Council Chamber in the City of Norwich on the 28th day of July, 1893, at 8 o'clock p. m., when and where we will hear all parties in interest in relation to said matters.

C. L. HARWOOD, Mayor.

EXCITING DAY IN WALL STREET.

Rapid Shrinkage in Values—Sales Made at Any Price.

ALMOST A PANIC.

Railway and Miscellaneous Bonds Heavy and Demoralized.

NEW YORK, July 26.—This has been the most eventful and exciting day for a long time on Wall street and financial circles generally. Liquidations were on a more extensive scale than at any previous time since the downward movement set in and the result was a decline of simply appalling proportions.

The intelligence that the Erie had been placed in the hands of receivers, although not unexpected, was a shock to confidence and started an indiscriminate selling movement through the list. Many brokers who could not reach their customers in time threw their stocks overboard. The great break, however, occurred after the announcement that H. A. Nichols & Co. had failed.

Then the market drifted into a panic condition. The excitement was not as great as in 1884 and 1873 panics, but the shrinkage in values was very rapid and sales had to be made at practically any prices that happened to be bid.

The failure of Nichols & Co., followed by the suspension of Broker John H. Demont, showed plainly that the banks were closing in loans, and this made it nervous. The rate for money jumped up to 3 16 per diem and interest and closed at 20 per cent. per annum. Dividend paying shares and bonds and the non-dividend payers suffered alike today, and the depression reached an acute stage.

The exceptional break in Evansville and Terre Haute from 127 to 70, was due to the fact that H. A. Nichols was a director of the company, and had borrowed considerable money in stock. The other big declines were: Manhattan 12 to 100, Delaware and Hudson 11¼ to 103¾, Oregon Navigation 11 to 46, Lake Shore 6¼ to 108, Lakawanna 8 to 130, Jersey Central 9 to 84, Lake Erie and Western preferred 7 to 70, Pullman 6¾ to 146, Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred ⅞ to 74, Consolidated Gas 6 to 110, Cotton Oil preferred 6 to 50, Northwest 6¼ to 94¼, Erie preferred 8 to 15, Sugar 5 to 67, do. preferred 5¼ to 68¼, and Missouri Pacific 4¼ to 16½. Although final quotations showed a recovery of ¼ to 1 from the lowest, the market left off feverish and the feeling in stock circles was unsettled.

Railway and miscellaneous bonds were heavy and demoralized. Forced sales and closing out of loans account for the phenomenal break in prices.

THE STORM AT HARTFORD.

Trees Uprooted—Gate-Tender Injured—Furniture Factory Unroofed.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—A severe wind storm in the west, accompanied with heavy rain, lightning and thunder blew over this city about 11 o'clock this morning. It was similar in intensity, while it lasted, to the violent storm of about ten days ago, which did so much damage to the tobacco over in East Hartford. Today's lasted about fifteen minutes and threatened considerable damage. Some large trees in the west and south parts of the city were uprooted and the telegraph service was temporarily disabled.

In East Hartford some large elm trees were destroyed.

John Gibson, a gate tender at the Main street crossing of the New York & New England railroad, was badly cut and injured on the head and back by the large signal pole blowing down on him.

It is reported that some houses were unroofed in West Hartford where the storm was particularly severe.

The furniture factory of Siegler & May on Pearl street was partially unroofed and the roof of the Killings' residence on Prospect avenue was blown off, injuring George Riley, the gardener. On Evergreen avenue the roof of the Gorgas residence was lifted but dropped back again.

Arrested on Suspicion.

BOSTON, July 26.—James Mullen is under arrest in Charlestown on suspicion of having caused the death of Thomas Walsh, aged 25, tonight. Both are attached to the marine corps at the navy yard and had been doing the town tonight in company with a third man, as yet unknown. Tonight Walsh was found lying on the sidewalk on Chelsea street with several bad gashes on his head, and died on his way to the station. Mullen and another person were seen to have a quarrel some time before, but whether the former's injuries were received at the hands of his companion or whether they were received by striking the sidewalk is not known.

Lusty Turners at the World's Fair.

CHICAGO, July 26.—At 4 p. m. an army of lusty turners who came from various parts of the country began a march through the World's fair grounds, receiving an ovation from the crowds that thronged the thoroughfares. The turners went to the stock pavilion. A great many people had congregated to see the performance and welcomed the athletes with loud cheers. The programme included gymnastic games, fencing with foils, dumb-bell drill by veterans and wand drill by 3,000 members.

"Bulgaria, the Apple of Discord."

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 26.—The Chautauquans at Lakeview today listened to a lecture on "Bulgaria, the apple of discord" by Mr. Youtcheff. He analysed the European situation and showed why the eastern question was left open. He said it was impossible to avoid a great war there sooner or later.

Dwelling House Demolished.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—The violent wind and rain storm this morning demolished a frame dwelling house on Spring street, in process of erection. A cow belonging to W. L. Andrews of Elmwood was killed by a stroke of lightning.

$6,000 Loss Caused by Lightning.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 26.—During a heavy shower today the house and barn of Samuel Preble, near York corner, was struck by lightning, set on fire and destroyed with contents. Loss $6,000; insured for $1,000.

The Pilgrim Takes Another Spin.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 26.—The Pilgrim took another sail today after the squall, and set her balloon jib for the first time. She sailed alone for the Jubilee had disappeared early in the morning. After running off the wind the Pilgrim hauled on the wind and beat up the bay. The breeze was light from the south, varying to the westward, and not very fast time was made, but the light sails set well.

POWDERLY'S SUCCESSOR.

Thomas B. McGuire of New York Said to Be the Man.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Now that it is given out in Knights of Labor circles that Mr. Powderly has decided to give up the office of general master workman of the Knights of Labor, and to settle down to the routine work of an everyday lawyer, for which he has been studying for some time, and the practice of which he probably will begin in his home in Scranton, Penn., there is great interest regarding his successor as the head of the order. It is no secret that Mr. Powderly has become tired in the harness he has been wearing, and has severely felt the knocks that came about through many conflicts. It is said that he has come to the conclusion that "the game is not worth the candle."

It was under the administration of Mr. Powderly that the Knights of Labor attained prominence and became a power with organized labor in the land. The order had been growing when he was first elected general master workman, but it was not much known. It was under him that it grew so rapidly.

Thomas B. McGuire, it is said, will be Mr. Powderly's successor as general master workman, and this is one cause for thinking that stormy times are ahead for the organization. McGuire, who was formerly a truck driver in this city, is a member of the general executive board of the Knights. He has long been an active labor agitator. He joined the order and managed to become a member of the inner circle known as the Home Club in District Assembly No. 49, which was [illegible] to rule or ruin that organization. The Home club succeeded so well that the membership of No. 49 was reduced from 70,000 to 20,000. An assessment of $1 was levied on each member to buy a building for headquarters. Pythagoras hall, in Canal street near the Bowery, was bought, but only part of the money was paid, and a mortgage was given for the remainder.

Internal quarrels rent No. 49 asunder, the interest on the mortgage was not paid regularly and the property of the district assembly was finally placed in the hands of a receiver. McGuire was master workman of No. 49 for a term, but the fighting continued, and he was then appointed a lecturer for the order. He is a voluble speaker, not logical, but assertive, and is addicted to the habit of imitating the gestures and delivery of persons he dislikes with the object of ridiculing them.

STATE BOARD CHARITIES.

Commissioner Heman C. Whittlesey of Middletown Elected.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—The new state board of charities met today at the capitol to elect a secretary. Governor Morris recommended the appointment of D. Ward Northrop, ex-postmaster of Middletown, and ex-state secretary. The board discussed the matter but at a late hour this afternoon had arrived at no decision. It has been usual to elect a secretary, a member of the board and several members object to electing a secretary from outside the membership.

Later in the afternoon the board decided to not elect a secretary from outside the board and elected Commissioner Heman C. Whittlesey, republican, secretary to serve for one year from July 1, 1893. Mr. Whittlesey is a resident of Middletown and a graduate of Yale university, 1890, with the degree of L. L. B.

Members were appointed to visit county homes as follows: Hartford county, Miss Mary Hall; New Haven county, Miss Rebekah G. Bacon; Middlesex county and Litchfield county, Commissioner Spencer; New London and Tolland counties, Mr. Whittlesey; Fairfield and Windham counties, President Tracey. Monthly visitations to state prison, insane asylum, reform school and industrial school were assigned to members.

Fairfield County O. U. A. M.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 26.—The annual field-day of the Fairfield county councils of the O. U. A. M. will be held here Friday and twenty-five state councils have accepted the invitation to take part in the parade and picnic. Among the councils to be here are Charter Oak, Hartford; Lincoln, South Norwalk; Goddess of Liberty, New Haven; Pahquioque, Danbury; Leeds, Stamford; Grant, New Milford; William Fowler, Milford; Ledyard, New London; Evening Star, Winsted; Jonathan Trumbull, Willimantic; Liberty, Warehouse Point; Chambers, Jr., New Britain; Victor, Canaan, and America, Montville. State officers will be present and make addresses.

Burglars in Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—The police recently succeeded in breaking up a gang of youthful burglars in this city, but developments today seem to indicate that not all have been sent to the reform school or jail. It has just been ascertained that Blumenthal's German market on Market street was entered on Monday night, and Soby's Main street cigar store last night. In each place the burglars, believed to be boys, stole cigars, money from the cash drawers and broke open cash registers. Silver was taken from the restaurant. Nothing of great value was taken, probably because it was not attainable. There is no clue to the burglars.

Bering Sea Report Denied.

LONDON, July 26.—Hon. E. J. Phelps, who was one of the American counsel before the Bering Sea tribunal of arbitration, was questioned today in this city in regard to the report circulated in the United States to the effect that the tribunal had decided in favor of the Americans. Mr. Phelps declared that there was no truth in the report. He added that he did not expect a decision would be reached by the arbitrators for some days.

The R. of K. Visits the Vanderbilt Mansion.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 26.—The Rajah of Kapurthala and party this forenoon visited the Vanderbilt mansion, but were obliged to remain in doors this afternoon on account of the rain. Tonight they attend a dinner given by the Duke and Duchess de Baufort. The party will probably leave for Boston in the morning.

Horses Killed by Lightning.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., July 26.—The barn of James F. Mason in Franklin, Conn., was struck by lightning at 11.50 this forenoon and partially burned. Loss, $300. Insured. A pair of horses in the barn were killed valued at $600.

Tolland Woman Killed by An Electric Bolt.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., July 26.—Mrs. Booth of Tolland, was struck by lightning during the severe storm today and killed. Mr. Booth was paralyzed, but will recover.

To Reduce Its Running Time.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., July 26.—The Willimantic Linen company will reduce its running time ten hours per week, commencing Monday, July 31.

THE RACES AT HARTFORD.

Second Day's Events—Good Attendance in the Afternoon.

THE SUMMARIES.

On Account of the Storm the Horses Were Not Started till 3 P. M.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—At the Driving Club track, the second day of the meeting, there were signs left of the severeness of the semi-cyclone and thunder storm that swept over the city during the morning. The canvas over the grand stand and also over the pool-selling department was ripped off and the cooling-out tent was leveled to the ground, the poles being broken off midway down.

President Phelps had a corps of joiners at work repairing damages as soon as it was possible to obtain them, and before the call bell was sounded the pool department framework and canvas had been restored, as was also the cooling-out tent.

The track had been flooded, but prompt attention on the part of Chairman Tuttle, assisted by Ed. Ryan, soon had harrow and brush at work drying out the course, which was in fairly good condition before the races were called.

The air during the afternoon partially relieved one from the intense closeness of the atmosphere. The threatening weather had no ill effect on the crowd, which was even larger than on Tuesday. Speculation was lively.

In the 2.30 class there were seven starters. Frank sold at $10, Alcantine $8, field $5.

The 2.25 class had only three starters, Nellie R., Boo Peep and Stamual. Stamual was favorite at even money on field.

The horses were not started until almost 3 o'clock.

RACES AT CLEVELAND.

By a Hard Fight One Favorite Wins—The Summaries.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 26.—Only one favorite won the grand circuit races this afternoon and then only by the hardest kind of a fight. The races were very exciting.

In the stake for three-year-olds or under Double Cross started out a heavy favorite, but she was not in good trim to defeat Oriole, and the latter won with ease in three straight heats.

In the stake for 2.21 trotters, Jay Hawker was a favorite and won in three straight heats after San Pedro had got the first heat. In the last heat of the race Navidad showed surprising speed and came very fast along the last quarter. He was pocketed by Jay Hawker and Belle and could not get through. Had he been able to do so he might have won.

In the race for pacers of the 2.14 class Red Hal sold as favorite. Alvan Swift was second choice, and there was more betting on the race than on any other of the meeting. Henry F. set the pace for the first heat and won it. In the second heat Hal Dillon was successful, to the surprise of his owner. Paul came very fast in the next two heats, and won both with ease. In the fifth, as Paul had generally played as favorite, Hal Dillon won.

In the last three heats Alvan Swift made a glorious finish and was beaten in them each time. The day was perfect for racing and the attendance excellent. Summary:

For three-year-olds and under; 2.30 class; purse $5,000.

Oriole	1	1	1	1

Hottest Day of the Season at Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 26.—It was the hottest and sultriest day of the summer, the mercury reaching 95 degrees. A terrible thunder shower struck the city at 2 p. m., and within thirty minutes the thermometer fell 24 degrees.

Big Searchlight Shipped to Chicago.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 26.—The big searchlight made at the Schuyler Electric company's factory here has been shipped to Chicago for exhibition. The light is the largest in the world. The test made with the light, which is of many million candle power, attracted general attention last week.

PUTNAM.

Justice Cases—Clerk Murphy Improving.

Herbert Remington, and Louis Greer were before Justice Johnson Wednesday; found guilty of drunkenness and fined. Greer paid $14 64, but Remington could not pay $27.97 and was committed to the Brooklyn jail.

Chief Clerk E. C. Murphy, seriously injured in the collision of the cars at Dodgeville, R. I., is alive, and a telegram Wednesday evening said he showed signs of improvement, and hopes for his recovery are entertained.

COAL BARGE SUNK.

The Conklin on Bottom With a Cargo of Coal at Allyn's Point.

The coal barge Conklin, which arrived at Allyn's Point Saturday, sprung a leak soon after her arrival and last night was nearly full of water, the pumps being of little service. Monday the barge was towed to a position near the eastern shore and the prevailing high west winds sent her on the bank.

Captain Scott of New London endeavored to float the craft at low water, about 2 o'clock this morning. There are 1,112 tons of coal in the hold of the Conklin.

BAGGAGE THIEVES.

They are Operating Extensively on New England Railroads.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 26.—There is a gang of thieves operating along the railroad and devoting themselves entirely to baggage, and to protect the Maine Central and its patrons from loss General Manager Tucker has issued orders directing all employes to watch sharply for these crooks, who are stealing baggage and baggage checks and transferring checks from one piece of baggage to another, etc.

Mr. Tucker says, "The parties are well-dressed men and women, and are supposed to be the same parties who operated in this state last year. This gang has commenced on the roads west of Portland and are working east. They are likely to commence operation on the line of this road at any time. Too much care cannot be exercised for the protection of baggage at all times. But especial care should be taken against loss from the thieves who are at this time operating in New England. Great care must be taken for the safety of the United States mail pouches and bags which pass through the various stations."

Closed for Lack of Orders.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 26.—The Cordis mills, Millbury, employing 150 hands, will close Friday for four weeks, because of lack of orders. The mills belong to the same owners as those in Warren, Thorndike, Bondville, Palmer, Three Rivers and Ware. They have not been closed on account of depression since 1863. Lapham's mill in Bramanville has also reduced production. The Knowles loom works in this city, employing several hundred hands, shut down today for a ten days' vacation. A similar vacation was taken last year.

A 200 Pound Boulder Crashes Through a Roof.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 26.—At eight o'clock this morning while the workmen engaged in the new cut of the Consolidated road at Fair Haven were blasting, a huge piece of rock weighing about 200 pounds was thrown a great distance in the air. It landed on a house in Grove street, a distance of 200 yards from the blasting. The boulder crashed through the roof and partially through the floor of the second story.

Directly underneath the point where the rock lodged, stood two cribs from which two young children had been taken not five minutes before the rock struck. No one was injured, but the house was considerably damaged.

Return of Commissioner Olney.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 26.—Commissioner Olney of the school fund, reached here from Lima, Ohio, at 3 p. m. today, returning from his visit in that city, where he had been to ascertain the losses of the school fund which have been occasioned by the defalcations of E. L. Gunn. The commissioner had no particulars to give the public.

To Shut Down.

PUTNAM, July 26.—Fisher & Company's shoe manufactory will shut down this week on account of the dullness of the market. The establishment will not start up again until there is an improvement in the business.

It is reported that Hammond & Company's silk mill will soon run on short time.

Foul Play Disclosed.

GARDINER, Me., July 26.—An autopsy upon the body of Charles Blean, who was drowned from a boat on Horse Shoe pond, Sunday, discloses unmistakable signs of foul play. George Silver, who was with Blean, Ed. Wakefield, from whose summer camp the men were returning, and Harry Dunn, a local barber, who met Silver directly after the drowning, are held as witnesses. An inquest was begun today.

Colossal Explosion.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Advices from Hong Kong gives details of an explosion at the government powder magazine at Canton on June 24, which killed many persons, injured over 300 people and wrecked 400 houses.

Boston Merchant Found Dead.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 26.—George P. A. Currier of the firm of Warren & Blanchard of Boston, wool jobbers, was found dead in bed at 7 o'clock this morning at the house of his father, Augustus N. Currier, in this city.

Barns Struck by Lightning.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 26.—A large barn and two small ones were struck by lightning and burned today with over 100 tons of hay. The barn was owned by Bradley Nichols. Loss $3,000; insurance $1,500.

Killed on the Shore Line.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 26.—Christian Berg, aged 85, was killed on the Shore Line at Branford this afternoon by a westbound express. The old man belonged in this city and wandered away from home about a week ago. He was slightly demented and was sitting on the track when struck by the train.

Fell from a Fifth Story Window.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 26.—Mamie Lynch, aged 5, fell out of the fifth story window of a building at St. John street and Wallace streets this afternoon and sustained injuries from which she died an hour later. The child had been playing at the window of its parents' flat and lost its balance.

A SUBMARINE ROCKET TORPEDO.

Will Travel a Thousand Feet a Minute Under Water.

THROWN BY ELECTRICITY.

Tested at Newport in Presence of Naval Torpedo Board.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 26.—A submarine rocket torpedo of remarkable force and action has been tested here in the presence of the naval torpedo board. It is the invention of Patrick Cunningham, a New Bedford man. It is thrown by electricity and by means of a lateral spiral screw, operated by the gas that escapes en route, is projected a great distance.

The torpedo tried was seventeen feet long and fifteen inches in diameter. It was fired from a tube made of an iron waterpipe, by two electric wires which ignited the rocket composition. The action of the torpedo is similar to that of a rocket in the air. The firing tube was run out so that the torpedo was a foot from the bottom and four feet below the surface. When fired, it apparently glanced from the bottom at the start, for it quickly came to the surface and for 100 to 150 feet traveled along the surface of the water about three-quarters submerged. It then sank below the surface and continued toward the buoy, 1,000 feet away, its course being marked on the surface by the bubbles from the escaping gas. After going about 800 feet the power was exhausted and the torpedo sank to the bottom. The run of 800 feet was timed in 40 3-5 seconds, and the direction was almost perfect. When fully charged the torpedo is capable of going much further, and, presumably, for the distance, much faster.

Business Dull at Danbury Hat Factories.

DANBURY, Conn., July 26.—Business is appallingly dull here. Bryan, Dexter & Hawley, and Ratchford & Lee, hat manufacturers, are the only two firms who are doing anything to speak of. The latter firm is somewhat crippled as to facilities, having had two large buildings destroyed by fire not long ago. Of the thirty other shops here scarcely any are doing any business. A few of these have promise of a good fall trade, but generally speaking the outlook is very discouraging.

Cigars Confiscated by a Deputy Collector.

ANSONIA, July 26.—Mr. James, an Ansonia cigar maker, has had 300 cigars confiscated by Deputy Collector Gaffey of New Haven. Gaffey was in the store and he saw a boy take out the boxes. Gaffey thought they were empty but later learned they contained cigars although there was no stamps on them, an oversight of the boy. He claims he was not aware of the mistake.

Striking Moulders Return to Work.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 26.—The striking moulders at Sargent & Co.'s returned to work this morning on a truce. The company would not talk to the men so long as they were not their employes. Mayor Sargent says that business is dull and that the company would close the department before agreeing to some of the demands of the union.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Saved Her Sight

"My little girl Hazel two years ago had the grip, leaving her with inflamed eyes, so bad that for seven months we had to bandage them and keep her in a dark room. The family physician and an oculist said the sight of one eye was destroyed and she might lose the other. She suffered intense pain, and when light was admitted to the room would cry as if burned with a hot iron. We began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, and to our surprise her eyes began to improve rapidly. The sight

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

A School of Whales.

The passengers on the steamer Block Island have been enjoying a rare treat for the past week and one which is only seen at rare intervals. A tremendous whale has been sporting about Block Island waters in the path of the Block Island. Tuesday the whale was joined by three others, and this caused the passengers to shout "A whale!" and "there's another," until it seemed as if dozens were spouting and showing their huge bodies on the surface of the water.

Peabody will care for the first, and William Eccleston for the second sections respectively.

CORONER PARK'S VERDICT.

Ransom S. Sholes, Jr., to Answer for Manslaughter—The Stranger Buried.

Unmourned and unknown, the middle aged man who met his death in the encounter with Ransom S. Sholes, Jr., last Friday, was buried Wednesday by the town of Preston in Plains cemetery. All efforts to locate the stranger's identity were unavailing. Assurance was received before the burial that he was not the Quinn man from Pascoag. Following is Coroner Park's verdict:

After full hearing of all the evidence in regard to the death of the unknown man killed in the town of Preston on the afternoon of Friday, July 21, 1893, the coroner finds that the said deceased came to his death by blows from the fist of Ransom Sholes, Jr., of Preston, causing him to fall heavily, striking the back of his head upon the hard street, causing a hemorrhage upon the brain, producing immediate death—and that the said Ransom Sholes be held to answer for the crime of manslaughter—and after fruitless efforts in several directions to obtain information leading to the identity of the deceased stranger, the coroner directed his burial by the town of Preston, this 26th day of July, 1893, having first caused the body to be embalmed for preservation to the present.

ALBERT F. PARK, Coroner.

Norwich, July 26, 1893.

THREE YEARS ENOUGH.

Connecticut National Guardsmen to Take Advantage of a New Law.

It is said that many members of the Connecticut National Guard will ask for their discharge, basing their request on section 26 of the new military law which reads as follows:

"All persons who shall have served three years consecutively in the active militia shall be thereby entitled to an honorable discharge, exempting them from military duty thereafter, except in case of war, invasion, rebellion, riot or reasonable apprehension thereof."

There are a large number of the C. N. G. who have served three years. Clearly, under the section of the statute quoted, they are entitled to a discharge if they ask for it.

All the men now members of the C. N. G. enlisted for a term of five years. Hereafter all first enlistments will be for terms of three years only. Second enlistments will be for terms of two years.

The reasons for reducing the term of service to three years was that very many men are exceedingly unwilling to enlist for such a long period.

BLACK WAR CLOUDS.

French Blockade Expected to Begin at Once.

WILL NOT BOMBARD BANGKOK.

M. Develle in Favor of More Conciliatory Attitude.

LONDON, July 26.—The Paris correspondent of the Morning Post believes that M. Develle personally is in favor of a more conciliatory attitude toward Siam.

The Bangkok correspondent of the Times telegraphs under yesterday's date: "The pilots of the French gunboats state that they will anchor tonight at the Deep Pool Cave, outside the fortifications, and will cross the bar tomorrow. Great uncertainty exists as to what will happen if the blockade begins tomorrow.

Representatives of neutral powers have received no official notice of the blockade, and neutral vessels expect ample time to leave the river.

The British residents will meet Captain Jones (British minister) tomorrow to complete measures for defense in case the dangerous classes, deprived by the blockade of employment, attempt to rise and loot the city.

It has been arranged already that landing parties from foreign gunboats shall occupy strategic points. The Siamese probably also will quarter a detachment of troops in the most populous quarters. The government has issued a proclamation to behave peaceably and refrain from attacking foreigners.

A later dispatch to The Times from a semi-official source says that at 11 o'clock the French war vessels passed the mouth of the Menam river and had exchanged salutes with the Siamese forts.

The Bangkok correspondent of The Daily Chronicle telegraphs: "If anything is to be saved for British influence and commerce with Siam, it is absolutely necessary that British interests here be placed in the hands of a strong man with complete authority from the home government.

The British residents are complaining bitterly of the neglect of their interests. The Siamese cabinet is far from realizing the critical nature of the situation. The ministers pursue their ordinary amusements as if no crisis existed. The royal family is helpless to face the present difficulties. Only energetic measures from [illegible]

Can Prevent a Complete Collapse.

The Paris correspondent of the Times comments upon the vagueness of the official reports of the cabinet council at Carnot's house in Marly-le-Roi. He then quotes at length from the leaders in the Paris dailies.

The debate complains that the French fleet has been condemned to the inactivity of a blockade anchored at a distance from land, and exposed to the storms and maladies peculiar to the climate, instead of storming the forts on the Menam river. Such extreme generosity, says the Debats, can only serve to prolong the war and realize the Siamese purpose to gain time.

The Moniteur protests against the government's attempt to filch the Shan states. "Colonial empire has a very fine sound," it says, "but the English and German merchants will pocket all the profits. The Conservatives will not grudge sacrifices when but they disclaim all responsibility for the present unsystematic policy of the government."

The Courrier du Soir published yesterday afternoon a curious item to the effect that the blockade will be complete only as regards contraband of war, and that the international side of the questions raised may be settled by evidence as to what interests suffer from the blockade.

The blockade will then present an excellent basis of negotiations, says this journal, which it will undoubtedly render necessary without prejudice to any ulterior guarantees. Rice, doubtless, will be regarded as contraband.

The Paris correspondent of The Standard telegraphs: It is stated semi-officially that the blockade will not be confined to the estuary of the Menam, but that the rivers east and west also will be blockaded. Rear Admiral Humann will occupy an island 18 miles from the Menam. It is reported also that there is although the batteries on both sides of the river at Paknam and on the island midstream will be destroyed. The royal palace, where 12,000 soldiers are believed to be massed, will be attacked and occupied.

The Debats, after noting that the region south of the 23d parallel, to which France hopes to extend her territory in Siam, includes the provinces ceded by Great Britain to Siam after the Burmese war, makes these comments: "This we believe is what the Marquis of Dufferin was charged to represent to M. Develle, and what China also will direct attention to. It is useless, therefore, to shut our eyes to the fact that, beyond certain points, we no longer have to deal with Siam, but, perhaps, with England, and certainly with China."

ENGLAND HAS RIGHTS.

She Has Also Sufficient Force at Bangkok to Protect Them.

LONDON, July 26.—In the house of commons Mr. John Leng (Advanced Liberal) asked if the government was aware that British subjects possessed rights over 40 square miles of land in the Siamese provinces of Chantaboon, Krat and Battambang for working ruby and sapphire mines, and whether, in the event of France annexing those provinces, care would be taken to guard British interests.

Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, stated in reply, that the government was aware of the mining rights held in Siam by British subjects, but he pointed out that the provinces in which these rights are held lie to the west of the Meekong river, and were not, therefore, included in the territorial demands made by France.

Mr. Curzon (Conservative) asked whether France had notified Great Britain that she had established a blockade of the Siamese coast; whether the establishment of such a blockade would be regarded as an act of belligerency between France and Siam; whether the blockade had been or would be recognized by Great Britain, and what measures the government proposed to take in regard to the matter.

Sir Edward Grey replied that Great Britain had received from France verbal notice of the intention to blockade the Siamese coast. The blockade would certainly be an act of belligerency. The British government, Sir Edward added, proposed to continue its present protection of the lives of British subjects in Bangkok and of the property of British subjects. The government thought that the value that attaches to a declaration of blockade must vary with the circumstances of each particular case.

Mr. Curzon then asked: "Suppose any British vessel, even a ship carrying mails, should ascend the Menam river after Thursday, will it risk being captured by the French? If so, what steps will the government take to mitigate such a state of affairs? And further, when may we expect notification of the proceedings of our ambassador in Paris?"

Cries of "Hear, hear" greeted the question.

Sir Edward stated that any further communications he might make to the house must depend upon the communications now passing between Great Britain and France. As to the details of the blockade he must state that the government had only just received notice of of the fact of the intended blockade. He added that he must ask that due notice be given of other questions the members desired to ask.

Notwithstanding this request, Sir Charles Dike asked: "Will there be a declaration of war, or merely an implied belligerency? Will not the blockade be established under the pretence of its being what is called a 'pacific blockade.'"

Sir Edward replied: "I cannot add anything to what I have said. I hope to be able to give you further information on Thursday. It would not be advisable nor to the public interest to make any further statement today."

Sir Richard Temple (Conservative) asked if the government was taking steps to secure some equality in the British and French naval forces in Siamese waters.

This question brought forth cries of "Don't answer," but Sir Richard answered this question, saying: "I assured the house on a previous occasion, and the assurance still holds, that Great Britain has a sufficient force off Bangkok to protect British life and property."

SIAMESE VIEW.

Her Minister Urges That France Define Exactly Her Claims.

LONDON, July 26.—The correspondent at Bangkok of The Times telegraphs that the Siamese foreign minister, in replying to the statement of M. Pavie, the French minister, that Siam's answer to the French ultimatum was not satisfactory, expresses surprise and regret that the abdication by Siam of her sovereignty, not only over that part of her territory in dispute on the left bank of the Makong river, but also over Stuntreng and Khone, which are indisputably Siamese by treaty, is not considered fully in accordance with the requirements of France.

The Siamese minister, therefore, urges more strenuously than ever that France define exactly what she considers her rights in Annam and Cambodia, and on the left bank of the Makong river.

LOOKING ON BRIGHT SIDE.

Lawrence Bank Man Says All Is Serene in That City.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 26.—James H. Eaton of the Essex savings bank looks upon the bright side of the present condition of business. In a talk today, he said that many rumors had been current lately to the effect that people were withdrawing gold from banks and hoarding it at home and in safety deposit vaults. These were unfounded, he said, as he himself had consulted gentlemen connected with safety deposit vaults in Boston and found that, instead of gold being hoarded in them, the opposite was the case, and that deposit boxes were being given up.

Lawrence is prosperous, he states, and deposits are numerous at all the banks. At the Essex more deposits have been received during the current month than in any other July since the opening of the bank. This is worth mentioning, as July is usually the month for people to go away on their vacations and to draw out money to pay their expenses. Land is also frequently bought during July and buildings commenced.

The mills in Lawrence are all running now, new mills are being built and the merchants feel no alarm.

Boston's Increased Valuation.

BOSTON, July 26.—The assessing board has completed its work. Since June 15 the assessors have been at work, and have had daily sessions in the common council chamber at city hall. Probably two weeks will have elapsed before the clerical work of the department will be gotten into shape so as to show any figures of a definite character. It is safe to say, however, that the real estate valuations will be increased fully $25,000,000.

Telegraph Communication Cut off.

BOSTON, July 26.—Business for New York and points beyond was suspended today at the Western Union office in consequence of the effect of the storm on the wires. At noon Superintendent Hardinson said that no business could be done until the storm abated. His advices were that a series of terrific storms, accompanied by thunder and lightning, raged over the entire territory between Springfield and New York.

Nantucket Postoffice Robbed.

BOSTON, July 26.—The Nantucket postoffice was entered by burglars last night. The safe was blown open and between $600 and $800 in stamps and cash stolen, besides some registered mail matter. The burglars made no attempt to molest the mail matter in the various boxes, nor did they interfere with a pouch lying on a table. The entrance was effected by forcing open the front door of the building.

Rigger Instantly Killed.

BOSTON, Mass., July 26.—While at work on the schooner William Allison, lying at the wharf of the Boston Towboat Company, at 11.30 o'clock this forenoon, Thomas O'Donnell, a rigger by trade, fell from the masthead to the deck a distance of 85 feet and was instantly killed. O'Donnell was 28 years old, single and lived on Cleveland place.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE WISE OUTING WOMAN.

What She Puts In Her Trunk Now That It Is Time to Pack It.

What a blessing those women are who go about "picking up the dropped stitches in life," who remember what others forget and who know just what to do and how to it in every emergency!

By a special dispensation of providence there is one such in every community, and, better yet, at every summer hotel and boarding house throughout the length and breadth of the land. The Humane society, individually and collectively, know her and her services, but they award her no medal, though she is a life saver and benefactor to countless thousands. In addition to the actual service rendered she teaches many a lesson to the inexperienced, who pass it on until some things become the heritage of the race.

She may be a lonely maid whose chief possession is good health, which she guards by means of preventives and simple remedies. For instance, she has a hot water bag, which she uses as a "warming pan" for damp sheets on cold nights by the sea. She carries a spirit lamp, which she lends more often than she uses; mustard leaves, which she invariably gives away; brandy, which some stranger always finds handy; nails and hammer, which she will use for the benefit of the bookless. She has novels that suit all tastes, perfect crochet needles, odds and ends of canvas with which she shows the latest patterns to those interested.

Or she may be the mother of some sturdy boys and girls who are provided with old jackets and stout boots, and therefore do not worry her life out by slipping out in a pelting storm to see whether the old hen has laid an egg in the haymow or the sea has washed up another treasure.

She has arnica for sprained ankles and essence of ginger for "such a pain." If she does not own one of the neat little medicine cases such as are everywhere displayed this year and which fill a long felt want, her bottles, including some special prescription that she has found never failing, are packed in old muslin and linen, valuable on their own account for the probable cut fingers and sore toes. These bottles are put into a tin box or old basket and wedged so tightly that scatter brained Tom carried them all the way with "never a spill."

She has pieces of cloth like all the frocks and all the trousers, a bag of buttons, shoelaces galore, pins and hairpins and good black darning wool, which experience has taught her can never be found anywhere except "just around the corner" from her own house.

And with these things and a supply of underwear which nearly bursts the corners of the shabby old trunk that so many eyed suspiciously when it was first deposited on the piazza she found room for some cards for solitaire, a box of dominos and a game of backgammon or halma for the older children. The "middling sized" youngsters are provided with a slate and pencils, which latter she deals out "judgmatically," one at a time. For the 5-year-old she carried a box of beads, while the baby crowed with delight to see his dear dog with the chewed ear leap into his arms when the trunk was unpacked.

Books she had none till the little 10-year-old invalid pleaded for her fairy tales and the bedtime "Uncle Remus." The mother has no time to read novels, and her fancy work, she declares, consists entirely of the darning stitch.

This woman, be she maid or matron, is a benediction to the forlorn misanthropes who bewail a day's imprisonment in hotel parlors, reiterating in dull monotones that they "never dreamed of such weather."

She can talk servants or science, pastry or politics, and, best of all, is a good listener. She soon becomes an authority, and when she waves farewell to those on the hotel piazza there is but one comment, "She was a nice woman."

Why? Because she knew what to put into a trunk.

It is a lesson worth acquiring.—New York Times.

The Rise of the Veil.

Until about three years ago it was quite optional with a woman whether she wore a veil or not. Since that time it has become, in the cities at least, almost obligatory. One girl, who never, as she expressed it, "could bear the feeling of any covering to her face," chanced to come into town from a somewhat protracted country stay. This is her story of her experience:

"I had not been in a car long before I had an odd sensation as though I were without my hat or as though I had no gloves on. I can't quite describe it, but I felt bold and conspicuous. Finally I saw what it was. Every other woman's face was covered with a veil. I had never worn one, and I had never had that feeling before. But I alighted at the first available shop and bought what I now regarded as a requisite. I told a friend of my distressed situation, and she said she understood it precisely. The same thing had happened to her when she first came back from her country place in the fall. She, too, was obliged to sink old prejudices and purchase a veil forthwith."—Philadelphia Press.

The Eton Jacket's Back.

The Eton jacket is the most popular waist this season. If we could see ourselves as others see us, perhaps many women would have that back changed which rambles apparently aimlessly upward to the shoulder blades and is the most awkward form of dress that can be imagined.

An Idea of the Number of Club Women.

Two hundred and fifty clubs, with a membership of 25,000, were represented at the federation of clubs this year. As this number is probably not a tenth of the total number of women's clubs in this country, the figures, if they could be secured, would be astonishing.

Russian Tea In Summer.

Russian tea is a most refreshing summer drink and declared by its admirers to be very cooling in its effects. Milk, of course, is omitted and sugar added to the hot tea with a slice of lemon.

How the Austrian Empress Looks.

Our Vienna correspondent telegraphs: During the reception at court on Monday the many hundreds of persons of distinction assembled had eyes only for the empress. During a long evening she was the central figure in a brilliant pageant. Her appearance was certainly striking. Dressed entirely in dull black, with not a jewel or even jet to relieve the monotony of the deep mourning, she bore herself majestically. The face, surrounded by ringlets, looked young still, framed as it was in the laces of a broad collar that fell over fashionable puff sleeves. A veil of flowered gauze fell from the tresses that were set up like a tiara on the white brow. The old smile reappeared every moment with the easy grace for which she was famous in the days when society saw more of her.

She spoke to a hundred ladies in the course of the evening, and to two gentlemen, Cardinal Gruscha and old M. Koloman Tisza, with whom she kept up a lively conversation in Hungarian. The ladies and gentlemen of her suite were dressed in black also, and the widowed crown princess appeared in a black velvet dress, low and studded with diamonds. The Archduchess Marie Therese has definitely given up her rights of precedence to the crown princess, with whom she is on the best of terms.—London News.

The Monument of Two Women.

B. M. Bruce of New York, whose residence is in Greenwich, Conn., has just completed the erection there of a new building to be called the Bruce Memorial Summer home. The house has been built in memory of his daughters, Margaret Bruce and Emily Bruce-Lines, wife of Rev. S. G. Lines, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Beloved Disciple, New York. The home is intended to be a place of rest for working women who have not the means to pay for a summer outing elsewhere. It is situated on an inlet of Long Island sound and is surrounded by pleasant scenery. About 20 people can be accommodated. The stay of each inmate will be limited to a fortnight.

Cucumber Wash.

Don't omit the cucumber wash during the growing season of this vegetable. The juice whitens and softens the skin. It is also cooling in its effect and is an excellent cosmetic for sunburn. Get a fresh cucumber and slice it off as you use it, keeping the uncut part on ice if convenient. When you need a fresh slice, do not use the first one after the vegetable is cut. The first is stale—take the second. Rub the second slice over the face and the third over the neck. Or take a little almond flour, moisten it with water and rub it over the face after you have used the cucumber. Then rinse with cider or rose or florida water.—Exchange.

A Royal Example.

It is to the credit of Mamie Teck, the young bride of 24 summers, that she has known what it is to be poor, has made her own bonnets and dresses and been up to her elbows in housework within a dozen years.

If there be any New England mechanic's daughter who is proud to acknowledge that she "never learned to do housework," she may perhaps remember with profit one interesting fact. The woman who married the probable successor to the throne of England brings with her the not to be despised accomplishment of being a first class housekeeper, and she is proud of it too.—Boston Globe.

A Visitor From Scotland.

Mrs. Margaret E. Parker of Dundee, Scotland, will be in the city about a month longer. Mrs. Parker is the ex-president of the Woman's International Christian Temperance union and the founder of the association in Great Britain. Three times Mrs. Parker has been to America, and her charming book, "Six Happy Weeks Among the Americans," shows her warm attachment for her friends on this side of the water. While here Mrs. Parker is the correspondent of the Dundee Advertiser.—Chicago Woman's News.

A Woman Journalist From London.

Mrs. Fenwick Miller, the only woman ever nominated as a fellow of the English Society of Journalists and a leader writer on the London Illustrated News, is in attendance on the congresses at Chicago. Mrs. Miller graduated in 1876 with honors from the Women's Medical college of London, but drifted into journalism during her tenure of office as a member of the London school board. She is the wife of Frederick L. Ford, but is known professionally by her own name.

An Important Question.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall says that one day during the session of the congress at Chicago, when she was hurrying into the Auditorium and time was precious, a woman stopped her with a beseeching air, as if she had something of great importance to impart, and when she asked her what she could do for her said:

"Oh, Mrs. Sewall, do tell me whether that's the same bonnet you wore yesterday?"

Sweet Graduates Everywhere.

The sweet girl graduate is heard in the land. She is coming forth from Vassar and Wellesley and Smith and Bryn Mawr and many other educational resorts of greater or less note and keeping up the reputation of the woman of the period. Just to show how easy it is, a young woman passed the Yale classical examination the other day. Of course that was the end of it as far as she was concerned, but it was a pleasant pastime.

Another young woman took the degree of Ph. D. at Johns Hopkins. She has not decided what she will do with it, but she will probably tack it on the wall along with four or five other degrees that she has taken at various colleges. Miss Jean Nelson was not so fortunate. Jean lives out in Indiana and was caught in the act of pilfering examination papers. Young men have been caught doing this sort of thing for several centuries, but women have been more scrupulous. Miss Nelson proves, however, that there is no field occupied by men which women may not hope to invade.—New York World.

Speaking of clever women who love sport, there is Mrs. Eliza P. Heaton, who canoes like an Indian princess. After the work of the day is finished—for she is a woman editor—she finds recreation in skimming over the clear waters of the Hudson in a bark canoe.

A FUTURE EMPRESS.

The Studio and Some of the Creations of Archduchess Marie Therese.

In view of the prominent part taken by the Archduchess Marie Therese in the organization of the Austro-Hungarian section of the woman's department of the World's fair of 1893 and of the fact that the princess, besides being the president of the committee, is also an exhibitor at Chicago, it may interest the readers of The Tribune to obtain a glimpse of the studio of the beautiful and stately brunette who is destined in course of time to become empress of Austria. The palace of the archduchess is situated in the Favoritenstrasse and is perhaps the only one of the great houses at Vienna where artists, scientists, authors and virtuosi of one kind and another find a cordial and appreciative welcome. This is not altogether surprising when it is borne in mind that Marie Therese, in addition to having already made her mark in literature, is one of the most skillful amateur photographers in the old world, besides being a painter of considerable talent, boldness and originality of conception.

The studio of the archduchess is situated on the second floor of the palace in a very lofty, long and narrow apartment looking out on the street. It is particularly remarkable for its simplicity, presenting therein a powerful contrast to the magnificence of the two salons through which it is necessary to pass to reach it. The few stools, tabourets, armchairs and divans are upholstered with soft toned oriental rugs. The walls are covered with some sort of olive colored textile fabric, and the one opposite to the windows is divided in the middle by a balcony or gallery, the exquisite wood carvings for which were brought by the archduchess herself from Meran.

The parquetted floors are partly concealed by the skins of tigers and of polar bears shot in India and in the arctic regions by the brother of the archduchess, Don Miguel of Braganza, while on easels and suspended from the walls are oil colors or portraits by the princess or Baroness Keml[illegible], to whom she is indebted for her knowledge of painting, of her husband, the Archduke Charles Louis, of the empress of Austria in riding habit and of the emperor. There is also a very pretty picture of a cat in the act of effecting its escape from the basket in which it had been confined, and a wonderfully effective crayon sketch of her stepson, Archduke Francis Ferdinand. Nor must the visitor overlook the charming screens so gracefully painted by the archduchess and similar to the one which she has sent to Chicago.

The screens now in her studio are destined for sale at the charity fair to be held in the autumn at Meran for the purpose of raising funds for the extension of the eye hospital founded and maintained there by her philanthropic and skillful brother-in-law, Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria. The colossal fireplace forming the angle in one of the corners of her room is surmounted not by a mirror, but by a panel formed of an almost priceless piece of old oriental embroidery, the originally brilliant colors of which have been softened and rendered harmonious and mellow by age.

The doors of the studio are concealed by portieres of Flemish tapestry and by ponderous Mucharabieh screens of quaintly carved wood from Cairo. Preserved from dust and damage beneath glass are some unique pieces of antique Venetian point lace presented by another brother-in-law, Don Alfonso of Spain, the younger brother of the pretender, Don Carlos. That the studio is regarded by the archduchess as her sanctum may be gathered from the fact that she reads and writes all her letters there at a writing table, the equipment of which is of oriental gold filigree work, jeweled with pearls, rubies and sapphires. When painting, the archduchess usually wears a species of coarse cotton apron somewhat similar to that in which Princess Louise of Great Britain is accustomed to array herself when engaged in sculpture in her studio at Kensington palace, London.—New York Tribune.

An Aunt of Byron's Polidori.

Eliza Harriet, daughter of the late Gaetano Polidori, has just passed away in Torrington square at the age of 88. There was one Polidori, who was secretary to Alfieri; another—his son—who was physician and companion to Byron. The one just dead was aunt to Dante Gabriel Rossetti and Christina Rossetti, her sister being their mother.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Word to Sneerers.

Now and then some editor arises to sneer at "the so called woman's congress," but all the same the women are here to stay. When the college doors went wide open to women, a reform was inaugurated that will not go backward. The sneerers at woman and woman's work should get on back seats as soon as they conveniently can.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

English Girl Students In College.

The two women's colleges of Newnham and Girton have sent a number of successful candidates to the Cambridge examinations this year. It is interesting to know that the college rooms of these to be wranglers are very dainty. They are full of feminine work, liberally supplied with mirrors and look more like boudoirs than studies.

In Lining Cambric Gowns.

Cambric gowns should have the waist lining made of the same material as the outside when lined at all. The reason will be manifest if a tear or break occurs. This is particularly desirable for little girls' summer dresses, to which all sorts of accidents have a way of happening.—Philadelphia Press.

Tobacco and Microbes.

Dr. Tassinari has published in the Italia Termale the result of an investigation into the effects of tobacco smoke on microbes. He finds that the smoke of the Cavour, Virginia and Tuscan cigars and all black and chopped tobaccos possesses a very pronounced bactericide power, especially against the bacillus of Asiatic cholera. This microbicide action may in all probability be attributed to the products of nicotine. In epidemics of cholera and typhus the use of tobacco may be rather useful than hurtful. Tobacco smoke merits special consideration on the hygiene of the mouth as a prophylactic means of combating microbian affections of the buccal cavity.

Heroic Work by a Young Girl.

Helen Patchell, the 14-year old daughter of Charles W. Patchell, a well known citizen of Darby, proved herself a heroine yesterday. Alighting from the noon train at Boone station, Miss Patchell paused to allow an express train to pass on the opposite track. She held by the hand the 5-year-old son of Edward Kirkpatrick, Mr. Patchell's partner.

As the train thundered through the tunnel and swept under a bridge less than a hundred yards away she saw her own baby brother and sister run down to meet her and stop on the track in the face of the approaching train.

An instant's delay meant death to both. If she attempted to rescue them, she herself and the little boy might be ground under the engine. The engine whistle shrieked, and the heavy train rushed on. The great wheels, pulling the fastest train on the road, were counting off 70 miles an hour.

While the neighbors rushed to their doors, alarmed by the whistle, and stood horror stricken, Miss Helen never hesitated, but dragging the little boy across the tracks she pushed her brother and her sister from the rails upon the platform and scrambled up herself with the boy. The engine dashed by, sweeping aside the dress of the brave girl, and the suction of the train drew her almost under the wheels.

So close was the escape of the little party that the mother of the girl, who was a witness of the episode, and the servants on the lawn turned away their heads, thinking that all would be ground to pieces by the engine.—Chester Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Royalty and Mustaches.

It has been remarked that in addition to her other personal attractions the infanta is in possession of what the French call leger duvet, or, in plain English, the down upon the upper lip. American women, more particularly those whose associations and observations have been confined to their native land, have come to look upon the leger duvet as something unfeminine and unattractive. It is rather a distinctive matter of pride, however, to the beauties of the Latin nations, and is taken, moreover, as a badge of strength of character and an indication of self reliance without assuming the coarser vigor of masculinity.

When Rome was in its "most high and palmy state," the women of the refined and cultured set affected not only the down on the lip, but a hirsute growth on the face. They resorted to artificial means and smeared ointment over their cheeks to stimulate the growth of hair. Cicero says that the practice became so universal that a law was passed against it. The Greeks also were affected in the same manner and gave their Cyprian Venus a beard to enhance her good looks.—New York World.

Driven to the Rouge Pot.

Says a correspondent: I lost my complexion very young, grew sallow, and in order to remedy this pumpkinlike mask I took to rouging. It was a success. People began to say: "How well you look! Such a fine color." I pride myself on the fact that I have an exceedingly delicate touch. I never left my mirror without giving my face the most careful scrutiny. I learned to shade off the edges until I really believe that my homemade finish was prettier than a good many going the rounds that were perfectly natural, for it never spread over my chin, nose and forehead.

One day I heard a woman lecture on the evils of painting the cheeks. I went home, threw my box of carmine in the fire and resolved that I would be natural at all hazards. In a few days I began to be greeted with commiserating glances. Friends asked if I were ill. "You look so fagged. Must be something the matter." I stood it as long as I could, when back to my rouge I went, and I shall not desert it for anything more natural unless it be to adopt beet juice, which, I hear, is not only a beautifier, but a tonic for the skin as well.

A Bridal Scrapbook.

A bridal scrapbook is novel and adds much to the merriment of the occasion. It is of course bound in white vellum, with the monogram of the bride and groom and the date in silver. There is space for the certificate made out by the officiating clergyman, which is to be signed by each and every guest. It may be placed in charge of one of the ushers and should rest on a cushion of white on a table large enough to hold a massive silver inkstand and penrack. One of the prettiest spectacular effects of the affair is the sight of the bride signing her new name for the first time.

The book also contains spaces for the photographs of the entire bridal party as well as for bits of the gowns worn. Just before the departure of the happy couple a maid might carry around a silver bowl full of rice, so that each guest may shower the departing bride with the emblem of prosperity. The last detail, although its preparation may antedate others, is the writing of the marriage notice for the press.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Decorated Prayer Books.

Prayer books are a fad this season, especially those for youthful brides. A beautiful volume containing four original sonnets done in antique silver lettering upon rough edged parchment has a center piece upon the outside of old Flemish lace, bordered with small imitation pearls. Orange buds and leaves are embroidered in groups on both sides of the white satin cover and silver filigree protectors lap over the corners. The richest covers for brides' prayer books, which contain only the marriage service, are of moire or silk, suede kid, or of white satin, moire or silk corduroy. The last named material admits of but little embroidery, and this appears at the corners, the bride's initials in silver taking the center of the cover in front. The reverse has the date of the marriage also in silver lettering. For covers of white satin or moire narrow borders of ecclesiastical couching in silver thread and ecclesiastical silk are used.—Boston Courier.

The Beauty of a Persian Cat.

Perhaps the most peculiar fancy of travelers abroad is that of carrying from Persia the great blooded cats that are so hard to domesticate. However, as an up town housekeeper exclaims, "Of course one is a little afraid of them, but they do look stylish in a handsome library!"—New York Times.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Bismarck's Advice to Boys.

Prince Bismarck received a nonpolitical deputation at Friedrichsruhe—the masters and boys of the Hamburg Wilhelm gymnasium.

The ex-chancellor gave the young fellows some good advice as to the manner in which they should utilize their time at the university and then spoke of his love for music. He said: "I used to play formerly, but I was only a moderate hand at the piano and was glad when I could throw it up, as it bored me to have to practice. Afterward I was extremely sorry I did give it up, for music is a faithful companion in life. I missed it at many a party, and I recommend all of you who have any talent for music to cultivate it and take a warning from me so that you need not reproach yourself with the mistake I have made."

No less useful were a few words against excessive thought for the morrow, which oppresses a great many people.

"If you trust in God and yourself," said the prince, "you can surmount every obstacle. Do not yield to restless anxiety. One must not always be asking what may happen to one in life, but one must advance fearlessly and bravely."—Berlin Cor. London News.

The Work of an Invalid Boy.

Among many beautiful articles sent in for The Harper's Young People prize competition one which merits attention is a crazy quilt made by a boy, Charlie West of Lakeville, N. Y. Charlie is an invalid suffering from rheumatism, and the intricate piecing of this quilt was done by the thumb and forefinger of one hand. There are specimens of patching, darning and mending as daintily done by little women under 14 as any their grandmothers could have shown before the period of the sewing machine. The boys have distinguished themselves by wonderful carvings in wood, ships, boxes, cabinets, rivaling the delicate embroidery of their sisters. Visitors to the World's fair have an opportunity of examining the work of the prize winners, which is on exhibition in the Children's building.

THE NEW LAUREL HILL BRIDGE.

The new Laurel Hill bridge was formally opened to public travel Wednesday morning by officials of the town and the city, who rode over it in hacks. There was no sentiment about the event, and only a few people witnessed the act. The photographers were on hand to place permanently on record the scene, and the "Faber"-pushers were there to describe it. Usually a bottle of champagne is broken for good luck over the bow of a launching ship, but on this auspicious occasion there was no such public wasting of champagne for luck, although there is no knowing what may have been done for refreshment. The bridge is a handsome structure and adds grandeur to the scene at the mouth of the Shetucket. No citizen can or will dispute the fact that it is a great improvement over the old Whipple-truss bridge and which it displaced, and which had for years been considered unsafe. The Laurel Hill people are to be congratulated upon once more having an open bridge to that beautiful suburb, and undoubtedly the impatience and criticisms of a few of the residents will now give way to the praise which an admiring public are willing to bestow.

WATCHING FOR THE INVADERS.

The health officers of New York are guarding against the invasion of this country by the cholera which is so prevalent in continental Europe, and the yellow fever which has broken out in South America and the West Indies. There is more danger of invasion by yellow fever than by cholera, on account of the large number of small boats running from yellow fever ports to ports in this country.

Norwich takes little notice of yellow fever epidemics since she has ceased to be a port of entry and has no foreign shipping. At the close of the last century, when Norwich had a flourishing shipyard and foreign commerce there was an invasion of yellow fever, and for about three months the town was not free from the disease, but the well-to-do people left the place, and every precaution was taken to keep the disease from spreading. There were less than twenty cases, and only three deaths.

Three months of yellow fever in 1800 furnished the last yellow fever scare Norwich had, and there seems to be no danger of its invading this place again from the arrival of contagious foreign vessels.

PROMOTION FROM THE RANKS.

This is a country in which promotion from the ranks ought to be the rule and not the exception. To secure [illegible] services the government has [illegible] that this is a good and reliable policy, hence the endeavor to establish civil service rules for government positions. This is just as [illegible] state positions as national, and should be more strictly adhered to. Connecticut has just had a new warden appointed for her state prison over a deputy warden who has had nineteen years' experience there in handling criminals; and he proposes to resign, for it is certainly humiliating for him to have longer to hold a subordinate position, especially under a warden of no experience whatever. Warden Woodbridge may give the best of satisfaction, but it is doubtful if any person in the state has the qualifications of Deputy Warden Baldwin for the place which Warden Woodbridge occupies today. We hope Mr. Woodbridge will not disappoint the people, and that he will meet the expectations of the public; but if it had been generally known that the deputy warden had been there so many years there would undoubtedly have been an advocacy for his promotion. In the change of the board of directors this old and faithful officer seems to have been lost sight of. The new board would undoubtedly have done as well as they could have done if they had recognized his long service and made him Gen. Chamberlain's successor. As it is, the state has a new inexperienced officer to fill the places of two experienced men.

A PRINCE AND A MAN.

The Rajah Rajagan from India is, in American parlance, a brick! He declines special attentions or provisions, and likes to do as the people do. He was interested in a party of school children on the steamer which took him to Newport and sang in his native language for the entertainment of the little Americans. He is "king of kings" at home, but in America he does not put on as much style as a three-nickel dude with a flaming necktie.

Royalty has been setting American society good examples this year. The noble born do not have to make that fact manifest in small ways.

WHEEL-MOUNTED MISSIONARIES.

The end-man has had men coming into town on a zephyr for years, but the approach of a missionary on a wheel is decidedly novel and recent. Down in Maine there are to be wheel-mounted missionaries to carry on the work of evangelization at separate stations. This seems to be putting the missionaries into the very jaws of temptation and, if they can withstand the profanity-exciting ability of a wobbling or disabled wheel, they will show that they are fortified against anything man may do to overthrow them.

HER HANDS ARE FULL.

A rumor has reached this country that the arbitrators in the Bering sea controversy between the United States and Great Britain have decided in favor of the United States. England in anticipation of such a result seemed to be strengthening her fleet and forces in the Northern Pacific, but in view of present events her hands are too full for her to indulge in any fancy tricks with America.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The old maxim, "Give us liberty or give us death," has been forgotten in the west. They are shouting "Give us free silver or give us death!" It doesn't look to us as if they would get either!

It should be remembered that the blackest cloud has a silver lining; and that those who sing "We'll weather the storm, it won't be long, we'll anchor by and by," are apt to be on deck when the rainbow appears.

It is suggested that the government give the Duke of Veragua a pension of $1,500. When all veteran union soldiers have been dealt with liberally it will be time enough to be raising pensions for the Spanish duke whose great ancestor America discovered.

The king of Siam has three hundred wives, shines on state occasions with a million dollars worth of jewels, and wears a crown that weighs twenty-seven pounds; but when it comes to war he is like an anchored balloon, quickly busted by the enemy.

Gen. Alejandro Ybarra, the prospective president of Venezuela, married Nellie Taylor Russell of Boston, a granddaughter of "Father" Taylor of Seamen's Bethel fame. That bare-armed, rattlingly equipped old evangelist never expected a granddaughter of his would become the first lady of Venezuela!

Chicago is flooded with silver currency and the subtreasury there has been obliged to refuse to take any more until the clerks can have a chance to count up the uncounted amount on hand. They have silver coins stacked up in bags like shot, and there is hardly room enough to get around.

The two sailing wonders of '93, the Navahoe and the Valkyrie, are matched to race for the Cape May cup on August 8, and this will give them two yachts a chance to determine how well they are matched. If the Navahoe easily outsails the English Valkyrie it is not probable that she will be seen in American waters this season.

It is very satisfying to know that Adlai Stevenson "to the best of his abilities will endeavor to co-operate with those who, regardless of party, have in view the best interests of the common people of the land." The uncommon people wont mind the slight if Adlai will only keep on "co-operating;" but it is time the common people began to kick.

Chicago is claiming to have more people than New York, and to be numerically the largest city in the United States. The population of these two cities is so close that there is a question as to which city leads in numbers; but the New Yorkers taunt the Chicagoans that when it comes to a matter of brains Boston is far ahead of them.

Master Workman T. V. Powderly has given notice of his intention to cease to be a knight of labor as he proposes to become a member of the bar! He made his way from a machinist's bench to the place of a great, popular leader of the working classes, and he is now to make a handspring into a profession which his followers have always tabooed. He has made the most of his opportunities and all his followers should try and do the same.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Democracy and Disaster.

There were 567 failures last week, exclusive of banks. When democracy gets on top everything under it suffers.—[Oswego Times.

Ready!

The Press feels justified in saying that it is fully able to handle Cleveland's forthcoming message to congress. It has laid in an additional stock of "I's."—[New York Press.

A Dear Whistle.

The New York Press shows by figures that the national banks of New York have lost since Mr. Cleveland's nomination in loans and deposits, $72,563,999 37; in deposits, $123,416,731 67, and in surplus, $15,757,543. New York has paid dearly for its whistle.—[Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Lends Interest to an Inquiry.

The demonstration which has been made over the stopping of the pension paid to Judge Long of Michigan lends interest to the inquiry whether anything has happened yet to the pension of that "physical wreck," ex-Commissioner Black.—[Boston Journal.

What Free Silver Means.

Free silver means dear food and dear clothing. It is advocated in order that the workingman may be robbed for the benefit of the wheat growers, the sheep raisers, the cattle ranchers, and the cotton planters of this country, as well as of the tory landowners of Great Britain.—[New York Sun.

Confident.

We feel confident that the two-minute record for a mile in harness will be reached this season, and that the pacers will reach it before their more aristocratic brothers and sisters, the trotters, [illegible] within two seconds of it. Mascot's [illegible]ced heat in 2.04¼ at Detroit last week was early in the season. The present pacing record is at 2.04.—[Springfield Republican.

Politics in It.

More partisan changes in the Portsmouth navy yard are confidently expected to follow Secretary Herbert's visit there and his conference with the local democratic leaders. Taking it all in all, the secretary's "tour of observation" seems to be having considerably more of politics than business in it.—[Boston Journal.

One Thing at a Time.

It is a waste of time to discuss whether the silver crisis or the tariff uncertainty is doing most to unsettle and disturb the business confidence of the country. They are both, no doubt, contributory to the prevailing atmosphere of distrust. But one thing at a time is a good rule, and silver has the first call by general consent.—[New York Recorder.

They Need Time.

There is no objection to giving President Cleveland all the credit and good wishes he desires, and, indeed, requires, in putting the silver question before tariff reform. The democrats need some time to acquaint themselves with their own views of tariff reformation. Mr. Cleveland's protracted campaign of education has not enlightened them. Indeed, his own useful information is not ample and precise.—[Brooklyn Standard-Union.

It is the Truth!

France is not satisfied with poor little Siam's submissive offer to pay a lot of money she doesn't owe and to surrender a big slice of territory to which France has no more rightful claim than to the valley of the Connecticut. France is going to express her dissatisfaction by blockading the Siamese coast, and intimates that "other pleasures" may be taken. There can be but one opinion among right-thinking men about these proceedings. France is playing the part of a hectoring bully and a thief. It isn't a nice thing to say of our old ally, but it is the truth.—[Hartford Courant.

CANTERBURY.

Religious Services—Fresh Air Children.

The Rev. Mr. Arnold of Plainfield exchanged with the Rev. A. J. Hetrick on the Green, Sunday, and preached at the grove meeting in the afternoon. Subject: "The Value of the Soul."

The Rev. Mr. Jackson of Jewett City will preach at the grove Sunday afternoon. These meetings have been well attended thus far and no doubt the numbers will increase as the busy, hot season is past.

Haying is being pushed forward. The weather was never better. The crop, though light in quantity, must be of excellent quality.

Potatoes and corn are suffering for want of rain in many places.

Mr. Thomas Brown is entertaining twenty-seven fresh-air children from New York and vicinity. Others have a less number.

What's SOZODONT? 'Tis this you ask.
To answer is an easy task—
It is a liquid soft and sweet,
Which keeps teeth healthy, white and neat;
Which makes the rosy gums endure,
And renders breath, like roses, pure.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."

Simply apply SWAYNE'S OINTMENT. No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, &c., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for SWAYNE'S OINTMENT.

Castoria.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation;
Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Eructation;
Gives healthy sleep; also aids digestion;
Without narcotic stupefaction.

The simplest and best regulator of the disordered Liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in Sick Headache, Dizziness, Nausea, etc.; prevent and cure Constipation and Piles; remove Sallowness and Pimples from the Complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Backache is almost immediately relieved by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Try one and be free from pain. Price 25 cents.

PORTEOUS
MITCHELL.

Last Saturday morning we advertised 84 Ladies' Waists that had been 38c. for 13c. each. Within one hour from the time business opened the cream of the lot had been taken. Exactly 52 of the 84 waists were sold before 9 o'clock.

We simply mention this to show that our advertisements are read, and that if we do call attention to something away down in price and you want a part of it, don't delay in coming for it. Bear in mind that there are hundreds of others who read these advertisements and they may all want to take advantage of these money-saving offerings. Therefore, don't delay until it is too late.

Here is Another Chance.

We have several odd lots of garments in our Cloak Department which we want to close. Nothing the matter with them! They are all right in every respect. Only the quantities are small, but they are all we have left of several of the best selling lines of garments we have had this season, and we want to clear them up. Note these:

Lot 1.—36 Ladies' Linen Chemisettes, 8½c. each. Regular price 25c.
Lot 2.—4 dozens Ladies' White Laundered Waists, 88c each. Regular price $1.00.
Only two to a customer.
Lot 3.—14 Ladies' Silk Waists, black and blue with white stripes, $1.29. Regular price $3.00.
Lot 4.—12 Ladies' Blazers, all this season's styles, $1.49 each. Regular price $3.50 to $5.00.
Lot 5.—30 Ladies' Cambric Suits 50c each. Regular price $1.25.
Lot 6.—17 Ladies' Cambric Suits 75c each. Regular price $1.50.
Lot 7.—12 Ladies' Serpentine Suits $1.15 each. Regular price $2.50.
Lot 8.—10 Ladies' White Cashmere Shawls $1.00 each. Regular price $1.50.

These go on sale this morning at 8 o'clock. If you are interested, don't delay. You know our methods. You know that when we make a statement about quantities and prices it is right. The quantities of each lot and the reductions quoted are exactly correct. Further comment is unnecessary.

Other attractive items are:

Ladies' Underwear.

5 dozens Ladies' Union Suits, short sleeves and knee lengths, for 49c a suit. Regular price $1.00.

Three items in Ladies' Silk Vests.

Ladies' Silk Ribbed Vests, assorted colors, 45c each.

Ladies' Silk Ribbed Vests, assorted colors, 59c each; have been 75c.

Ladies' Silk Ribbed Vests, assorted colors, 79c each; have been $1.00.

Hosiery.

25 dozens Ladies' Hose—Gray-mixed, Tans and Fancy Colors, 5c a pair.

Three of the best styles of Ladies' Black Hose, that were 37½c a pair, are now 29c a pair; 3 for 85c. This is a good chance to lay in a stock for future needs.

The Bulletin.

BALANCE.

I [illegible] the coming years
What they may bring.
Days will be [illegible], nights bereft of stars
Mayhap the brightest blossoms of the spring
Shall [illegible] be bound with winter's icy bars.
But still beyond the cloud is always light,
The stars are in the sky all night,
And deepest snows are they which hide the bright
Green heart of spring.

Not all of life is dreamed away
In summer skies.
Time holds a loss, a loneliness for me,
But hope is strong, and faith dare not be weak,
And love abides the greatest of the three.
Enough of sweet tomorrow will repay
The disappointment of today.
Light follows dark; sun, rain; seas ebb away
Again to rise.

And if the rugged road of life
Doth wind around
The mountainside where heavy clouds hang low,
And as I climb the pilgrim staff be changed
Into a cross still onward would I go!
The peaks of only highest mountains rise,
Above the clouds to bluest skies,
And round the heaviest cross is hung the prize,
The brightest crown.
—Amy Seville Wolff.

BOSTON PRODUCE MARKET.

LAMBS AND MUTTONS—Lambs and muttons are fairly steady in prices, with the demand quiet. Veals are steady: Choice spring lambs, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; poor and ordinary, [illegible]; Brightons, [illegible]; yearlings, [illegible]; muttons, [illegible]; choice heavy Brightons, [illegible]; choice eastern veals, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; Brightons and fancy, [illegible].

OATS—Oats are pretty well sustained on old oats, but new oats sold at lower prices. Clipped to arrive the first half of August were sold as low as [illegible]. Old clipped are quoted at [illegible], as to quality, with No. 2 white at [illegible]. The spot market is quoted at: Clipped, [illegible]; fancy, [illegible]; No. 2 white, [illegible]; No. 3 white, [illegible]; clipped mixed, [illegible].

FLOUR—Flour is firmer, as the improvement in wheat, and some of the millers have advanced rates [illegible] per bbl. Quotations are nominally at: Fine and supers, [illegible]; extras and seconds, [illegible]; Minnesota bakers' clear and straight, [illegible]; winter, clear and straight, [illegible]; winter pat., [illegible]; spring pat., [illegible].

BUTTER—The butter market is considered very quiet, with the tendency easy. Western creamery, extra, [illegible]; firsts, [illegible]; imitation creamery [illegible]; factory, [illegible]; northern creamery, extra, [illegible]; northern dairy, [illegible]; creamery, extra, [illegible]. These are prices for round lots. Jobbing lots and fancy lots cost more.

CORN—Corn is well maintained in firmer, with Chicago No. 2 yellow for shipment at [illegible] and No. 3 yellow at [illegible]. The spot market is better, with sales of steamer yellow at [illegible]. The quotations are at: Steamer yellow, [illegible]; No. 3 yellow, [illegible]; steamer mixed, [illegible].

POTATOES—Potatoes are fairly steady, with the stock on hand not heavy. The market is quoted at: Jerseys, [illegible]; Rebecca, [illegible]; [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]. New sweet potatoes are arriving, and are bringing [illegible].

CHEESE—Cheese is quiet, with but little change: [illegible]; Northern full creams, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; western choice, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]. Liverpool is quoted at [illegible].

HAY—Hay is quiet, with quotations little changed. [illegible] is steady and quiet at [illegible] for track spring bran to arrive, and at [illegible] for milk winter.

EGGS—Eggs are firmer, with the supply small in the hands of some of the [illegible]. Western, [illegible]; Michigan, [illegible]; [illegible], and northern, [illegible].

MEAL—The cornmeal market is firmer on bag meal, with the quotation at [illegible]. Barrel meal is quoted at [illegible].

RYE—In [illegible], the market is quiet. Trade was like that of the average Tuesday, with quotations unchanged.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 26.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 5 to 15 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market opened again this morning with the bears in command. The most important factor in it was the heavy shipments of currency to the west, made necessary by the troubles at Louisville, Milwaukee and Indianapolis. More than [illegible] has been sent since Monday, and the drain is not at all checked. This, of course, is a tax on the banks, which must react on the New York money market, and to discourage operations there. The weight of this was such that the fact that quotations from London for the whole list except Erie was from ¼ to ½ higher and that moderate purchasing orders came thence, did not have the effect of buoying prices here.

The passing of Erie into a receiver's hands is no new experience for that road. It was first forced to seek protection in [illegible], then in [illegible], again in [illegible] and now in 1893. Erie's present trouble is the inability to care for its large floating debt. The money market is such that it cannot provide for it.

Atchison was the leading stock on the local list, and the drive at it was as persistent as yesterday. It opened at [illegible], yesterday's final sale, and was pegged down to [illegible], while the [illegible] mortgage bonds were weakened from [illegible] to [illegible]. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy likewise was hammered, opening at [illegible] as against the final sale of yesterday at [illegible], and declined to [illegible], on the declaration of reduced crop prospects and the financial disturbances in the west.

General Electric is again an object of pressure, the quotations running off from [illegible] to [illegible]. Sugar opened ¾ down at 73 and weakened to [illegible], while the preferred was 1 down at 73. Union Pacific was ¾ weaker at [illegible] and New England preferred 2 at 45. In the copper group Tamarack declined from [illegible] to [illegible], and Calumet and Hecla [illegible] to [illegible].

A TRIPLE MURDER.

Fireman Find Three Dead Bodies at Pittsburg Fire.

WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN VICTIMS.

Husband and Father Arrested for the Murder.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 26.—At about 2 o'clock this morning the South Side fire department was called out to extinguish a slight fire in the house of John Simouse, who lived in Oak alley on the side of the hill.

Some of the members of the department in looking about the house after the fire had been extinguished were horrified at the sight of three dead bodies lying close to one another. They were those of Simouse's wife and two small children. There were three ugly, deep dents in the woman's head, which showed that she had first been struck a deadly blow from behind, then the fearful work was finished with some blunt instrument, either

A Hatchet or a Hammer.

The little children had the appearance of having been smothered, though their bodies also showed marks of violence. Their clothing was burned a little, though had they been living when the fire started they would have had no trouble in getting away from the small blaze. The children were Mary and Maggie, and were 4 and 2 years old respectively.

The husband was at once surrounded by the firemen, and the police were sent for. He told a story to the effect that he had been sleeping on the floor down stairs, but was awakened by smoke and ran upstairs to extinguish the flames. It was then, he said, that he first discovered the dead bodies of

His Wife and Two Children.

The police, however, had a different idea of the crime, and at once placed Simouse under arrest. They were confident a triple murder had been committed, and say that the murderer set fire to the house to conceal the crime. There was one more child in the family, but by some means the little one escaped the general massacre. The bodies of the victims were taken to the South Side morgue, and Simouse was locked up in the 12th ward station house to await an investigation by the coroner.

The child who was saved is only 6 years old, but this morning the weeping boy told the police that his father killed his mother. "He hit her on the head three times with the hatchet," sobbed the little fellow.

The police think jealousy was the cause of the awful deed.

INFANT INDUSTRY.

African Pythons That Does Not Need to Be Protected to Prosper.

DANBURY, Ct., July 26.—Dr. L. G. Knox of this city, who has a large collection of snakes, including the famous Lake Kenosia serpent, has a pair of African pythons, a male and female. Monday the female python commenced to lay, and, up to the present time, has deposited over 100 eggs. They vary in size and shape, but on an average are larger than goose eggs. There are over half a bushel of them.

It is something unusual for pythons to lay when in captivity. The only other instance recorded was in 1841, when a python in the Paris Zoological garden laid three dozen eggs. She deposited them May 5, and the first young were hatched on July 2.

Way Open For the Falcon.

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—The bark E. O. Clark arrived here yesterday from Ivigtut, Greenland, and from the report of Captain Chase the steamer Falcon, with Mr. Peary and his Greenland exploring party on board will have no trouble from the ice in reaching its destination at McCormick Bay. Captain Chase says that Davis strait is clear of ice on the west side, the flow having drifted over toward the northeast shore and that the way is open to McCormick Bay.

Putnam Is Expelled.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Rev. James M. Putnam, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, who has been opposing Rev. D. C. Potter, its pastor, was expelled from the church last evening on a specific charge of contempt of the committee which investigated the charges against Dr. Potter. The investigating committee, of which four-fifths were women, handed in the final report, upon which the resolution of expulsion was adopted.

Freight Brakeman Injured.

BOSTON, July 26.—George Lemery, a freight brakeman, is at the Massachusetts General hospital with his left arm completely severed at the shoulder, and his left leg terribly crushed. He was shifting cars on the Mystic branch of the Boston and Maine at 11 o'clock this morning when one of the cars overturned or jumped the track, and Lemery was thrown beneath the wheels.

Fled in Night Clothes.

PROVIDENCE, July 26.—A 3-story tenement block at 25 Codding street caught fire this morning at 4 o'clock, and the flames made such rapid progress that the tenants were forced to leave in their night clothing. The house is owned by Michael Dolan. Catherine Dolan's furniture was burned. The total loss will reach $1000.

Jumped Into the Back Yard.

BOSTON, July 26.—While temporarily insane Mrs. Julia White, 19 years old, living at 109 East Lenox street, this morning at 3 o'clock jumped out of a 3-story rear window into the back yard. She received severe injuries to her back and limbs, and was taken to the city hospital.

Lawrence Wickedness.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 26.—The report of City Marshal Sheehan for the past quarter shows that 604 arrests were made by the police, 526 being in the cases of males and 78 of females. Drunkenness caused 321 arrests, 274 of these being of males and 47 of females.

Italians at Concord Appeased.

CONCORD, N. H., July 26.—The trouble among the Italians working on the West Concord sewer has been satisfactorily arranged and operations were resumed this morning.

Saratoga Races Postponed.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 26.—Today's races have been postponed until tomorrow on account of rain. The entries stand.

Universal Suffrage Adopted.

BRUSSELS, July 26.—The chamber of deputies, which is just completing its work on the bill for the revision of the constitution, adopted yesterday by a large majority a proposal that three-fourths of the senate shall be elected by direct universal suffrage and the other fourth by the communal councils.

Fitchburg's New Electric Road.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 26.—The electric road to Whalom was tried yesterday with perfect success in every way. The park at the lake is being put into shape by the street railway company, which is also building a pavilion and car station. The road will not be opened to the public for some days.

FEAR OF THIEVING

Will Cause World's Fair Buildings to Be Closed at 7 P. M.

CHICAGO, July 26.—It is probable that within a few days the World's fair directors will issue an order directing that all the department buildings, excepting the Electricity building, be closed at 7 o'clock every night in the week.

The reasons for closing the buildings are good ones, but the principal relates to the safety of the buildings and exhibits.

Since the reduction of Columbian guards to 1500 the administrative officers of the fair have been solicitious for the safety of the exhibits in the big buildings.

It is well known that nearly all the thefts are committed at night, between 8 and 11 o'clock, when many of the agents in charge of exhibits go home.

It was demonstrated at the fire in the manufacturing building that when a fire however small, broke out there is a rush of visitors to the scene, and the thieves in the crowd can help themselves to any of the pocketable and costly exhibits which come handy.

The presence of an excited crowd and the diversion of the crowds toward the spot where the fire is, render it easy for thieves to plunder the exhibits and make good their escape.

COST OF PENSION SERVICE.

An Additional Appropriation Quite Likely to Be Required.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The pension bureau has prepared an estimate of the division of the appropriation provided by congress at the last session for the support of the pension service during the fiscal year just begun and ending June 30, 1894.

The amount of the appropriation was $166,150,505. Whether this will cover the expenses of the service remains to be seen. It is thought likely, however, that a deficiency appropriation may be required. The appropriation has been divided into the following payments: For army pensions, $161,000,000; for navy pensions, $3,640,215; for fees of examining surgeons, $1,000,000; for salaries of pension agents, $72,000; for clerk hire, pension agencies, $400,000; rents, pension agencies, $26,500; fuel and lights, pension agencies, $1400; contingent expenses, pension agencies, $[illegible].

Of course, this appropriation does not include the cost of maintaining the pension bureau in this city. That is provided by the legislative appropriation.

NEWSPAPER WINS.

End of Libel Suit Against London News and Post.

LONDON, July 26.—The libel suit of Joseph Havelock Wilson, M. P., and secretary of the National Seamen's union, against the London Evening News and Post, was concluded yesterday at the Guildford assizes.

Mr. Wilson brought the suit to recover $7000 damages on the ground that, at the time of the Hull dockers' strike, the journal in question had accused him of fomenting discontent among the men, and squandering the money of the Seamen's union.

He was a poor witness for his own case, and made several compromising admissions. The jury gave a verdict for The Evening News and Post.

Long Island Snowstorm Reported.

PROVIDENCE, July 26.—Early this morning, off the Long Island coast, the steamer Berkshire of the Providence, Norfolk and Baltimore line encountered a heavy snowstorm. Her decks were covered, and the storm was so thick that she was forced to lay to until it abated. The steamer arrived here a little late in consequence. Captain Rider says it was one of the most remarkable experiences he has had during his long service in these waters.

For Harbor Defense.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 26.—Mounted on the docks of the West Point foundry at Cold Spring, is one of the three 15-inch dynamite aerial torpedo throwers which are to be mounted for the defense of San Francisco. There are also two 8-inch tubes in process of construction at the West Point foundry for the defense of New York harbor. The tubes will not be ready for testing in less than a month or six weeks.

Mackerel at Newburyport.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., July 26.—The Merrimac river in the vicinity of the bridges was thronged with boats yesterday containing fishers after mackerel. Several schools appeared in the harbor, and a large number were caught in seines and on the hooks. One party of seiners captured about 1800, and all did a good day's work, the several catches varying from 50 to 100.

Revolutionists Were Beaten.

VALPARAISO, July 26.—A dispatch from Rio Grande do Sul says that the revolutionists were beaten in an engagement at Cevramento. The correspondent adds that the 300 Castilhistas raided a ranch near the Uruguayan frontier, stole many horses and impressed peons into the Castilhista army. They crossed the border and committed similar acts on Uruguayan soil.

Business Portion Wiped Out.

HOLLOW ROCK, Tenn., July 26.—The business portion of the town has been destroyed by fire. Only The Record office and Lovelace & Bros.' store remain standing. The loss will reach $40,000, with small insurance. The origin of the fire is believed to have been incendiary.

Cyclone Freaks.

DULUTH, July 26.—It is reported that a cyclone yesterday struck along the west end of the Mesaba river, doing considerable damage. Twenty miles of telegraph wires are down between Swan River and Cloquette, and it is impossible to obtain particulars.

At the Point of Death.

DOVER, N. H., July 26.—Hon. Robert H. Foss of Chicago, who is visiting here, had a paralytic stroke this morning, and is at the point of death. He is a prominent 33d degree Mason of the northern jurisdiction.

WILL TEST THE LAW.

New York & New England Begins Actions.

MUST ROADS BUILD CROSSINGS?

Constitutionality of the Act of 1892 in Question.

BOSTON, July 26.—The New York and New England railroad company propose to test the constitutionality of the act of 1892 which provides that when any person or corporation is cut off from access to lands by the laying out of a railroad and when no compensation has been paid for such taking, no agreement made thereto, the railroad commissioners may, if they deem it expedient, order a crossing to be made and maintained at the expense of the railroad company.

This morning F. A. Farnham, counsel for the railway company, presented to Justice Barker, in the supreme judicial court, three petitions for a writ of certiorari, in which the railroad company seeks to review the proceedings of the railroad commissioners relative to the establishment of three crossings in Franklin.

Mr. Farnham said that all parties were desirous that the full court should pass upon the constitutionality of the statute and the other points raised.

The case is one of great importance to railroad companies and to owners of land crossed by railroads. If the act is constitutional, it is possible for crossings to be ordered in places where a railroad has been maintained for scores of years. In the [illegible] case the railroad has run over the lands in question since 1878.

In the present case, also, the railroad company acquired its lands by warranty deeds, and contends that this is an agreement within the meaning of the statute, and that the commissioners had no right in law to order the crossings made.

CODMAN PLAYS WELL.

Captures Six Straight Games of Tennis at Newcastle.

NEWCASTLE, July 26.—Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning play was resumed in the Wentworth tennis tournament by the continuation of the Reed-Codman match, which was interrupted yesterday afternoon by the rain.

In their previous set Reed won by a score of 9—7. In the second, Reed's eye seemed to be off, and he drove nearly every ball out. His long reach helped him but little, and Codman volleyed and smashed from the net at will, winning six straight games. Reed scored only 9 points to 25 for Codman.

In the next set Reed took the net at every opportunity, and easily passed his opponent. Codman seemed to lack the steadiness shown in the previous set, although, at times, when he could gain the net, he showed some good volleying. Reed took this set, 6—2, scoring 26 points to 21 for Codman. The full score of the match is: Reed wins, 9—7, 0—6, 6—2.

Cowboys Fight Cavalry.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 26.—A report reached here last night that on Sunday a detachment of United States cavalry attempted to drive a lot of cattle out of the Salt Fork valley, in the interior of the Cherokee strip, and a battle ensued between the soldiers and cowboys, in which a number of cattle were killed and one cowboy fatally wounded. The matter is being kept quiet and no further particulars are obtainable.

Unicycle Sulky Invented.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 26.—John P. Kelley of this city, a practical machinist and a horse fancier, has built a unicycle sulky, in which he will drive one of his horses at the state fair. Great saving in weight, draft and friction is claimed over the bicycle sulky. The wheel is 40 inches high and the seat directly over the ball bearing center. Neither traces nor breeching will be used.

Leaves Gray Gables Aug. 1.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—President Cleveland will leave Gray Gables and return to Washington Aug. 1. This information was given yesterday by an administration official. It is further said that the president will spend the few days after he gets to Washington before the meeting of congress in putting the finishing touch to his message.

NORWICH AND VICINITY

CITY NEWS.

Miss Fannie Rogers, cashier in Porteous & Mitchell's, is enjoying a six weeks' vacation.

Mr. Charles King of Meriden spent yesterday with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Gaskell of Greeneville.

The Pawtuxet Valley Times, of which Frank H. Campbell is editor, has completed its first year of life.

The Willimantic camp meeting will begin Monday afternoon, August 14, and will close Sunday evening, August 20.

Mr. Stephen B. Roath has returned from a tour through the summer retreats of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Miss Amelia A. Hall of the Free Academy faculty during the past year will spend the coming year in study at Wellesley college.

A flash of lightning struck a brick house near Jewett Bros'. coal yard Wednesday afternoon, making a hole nearly a foot square in the roof.

Mrs. Sarah G. Fisher of Hackensack, N. J., has returned to her home after a visit of a few days with Mrs. J. Palmer Story of Laurel Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Gallup of Hartford, are at Pawcatuck Bridge, near Mystic. Mr. Gallup is remembered as the son of Nelson Gallup of Laurel Hill.

A number of Thread City cyclers will come to Norwich this evening to attend the Moonlight excursion given by the Rose of New England Wheel club.

The $5 prizes offered by The Academy Journal have not been awarded, none of the poems and stories handed in having been adjudged of the requisite merit.

These are called dog days, the days when the dog star rises and sets with the sun, the days when dogs are more liable to be affected by rabies than at any other season of the year.

The family of Mr. George Kingsbury of Enfield, have returned home, after having spent a week at Block Island, and made a pleasant visit to Mrs. William T. Lane of Laurel Hill avenue.

The portrait of Prof. Elbridge Smith, presented the Free Academy June 2, hangs on the boys' side of the school room, that of Prof. William Hutchison hanging on the girls' side.

Captain Pellett and Lieutenant Olagin have returned from the state Salvation Army council in Waterbury, and the regular evening services were resumed Wednesday evening.

The A. L. M. society of the First Baptist church gave a pleasant sail on the steamer Summer Girl last night. At Bushy Point a stop was made and the passengers, numbering over two hundred, were served with ice cream.

Immense schools of Spanish mackerel ruffle the waters of the south side of the Long Island coast from Fire Island to Montauk point, according to report. Old fishermen say they have never before been so plentiful.

Mr. William W. Beckwith of River avenue has just received from a friend in Fort White, Texas, a letter which states that the temperature there is 95 degrees above zero. This is the average heat in that section for seven months every year.

Mr. Hiram C. Hill, the local contractor, is making good progress in moving the Moss house, Westerly. The main portion of the hotel is now in its new location on Rock avenue, and the men are now engaged in transporting the rest of the building.

Chief Greenaburg was summoned to the dress goods room of Porteous & Mitchell's store Wednesday afternoon, clouds of smoke giving the appearance of fire in the building. The only cause for the smoke was found in a badly ventilated store in an adjoining building.

Mr. C. W. Manwarring of Hartford, who formerly resided in Norwich and was well known as a builder here, is in town representing the firm who is publishing a life of the late Gov. Wm. A. Buckingham, prepared by his brother, the Rev. S. G. Buckingham, D. D., of Springfield.

It is expected that the Rose of New England Wheel club will have a large party on their Moonlight excursion this evening. Street cars will run on all the routes after the return of the boat. Tubbs' band will furnish music. The boat will leave at 7.30 sharp and arrive home between 11.30 and 12 o'clock.

A special feature of the excursion Sunday on the City of Richmond will be the long stay allowed, giving plenty of time for bathing, fishing and also a visit to the many places of interest on Block Island. The steamer will arrive home early. Any information regarding the trip can be obtained from W. F. Corkery, who also has on sale the tickets and state rooms.

The Windham County Transcript says: Our esteemed friend, Superintendent P. St. M. Andrews, has a well-established reputation as one of the most competent managers of railroads in the country. During the nearly half a century he has superintended the running of trains on the Norwich & Worcester road the record shows, we think, fewer accidents and less loss of property than on the same number of rails in America.

Truckman Lemuel B. Park met with a serious loss Wednesday morning in the death of one of his team horses. A pair were standing in front of the Spear building on Main street, when an electric car came by. The "off" animal became frightened and pushed its mate against the curbing, breaking its hind leg in two places. Dr. Hyde was summoned, and chloroformed the horse in Lee & Osgood's passage way. Mr. Park lost another horse several weeks ago and a third one was sick all last winter.

Falls to New London.

The New London Telegraph says: The scholarship given by the Boston Museum of Arts to the best designer in the design class at the Slater hall, awarded to Miss Robinson of Norwich, has fallen to Geo. Guest of New London, the next best, as Miss Robinson has accepted a position as assistant teacher in the Norwich academy.

Ten Dollars a Minute.

A Norwich drummer went into a Chicago business office recently to see the proprietor. While there the owner of the establishment was asked to change a ten dollar bill, and when receiving the small change dropped a dollar on the floor. As he did not pick it up, the drummer called his attention to it.

"Let it lie there, said the proprietor coolly," I'm making ten dollars a minute, and I'd loose money if I stopped to pick it up.

And he let it lie until business hours were ended. The Norwich man vouches for the accuracy of the story, and besides, it happened in Chicago.

Military Doings.

A regular meeting of the board of officers of the Third regiment is called to meet at Company C's armory Friday evening.

There are contradictory reports as to the resignation of Lieutenant-Colonel Armstrong, but on good authority it is stated that his resignation has been sent in. In that case the officers of the Third regiment may be called to New London almost any day to elect a successor. It is believed that Major Fox of this city can have the office if he wants it.

Niantic Camp Y. M. C. A.

The Connecticut Y. M. C. A. is preparing to establish at the camp at Niantic this year a temporary branch of that organization, whose headquarters will be in a large tent amply supplied with books, newspapers, games and athletic apparatus for the use of the members of the state militia. For two successive years this plan has been materialized, and has proved an admirable one.

The committee of arrangements is James H. Jarman of Hartford, H. W. Scoville of Waterbury and Wilbur A. Smith of Bridgeport. The secretary in charge will be E. B. Phillips of Winsted.

Last year the expense of the week was $110, and this year it is expected that the outlay will be $200.

Watch Hill Notes.

The Watch Hill correspondent of The Narragansett Weekly writes: The season thus far has been very quiet, but nothing more was to be expected this year, when one considers the attractions at Chicago and the business depression which characterizes every state in the country. The guests are for the most part those who have visited the Hill previously, and are mostly people well along in years, who come for that quiet, restful peace which can only be found at the seashore.

The Brown Glee Club Quartette and Instrumental club are booked for the Ocean house, July 29. The boys will sing for the benefit of the chapel and will probably be greeted by a full house, as will some of the Banjo club from Amherst likewise, who sing and play at the Plimpton on August 3.

The Bridge in Use.

Selectmen Lillibridge, Briggs and Small and Secretary G. H. Sage of the Berlin company, in Reynolds' most luxurious hack, drawn by four proud-spirited bays, Attorney Thayer, Senator Crandall, Engineer Cook and Alderman Ahern, behind McChesney's most ambitious pair of steeds, opened to travel the fine new Laurel Hill bridge Wednesday morning. The structure met the hearty commendation of drivers during the rest of the day, and a constant procession passed over.

An informal dinner at the Wauregan house at 1.30 o'clock was enjoyed by the members of the party and a few invited friends. A feature of the occasion was the reading of the following letter:

NORWICH, July 26, 1893.

Mr. Lillibridge and Gentlemen of the Bridge Committee:

Dear Sirs—Are we thus to be neglected in this royal banquet? We are reported to be first across that bridge by two days. With my regrets at being thus seemingly neglected I am

Yours sincerely,
THE FIRST MAN TO DRIVE A TOP BUGGY ACROSS THE NEW LAUREL HILL BRIDGE.

P. S.—I will send you one of my horse's [illegible].

COLD SPRING WATER.

An Old Thamesville Spring to be Utilized

In August Mr. Palmer G. Whipple will begin to utilize the water of Cold Spring, situated near the railroad track just above Thamesville. The water of this spring has recently been analyzed by the state chemist and pronounced to be as pure as water can be.

A resident of this city has also subjected it to what seems a very severe test; a comparison with the famous Poland water. After a careful investigation of the merits of the two, he declares the Cold Spring water to be quite as superior to Poland water as the latter is to that of our reservoir.

Cold Spring was the old drinking place of the Mohegan tribe, and is thus quite as traditional as Trading cove. The spring is well known to the older citizens of Norwich.

SENATOR SHAW A CANDIDATE.

Will Give Up Railroad Enterprise for Political Honors.

The Hon. E. P. Shaw, senator from the Fourth Essex district of Massachusetts, Wednesday announced that he was a candidate for the position of state treasurer and receiver general at the coming election. He had been approached on the subject first about ten days ago, and among the friends who advised him to run were two Boston bankers and many others, including William E. Barrett, speaker of the house. He had given the matter much thought, and concluded that the position was one which would be congenial to him, as he intends to withdraw largely from his railroad enterprises and other business connections, and will be able to give his time and attention to the affairs of the office. The only other two men whom he has heard mentioned for the nomination are ex Bank Commissioner Locke and Henry E. Turner of Malden.

A THUNDER STORM'S TOUR.

Norwich Gets a Touch of a Wild July Revel of the Elements.

A heavy thunder storm rode through New England Wednesday and landed in Norwich early in the afternoon. Dark and ominous clouds were the advance guard of the disturbance for several hours, and when the storm broke, it raged with great severity. The heavy thunder was continuous, and rain and hail fell in torrents. The lighting twisted wires in its grasp, and did some slight damage about the town.

Trees in Preston and on Cliff street were hit by bolts, and badly splintered. A shaft struck the south side of the house of S. M. Byrnes on Thames street, tearing out several shingles and running down the chimney, filling stoves with soot.

Lightning seared the residence of N. D. Barker in Lebanon and damaged the building considerably.

The telegraph and news service of New England was considerably interrupted by the rain and wind storm. The storm was particularly severe about Hartford. Telegraph poles were blown down and the wires prostrated in all directions.

The postal telegraph company's wires to Hartford from Boston by way of Providence and Willimantic were all down south of Willimantic, except three.

The effect of the storm was first felt about 11 o'clock. It apparently travelled in a northeasterly direction up the Connecticut valley, playing havoc with the telegraph wires in its path.

Lewis Dalton, a Southern New England Telephone company lineman probably owes his life to the fact that his hands was in his pockets when the first flash came. He was on the cable pole in front of the local office replacing fuses in the box, when the electric fluid sped over the wires nearly knocking him from his perch. He made all haste for the ground.

OBITUARY.

Orrin C. Dimock.

Orrin C. Dimock died at his home on Pearl street at 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the result of a paralytic shock suffered at 4 o'clock in the morning, at the age of 68 years. He was born in Stafford and had been a resident of this city twenty-three years, being interested for many years in the grocery firm of A. Francis & Son.

Mr. Dimock was a popular and respected citizen, and his death is regretted by a large circle of friends. A wife survives him.

Mrs. Amos P. Dorrance.

Norwich friends will deplore the sudden death at Helena, Montana, last Saturday of Grace Cox, wife of Mr. Amos P. Dorrance, formerly of this city and grandson of the Hon. Amos W. Prentice, after a married life of two years. Mrs. Dorrance spent several weeks in Norwich a year ago, and won many friends by her graces of mind and person. Much sympathy will be felt for bereaved husband.

Discussion in House of Commons Results in a Free Fight.

TIM HEALY'S HIGH HAT SMASHED.

LONDON, July 27.—On the government programme ten o'clock this evening was the hour set for the closure of debate in the house of commons on the home rule bill. Galleries were filled with persons expectant of an exciting scene from members present but the proceedings early in the evening were tame. John Clancy, Parnellite, moved an amendment to the bill that the imperial government should guarantee to Ireland 600,000 pounds annually during the provisional period of six years. Mr. Gladstone declined to accept the amendment.

Obscure members continued the debate until 9.45. Then Joseph Chamberlain rose to deliver the final broadside of oration. He was still smarting under the lash which Mr. Gladstone swung on Tuesday, and spoke with corresponding bitterness. After a few [illegible] and biting words as to the conduct of ministers he gave his opinion of the closure of the bill applied by the government. The members, he said, were about to witness the last [illegible] of a [illegible] farce.

The debate had been changed in its most vital features, and no debate was regarded as necessary since whatever was altered in the bill was always found perfect by the adherents of the [illegible] minister. Jeers from the Irish, cheers from the unionists, and counter cheers from the liberals interrupted Mr. Chamberlain. He waited two or three minutes until the confusion abated. Immediately after resuming his speech he had been warned by the mutterings from the Irish benches that a storm was gathering.

Mr. Chamberlain was plainly startled, but he tried to talk on. His voice was inaudible to members on benches. Shrieks of execration shouted above the uproar. T. P. O'Connor shouted "Judas" so loudly that the epithet could be heard throughout the house. The rest of the Irishmen took up the cry and for half a minute shouted "Judas" in chorus. Meantime the clock struck ten. Chairman Mellor tried to put the closure, but his voice could not be heard amid the shouts of the Irish and the unionists.

Cries and yells of rage and insults were heard on the right. Mr. John Logan, liberal, ran to the first opposition bench and began upbraiding Edward Carson, a tory. [illegible] to thrust his fist under Mr. Carson's nose, George Wyndham and Mr. Fisher, [illegible] colleagues of Mr. Carson, seized Mr. Logan by the neck, threw him to the floor head first, and then bundled him under a bench. Somebody smashed Tim Healy's high hat down over his eyes. Healy tore off the hat and sprang into the aisle in full fighting posture just as Mr. Hanbury was trying to get by. Mr. Hanbury was knocked against a bench [illegible] of the collision.

A free fight then broke out at the gangway. Blows were struck right and left. Members [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] gling, carrying scores of members, [illegible], clawing and upsetting each other. Both sergeants-at-arms forced their way through the thick of the fight, but as fast as one group was pacified another came to blows. Eventually Mr. Gladstone begged Edward Marjoribanks, liberal, to try to stop the fighting. Mr. Marjoribanks succeeded in stopping the conflict. Order followed.

Tim Healy had a hard blow in the face and one cheek was badly swollen. William Redmond had a bad spot on his face. Mr. Balfour was absent during the riot. Mr. Gladstone had watched the scene with inflamed face and an expression of sorrow, indignation and astonishment.

As soon as order was restored Mr. Mellor resumed the chair. The new clause was adopted by a vote of 319 to 291. Another, which was not adopted, was carried 311 to 286. The two other financial clauses were carried without division.

CONSTERNATION IN WALTHAM.

The American Waltham Co. Reduces the Number of Its Employes.

WALTHAM, Mass., July 27.—Consternation reigns tonight in consequence of the official announcement given out at 3 o'clock this morning by Superintendent Fitch of the American Waltham Watch company, the biggest industry in the city and the largest watch producing concern in the world.

On July 1 the company gave its hands a month's vacation. Today Superintendent Fitch announces that the vacation would be extended a week, the factory starting up on August 7, and that at the time of starting up, only half the employes will be given work. The reduction in hands will be made principally on the 18-size movements. The balance of the June and July pay roll will be paid in the various departments as usual. The foremen of the departments will notify the hands who are selected to begin operation on the 7th.

With the announcement from Superintendent Fitch comes the news that the Elgin works will reduce their force to half the number now employed, on August 1.

The Waltham company has on its pay roll a little less than 3,000 employes, and the Elgin has a little more than that number. For a long time the watch trade journals have predicted the closing down indefinitely of the watch factories, but the announcements regarding the Waltham and Elgin companies comes without warning on this city.

CLEVELAND RACES.

Great Race Trotted Thursday on the Glenville Course.

CLEVELAND, July 27.—The greatest race in the history of the turf was trotted today at the Glenville course in this city. It was the free-for-all race. There were five heats trotted. The average time was 2.11 1-10, which eclipses all records for five heats.

Before the call Ryland T. and Hamlin's Nightingale were the favorites. Little Albert was considered good for a heat, but not more than that. To the surprise of racing men he reeled off the first mile in 2.10 and followed that up with a mile in 2.11. On the home stretch in the third heat he broke and Walter E. took the heat. The fourth heat was won by Walter E., because he showed himself the better horse. In the fifth heat Walter E lost his stride just before he reached the wire and Little Albert took the heat and the race.

The first heat of the 2.25 race was trotted at a mark far below that generally anticipated and was won by Less Pilot, a horse that was not even considered dangerous. Ellard had been a strong favorite. While Less Pilot didn't have quite speed enough to win, he gave Ellard a hard chase and the bay stallion had to go at his best in every heat.

In the race for two-year-olds, Directors Flower defeated Chris Lang, the favorite, with ease. Directors Flower trotted the fastest two-year-old race of the year.

The 2.14 pacing race, continued from yesterday, was won by Hal Dillard. Paul was the favorite, and after the race the judges declared all pools off, as they believed there had been dishonesty in the race. Paul was supposed to be at fault, and it is said steps will be taken to punish the offenders.

Directum trotted a mile to beat the record of Maud S., old-fashioned sulky. He went in 2.14. The half was made in 1.04¼, and if the horse had not lost his stride the chances are he would have been successful. There was an enormous attendance.

Charged with Stealing an $800 Horse.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 27.—At New Rochelle, Tuesday night, the police arrested a man who gave his name as Edward Thompson of Yonkers, N. Y. The charge against him was stealing an $800 horse from Winsted, Monday night. He placed the animal on a train bound for New York and was found in the car with the animal.

No Discrimination in Favor of Sarsfield Guards.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 27.—Commissary General Jamieson has received a letter from the Sarsfield Guards of New Haven asking permission for that company to provide its own caterer at Niantic during camp week, as has been their custom in past years. General Jamieson has informed the company that it will not be permitted as the laws are very strict as to the provision of food for the state militia at the encampment.

Requisition on Account of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The secretary of the interior today made a requisition upon the treasury of the treasury for $18,300,000 on account of pensions. The money is to be distributed among the second group of agencies where quarterly payments begins August 4, as follows: Topeka, Kans., $3,600,000; Philadelphia, $1,900,000; New York, $1,700,000; Knoxville, Tenn., $1,900,000; Louisville, Ky., $1,200,000; Indianapolis, $2,700,000.

His Identity Still Unknown.

Charles Quinn, a Pascoag, R. I., mill employe and father of Joseph Quinn, whom at one time it was suspected was Preston's unknown dead man, came to town Thursday to assure himself that the stranger was not his son. The fresh grave in Preston was opened, and Quinn, after viewing the remains, announced that while the dead face was almost a complete resemblance to that of his son's, the corpse was not that he had feared.

Considering the almost identical likeness, the mistake of the Norwich postal authorities is very natural. The younger Quinn came to these parts looking for work, and his whereabouts are unknown.

900 MILES IN 42 DAYS.

New London's Octogenarian Embarks on His Herculean Undertaking.

Ray Earl of New London, eighty years old, started yesterday noon to walk to Chicago on a wager of $100 that he covers the distance in forty-two days, taking with him no money for food or other purposes except what is necessary to pay ferrys, trusting to luck to obtain sustenance on the way. A valise, with its contents weighing nineteen pounds, and an extra coat and umbrella, complete his equipment. The distance on foot is about 900 miles. The old man is in vigorous health, has made long tramps before, and is confident of making the journey within the time specified. He carries credentials from New London that will identify him on the way.

TWICE ELECTROCUTED.

Full Details of the Horrible Affair at Auburn Prison.

DYNAMO BROKE DOWN.

The Victim Taken From the Chair—Successful Attempt an Hour Later.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 27.—William G. Taylor (colored) was executed by electricity this afternoon for the murder of Solomon Johnson in Auburn prison, Sept. 20, 1892. It was only a few minutes to 1 o'clock when the warden invited the witnesses to the death chamber. State Electrician Davis was at the electric cabinet and his preliminary tests with the bank of incandescents were entirely satisfactory, the dial indicating a voltage of 1,890. In the morning it had risen to 1,880 volts. Two priests, three keepers and the condemned man soon came in from the adjoining room and Taylor was immediately applied to the chair and tightly pinioned. When all was ready the signal was given and the current was turned on. Taylor's powerful frame shot back and up in the chair until the straps creaked and simultaneously there was a crash unlike anything ever heard before in the death chamber.

The strain upon the foot rest had broken it and the underpinning of the chair gave way. The body sank to a reclining posture with the victim's feet resting on the floor. The spectators were startled but could not move. Everybody supposed the victim was dead from the first shock when a strange noise was heard. He had begun to gasp for breath and saliva was seen to exude from the mouth. "Turn on the current," was the command of the warden and Electrician Davis tried to obey, but was dumbfounded to find no response to the turning of the lever. The dynamo had broken down. The labored breathing of the victim continued and his chest heaved convulsively. Davis hastened outside to the dynamo to ascertain the trouble and found the armature had been burned out.

The victim who was now gasping and groaning aloud, was unbound and was placed upon a cot and carried into the adjoining room. His pulse grew stronger and he endeavored several times to rise from the cot. Physicians said he was unconscious, precisely in the condition of a man stricken with apoplexy. He would revive, they thought, and the only way to carry out the sentence of the law was to again place him in the chair. Linemen quickly connected the prison apparatus with the electric light plant and in an hour all was ready for the second electrocution.

Taylor continued to grow stronger and at first was given an injection of morphine. A small dose of chloroform was also administered. He was then carried bodily to the chair, which had been repaired, and was dropped into a sitting posture. The current was then turned on, the body straightened up and for half a minute 2,240 volts coursed through his unconscious form and he was pronounced dead. The stethoscope was applied to the heart and make sure, and the physicians declared there was no pulsation. The [illegible] at 1.[illegible].

An autopsy was conducted by Drs. Brown, Wright and Mooney. The body was not marked and did not differ in appearance from any of the victims of the chair who had suffered but a single electrocution. The physicians stated that Taylor's muscular development was very marked. All the physicians agreed that Taylor was insensible to pain after the first contact.

Electrician Davis says the burning out of the armature could not have been foreseen. He stated, however, that all the state prison dynamos were crowded beyond their capacity at electrocutions. They were small dynamos intended to generate many thousand volts ordinarily, but they were repeatedly run up to twice that voltage. He thought the giving way of the foot rest might have impaired the contact with the electrode of the head and Taylor could not have received the full force of the current for more than an instant.

Taylor's remains were buried in the prisoners' graveyard as no one claimed them. He was a native of Rutland, Vt.

DEATH OF MAJOR STRONG.

Second Company of Governor's Horse Guard.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 27.—Major H. H. Strong, who had been ill for some time, died this morning, aged 61. He was a member of the well-known firm of Strong, Barnes & Hart, the wholesale meat dealers. At the time of his death he was serving his fourth term as selectman of the town of New Haven. He was for a number of years a captain in the New Haven company of the Governor's Horse Guard, and later was promoted to major.

Took a Big Dose of Laudanum.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 27.—Walter J. Gilbert committed suicide at his home in Newfield, last night, by taking an overdose of laudanum. Gilbert was 31 years of age. He spent the day Wednesday with his wife in New Haven, and returned on the 7.11 p. m. train. He went at once to the house and took the fatal draught in the presence of his mother. Medical attendance was not procurable for an hour and a half, and Gilbert was then in an unconscious condition. At 12 o'clock Dr. Edgerton called in Medical Examiner Cleveland. Gilbert died shortly after. He had been a hard drinker for a number of years. About three years ago he married Miss Alice Fechter, the well-known singer.

PUTNAM.

Dennis Kelly Arrested for Larceny—Base Ball—Other Matters.

Dennis Kelly, who claims to hail from Boston, was arrested Thursday at noon by Special Officer Carver, charged with the larceny of fifteen pair of shoes from the New York & New England railroad company. He will be arraigned in court today.

The Boston Reds-Putnam game at Morse's lot tomorrow should attract all lovers of the national game in this vicinity. There will be considerable interest to see the Putnam boys make the big team hustle. The Putnam team is out for business, and will be worried if they get a set back.

The fourth field day of the Putnam High School association will be held at Roseland park, Tuesday, August 1.

Miss Ada Hughes is visiting friends in Mystic.

The Electrics rubbed down the Woodstock base ball club to the tune of 8 to 1 Thursday.

A special telegram from the bedside of Chief Postal Clerk Murley, today, states that he has regained consciousness. The prospects for his recovery are brighter.

BLOCKADE NOTICE GIVEN.

Siam Government Said to Be Anxious to Avoid Open Warfare.

BANGKOK, July 27.—Notice was given today of the blockade by the French fleet. Outgoing vessels have been warned that they must clear from Bangkok and Koh-si-chang before Saturday or submit to detention. The blockade will extend along the river to the north gulf coast of Siam. The French fleet with M. Pavie, French minister resident, had gone to Koh-si-chang. The general expectation is that early in August the French fleet will go to Bangkok and land some 5,000 men. There is little doubt here that France's purpose is to make Siam a French colony.

The Siamese government is exceedingly anxious to avoid open warfare. When the gunboat Lutin was at the Menam bar early this morning the foreign minister sent to M. Pavie a note to the effect that the king and his advisers were anxious to maintain peace. All such efforts, however, are believed by the English residents to be vain. Unless Egypt intervenes to assist in a settlement of the dispute there can be little expectation or even hope that France will refrain from extreme measures.

Hartford Letter Carrier Disappears.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 27.—George Simonds, a letter carrier at the Hartford post office, has disappeared with his four-year-old Benny. Simonds, who is a widower with three children, has been in poor health lately and was absent from the post office on sick leave. Last Saturday he left his home on Pawtucket street at 5 o'clock a. m. unexpectedly to his housekeeper, Mrs. Bugg, who expected his return that night.

He has not since been heard of. Simonds has shown signs of melancholia. A day or two before he took his boy, Benny, away to live with his sister, Mrs. Frank Ayers, in East Hartford, but evidently secreted him elsewhere until he was ready to depart. Simonds is a man of good character and habits. He lost a thumb and two fingers of the right hand by an accident about three years ago.

Held for Manslaughter.

BOSTON, July 27.—Early this morning Thomas F. Sullivan, 18 years old, of 11 Joiner street, and Patrick Buckley of 56 Chelsea street, Charlestown, were arrested charged with the murder of Thomas M. Walsh, the marine who was found lying on Chelsea street last night and who died before taken to the station. James Mullen, who was arrested last night, was discharged from custody, having proved an alibi. Sullivan admits that he struck Walsh, but says he intended to inflict no injury. He says that he, Walsh and Buckley were on good terms and that he and Buckley were merely escorting Walsh to the navy yard where he lived. In the Charlestown court this morning Sullivan and Buckley were each held for manslaughter, and their cases were continued, the defendants being held in $5,000 bonds each.

A Liveryman Disappears—Foul Play Suspected.

OLD SAYBROOK, Conn., July 27.—Edward Dunham, a well-known liveryman of this place, took a Valley road train for Middletown last Saturday morning. Since that time nothing has been heard from him. Yesterday Mrs. Dunham visited Middletown and Hartford, but failed to find any clue of her missing husband.

There is a strong suspicion that Dunham has met with foul play. He had several hundred dollars in his pocket, besides several checks for various amounts. Dunham kept a large livery stable here and did a good business, consequently the theory that he has voluntarily run away can find no foundation.

A Rumor of Settlement in the Siam Trouble.

LONDON, July 27.—The Pall Mall Gazette says: "We learn from an authority that is deserving of the highest respect that the Franco-Siamese difficulty has been settled. France has decided to accept Siamese proposals and has abandoned her claims to the territory lying between the eighteenth and twenty-third parallels of latitude."

Movements of Steamers.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Arrived: Standard, from Stettin; Ocean, from Amsterdam.

Sailed: Moorish Prince for Kingston; State of Nebraska, for Glasgow; Well City for Bristol; Nkamyht for Liverpool; Furst Bismarck for Hamburg.

Objections Raised by Middletown Democrats.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 27.—It is said that prominent democrats of this city have united and written a letter to Governor Morris asking an explanation of the appointment of H. P. Whittlesey as secretary of the state board of charities. Mr. Whittlesey is a well-known politician of republican tendencies.

In the Hands of a Receiver.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 27.—The American Tube and Iron company, located at Middletown, has gone into the hands of a receiver. The company has no mortgages, judgments or bonded indebtedness against it, but could not raise funds owing to the stringency of the money market. It is one of the largest concerns of the kind in the country.

THE RACES AT HARTFORD

An Incident That Was Not According to the Programme.

14 STARTERS IN 2.30 CLASS.

Visitors Disappointed at Non-Appearance of Ned Winslow.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 27.—The afternoon was decidedly cool, with a high wind from the northwest. The track was very fast and in superb condition. The wind pulled the canvas off all the temporary shelter for horses and audience. This necessitated a delay in calling the horses, as President Phelps had a dozen men rearranging matters. The call for horses was finally made about 2.15.

Just before the races were called Lizzimont and Sterling were working out. As they came to the wire, a fine large chestnut horse that was being driven by Miss Mable Pomroy, started on a runaway through the infield between the track. The young lady hung pluckily to her horse, and after a nice display of courage stopped him.

It caused a little excitement for the time, but the horsemen loudly applauded the plucky young lady. She was in a fashionable trap accompanied by a young lady friend.

In the first class of the day, the 2.30, there were fourteen starters. The fields were large and very well matched. The first heat was won by Fannie S. Colonel Parker ran the entire mile and Flossie was cut down. Time, 2 23¼.

Headlight cast a shoe before this heat, and Flossie was ran into and had to find another sulky. This caused unavoidable delay.

In the free-for-all there were three starters—Lizzimont, Guesswork and Sterling. Ned Winslow, who was to down Sterling, had gone dead lame. Sterling is a big favorite. The non-appearance of Ned Winslow disappointed about 350 from Springfield, who came to back him.

You can get a first-class suit of Smith & Gilbert at a very low price as they want to clean out all of their lightweight woolens.

There is going to be lots of warm weather yet, and light suits will be something of a comfort if not a luxury. The Manhattan Clothing Co. have some great bargains left and can supply what is needed and desired. See advertisement.

Norwich Business College.

The fall term of the Norwich Business college begins Tuesday, Sept. 4. The fact that the college is under the leadership of Mr. Earl M. Swift, a teacher of more than thirty years experience in school work, is sufficient guarantee that the instruction given will be both thorough and practical. A commercial school in our city is a convenience alike to the students and business community, and should receive a liberal local as well as suburban support. It is the design of the management for the ensuing year to furnish a good business education at current rates. An announcement of the college work and prices will be mailed on application.

Telephone Linemen Strike.

Five linemen of the Southern New England Telephone company of New Haven have struck on account of having been put on to fill the places made vacant by strikers who have held off for the past six months. The men in question were under the superintendence of N. S. Crofut of Bridgeport, who has charge of the western division. About twenty men are employed on the western division and all are said to have struck.

There are about sixty linemen employed by the company in this state.

An Early Morning Raid.

Sergeant Murphy, assisted by Officers Roberts, Norris, Doty and Vetter, raided the house No. 90 Water street, occupied by Nellie Wallace at 2.15 Thursday morning. Sergeant Murphy, going up stairs, discovered Miss Wallace, the keeper of the place, Mary Moore, an elderly woman who claims to be simply a cook there, Eva White and Thadeus C. Dowling, a young man alleging to be in the wool business. The four were arrested and taken to police headquarters.

In the city court Thursday morning Miss Wallace was convicted of keeping a house of ill-fame and was fined $50 and costs. Dowling was fined $20 and costs, the white woman $15 and Mrs. Moore $5. They appealed and bonds in the case of the principal were fixed at $350, and in that of each of the frequenters at $150.

AN AMERICAN YACHT.

Likely That William A. Slater Will Have His New Yacht Built in America.

It is probable that William A. Slater will reconsider his intention of having his new steam yacht built in England, notwithstanding extraordinary inducements in the way of price have been offered him. Mr. Slater is an American all the way through and prefers to have an American yacht and patronize American shipbuilders. While there may be a saving of money in building in England, John Bull can take points from this side of the water in all else that relates to shipbuilding.—New London Day.

ROMANCE OF AN ADVT.

How a Groton Girl's Correspondence Ripened Into Love.

About three months ago one of Groton's fairest young ladies noticed an advertisement in a matrimonial journal requesting correspondence with a lady about eighteen years of age, with a view to marriage. The advertisement invited anyone responding to send their name, color of hair and eyes, and if possible, a photograph, to the gentleman who inserted the advertisement, who used the initials J. W., of Worcester, Mass.

More in a spirit of fun and without any serious intentions, the young lady replied to the "ad." giving a pleasing description of herself without the least attempt at flattery, and not deviating a particle from the truth.

In due season she received an answer from "J. W.," and a pleasant correspondence sprung up, until finally the lady invited the gentleman to pay her a visit at her Groton home.

On a recent afternoon, while engaged in household work, she heard the bell ring, and on going to the door was confronted by a tall, handsome looking, well dressed gentleman, who asked if Miss —— was at home. On receiving an affirmative reply and learning that the lady in question stood before him, he announced himself as "J. W." He was invited into the house and introduced to the old folks.

The young Massachusetts man remained with his fair correspondent until the last boat in the evening, when he returned to New London, not, however, until he had learned from the lips of the fair Grotonian that she was not averse to an early journey to the Bay state. The young man is well connected and in excellent financial circumstances.

THE CITIZENS' CATECHISM.

Provisions Made by the City Charter—Its French Unreliable

As a taxpayer, did you know that, according to the city charter:

The street railway must keep a space of two feet in width each side of the track in good repair, without expense to the city, or owners of land adjoining the track?

The common council has power by a vote of two thirds of all its members to remove any water commissioner for official misconduct?

That the city treasurer must apply any avails of water rents by him received to the payment of interest on the "water fund of the city of Norwich?"

That the water board is forbidden to make any contract for the use of water for a longer term than three years?

That any city officer making false entries or records is punishable in the same manner as if guilty of perjury?

That to use a fire-cracker except on the Fourth of July, or other public holiday, lays one liable to a fine of five dollars?

That to injure a tree, fence, bench, street-lamp, or monument in a public street, park, or square, is punishable by a fine of not less than ten, nor more than fifty dollars? Or imprisonment of not less than seven, nor more than thirty days?

That the common council has the right to compel any telegraph company to furnish poles of such style and finish as said council may determine?

That the ballots cast in any city meeting must be preserved for six months after in the office of the city clerk?

That to hinder a street railway company in the use of its tracks subjects one to a fine not to exceed fifty dollars?

That the price of gas in Norwich must never exceed four dollars per thousand cubic feet?

That to sell or buy charcoal in any other than a properly sealed city basket renders seller or buyer liable to a fine of seven dollars?

That boys are not permitted to run with any fire company?

That every householder is enjoined to have in the roof of his house, shop or store "a scuttle with a pair of stairs leading from the same to the garret floor—or, a good sufficient ladder?"

That it is unlawful for a citizen to keep gunpowder exceeding in quantity twelve pounds?

That racing in the street, drawing a sled, or any wheeled vehicle, propelled by hand or otherwise (bicyclers please take notice), on the sidewalk; injuring any grass in public places, permitting animals to stand on the crosswalks; playing of ball, or kite flying; using a hand-cart or wheelbarrow on the sidewalk, and keeping up any bonfire in the street, are among the nuisances for which one may incur fines, ranging from $1 to $25.

That to drown a cat or a dog in the Yantic, Shetucket, Thames or Cove might cost anywhere from $1 to $60.

That among other duties policemen "shall direct strangers the nearest way to their places of destination, and when necessary shall see that they are accompanied by a member of the force."

That to refuse the appointment of hayward means a fine of five dollars?

That to utter any scurrilous, abusive, indecent, or insulting language in any public place, "whether the same shall be addressed to any person passing, or to any other person, or to no person in particular," is punishable by a fine not exceeding seven dollars?

That while on duty a policeman must not carry an umbrella, though he is allowed a rubber or glazed cap cover and a portable cape in wet weather?

That each rent due for water remains a lien upon your building?

And lastly that the spelling of the charter and ordinances is not always according to Hoyle; the plural of money appears "monies" four times in Chapter III of the ordinances; while on page 144 a married woman is referred to as a "feme covert," a blunder which makes a French scholar laugh, and which proves the desirableness of sticking to good, plain English.

Poland Water.

MR. EDITOR:—In a local item this morning on "Cold Spring Water," I think THE BULLETIN did "Poland spring water" great injustice. If the state chemist or the unknown resident of the city will compare the two under the same conditions we are not afraid of the result. We simply claim there is no water more pure than the Poland, and few that can show as many cures. H. D. RALLION.

THE WHITE HILLS

Appear to Have Swallowed Up Samuel Thurston.

NO TRACE OF HIM CAN BE FOUND.

Aged and Prominent Business Man of Portland Missing.

PORTLAND, Me., July 27.—More than a week has gone by since Samuel Thurston disappeared into the mountain wilderness of western Maine.

He is one of Portland's best known citizens, and has been engaged in business here for many years. For a quarter of a century he has been connected with the First Parish church choir.

Mr. Thurston is an aged man, and the fact that he had made an assignment not long ago may have preyed on his mind.

A special dispatch received here today from Gorham, N. H., says: "The search for Mr. Thurston, which began here Sunday, is still going on, although it has now been transferred to the other side of the mountains, on account of a report that a man resembling him had been seen in that region. Both Mr. Thurston's son and his brother-in-law, R. W. Waters of Boston, have left here. Mr. Waters left at noon today for Glen station, which is 20 miles across the mountains, and will look that side over as thoroughly as possible in this mountain region of long distances and great forests."

The Search Was Begun Here

on Sunday last under the direction of Mr. G. D. Stratton of the Alpine House.

Mr. Thurston originally left Portland with a ticket to this place and return. He stopped off at Gilead to see his sister, and left there on the 19th.

As soon as Mr. Stratton received word on Sunday to begin his search men were sent into all the towns on this side of the mountains, and Berlin, Milan, Shelburne and this town were searched. Telegrams were also sent to Bethlehem, Jefferson, Randolph, Fabyan's, the Glen House and Jackson, describing Mr. Thurston.

The search made in this portion of the mountains revealed the following: Mr. Thurston was here in Gorham for several days, staying at the Willis cottage. He left there last Thursday. Mrs. Willis did not particularly remark him at the time, but now remembers some actions which lead her to think that

He Was Suffering Mentally.

A boy who works at the Willis cottage took a team Thursday and drove him five miles toward Berlin to a pretty waterfall, known as the Cascade. He stopped there. The boy says he had with him his valise and umbrella.

He was next seen by a man named Goodenough, whose house is two miles above this village, on the east side of the Androscoggin river. A man answering Mr. Thurston's description, but having no valise or umbrella, called at Goodenough's late Thursday afternoon and wanted to engage board. Goodenough did not notice any thing peculiar about him, but declined to board him, because he seemed to be a gentleman of means, who would not be suited with a farmhouse living.

This was the last seen of him, so far as is known, in this region. He disappeared as utterly as if

The Earth Had Swallowed Him Up.

It is thought that he reached Goodenough's from the cascade by walking along the track of the Concord and Montreal, but by what route he left Goodenough's no one knows.

Today a possible clue was obtained. Two men from Brooklyn—Edward Moody and George Smith—who were here Sunday, and heard of Mr. Thurston's disappearance, went from here to the Tip-Top House and returned. The clerk of the Tip-Top House informed them that on Sunday a stranger with a long, flowing gray beard remained there over night, going away Monday morning.

The clerk is quite positive that he did not go away on the stage or by the railroad, but must have started to walk down the mountain, the walk down would not be dangerous if one kept to the path.

Messrs. Moody and Smith and the clerk at the Tip Top House are quite confident that the stranger was Mr. Thurston.

He Signed His Name

on the register, however, as "Loren M. Jackson, Somerville, Mass." They feel quite sure that he departed toward Fabyan's and Bartlett.

There was a rumor today that he had returned to Gilead, but William R. Peabody telegraphs today that such was not the case.

It is said that Mr. Thurston, in a letter to his family, spoke of going over the mountain, but it is evident that he had no such intention when he left Portland, as he bought a ticket to Gorham and return.

From Goodenough's house, where he was last seen Thursday at 6 p. m., to the Tip Top House is 18 miles. How he passed that distance, if he has done it, no one has undertaken to surmise.

The stranger at the Tip-Top House attracted much attention by his eccentric behavior. He sat most of the time in the office with head down, as if in meditation. Occasionally he would go out and look uneasily about. He shunned the other guests, and departed as mysteriously as he had come.

The stage and train men are confident that he did not descend the mountains by any conveyance.

KILLED ACCIDENTALLY.

Result of Investigation Into Death of Thomas M. Welch.

BOSTON, July 27.—It has been decided that Thomas M. Welch, the marine who was found dead upon Chelsea street, Charlestown, at 9 p. m. yesterday, was killed accidentally by Thomas F. Sullivan, 18 years old, of 11 Joiner street, who is now under arrest, together with Patrick Buckley, 18 years old, of 55 Chelsea street.

Both boys are charged with murder, although all the evidence which the police have gone to show that the killing was the result of a playful blow given during a friendly altercation between Welch, Buckley and Sullivan. The two latter are very ready to talk concerning the affair. Both tell the same story.

It seems, according to them, that in company with Welch they visited a number of barrooms during the early evening, and all had drank freely and considerable. They say that Welch was considerably under the influence of liquor, and as they were soberer than he they were taking him to the navy yard.

On the way down Chelsea street they began to taunt each other, and in the little friendly passage-at-arms several light blows were exchanged between the three. When at the corner of Chestnut street Sullivan drew off and struck Welch behind the ear.

Owing to Welch's unstable condition, combined with Sullivan's lack of judgment in delivering the blow, Welch was seen to pitch forward, striking his forehead upon a trolley pole and then falling face downward upon the sidewalk, causing congestion of the brain.

Sullivan admits that he struck Welch, but says he did not intend to inflict any injury. There was no malice in the blow as he and Welch and Buckley were feeling very friendly toward each other. They had had no trouble of any kind, and were simply escorting Welch to the navy yard, where he lived.

Captain White of station 15 says that from all he can learn Buckley was not concerned in the action of the assault, although he is also complained of for murder. The captain also says that Welch was so intoxicated that the blow given him would not have had to have been a very heavy one to have made him fall. The concussion was caused rather by the force of the fall than by the blow itself.

Sullivan and Buckley were arraigned before Judge Bragg, in the Charlestown district court this morning, upon complaint of manslaughter.

Both boys pleaded not guilty, and were each held in $5000 bonds to appear in the district court next Saturday for examination.

SERIOUS CHARGES.

Bank Officials In Denver Are Arrested For Grand Larceny.

DENVER, July 27.—President M. J. Lawrence of the People's Savings bank was arrested at his office yesterday on a warrant charging grand larceny in connection with the failure of the savings bank. The warrant is sworn to by William Casey in behalf of his wife. The warrant also called for the arrest of Cashier F. C. Schrader upon the same charge, and he too was arrested.

The charge upon which the proceedings are brought is that the bank received a deposit from Mrs. Casey within 20 days previous to the time of failure. This is alleged to be a violation of the state law and is held by the law to be prima facie evidence that the officials of the bank knew that the bank was insolvent. This, under the law, makes the officials liable to prosecution for grand larceny.

DOESN'T WANT MONEY.

Rockford Man Who Wishes to Be Buried Alive For a Few Weeks.

ROCKFORD, Ills., July 27.—A. J. Seymour, who wants to be buried alive for a few weeks, has received an offer from a New York club to do the act near New York, under the auspices of the club. They agree to give him $40,000 if he does it successfully, and propose to erect an amphitheatre and charge an admission price to see the burial and the grave.

Seymour says he will not make his experiment a money-making affair, and will do it near Rockford and permit only press representatives and a few scientific men to be present.

A. C. Maxham, formerly a Methodist minister, now a real estate agent of this city, threatens to get out an injunction to prevent the attempt, which is being planned for the early part of August.

PENSION MIX UP.

North Attleboro Man Enjoys a Pension Intended For Another.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 27.—A singular pension case has been brought to light here. A pension was granted to a North Adams man, and North Attleboro was given as his place of residence. Another man in North Attleboro by the same name received the notification, and has been enjoying the pension. He has now been notified of its withdrawal.

It is a curious coincidence that both men had served in the navy, and both applied for pension on the same grounds; but it should be added that the North Attleboro man is an elderly person, and his service was during the Mexican war, while the other man served during the civil war.

Bourke Acquitted of All Blame.

VALETTA, Malta, July 27.—The court-martial that was appointed to inquire into the loss of the battleship Victoria, today rendered its decision in the case of Hon. Maurice A. Bourke, captain of the Victoria. The court found that no responsibility attached to Captain Bourke for the disaster, and he was therefore acquitted of all blame.

THE CLERK WENT OUT.

Robber Came In and Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Loses $100.

BOSTON, July 27.—Shortly after 10 o'clock this forenoon the Metropolitan Life Insurance company found itself $100 poorer than it had been but a few minutes before, and the loss of the money is alone due to the carelessness of a clerk employed at the branch office of the company, at 469 West Broadway.

This forenoon he wrote several letters, and at the above chronicled hour he left the office for the time being and went down to the street to mail them. According to his statement he was gone but a minute or so, but it was long enough for a robbery to be committed. When he returned to the office something attracted him to the safe, and it was then he discovered that a bag containing $100 in silver was stolen.

He was dumbfounded, and at first did not know what to do. In a short while he thought the best thing he could do would be to notify the police, and he went directly to Captain Foster of division 6 to whom he told the facts.

Officers at once investigated the case. It was learned from a woman who was at the time employed in washing the floor of the hallway, that while the clerk was absent a man walked down the entryway toward the office of the company and quickly returned the way he entered and left the building.

The police believe that this was the man who committed the larceny. He is said to have been tall and slim, was well dressed in dark clothes and wore a straw hat.

Almost Renewed.

Ah, I think we met before.
You were Nellie—I was Jack.
Hush! "We're rather near the door!"
Well, let's move a little back.

Still as charming, I perceive,
As you were in the old days
When we both could still believe
In each other. Time betrays—

Time betrays—excuse me—hush.
There is some one standing by.
But, I say, why was that blush?
"You are married!" So am I.

Merchants familiar with mixed paints that have been put upon the market during the past ten years, will tell that many of the manufacturers of these paints seem to think that they could sell anything that was labelled paint, that the merchant cared little what was contained in these paints, and it made no difference to the consumer. The cheapness and convenience of mixed paints, however, counted much in their favor. But the demand for mixed paint that was really paint, and not simply labelled paint, became apparent, and merchants hailed the Chilton Paints when they were introduced upon the market, with expressions of favor, because they knew that they were made out of the best material that could be bought, were full measure, and that none of the tricks used to cheapen the cost of production were resorted to. The merchant could recommend them. The standard of excellence has never been lowered. The same quality paint is put up in pound cans as in gallon packages.

The Bulletin.

A LUCKY ONE.

Many years ago there lived in Tokio a certain nobleman renowned for his wealth and his great philanthropy. It was his delight to wander about the streets at night unattended and disguised as a simple samurai (knight or retainer), and so untrammeled by rank or dignity enter the theaters and teahouses of all kinds.

One night he was sitting in a tea garden in a humble portion of the city when three young men dressed as laborers sauntered in, and seating themselves near him called for refreshments of the cheapest kind.

"Will you not honor us by joining in our humble repast?" said one, addressing him with the courteous humility which distinguishes all classes of Japanese. "I see by your two swords that you are a samurai and far above us in rank, but you seem lonely, and we should feel honored if you will join us."

The nobleman, pleased by this cordial invitation, immediately left his solitary square of matting and seated himself near the speaker.

"What daimio (feudal lord) do you serve?" they asked him when the formalities of welcome were at an end.

"None," answered the nobleman. "I am a ronin (wandering knight), a free and independent samurai, having left by my own will the service of the Duke Ii-su," mentioning his own name.

"I have heard that he was a very kind master," said one of the young men. "Why did you leave him?"

"Oh," said the duke, "he had many strange and undignified habits which kept me in a constant state of mortification. He would wander about the streets of Tokio at night, entering into the commonest teahouses and talking familiarly with persons of the lowest rank. I do not doubt that he has been on this very spot."

"Oh, no!" cried his listeners in some excitement; "he surely would not come to this cheap place."

"I wish that he would come," said one of the three, with a sigh. "I would beg a favor of him."

"What is it that you would ask?" said the nobleman with great interest.

"My one wish," answered the speaker, "is to ride a horse. I have dreamed many times of being on horseback, and it was delightful beyond words, but I expect to die without ever gaining my desire."

"And what would you ask if the duke were here?" said the pleased nobleman, turning to the second youth.

"My great wish," answered he, "is to eat a dinner exactly like the one the duke eats every day. If I could have one such dinner, I would ask no more."

"And now tell us your desire," said the nobleman, addressing the young man who had first given the invitation for him to join the party.

"I would not be satisfied with either of their wishes," said the young man slowly. "I would desire to live a whole day and night as the duke lives—to eat from his dishes, to ride in his kago (palanquin) and at night to sleep in his bed. Then would I be contented and happy."

"The duke's slumber is not the happiest," said the nobleman, with a sigh. "Spies and secret enemies lurk as poisonous serpents under the castle walls."

For some time longer he conversed with them, learning the name and abode of each. Then bidding them a cordial farewell he left the teahouse and made his way to his stately castle.

In the morning a body of servants carrying heavily adorned kagos were sent to invite the young men to the castle. Their surprise and delight knew no bounds, and when the mighty daimio welcomed them as friends and seated them in the place of honor they were ready to burst with pride.

For the one who had wished to ride he ordered his finest steed, caparisoned in white and gold, but when the young fellow was placed upon it fear seized him, and he pleaded for mercy.

"No, no, you shall ride!" cried the duke in high good humor, and the horse was made to prance and plunge about the courtyard until the wretched rider fell to the ground and had to be carried to his home.

The second guest, who had wished to eat as the duke ate, was now conducted to the banquet hall, where such a bewildering and tempting array of strange dishes was set before him that he soon made himself ill and was borne away, groaning and racked with nausea.

The third young man was now the object of attention.

All eyes were upon him as he watched his two friends taken away in misery and disgrace, but his head was set proudly and he turned with composure toward the duke.

"I have no fear," he said in tones which were almost haughty. "I still wish to live one day and one night as thy equal; then I am content."

"Lead him to my richest bath," said the duke to his servants, "and then attire him as my son."

When the young man reappeared, his thick hair oiled and perfumed after the manner of noblemen, his tall form robed in silks of heaviest texture and the two swords of rank thrust through his gold embroidered sash, he made such a picture of manly beauty that the duke's heart yearned toward him.

"Would that the gods had granted me such a son," he thought with sorrow. "But I have no heir to perpetuate my name. I shall fall like a lone pine tree beside the river, and none shall come after me."

For that day the young plebeian was given the name of Yomei (yo-may), which means one day spending, and through all of the ceremonies and observances of rank he conducted himself with such modest dignity that all of the court officials were filled with wonder and whispered among themselves, "He is born to a high position."

That night he was given the ducal sleeping apartment.

After the castle was still and dark he cautiously arose, and lighting a candle prepared to examine the wonders and beauties of the room. Hanging in the toko-mono (shallow alcove) he found a bow of ancient workmanship and a sheaf of arrows such as the old heroes once used. Fitting one to the bow, he gave it a backward pull, when to his dismay it slipped from his grasp and went whizzing through the rich and painted mado (inner sliding walls).

He heard a low cry, followed by the thud of a falling body, and then all was again silence.

"Unhappy wretch!" he cried to himself. "My day of triumph has ended in murder. I have killed some one with my ignorant stupidity, and in the morning I shall be beheaded."

He blew out the candle and went to bed, where he lay shivering and trembling until the day broke.

Then the sound of the moving servants came to him, and the coldness of despair filled his heart, for he knew that the discovery of his deed might come with every second.

Presently he heard a cry of alarm, and then indeed did he give himself up for lost.

"Here is a dead man!" exclaimed one in frightened tones.

"Where is he?" "Who is it?" "Who killed him?" came a mingling of voices as other servants ran crowding in.

"Why, it is the traitor Gujiwa, who has thrice attempted to kill our master." "Oh, blessed deed!" "What a beautiful shot. The arrow has pierced his left eye to the skull." "It is an ancient arrow from the duke's chamber."

"The young stranger sleeps there tonight. He must have sent the deadly shaft." "Ah! A hole in the mado! He must have shot through the mado." "What skill! What wonderful power, to shoot an enemy without seeing him!" "Wonderful! He has saved the master's life."

Yomei, listening to all this, became almost crazed with delight.

The sudden transition from despair to hope intoxicated him like strong wine. He threw his rich kimono (robe) about him, pushed aside the pierced mado and strode toward the servants.

"Have you found the traitor Gujiwa, whom I slew last night?" he asked haughtily. "Cut off his head and carry it to your master with my compliments. I suspected that this attempt would be made and obtained an entrance to the castle by disguising myself as a laborer."

The servants groveled at his feet.

"But, honorable lord," implored one, an old man who had been in the family for half a century, "how could you take such aim when the mado was closed?"

"Tut!" said the young man, with a gesture of contempt. "I do not need both sight and hearing to take good aim. I can shoot any portion of the body by hearing alone. This time I selected the villain's left eye, just as he was winking it."

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" they whispered in awestruck tones, and he walked through their cowering ranks with the air of a conqueror.

The gratitude and admiration of the duke knew no bounds. Indeed so pleased was he with the beauty, skill and courage of his young protege that he took measures to formally adopt him. So Yomei was raised from the rank of a bamboo cutter to that of son and heir to one of the most powerful daimio of the empire.

He led a life of ease and luxury and improved from day to day, so that his fame went abroad to other cities, and his adopted father grew to love him deeply.

But no life can be all happiness, and so for Yomei there was the thorn, the one dark spot.

This was in the person of his adopted mother, the duke's wife, who from the first had been his bitter enemy. Having no children of her own she was ungenerous enough to hate the innocent adopted son, who by his very presence reminded her that she had given no heir to the duke. She also suspected that his skill in slaying the robber was not entirely genuine, and she had learned beyond all doubt that his antecedents were of the humblest. At first she tried in every way to turn her husband against him, but finding this impossible she set to work to find other means of deposing him.

Soon there came a rumor of a band of robbers who infested a hill in the suburbs of Tokio and were so fierce that even the soldiers dared not attack them. The mikado had offered a title and great wealth to any one brave enough to attempt their capture, but up to this time none had been found.

The evil stepmother, without consulting her husband, sent a letter to the court saying that her noble son Yomei was thirsting for the opportunity to display his skill and courage and declared that he was able to vanquish the band single handed.

The mikado, highly pleased with so much bravery, immediately dispatched a royal document to the young man accepting his services and ordering him to start forth the following morning.

Poor Yomei was again in despair.

"Alas, the end of my dream has come!" he mourned to himself. "There are 11 arrows and 11 robbers, and so I must kill a robber with each arrow. Oh, why did I not keep to my bamboo cutting and leave ambition for the rich!"

His father grieved deeply to see him set forth, but in spite of his sadness was buoyed up by his evident anticipation of his son's success. The envious stepmother, affecting equal regret, offered to arrange a basket of lunch for him with her own aristocratic hands. She prepared all of his favorite articles of food, and then, for fear that some lucky accident might save him from the robbers, put a small portion of deadly poison in each piece of food as she laid it in the hamper.

Yomei, unconscious of this double danger, bade them all a sorrowful farewell and rode away with his eyes bent upon the ground. At one time he thought of turning his horse and making his escape, but then he reflected that death would be no worse than disgrace and the old life of toil, and so listlessly kept on toward the infested mountain.

He had reached the foot of this when he heard loud, hoarse shouts, as if of triumph, and filled with terror he sprang from his horse and rapidly climbed a tree. In a few moments the robbers were upon him. "Where is the rider?" called out one, looking about him with an aspect of such fierceness that Yomei well nigh fell to the earth.

"The horse is mine!" cried another.

"This is my saddle!" exclaimed a third. "Seel It is heavy with silver."

"Ah!" from a fourth as he tore open the hamper. "I have found the dainty fellow's lunch. Let us feast upon it before we find and kill the owner."

Yomei, knowing nothing of the hidden poison, thought these moments his last. With the apathy of despair he gazed upon them as they portioned out, with many a rude jest and remark, the food which had been destined for him.

"What carrion the aristocrats do eat!" cried the captain, throwing from him the remains of a small devil fish stuffed with rice, sugar and vinegar. "The thing is filled with medicine! It is bitter! By all the devils of earth and sea! It is poison! We are tricked!"

"It is poison! It is poison!" they all shrieked, running frantically past one another with horrible exclamations and contortions of physical agony. "Where is the man?" they cried. "We are poisoned like frogs in a well! Where is he who has tricked us?"

"There he is!" called the dying chief, who had just caught sight of the cowering Yomei. "Shoot him! Up after him! Burn the tree! Ah-h-h!" But it was too late. They lay about on the lush mountain grass in various attitudes of violent death, and their glassy eyes were all turned upward toward Yomei. The fears of that valiant youth, however, were at an end. He descended with a bold and careless air, and walking from one to another stuck an arrow deep into the left eye of each. Then mounting his horse he rode home.

The first person to meet him was his stepmother. At the sight of him she fell to the ground, faint and stricken with fear.

"Are you not pleased to see me, mother?" he asked brightly. "I must thank you for the delightful lunch you prepared for me. See!" opening the hamper, "every morsel has been eaten!"

His father's joy at seeing him alive was deep and sincere. "Why, my son," he said after the ceremonials of welcome were through, "your armor is untouched, your hair is as smooth as when you left the house. How did you slay such a fierce body of men with so little exertion?"

"Oh! it was a simple matter," said Yomei proudly. "When they caught sight of me, they came toward me, running side by side. I took the 11 arrows, fitting them all to my bow, which I held horizontally, instead of in the usual manner, and the arrows were placed so exactly that, as they flew, each was pointed toward a robber and struck him directly in the left eye. You will find them all there now, each with the arrow sticking upright."

"Your skill is more than mortal!" cried the happy father. "Now you are a nobleman in your own right and will be given a daughter of the mikado in marriage. I foresee that you will add luster to the ancient name which you bear." And he fell upon his son's neck and wept with pure joy.

After this the stepmother ceased in her evil designs, fully convinced of Yomei's supernatural powers.

He married a princess, built a great castle for himself, and to this day his name is a synonym in Japan for shrewdness and luck.—Translated From the Japanese For Romance.

Dry Rot in Florida.

Some rooms in Florida have carpet on the floor, and some don't, but most don't. My room didn't have any, of course. I sat down on the side of the bed to pull off my shoes, and I heard something break. I thought it was the side piece of the bedstead. "It's the climate," said I to myself. "It's made me so fat that I'm breaking the furniture." I held the lamp down and looked, but the bed was all right. So I sat down again, and the minute I touched the bedstead the cracking began again. "Go it," said I, "and we'll see what will happen." The cracking changed into a crash, and bang went one leg of the bedstead right through the floor.

In those houses the floor above is the ceiling of the room below, so part of my bedstead stuck through into the parlor, and they picked the caster off the parlor floor. It was dry rot; that was all. In that climate the dry rot works away at the inside of a board and eats it all away but a little crust on the outside, so the board looks perfectly sound when it has no strength at all, and as soon as any weight is put on it it breaks.—Harper's Young People.

Mrs. Peary's Dog.

Tombs of the Ancient Prophets.

There exist in parts of Islam many tombs of the Prophet Daniel. Of these one of the most celebrated is at Cairo. This fact need not astonish us. The Mussulmans admit without hesitation the duplication or even indefinite multiplication of the bodies of holy persons without their veneration for each of the remains being diminished in the least. It is worth noting that the nature of the honorary qualifications accorded to the same saint varies in different countries. Thus, for example, Daniel has at Cairo the name of Nebbi-Danial—that is, they give him the title of prophet, as being at the same time that which suits him best and is the most honorable they can confer. In Algeria or Morocco—feudal countries—the title they give to saints is Sidi, which signifies lord, which is also the title there of military and political chiefs. In central Asia they give to those canonized persons whom they respect most, as to the Prophet Daniel, the title of Khodja, which means in Arabic writer or lettered.—Revue des Deux Mondes.

Animals That Trouble Ranchers.

The kangaroo plague has always been a great nuisance to the Australian squatters, for on an average these animals consume as much grass as a sheep. It is stated that on a sheep run of 60,000 to 80,000 acres 10,000 kangaroos were killed annually for six consecutive years, and yet their numbers remained very formidable in the locality. In the colony of South Australia hundreds of thousands of kangaroos are slaughtered annually for their skins and the bonus offered by the authorities. The number of these marsupials in New South Wales in 1880 was estimated to be over 4,000,000, and yet about 500,000 kangaroos and 630,000 wallabies were destroyed in the colony in that year.

A bonus of 10 cents for each kangaroo killed is offered in Australia; hence the colonists are gradually exterminating these native animals. Over half a million skins are annually shipped to England and a large number to North America to be converted into leather.—Hardwick's Science Gossip.

NEAR THE SUMMIT.

A FRENCH SCIENTIST FORETELLS THE GOOD TIME COMING.

Progress Leading Up to a Rapid Union of the Human Family—Extension of European Races—A Free Field For the Whites of Europe and America.

It appears that the human race is about to reach the summit of the epoch called the reign of humanity. The great discoveries made in later times, the exotic countries explored form a connection of circumstances which will establish new processes of civilization and a more powerful contact between different human races. And the races themselves—what will become of them? This question the distinguished anthropologist, M. Zaborowski, has attempted to solve. The globe has now a population of 1,500,000,000 of people, and indications are that this will be doubled in a very short time.

Now, it must not be forgotten that all parts of the globe are today visited by people who represent about one-fifth of humanity, and these are gifted with a power of expansion which has never before been realized. But all distinctive race peculiarities will efface themselves. The great digestive power of the Eskimo, the velocity and facility with which a reserve fund of food is supplied by the rapid fattening of the Bochiman, the simian mobility, the feline agility of the dwarfs of the forest, will become unnecessary by the rapid approach of civilization. Civilized man has no need of them.

Progress will also result in the increase of hereditary elements of character, and by this the rapid union of the human race, for, after all is said, humanity does not differ much. In some opinions the most degraded savages will some day become civilized, although others consider even intellectual differences between neighboring races as irreducible. According to M. Zaborowski it is necessary, above all, to preserve all colonies from the encroachments of mere adventurers and to remember that their intelligence will only be increased by a corresponding development of their implements, their manual dexterity, the delicacy of their senses, their social habits and their needs. Notwithstanding appearances, there is no cosmopolitan human race, as there is in general no cosmopolitans. It is useless to signalize the dog in this manner, for it is only a hypothesis which has been acted upon in identifying wild dogs with the dogs of oriental towns.

It is reduced to nothing by the single fact that different dogs were found in different regions at the quaternary epoch when there were as yet no domestic animals. Man, thanks to his intelligence and to the resources of his intellectual development, alone enjoys the power of acclimation. He modifies by artificial means the place where he is called to live, and he knows how to extenuate or charm away the noxious influences of different climates. This faculty, however, has its limits. Thus in spite of all the advantages and the pompous display enjoyed by the English in India, they have never been able to raise their families there. All the intertropical regions are in the same way almost forbidden to the races of the northern zones of Europe. At the same time mental differences are caused by places and climates, and there are profound differences which never disappear by which races are separated and distinguished.

In effect, to all appearances the greater part of the races will disappear from the fact of the rapid extension of the European races. For it is necessary to remember that in the movements which are important to the actual world economic influences ceaselessly intervene and change the provisions of science. For a long time it was supposed that Algeria would never be colonized by Europeans, but the colonies have transformed the climate, and by the careful management of the water have made of Algeria a relatively healthful country.

But for a long time in certain conditions of climate there will be a place at the side of the European races for very different races, endowed with ability to work, and thus capable of competing for a great part of the globe. These races are not very numerous, but at the head is found the admirable Chinese, who alone represent one-third of humanity. But there are others who will disappear in a more or less distant future. Among these are the Laps, many of the inhabitants of ancient Asia, the Veddahs, the Malays, the little blacks of the Philippines of Borneo, and all the other people who, for thousands of years, have refused themselves to all culture and are only the survivors, surprising to themselves, of an almost vanished age. Also the Indians of North and South America and the natives of Polynesia. For instance, in 1838 the Marquesas islands, according to official statistics, had 11,000 native inhabitants, in 1872 but 6,000, and this decrease was almost always caused by a diminution of births. The Polynesians have an organic repugnance for persistent effort, and when sick give up quickly "as tired of life."

This leaves the field free to the whites of Europe and America. The differences which separate those who survive or are reformed will be much smaller than we observe today. If distant, the reduction is certain, but it is not yet possible to foresee the disappearance or the fusion of the three principal types. Less than three centuries ago outside of China and Europe the whole world was peopled with savages, and in less than three centuries these races will have disappeared and been replaced by the descendants of the European races, having as auxiliaries as many Chinese and negroes as are adapted to the needs of their civilization.—Paris Revue des Revues.

Where the Hurry Stops.

Lady—Where did you get this pretty doll?

Much Better Than Begging.

An urchin 9 years old, with a very dirty face and a pair of bright eyes, accosted a woman as she was hurrying across the common the other day.

"Please to give me some money to get me something to eat," he whined.

"No, I won't give you any money to get you something to eat," was the reply. The lady mimicked his whine.

Finally she hired him to carry her umbrella to her office, and on their way thither she gave him a dissertation on labor and its fruits in phrases she thought he would understand. She advised him to go into the newspaper business and loaned him 20 cents to invest in papers, after he had signed his name to a contract she drew up, promising to pay her immediately he had cleared that amount.

In an hour and a half he came back to the office proudly and deposited the money loaned on her desk. She took 10 cents of it, and he kept the other to make further investments. The next day he cleared $1.50. He was radiant.

"This is better than begging, isn't it?" she asked.

"You bet," he said.

"Now, if I give you this 10 cents, will you promise to buy with it what I shall ask you?"

"Yes'm."

"Then buy a cake of soap and use it."

He said he would and went out.—Boston Globe.

A Belief That Proves Troublesome.

A recently returned eastern missionary says that a small, but persistent, vexation in household affairs is the firm belief in the transmigration of souls among one's Buddhist servants and its often ludicrous consequences. For instance, once on shipboard the sailors were directed to kill the cockroaches with which the vessel was infested. This they dared not do, fearing that some ancestor's spirit might be imprisoned in that most unlikely form. They approached the vermin gently, lifted them up on sheets of paper and dropped them overboard in a manner almost tender and quite deferential.

One young convert clung to her newly made friend during her last illness with the constant cry that she feared, when the end should come, that the old belief would be too strong for her, it pressed so hard upon her that the soul was destined for further earthly life. It was a cause for great rejoicing at the mission station that dissolution came in sleep and unattended by this horror.—New York Times.

AYER'S SPECIALTIES.

Ayers' Pills
Are compounded with the view to general usefulness and adaptability. They are composed of the purest vegetable aperients. Their delicate sugar-coating, which readily dissolves in the stomach, preserves their full medicinal value and makes them easy to take, either by old or young. For constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headaches, the common derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels; also, to check colds and fevers, Ayer's Pills
Are the Best
Unlike other cathartics, the effect of Ayer's Pills is to strengthen the excretory organs and restore to them their regular and natural action. Doctors everywhere prescribe them. In spite of immense competition, they have always maintained their popularity as a family medicine, being in greater demand now than ever before. They are put up both in vials and boxes, and whether for home use or travel, Ayer's Pills are preferable to any other. Have you ever tried them?

REASONS FOR HOPEFULNESS.

There is hope in the bounteous harvests of this country which ought to buoy up the people and keep them in a confident and trustful mood. The changes which have recently taken place for the better should carry with them assurance to the people. The gold reserve fund in the United States treasury is again close to the hundred million mark, gold has begun to pour into the country, and the exports of breadstuffs have been the largest during the past six weeks of any like period in the past year and a half; and this demand for American produce abroad promises to be steady.

There are short crops in most foreign countries. The wheat crop in England, France, Austria and Germany is giving little promise of an average crop; and it is apparent that the European nations will be larger buyers of cereals this year than for many years. These foreign nations will need wheat, corn, hay and possibly pork; and the fields of waving grain in the far west give assurance that this country can fill all demands made upon it from abroad.

The political situation, just at present, is a menace to business. An unprecedented number of workmen are out of employment and an endless number of manufactories are at a standstill; but it is to be hoped that a clear and assuring message from the president, and prompt and wise action by congress, will relieve this stagnated condition of the business world and set the wheels of industry humming again.

There is nothing to be gained by sensationalism. All panicky feelings should be kept down, for fear and distrust can, if generally indulged in, bring about a condition of things about equal to war and pestilence. Patience, and faith in the future, will help the country pull through these troublous times.

A QUESTION OF DISCIPLINE.

Hesitancy is not a quality tolerated in military service. It is the one fault which strict military discipline is intended to destroy, and which every commanding officer promptly condemns. What it had to do with the destruction of the British battleship Victoria seems to be the point to be decided by the court martial held for the investigation of the accident.

The order given by Vice-Admiral Tryon was not instantly obeyed. He asked the Camperdown "What are you waiting for?" There were minutes of delay which in a manœuvre of steam vessels, might mean great peril or great loss. The action of Rear-Admiral Markham was a disobedience of the orders of his commander. As a naval officer his judgment of distance was not of moment, while his prompt obedience of orders was of the greatest concern.

In view of results it is claimed by some papers that had Rear Admiral Markham absolutely refused to obey Vice Admiral Tryon's order the breach of discipline would have been excusable. Such disobedience would have been regarded as rank insubordination, and in the absence of anything but his judgment for defense he would not have had the support or sympathy of any one in the world, but would have been court-martialed and dishonorably dismissed the service.

As Vice Admiral Tryon is said to have assumed the entire blame for the accident, Rear Admiral Markham is in a measure relieved; but no one can doubt that his hesitating to obey the vice admiral's orders promptly contributed to the disaster. No military man can approve of the halting and breach of discipline which Markham showed when his judgment did not accord with that of his commander.

A MONTREAL TAX SCHEME.

The treasury of the city of Montreal needs replenishing, and the ways and means of bringing about this desired end without greatly increasing taxation has puzzled the financiers of that Canadian metropolis; but the committee having the matter in hand have devised a new scheme which is calculated to keep the regular taxes at the usual limit by placing this extra burden of taxation upon the shoulders of concerns that do not at present pay into the city treasury an amount equal to the protection and advantages which they are given. It is proposed to tax stockbrokers $500 per annum, insurance companies $1,000 per year, manufacturers' agents $500 per year, and real estate agents $250 per year. In addition to this, it is proposed to tax the foreign railroad [illegible] sions, etc., in fact, all those who, they think, do not at present pay their fair share towards the ordinary expenditure of the city. Just how the parties scheduled to bear the extra burden of taxation like it has not yet been revealed.

SALE OF INDIAN GIRLS.

One of the most shameful and barberous acts committed in this country, of late, has been committed by Chief Miguel of the Yuma tribe of Indians, and has been published by The Banning (Cal.) Herald. This chief influenced the mothers of a number of young girls who have been attending the Catholic industrial school on the reservation for years to withdraw them. These thirty young women were good looking and intelligent, and had been kept within the quiet precincts of the school for the past seven years, only venturing out under the escort of the sisters. They could nearly all read and write, sew and cook, and promised to exercise an elevating and refining influence upon the other Indians when they assumed tribal relations again. They were taken from the school and put in Miguel's charge. Thereupon he led them in turn to the bridge at Yuma and sold them outright to dissolute white men. The girls brought from $5 to $12 according to age and good looks, and one particularly beautiful sixteen year old girl, with some white blood in her veins, was sold to a trapper for $21 and taken down the river to keep camp for her purchaser. The Herald says: "The harm done by old Miguel, however, can never be undone, and no steps have been taken or even devised to punish him for his crime."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Silver is so cheap, the crops of silver weddings ought to be large this year.

The Boston Globe says: "Between sizzards and blizzards give us sizzards every time." From this we take it the paragrapher of The Globe prefers to be roasted rather than frozen!

The rice crop in Louisiana will fill two million bags this year, and will sell at about one-half the usual price. That means cheap living for those who like this clean and wholesome product.

The Massachusetts railroad commissioners have refused to authorize the running of Sunday excursion trains in that commonwealth. This will interfere with the large Sunday attendance at camp and grove meetings in that state.

An epidemic of diphtheria in Hightstown, N. J., has been traced to the home of a milkman who had the disease in his family, and left the contagion free wherever he left milk. His patrons have been getting a little too much for their money.

The New York World is advocating the establishment of an income tax. Probably Pulitzer would be one of the most artful dodgers of it in the country after it was established. It is so natural for us all to want "the other fellow to pay the taxes."

Judge Lynde Harrison of New Haven has been banqueted and given a punch-bowl. He has been generously "punched" during the last two years, and must have a rare collection of "punches." It is no more than right that he should have a bowl to keep them in.

With the government appropriations Holmanized, the armored cruisers Harveyized, the treasury bullionized, several western states "Populized" and most of the business paralyzed, the country presents a spectacle which contrasted with the democratic promises of last year, is as far from the truth as Upernavik is from Jericho!

We regret that The Putnam Standard does not keep better posted upon the condition of the United States treasury. In 1885 there was $585,069,781 in the treasury and the increase has been steady every year since. The annual report in 1892 showed $769,151,396 in the treasury. That paper ought to remember with what glee the democratic counters figured the pile of treasure the republicans left, and how disappointed they were when the millions counted out correct to a penny!

Dr. Richard T. Ely, talking of social reforms at Chautauqua the other day, favored the passage of inheritance tax laws, and thought estates of from $12,000 to $100,000 should be taxed one per cent.; from $100,000 to $200,000 two per cent.; from $200,000 to $400,000 three per cent.; from $400,000 to $800,000 four per cent. and so on in a constantly increasing scale. He holds that present laws exaggerate relationship. In case of death without a will he proposes that an estate should not pass to a third or fourth cousin whom the deceased had never known or cared for, but rather to the town or state in which the man had lived and been interested.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Keep This Fact in Sight.

One good way to promote the restoration of confidence is to keep the fact in sight that the democratic party is going to be beaten in the fall elections.—[St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Uncertainty.

Uncertainty about prospective values in manufactured articles has done more to paralyze the industries of the United States than any uncertainty about silver legislation.—[New York Financier.

That Depends!

A democratic organ in Connecticut tells its readers "there is no reason to howl hard times when a barrel of flour can be bought for $4." Well, that depends. The ease or difficulty of getting the $4 has a great deal to do with the case.—[Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Sound Republican Currency.

Many national banks have failed, but no man is out of all money who has a pocket- [illegible] bank. They are republican bank notes and are as good as gold at all times. There is no wildcat in national bank bills.—[Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Root of the Matter.

The root of the whole silver difficulty is touched here. The methods of trade throughout the civilized world have so far changed that the quantity of notes or coins representing less than $5 each is utterly inadequate to provide use for the greatly increased output of silver. No solution can be of practical service which does not recognize this fact.—[New York Tribune.

Not Talking Like Statesmen.

"The silver senators are not talking like statesmen. Their attitude is one of pure selfishness. In order that they may try an experiment, they are ready to imperil the interests of the whole country. If obstructive tactics are adopted by the silver senators to defeat the will of the majority, there will be an expression of popular indignation such as has seldom been seen in this country."—[Savannah News (dem.)

The Country Should Be Informed.

If protection is not to be destroyed notice to that effect should be given from Washington. The country is in a state of direful doubt and uncertainty. It knows nothing of the conditions that will govern business affairs six months hence. This ignorance, together with a fear that the doctrine proclaimed at Chicago may be enforced, is responsible for nine-tenths of the present disorder and depression.—[Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

The largest amount of insurance at risk upon a single life is $1,000,000, carried by John Wanamaker, Harrison's postmaster general. Stetson, the hatter, carries the next largest amount, $750,000.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principal.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL.

Last Saturday morning we advertised 84 Ladies' Waists that had been 88c. for 13c. each. Within one hour from the time business opened the cream of the lot had been taken. Exactly 52 of the 84 waists were sold before 11 o'clock.

We simply mention this to show that our advertisements are read, and that if we do call attention to something away down in price and you want a part of it, don't delay in coming for it. The Bulletin.

ONE KISS.

Bound it was a brief nothing—
The loving of this man and maid—
Because one little hour it staid,
A prize for some remembering.
Her heart was light, and lighter his
The weight was all eternity's.

They had no better sign to give
Between the garden and the grave
Than this alone they turned and gave,
As though to say to heaven: "We live,
Let other lips their moment miss,
Death shall not say we did not kiss!"

The tree is here, the stone is here,
And here come worthier maids and men
Where these have loved to dream again.
The golden silence is as clear,
But they come not, and it is this
Which commemorates their single kiss.
—E.J. Ellis in Bookman.

BOSTON PRODUCE MARKET.

FLOUR—The position of actual wheat is stronger from the millers' standpoint, in spite of the fluctuations in speculative wheat. Flour merchants mention inquiries for flour for export, and inquiries that indicate a good deal of trade, in spite of the theory recently advanced that the markets abroad were full of American wheat for the present. Flour is steady in quotations here, without changes.

BEEF—The beef market is dull and about [illegible] market: Choice fancy steers, [illegible]; prime, [illegible]; good, [illegible] light, [illegible]; extra heavy hinds, [illegible]; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; fores, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; backs, [illegible]; rattles, [illegible]; chucks, [illegible]; rounds, [illegible]; rumps, [illegible]; rumps and loins, [illegible]; short ribs, [illegible]; loins, [illegible].

OATS—Old oats are [illegible] as actually scarce, with some shipments out of the market. Others quote clipped, to arrive, at [illegible] as to quality. New clipped sold yesterday, to arrive any time in August, at [illegible]. The spot market is steady at: Clipped, [illegible]; fancy, [illegible]; No. 2 white, [illegible]; No. 3 white, [illegible]; clipped mixed, [illegible].

BUTTER—The butter market is dull and positively easier. Western creamery, extra, [illegible]; firsts, [illegible]; imitation creamery, [illegible]; factory, [illegible]; northern creamery, extra, [illegible]; northern dairy, [illegible]; eastern creamery, extra, [illegible]. These are prices for round lots. Jobbing lots and fancy lots cost [illegible].

HAY—The hay market is positively dull, though there is a good deal of hay going through here into export. Choice hay is quoted at [illegible]. Bran is quiet and steady at [illegible] for sack spring bran to arrive, and [illegible] for sack winter.

POTATOES—Potatoes are fairly steady. The market is quoted at: Jerseys, [illegible]; Bristols, [illegible]; extra Norfolks, $2 75; fair to good, [illegible]. New sweet potatoes are arriving and are bringing [illegible] per bbl for [illegible].

CORN—Corn is pretty steady. The quotations on corn to arrive are [illegible] for No. 2 yellow, and [illegible] for No. 3 yellow. [illegible]

CHEESE—There is dull, with the market unchanged: Northern full cream, [illegible], fair to good, [illegible]; western choice, [illegible], fair to good, [illegible]. Liverpool is quoted at [illegible].

EGGS—Eggs are firmer, with the supply small: Western, [illegible]; Michigan, [illegible]; Island, [illegible]; eastern and northern, [illegible].

PORK—There is no change to note in pork provisions. Quotations are steady, with the trade rather light.

MEAL—Cornmeal is held at [illegible]. Barrel meal is quoted at [illegible].

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 27.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 5 to 10 per cent, and time money is practically 6 per cent.

Evidently there is a price at which London will buy American securities. Despite the difficulties and uncertainties of the final day of settlement there, quotations came from ½ to 1 per cent. above the close here, and there was a fair volume of purchasing orders this morning [illegible]. In addition to this, [illegible] and the announcement that a million of gold had been engaged for shipment to London. These were some of the early factors of the session. Added with the large short interest, the size of which was made evident by the borrowing demand for certain specialities, and the low range of quotations, this led to something of a rally throughout the list.

There was not the early pressure to sell copper stocks, and especially Tamarack and Quincy and [illegible], which characterized yesterday's market. That pressure was the result simply of liquidation. Recent reports from the Tamarack mine state that it was never in a more promising condition, and those on the spot have been [illegible] purchasers of the stock at [illegible] and [illegible].

There were no [illegible] changes in the opening market. Atchison started off ½ cheaper at 21, but sold to [illegible]. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy was ½ stronger at [illegible], while Boston and Maine opened ½ off at [illegible] and New England ½ off at [illegible]. Sugar was irregular, with an upward tendency. The common fluctuated about [illegible] and the preferred above [illegible]. General Electric weakened 1 to 41½ and Pullman dropped a point to 145.

GOING VERY SLOW.

French Blockade Is Postponed For Several Days.

OTHER POWERS WILL GET NOTICE.

How French Gunboats Forced Passage Up the Menam River.

PARIS, July 27.—The Temps gives a detailed account of how the French gunboats forced a passage up the Menam river.

The gunboats entered the channel about 6 o'clock in the evening, and immediately both forts and the Siamese gunboats opened fire on the French warships.

The French gunboats crossed the bar, notwithstanding the explosion of a submarine torpedo directly ahead of the fleet. The Inconstante rammed and sunk a Siamese gunboat.

About 9 o'clock the forts of Paknam opened fire at a range of one-quarter of a mile. The French gunboats all this time were making 10 knots an hour against the stream.

At 9:30 o'clock the French fleet anchored in front of the French legation at Bangkok. The cannonade had little effect, owing to the darkness.

It is stated that an effective blockade of the Siamese coast by the French fleet will only begin on Saturday or Sunday next. Until then all the powers will not have received notice of France's intention to establish a blockade.

The police of this city, by order of the government, are seizing cheap maps of Siam which are offered for sale on the boulevards and which represent the Siamese frontier in accordance with English ideas.

FRENCH FLAG HOISTED.

Capture and Possession of Islands in the Gulf of Siam.

SAIGON, July 27.—Captain Villiers, in command of the French forces at Khong, reports that the capture of Fort Donson by the French produced an excellent impression.

The governor of the island of Khong was killed during the attack, and his death hastened the retreat of the Siamese.

The French flag has been hoisted on the island of Rongsamlem, which will be made the basis of future operations.

The French government has also decided to take possession of other islands on the gulf of Siam.

Germans on Johnny Bull.

BERLIN, July 27.—The Tageblatt rejoices over the prospect that England, who scornfully holds aloof from Dreibund, may become embroiled with France over the Siamese affair. England, says the Tageblatt, will be taught a lesson, and she need not expect to receive German support. Other German newspapers express similar sentiments, although in milder language.

British Minister Non-Committal.

LONDON, July 27.—A Bangkok dispatch to The Daily News says that Captain H. M. Jones, British minister to Siam, acting under orders cabled from London, maintains a strictly non-committal attitude in the matter of the Franco-Siamese imbroglio.

MURPHY WITHDRAWS.

Nominations Made by Governor Russell at Meeting of Council.

BOSTON, July 27.—There was no hearing by the governor's council this morning in the case of James H. Murphy, the appointee of Governor Russell for clerk of the fourth district court of eastern Middlesex at Woburn. A few minutes before 10 o'clock Clerk Hamlin appeared and announced to those in waiting who were interested in the matter that there would be no hearing, as Governor Russell had withdrawn the name of Mr. Murphy for the position at Mr. Murphy's own request.

At the council meeting, held at noon, Governor Russell sent in the name of Arthur E. Gage of Woburn, in place of Mr. Murphy's name, withdrawn. Mr. Gage is a resident of Woburn, is 35 years old, is a member of the Suffolk bar, and is in the Boston law office of Charles F. Donnelly.

His excellency also sent in these nominations: Hon. Edward J. Flynn of Boston, Hon. Moses How of Haverhill and William H. Partridge, Esq., of Newton, to be ballot law commissioners (reappointed); John G. Putnam of Worcester, to be commissioner of accounts of Worcester and Nashua railroad; William Nutting of Marblehead, to be trial justice of the Essex court; Charles F. Worcester of Townsend, to be special justice of the first district court of Northern Middlesex; William G. Fabens of Marblehead, to be trial justice of Essex county; Rufus G. Fairbanks of Bellingham, to be trial justice of Norfolk county; Erastus Worthington of Dedham, to be master in chancery for Norfolk county (reappointed).

Receivers For Benefit Orders.

BOSTON, July 27.—Justice Barker this forenoon appointed Henry A. Wyman receiver of the following endowment orders: American Friendly society, American Mutual Relief association, National Fraternal and Beneficial union and the Order of Franklin. James Milligan of Everett was appointed receiver of the Abraham Lincoln Benefit association at the request of the certificate holders. Mr. Wyman has been receiver heretofore for several orders and his work has been satisfactory to the court.

Boston Boy Sees the Pope.

ROME, July 27.—The pope yesterday gave an audience to Edmund Shanahan of Boston, a student at the American college here. His holiness created Mr. Shanahan motu proprio doctor of theology as a reward for the ability with which he sustained a theological discussion at the College of the Propaganda Fide.

Suspected of Being Cholera.

MADRID, July 27.—Several persons at Pinda, in the province of Corunna, have been attacked by a disease that is strongly suspected of being cholera. The officials of the town and province are taking every measure of precaution to prevent the spread of the disease.

Horse With Diphtheria.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 27.—From the little town of Hampton comes a queer story. A young horse owned by John Hoyt is just recovering from diphtheria. He has been kept alive by oatmeal gruel and is now eating a little grain.

Russian Cruiser Vitias Wrecked.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Just before the steamship Oceanic left the wharf at Hong Kong particulars were received of the wreck of the Russian cruiser Vitias, a sister ship of the Ryoda, off the coast of Corea, the announcement of which was received by cable at the time. Two officers and 15 of the crew were drowned or missing.

Secretary Herbert Takes Fishing.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 27.—The United States steamship Dolphin is anchored at the Isles of Shoals. Secretary Herbert and party left the islands this morning in the Leighton's private launch Pinafore to pass the day in fishing. He will not leave for Bath until tonight.

HORRIBLE SUICIDE.

W. H. Irving Blows His Head Off by Powder Placed in His Mouth.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Tired of life, W. H. Irving of Charles street, Winthrop, Mass., committed suicide sometime last night or early this morning on the lake shore. The method used was horrible and most revolting. A partly filled can of powder by his side and the torn and mangled face indicated that the suicide had filled his mouth with powder and then probably with a lighted match had caused it to explode. In the pocket of the coat was found a notebook in which was this information:

My name is W. H. Irving of Charles street, Winthrop Beach, Mass. In case of accident or serious illness, notify Mrs. W. H. Irving at the above address.

Note to city authorities: Don't send my body home, as my wife has no money to bury it. Don't bury me in a pauper's grave. I have been tired of life for the last two years, but have lived for my baby's sake. I have no work and am out of money. This world is but a stage, and the curtain has rung down upon one of its main scenes. W. H. Irving.

The man was about 40 years old and well dressed. He was probably crazy.

STOPPED PAYING.

Exeter (N. H.) Bank In Trouble and Refuses to Be Resisted.

EXETER, N. H., July 27.—The National Granite State bank has stopped paying over its counters, and Cashier Byington has refused to do any business, although the doors are open. The rooms of the bank have been crowded all the forenoon with depositors.

President W. F. Putnam claims that they are unable to raise money on their securities.

Cashier Byington refuses to make any statement, and has placed the business of the bank in the hands of the directors.

President Putnam, when interviewed this morning, said that the bank was solvent, and he expected money this afternoon. A former director, however, says that now they have suspended he does not see how they can open again.

There is also a slight run on the other banks in town, but they are prepared for it and are doing business.

SHOT AT DAYLIGHT.

Colonel Jose Andrade Publicly Executed In City of Leon.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 27.—Colonel Jose Andrade, who, during the administration of the late General Manuel Gonzales as Governor of Guanajuato, was in charge of the Piedra Gorda district in that state, was arrested a few days ago upon the charge of committing a number of atrocious crimes in his official capacity. It was alleged that he shot a number of innocent persons without trial.

Upon being arrested, Colonel Andrade was taken to the city of Leon, where he was tried, found guilty of the charges against him and ordered to be shot. When the death sentence was pronounced, the prisoner said he was ready to meet his fate and that he would demonstrate that he was no coward. He was shot at daylight Tuesday in a public part of the city. The execution was witnessed by hundreds of people.

THE BORDEN SISTERS

Visit Taunton and Lizzie Pays a Visit to the Jail.

TAUNTON, Mass., July 27.—The Misses Lizzie A. and Emma Borden came to Taunton this morning, accompanied by a lady friend. Lizzie was attired in black and looked nicely. While Emma went up to the jail to see Sheriff Wright and wife, Lizzie and the friend went about town shopping, ate ice cream and bought some candy. They seemed to be happy and to be having a very good time.

Later Lizzie and the other lady also went up to the jail where they paid their respects to Sheriff and Mrs. Wright and had a short social call. The news of their presence in Taunton created no end of talk and excitement about town.

VALKYRIE COMING EARLY.

Dunraven's Boat Expects to Sail For New York Aug. 12.

LONDON, July 27.—Lord Dunraven, owner of the cutter Valkyrie, which is to make an attempt to win the America's cup, expects to sail for New York on Aug. 12.

The object of his early visit to the United States is to witness the preliminary races between the American yachts to decide which of them will defend the cup against the Valkyrie.

The date of the sailing of the Valkyrie has not yet been fixed. She has engagements in several British regattas yet to be held, and she will defend the Cape May cup against the American yacht Navahoe, which is now in racing trim at Southampton.

Sent to the Reformatory.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 27.—Harry Welch and John McEnroe, aged 17 and 18, were today sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory by Judge Carter during the pleasure of the trustees. They were arrested a week ago as suspicious characters while prowling about the sixth ward and considerable property found upon them, since identified as having been stolen in Dover, N. H., and this city. In spite of giving the above names it is very apparent that the boys are brothers.

Millennial Camp Meeting.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 27.—The 23d annual gathering of the American Millennial Association begins today at the camp ground in Hebronville, and will continue over two Sabbaths. The first few days will be given up to the ordinary services of a camp, but next week there will be special days. Tuesday will be children's day. Wednesday temperance day and Thursday mission day.

Leon Revolutionists Victorious.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A cable to The Herald from Panama says a private telegram from Nicaragua announces that the Leon revolutionists have captured the city of Managua. Details have not been obtained. The importance of the capture cannot be over estimated, as it will give them control of the capital of the republic, with all the moral effect and prestige it implies.

Young Burglars Gang Broken Up.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 27.—The police have broken up a gang of youthful burglars, not one of whom was over 16 years old. The lads belong to respectable families. The cases have been put into the hands of the probation officer, and a lapse from the straight path will result in criminal prosecutions.

Loss Covered by Insurance.

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 27.—An incendiary at 3:30 a. m. destroyed the livery barn owned by M. E. Burgess and occupied by Burgess Brothers. Two valuable horses and 15 tons of hay were destroyed. Loss $1200, covered by insurance.

Epigram.

[A rhymer's apology for mashing a straw hat, the property of an unknown person.]

Oh, pray do not fret
At the sight of this mash,
For the bard feels regret
For a trespass so rash.
Strange quibbles of law
He never was put in,
But this hat was straw,
And now it is sat in.

COMMITS SUICIDE.

Ex-Cashier Francis Takes His Own Life.

PISTOL BALL ENDS HIS TROUBLES.

His Domestic Life Unhappy—Formerly a Leading Citizen.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 27.—Cashier Edward S. Francis of the Pittsfield National bank, who two weeks ago was virtually discharged from his position by a unanimous vote of the bank directors, and who on Monday tendered his resignation as cashier, shot himself in the right temple at his room at the Maplewood hotel this morning at 10:30 o'clock, and died at 11 o'clock.

The news has created great excitement in town and there is much speculation as to future developments. The cashier appeared as cheerful as usual at breakfast time and seemed to be slowly recovering from the serious illness which prostrated him on the cars last week, Monday. He chatted pleasantly with his daughter in the parlor of their suit of rooms after breakfast, and a little later Miss Nellie left him and closed the door. She had a call shortly after from an intimate friend, and while they were conversing in the room adjoining the parlor they were Startled by the Report of a Pistol.

Miss Nellie rushed into the room and found her father seated in his easy chair facing the window, with the smoking revolver in his hand. He was unconscious and blood was streaming from his head. She gave the alarm, and soon the fashionable hotel, which is crowded with city people, was in a turmoil of excitement. Ladies and gentlemen were rushing here and there and great confusion prevailed.

Drs. Colt and Paddock were sent for, and they arrived about 10:45. They found the wounded man still breathing, but sinking rapidly, and he died in a few minutes. An examination showed that the bullet had entered the right temple just in front of the ear, passed completely through the head, came out at the left temple and buried itself in a black walnut music stand. He was insensible from the moment he pressed the trigger.

News of the terrible deed quickly flew down town and groups of prominent business men had gathered on the sidewalks to discuss the situation. Great sympathy was expressed for the unfortunate man and his daughter, and much regret at this tragic taking off of one who has for over 30 years been most prominently identified with the town's business and social life.

The opinion prevails that the dead cashier was cognizant of more than has yet been made public concerning the trouble in the bank which resulted in his retirement from the institution, and it is considered that his suicide indicates his knowledge of

and his conclusion that he could not face them and take the consequences. It is now feared that more discrepancies will come, and that affairs will prove even worse than was at first thought.

Cashier Francis was nearly 60 years of age, and he has been in many ways one of the most prominent men of the city. He was gay and dashing in his appearance, always dressed well, drove fine turnouts, and lived high, and he had a light and breezy way of doing everything to which he turned his hand which made him very popular with everybody. For 30 years his fine tenor voice was an attraction in the Baptist church choir, and he has been at the head in Masonic matters and in the town's social life.

In connection with his death must be taken into consideration the fact that his domestic Happiness Had Been Shattered.

His first wife, who died 15 years ago, left him a daughter, now grown into young womanhood, and they have been the closest and firmest of friends. Mr. Francis married a second time, about six years ago, and his relations with his second wife soon grew unpleasant. Shortly after their marriage reports of all sorts of domestic unhappiness were circulated in town, and it is said that a policeman was one night called to the house.

She left town two years ago and went abroad with her two children, returning last spring. Divorce proceedings had been on the way for some time, and they had agreed upon a legal separation. Mrs. Francis is now in Boston stopping in a flat, and he was returning from a trip to her to consult over settlement of their affairs, when he was stricken on the cars. The trouble which has culminated in his sad death this morning dates back two years or more, but did not become public until a week ago.

Didn't Like It.

She met twenty men at a summer resort,
At a summer resort on the shore of the sea,
And nineteen of these were enslaved by her charms.
And low to fair Adelaide bended the knee.
But a cloud now hangs over her beautiful brow,
And pale are the cheeks that had bloomed like the rose;
Her soul is consumed with vexation—because
One man of the twenty had failed to propose.

Pascal always thought he saw a yawning abyss on his left hand.

Vladislas, king of Poland, became agitated every time he saw an apple.

Louis XIV could not bear the sight of the church steeple of St. Denis.

Bayle went into fits when he heard the noise of water rushing out of a tap.

Scaliger could not look at a bunch of watercress without being seized with a shivering fit.

Tycho Brahe, the famous astronomer, changed color and felt his limbs give way under him when meeting a hare.

Julius Cæsar was remarkably afraid of thunder. It is said that he wore a laurel wreath to protect himself from the lightning.

Hobbes, the freethinker, could not be left without a light in the nighttime for a single moment lest he should go off in a delirium.

Henry III, the son of Catherine of Medicis, had such a horror of cats that he could not remain in the same room with one of these animals.

The Chevalier d'Alcantara became sick at the sound of the word "lane" (wool), and yet he did not object to wearing woolen clothes.—Eugene Favre.

La Mothe le Vayer could not bear the sound of any kind of instrument, however harmonious, but the noise of thunder and the howling of the wind sent him into ecstasies.

Captain George Thompson of the three-masted schooner Cox and Green of Greenport, L. I., lying at the dock in New London, was badly injured internally Wednesday by falling from the schooner's bow into her yawl, twenty feet below.

The new index of the laws of the legislative session of 1893 was issued Thursday from the office of Fowler & Williams of Hartford. The book contains 366 pages, 89 more than that of the session of 1891, and gives all the new laws of the recent session.

The Woman's Relief corps commemorated their seventh anniversary by a picnic at Sunnyside, yesterday afternoon. It was decidedly an Adamless Eden, two 'bus loads of ladies going unattended, and having a collation and general good time in their own quiet way.

In the city court Thursday morning James Leary was convicted of assaulting Supernumerary Geo. C. Park when the latter was doing police duty on an excursion of the City of Richmond in June. The court imposed a fine of $10 and costs, and Leary settled for $17.48.

Mr. H. Arthur Bill of the Richmond Stove works was suddenly stricken down with neuralgia in the side while at his work Thursday morning. He was removed to his home on Dunham street, and Dr. Edward P. Brewer rendered medical assistance. Last evening Mr. Bill's condition was slightly improved.

Joseph C. Bland, who has won a reputation for courtesy and faithfulness during his term of two years' service at the Wauregan house as night clerk, vacates his position today to seek restored health in Ireland. Mr. Bland will be absent a year, and his many friends expect that the changed surroundings will bring strength and pleasure.

About 11 o'clock last night the Block Island stopped for a moment at the New London wharf. About a dozen youngsters sprang ashore, and in attempting to leap back as the boat shoved off, two of them were saved from drowning by being caught by an officer of the boat who was near enough to reach them.

The steamer Gypsy will make her first trip from this city to New London and Ocean beach tomorrow, leaving this city at 2 p. m. After tomorrow the steamer will make two daily trips, at 8.30 a. m. and 2 p. m., and will stop at all available points on the river when signaled.

The New London Telegraph says: "Josiah A. Brown, keeper of the county home for children at Norwich, is in town, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Brown. There are twenty-seven children now at the home, eight of whom are from New London, all enjoying remarkably good health, not a case of sickness having occurred there in over a year."

Last evening's Hartford Times says: "Dr. Edward S. Davison, who went to Colorado several months ago to recuperate from a severe case of grip and returned a few weeks ago, died at the residence of Mr. George Chamberlain, No. 10 Lewis street, Wednesday afternoon. The body will be taken to Norwich tomorrow morning at 9.10, and the funeral will be held in the afternoon from his boyhood home."

While Mr. Eleazer Rogers, the well-known mason and builder, was at work on Lake street yesterday, a highly-prized watch was abstracted from the pocket of his vest, which he had removed and left a short distance away. The police were notified. Some time after the loss was discovered and reported, the timepiece was returned to its owner by one of the boys living on Lake street. He and a companion will appear in the police court today, charged with theft.

The Thames street extension of the electric road is finished and completed from the West Main street curve to the upper end of the Stove works, and from the watering trough to the end of the road near the residence of Mr. Palmer Bill. The intervening space is being rapidly blasted out and filled in with ties, and the old building in the High street point of the route grows small by degrees and beautifully less every hour.

The Rev. J. J. McCook of Hartford, who makes a specialty of tramps, has prepared a tramp census compiled from fourteen American cities. The number of bona fide tramps is given at 1,349. More than one-half say that they were skilled laborers. Among the wanderers were three electricians, two stock brokers, two reporters, a music teacher and an artist. They reported good health; thirty are total abstainers; most of them read and write.

Prof. Edward F. Harding, formerly of this city, has accepted an invitation to be present at the week's conference of Christian Workers at Springfield, beginning August 20. The morning sessions will be taken up with discussions, and those in the afternoon with gymnastics, athletics and social gatherings. Nearly all of the physical directors of the country have been invited and it is expected that a large number of them will be present to take part in the exercises.

The Huckleberry Season.

The huckleberry season is now at its height. The haying season is at an end and as the warm sun that is fast turning the erstwhile verdant fields into dreary yellow wastes is just the thing to ripen the berries, the farmer's sons and daughters with their broad-brimmed hats and gingham sun bonnets and six quart pails are as busy as bees in the huckleberry pastures.

Tramped Through These Parts.

Mr. George Lavery, the pedestrian and canoeist of Brooklyn, N. Y., is on a picture-taking tour of New England. His walk for this season was commenced at New London last Monday, and during his three days out he has already used up several plates on the picturesque scenery of Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Ladies' Day at the Grove.

It was Ladies' day at Harmony grove, on the Gales Ferry road, yesterday. Judge S. T. Holbrook, Judge Carter and wife, Selectman Lillibridge and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Lucerne Spalding had an enjoyable picnic in the spot where the Harmony circle has met annually for thirty years. Mrs. Holbrook was unable to be present, having been recently called to Lebanon by the illness of her father, Mr. E. W. Stark.

ROUND BARTLETT'S REEF.

A Moonlight Sail Under the Auspices of the Local Wheelmen.

Not one of the attractive features of the ideal moonlight sail were lacking at the excursion to and around Bartlett's Reef lightship given by the Rose of New England Wheel club Thursday evening. The Block Island carried at least six hundred persons upon the trip, some of whom were from Willimantic and including a delegation from the Thread City cyclers.

The wind was light, the sky clear and the moon was clearly visible, affording an opportunity for a good view of every point passed. In rounding the lightship salutes were exchanged by the two vessels.

Tubbs' Military band rendered a number of selections, and the decks and saloon of the steamer rang with popular airs given by a number of choruses. A phonograph in the lower saloon was constantly in demand.

The excursion was a good example of what the energy and ingenuity of the local wheel club can present in the way of a popular entertainment, and also of the generous patronage which the Norwich public seems always ready to accord.

Mill Time Reduced.

It is said on good authority that commencing next week, the Hopkins & Allen manufactory will reduce its working time to five days a week, being idle Saturdays.

The Shetucket cotton mill in Greeneville has closed for two weeks, and the Falls mill will hereafter run but four days a week.

Preston Domain.

Morgan Cabner of Voluntown, one of the many who imbibe of the cup that cheers in this city, and then make their way into Preston in the hope of eluding the law, overstepped himself Wednesday, and was before Judge King yesterday. He was found guilty of drunkenness and sent to jail in default of $7.98.

Grand Juror Roath thinks that Norwich's cast-off jags are getting too copious over the bridge, and proposes to make some examples.

The Reservoir and Rainfall.

The rainfall of Wednesday, .84 of an inch, brought the total for the month to .89, against 2.62 in June. The water in Fairview reservoir is 21½ inches below high water mark, which is 4½ inches higher than at this time last summer.

Rain is still very much needed to develop the summer crops, which are suffering greatly. Fortunately most of the hay crop was secured before the drouth was very severe. The rainfall for the year is about normal, but the greater part came in the winter when it was not so much needed.

Aftermath of the Storm.

The storm of Wednesday was disastrous to sections in southern Windham county. The mill of the Williamsville Manufacturing company, Williamsville, was unroofed. The mill of T. E. Hopkins at Elmville lost 1,200 feet of roofing.

At East Killingly part of the tin roof was ripped off Chase's mill, the chimney on the house in which Mr. Chase resides was blown down, a large hennery was torn to pieces and a number of hens and chickens killed. Several sheds were swept away, and a large barn near was completely wrecked.

A good-sized elm on the road below Thamesville was split in two by the lightning Wednesday afternoon.

A bolt of lightning landed on the Long Society farm of Mrs. Lydia Holden, ripped the bark and limbs from two large trees and struck the house, damaging the side slightly.

STOWAWAY COMES TO GRIEF.

James Burns Bobs Up Serenely From a Thrilling Experience.

James Burns, 19 years old, living in Greeneville and employed in the Richmond Stove foundry, came near paying the penalty of his life for trying to beat his passage on the steamer Block Island's moonlight excursion last night. Just as the boat was backing from the wharf, several young men, Burns among the number, jumped aboard over the railing. He ascended the companion ladder to the main deck, whence he was followed by an officer and ordered off the vessel.

Burns miscalculated the distance between the vessel and land, and jumped for shore. Missing the dock by several feet, he went down out of sight in the water with a loud splash. The paddle wheels of the boat were stilled, and presently the young man's head appeared above the surface, and he struck out confidently for the float tied near by. Weighed down by his clothes, the swimmer became exhausted after a dozen strokes and clutched at a pile at the bow of the boat. A Long Island fisherman in a sloop at Osgood's wharf grasped the gravity of the young man's position, and putting out in a row boat assisted him into it. Burns complacently took a seat in the stern and was rowed to the landing place, where he thanked the boatman, and ran off down the track, none the worse for his perilous experience.

FOR CONNECTICUT WHEELMEN.

The Annual Handbook of the L. A. W. Received from Hartford.

The annual handbook of the Connecticut division, League of American Wheelmen, compiled by Chief Consul A. H. Shumacher of Hartford, has been received by members in this city. The league membership in Connecticut is 2,782, an increase of 358 over 1892. Thirty-seven riders, one a lady, are enrolled from New London. Norwich has 32, Willimantic 30, Norwich Town 2, Groton 3 and Niantic 3. Hartford with 694, New Haven with 349 and Bridgeport with 280, have the largest membership. The next is Meriden with 91. Eighty-eight lady riders are enrolled.

The handbook contains ninety pages of matter interesting to Connecticut riders, including statistics, official lists, constitution and by-laws Connecticut division, league racing rules and general laws, city and town ordinances relating to sidewalk riding, and a lot of other information.

EXAMINATION OF OFFICERS.

General Haven's Report to be Published in a General Order.

The report of General Haven, giving the results of the examination of the officers of the National Guard by the military board, has been filed with Adjutant General Bradley, and will be issued in a general order from the adjutant general's office next week. The board was composed of General Haven, ex officio, Colonels C. L. Burdett of the First regiment, John B. Doherty of the Second, A. C. Tyler of the Third, and Russell Frost of the Fourth. Colonel Tyler was present at each session of the board. The examinations lasted four days.

The board was ordered the last of June, and the first meeting with the officers to be examined was held on July 10. The examiners have twenty days for making the report after the examinations are completed. There were fifty-one officers examined. What proportion of the number passed is not known at present, outside of the board and the adjutant general's office. The facts will be given in the general order.

RAILROAD NEPOTISM AT AN END.

A New Order by the Consolidated Creates Consternation.

NO RELATIVES ON PAYROLLS.

Hard-Working Employes Now Stand a Chance for Promotion.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—A recent order issued by the Consolidated road, which goes into effect Tuesday next, has created considerable consternation among the subordinate officials and employes, and although issued several days ago, it has been the cause of a good deal of comment in railroad circles ever since.

The order in effect, which by the way is addressed to all the heads of departments, and in fact to any of the bosses having men working under them, states explicitly that they are to carry none of their relatives on the pay-rolls of their respective departments hereafter, and intimates that the days of nepotism on the line are at an end.

This order is in keeping with the policy pursued by the Consolidated on all its divisions throughout the state, and the result has justified the means. While the order may work hardships in some instances, and many faithful officials will have to walk the plank, still, the hard-working employes of the road who have been jumped time and again by the relatives of those in power, hail the new order with the greatest satisfaction.

A WOMAN ACCOMPANIED GUNN.

Lima's Absconding Loan Agent Was Infatuated With a Widow.

LIMA, Ohio, July 28.—There have been no tidings received of Gunn, the absconding loan agent. His wife is critically ill with nervous prostration and may not recover.

She believes that Gunn has committed suicide, but it is now generally thought here that there was a woman in the case. A widow is missing, and it is stated that she left the same day that Gunn went away. It is known that he was infatuated with her.

Ticket Agent Raymond Has a Narrow Escape from Death.

ANSONIA, July 28.—Frederick Raymond, formerly ticket agent at the Shelton station of the Berkshire division but now of New Haven, attempted to jump on the caboose of the 6 40 train at Shelton, this morning. He missed his hold and fell under the cars.

Mr. Raymond used to be noted for his agility when he lived in Shelton, and this agility stood him in good stead when, by a surprising movement, he threw himself away from the car and only one foot was injured. This was struck by the last truck. The injuries to it were severe. A long gash was cut from the instep to the middle toe, and the sole of his foot was burst open. The physician cannot explain how the foot could have been hurt in that manner without being crushed, but no bones were broken. He was taken to New Haven on a later train.

Fall River Print Cloth Market.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 27.—The print cloth market here has been exceedingly dull all the week. Goods are quoted at 3½ cent nominal for 64 by 64s, but even at that price there is no market. The talk of shutting down is growing stronger hourly, the latest to be mentioned being the Cornell, a comparatively new corporation. Mills engaged on odd goods think it more risky to stock ahead than those running on regular makes. No concerted action is being taken by the manufacturers each preferring to act individually according to the difficulty they encounter in raising money for wages. Many of the mills that are talking of shutting down have surplus collateral, but can not realize on it quickly.

A Brave Brakeman Injured.

PUTNAM, July 28.—Frank Minor of this place, a brakeman on Conductor Fred Moffit's local freight train on the New York & New England road, at 3 p. m. today, while saving a man named Adams from being killed by the train, slipped and fell, and all the fingers of the left hand were crushed off by the car wheels. He was taken to his home in an unconscious condition and at 10 o'clock last night he had not regained consciousness. He appeared to be suffering from concussion of the brain.

Annual Field Day of O. U. A. M. at Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, July 28.—The annual field day of the Fairfield councils, Order of United American Mechanics, was held here today. The procession was headed by Miller commandery of Bridgeport and Benjamin Franklin commandery of Danbury, two uniformed loyal legion organizations. Councils from all the surrounding towns in the county and from many other towns participated. After the parade a picnic was held at Avon Park. Among the visiting officials were ex-National Councilor Gilmore, ex-National Councilor W. O. Staples, both of New Haven; State Council Treasurer F. R. Fields of New Haven; State Councilor F. C Clark of Falls Village, and ex State Councilor W. N. Simonds.

Fire Battle at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—A thirty six days' battle with the flames was ended last night on the arrival of the British ship Cedarbank from Newcastle, N. S. The vessel started March 2, coal laden. June 20 the cargo was discovered to be on fire. Two hundred and sixty tons were thrown overboard. Owing to the extreme heat in the hold and the great difficulty in handling the burning coal it was found necessary to desist. Large quantities of water thrown into the hold caused two explosions, and the flames burst out and ran all over the hold, but the hatches were battened down. The vessel will be beached and her cargo flooded.

And They Never Came Back.

CAMDEN, Me., July 28.—Amos Hatch, the adopted son of William Hatch of Islesboro, a lad about 18, with a boy of the same age, employed at the Tiffany cottage, left Islesboro yesterday in Mr. Tiffany's small sloop yacht to sail and have not been seen since. It is supposed that they were capsized and drowned in the gale yesterday.

Likely to Lose the Postal Card Contract.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—It is probable that "Al" Daggett will not get the postal card contract for the next four years. His bid for wood pulp cards was 28 cents per thousand, while O. C. Woolworth of Castleton offers to make them for 39 87-100 cents on jute cards. Daggett's bid is 46 37 100. Wolf Brothers of Philadelphia bid 50 cents. The probabilities are that the cards will be made at Castleton, N. Y., again.

OLD LANDMARK GONE.

Destruction by Fire of the Welles Tavern, Built 100 Years Ago.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—The old Welles tavern on the Albany turnpike, about four miles from this city, was burned to the ground early this morning. It was noted all over the country before the advent of railroads, as the first stopping place from Hartford for stages. The place had been used for years as a summer boarding house. There were eighteen persons asleep in the house when the fire broke out, who escaped with difficulty, losing all their effects. The loss on building is $3,000, covered by insurance. The house was about 100 years old.

Death of the Hon. Robert H. Foss.

DOVER, N. H., July 28.—The Hon. Robert H. Foss died this afternoon. He was born in Harrington, now Strafford, in 1814. In 1843 he went to Chicago, carrying the first wood planing machine ever carried west of the Alleghenies. He early became a Free Mason and for many years was standard bearer of the active members of the 33rd degree of the Northern Masonic jurisdiction, treasurer of the grand commandery of Illinois, and was well known by the Masonic fraternity of the west. As a politician he was the first of the old guard of republicans in Illinois and was credited with carrying the doubtful members of the Illinois legislation for John A. Logan for senator. Mr. Foss was chairman of the committee on financial legislation when Long John Wentworth was mayor of Chicago and to him the credit can be given for the system of sewerage in that city.

All Quiet at Gray Gables.

BUZZARD BAY, Mass., July 28.—This has been another quiet day at Gray Gables. The president spent the entire day at home with the exception of driving up to the village at noon for his mail. Mr. Cleveland is undoubtedly spending his remaining days here in completing his message to congress. Dr. Bryant occupied the afternoon with a sail down the bay. Mr. J. M. Forbes came over this noon from Naushon in his steam yacht Wild-duck and spent a couple of hours with the president. There were no other callers.

Chinese Riots Feared at Bangkok.

BANGKOK, July 28.—The representatives here of the several powers, the leading merchants of the city and the commanders of the British and German gunboats met today at the British legation to discuss what action should be taken in the event of rioting on the part of the Chinese who form a large percentage of the city's population. The question was left open, but it was decided to ask the Siamese government to station military guards in the business centers of the city as a measure of precaution against an outbreak by the Chinese.

Fruit Dealers, Take Notice.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—J. M. Hubbard, of the state "peach yellows" commission, has issued a circular warning fruit dealers to advise shippers not to send into this state, peaches "prematurely ripe" and high colored, which are the characteristic product of trees diseased with the yellows. Deputies are ordered to watch the market closely for any such fruit from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey or other states. It will be destroyed if found.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSIONS.

Little Objection to the Plans [illegible] Out by the Company.

Remonstrants against the proposed locations of the electric street railway poles, their size, kind, quality and finish, were given an opportunity to air their grievances last night before the special common council committee, composed of Mayor Harwood, Alderman Aborn and Councilman Henderson and Stetson. The latter gentleman was unavoidably absent.

Mayor Harwood stated the object of the hearing to an audience of fifty of the residents along the extension, and asked for objectors to the removal of three trees on lower Thames street, necessary for the successful operation of the electric road.

Robert Brown opposed the cutting down of the tree in front of his house, alleging that there be no sufficient reason. C. H. Talcott corroborated Mr. Brown's remarks and directed his opposition to the tree next beyond. No one took exception to the fate meted out to the third tree.

The complaints against the scheduled position of the poles were few and rather hazy. Mr. E. R. Thompson, representing F. A. Bill of Springfield, wished that a Shetucket street pole would be moved from the dividing line of his property altogether.

Messrs. Joseph W. Gilbert and C. W. Hedges thought that they were done an injustice by being served with a pole directly in front of their residence.

President Coggswell, Superintendent Shaw and Attorney Lucas explained to the committee that the pole had been stationed there as the only available location, that its removal would disorganize the system along the route and was very impracticable, and that its change would discommode other residents to the same extent it did the remonstrants

Mr. George B Greener said that he was delegated by Mr. Bill of Springfield to see that no poles were planted in front of his residence on Laurel Hill avenue, Mr. Greener was informed that the pole there would be on the opposite side of the street, and he assured the committee that this would cause no resentment on the part of Mr. Bill.

The Thames and West Thames street plans evidently met unanimous agreement as there were no complaints; and Mr. Lucas presented approving papers from West Main street property holders.

Ex Mayor Crandall made happy remarks about the character of the poles, claiming Laurel Hill's right to square sticks as lined New London's streets, and expressing the hope that their tops would be trimmed to some degree of symmetry and not left ragged and haggled.

President Coggswell rejoined that New London was not favored over Norwich, and the audience heaved a convulsive sigh of relief as the awful suspicion was dissipated. The round, straight chestnut poles contracted for would be as ornate and substantial as those in the city at the mouth of the river, he explained. Thirty feet in length, planted six feet in the ground and of seven inch stock, they will meet approval and be equal to all demands.

Superintendent Shaw said that along Laurel Hill avenue and to Thamesville, the electric railway, electric light, telephone and fire alarm wires will be set to the same poles. If the Thames street trees are left standing, the project will be defeated in that section.

The committee will go over the routes Tuesday afternoon and decide on the merits of the contestants, and the report will be submitted to the council meeting that evening.

CLOSING RACES AT HARTFORD.

Summaries in the 2.38 and 2.19 Classes, and Members' Special.

EVENTS AT SARATOGA.

Closing Day of the Grand Circuit Meeting at Cleveland.

HARTFORD, July 28.—Another grand afternoon greeted the patrons of the Gentlemen's Driving club today. The attendance was not up to Thursday, but it was good and about equal to the first two days of the meeting. The track was excellent and the fields of starters good.

In the 2.38 class, Flora M., Lizzie Almont, Topsy B., Fauntleroy, Kentucky Star and Prince Charlie were the starters. The first heat was won by Lizzie Almont, Fauntleroy second, Prince Charlie third. Time, 2.30. Pools, Kentucky Star, $25; Lizzie Almont, $10; Fauntleroy, $10; field, $18. This class called out the largest pools of any of the week.

The last class of the day and meeting, the 2.19, had Jerome, Elyria, Pioneer and Addie L. as starters.

In the members' class, Jessie Wilkes, George Wilkes, Edward S. and Nutmeg came up for the word.

RACES AT CLEVELAND.

Closing Events of the Grand Circuit Meeting—Large Attendance.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 28.—The grand circuit racing meeting closed today with an afternoon of most enjoyable sport. The weather was fine, the crowd large and the track in good condition. It was a day for favorites as a rule. In the free-for-all pacing race Flying Jib sold as favorite, but he went to pieces in the first heat and finished sixth, Guy taking first place.

In the next heat Flying Jib was shut out and Hal Pointer took the second heat and also the next two heats and the race after a hard finish with Major Wonder and Guy.

In the 2.15 class trotting, Dr. Sparks took away the breath of the "talent" who had been playing Hazel Wilkes as a two to one favorite by winning two heats. Wilkes took the third heat all right, but Pixley captured the next two. Hazel Wilkes had the staying qualities, however, and carried off first money by winning the sixth and seventh heats.

In the 2 22 trotting, La Tosca was a hot favorite, but she could get only one heat, E. T. H. capturing the race after a game struggle.

Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 28.—The track was in good condition today.

First race—For 2-year-old maidens, 5 furlongs, won by Alfonsine, Mask second and Boyd Pantlind third. Time, 1.17.

Second race—For 2-year-olds, 5½ furlongs; Destroyer first, Elite Filly second, Ellen H. third. Time, 1.11.

Third race—Selling allowances, 1 mile; Copyright won, Stonemason second, Clementine third. Time, 1.44½.

Fourth race—Handicap, 5 furlongs; Lord Harry won, Nick second, Tosso third. Time, 1 02½.

Fifth race—Selling allowances, 7 furlongs; Shadow won, Void second, Rico third. Time 1.29.

THE COMET.

Important Discoveries Made at the Lick Observatory.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—At the Lick observatory this week some important discoveries have been made by the spectroscope. Professor Campbell has trained the big equatorial with its spectrum attachment on the [illegible] and has established the fact that [illegible] is composed of incandescent carbon and nitrogen, being itself luminous.

Some interesting work has been made on bright line stars, the big telescope flashing through the [illegible] new lines that indicate [illegible] ments in these stars. [illegible] Auriga, has been proved [illegible] as the spectrum shows [illegible] the spectrum of nebulous stars. The best discoveries at Lick [illegible] have been made by aid of the spectroscope applied to the great equatorial.

Complaints Filed Against Treasurer Gunn

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—State Treasurer Sanger has filed in the United States district court at Toledo, Ohio, a complaint alleging that E. F. Gunn, the defaulting agent of the Connecticut school fund, collected $3,180 in interest coupons on loans in Ohio, which he appropriated to his own use. Another complaint is that Gunn persuaded a man named Price to execute a mortgage upon certain lands in Allen county in favor of the school fund and thus obtained $5,000 more. It is alleged that the abstract of title was forged, as neither Gunn or Pierce have any interest in or title to the lands described [illegible] covered by the supposed mortgage. Gunn paid the interest on the mortgage note up to July 1. He is supposed to have money in the Ohio National bank and the Lima National bank at Lima.

Workmen Injured by a Premature Blast.

DEDHAM, Mass., July 28.—While removing the tamping from a charge of powder that had failed to ignite, three workmen at work on the cellar for the [illegible] were badly injured by a premature explosion. John Kelly of West Dedham, [illegible] years old, unmarried, was badly injured about the neck and stomach. Michael McCaffrey of East Dedham, 45 years old, married, was severely cut about the head and face, his right hand crushed and eyes and face filled with powder. George Watson, 22, of East Dedham, had his eyes and face filled with powder and he will probably lose his sight. Charles Vinton, William Hall, William Chadwick and three others at work in the cellar escaped injury, although Winton was thrown some distance by the shock of the explosion.

Eight Hours a Day.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 28.—Today the Wilmot & Hobbs Manufacturing company discharged about half its employes and in future will run eight hours a day five days a week. It has large rolling mills and has large government contracts. The mills have been running nights.

A South Norwalk Man Missing.

NORWALK, Conn., July 28.—Frederick M. Knapp of South Norwalk has been missing since Wednesday. His checks have been returned protested and it is common talk that quite a number of business men are losers. There are also rumors of more serious charges, but the truth regarding his doings will not be known until the banks and others interested complete the investigation that is now in progress. Mr. Knapp left South Norwalk during the night, it is supposed, and his present whereabouts are not known. He was formerly manager of a music emporium and for some years has conducted a hat store on Washington street. He appears to have been short of funds for some time, and there is considerable of his paper in the local banks.

Rumors About the N. Y. & N. E.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—It is rumored here tonight that the New York & New England repair shops at East Hartford are to be removed to Norwood, Mass. A. Richards, master mechanic of the road, whose office is in East Hartford received orders from Boston this afternoon to discharge forty-five mechanics employed in the machine shops and wood repair shop and the men who were named in the order were at once notified.

BRIGGS WAS QUITE POPULAR.

Young Hartford Piano Tuner in a Bad Scrape.

PROMISED TOO MUCH.

Now He Will Be Sued by Two Estimable Young Ladies.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—Joseph Frank Briggs, a young man who tunes pianos at Wool's Palace [illegible] on Asylum street, is in a bad scrape in that he has trifled with the affections of two estimable young ladies, became engaged to each and promised to marry both girls. For several months he has been attentive to Miss May Richardson, the daughter of Mrs. Tifft of Wooster street, and she recently accepted him. The wedding was set for next month. A few days ago Miss Richardson heard through an anonymous letter that he was also engaged to Miss Sparks of South Windsor.

This he denied to her one evening, but Miss Sparks, who was concealed behind a curtain, appeared and verified the fact, showing proof that he was also to marry her next month. Both girls have wedding trousseaux ready and each recently received a letter from Briggs stating that he cannot marry her. Miss Richardson will sue Briggs for breach of promise through her attorney, John P. Healy. Briggs has engaged Joseph L. Barbour as counsel. It appears to have been an aggravated case of deceit. Both young ladies are highly respected. Briggs is a divorced man and was quite popular with young ladies.

Plea of Infancy Entered in the Chamberlain Case.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 28.—Ex-Governor D. H. Chamberlain of South Carolina, now an attorney having offices at 42 Wall street, New York, has entered an appearance for the defense in the case of Attorney George R. Cooley of this city against J. L. Chamberlain, Yale '94, the ex-governor's son, who won the John A. Porter prize, which was attached by Attorney Cooley in a suit brought by him against the young man for debt. The young man contracted bills amounting to about $100, which were given to Attorney Cooley for collection. Ex Governor Chamberlain has entered a plea of infancy and will defend his son in the case when it comes up for trial before Justice James Bishop next week.

Fell Head First Down Stairs.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 28.—Ex-Secretary Horace R. Butler this afternoon, while working on the brick addition to the Middletown club house, fell head first on the stone steps below and was rendered unconscious. The physician says there is no fracture, but he cannot tell as yet as to internal injuries.

Mme. Rhea, the Actress, Married.

NEW YORK, July 28.—News was received here yesterday that Mme. Rhea, the actress, had married her leading man, W. F. Hart, just after the arrival of her company in Paris. Mr. Hart is about 28 years old or about twenty years the junior of his wife. He is comparatively new in the theatrical business. He has been with Mme. Rhea's company about one year. He was formerly with Robert Downing.

OLD AGE NOT A DISEASE

Mrs. Belinda Hoddson, at 78, and Solomon Davis, 72, Commend their Experience to all Elderly People.

Old age need not be necessarily feeble. That a man or woman at sixty should say "It's natural at my age to feel weak and feeble," is not so.

Mrs. Belinda Hoddson, Haverhill, N.H., exemplified this fact very plainly in her letter to Dr. Kennedy, wherein she says, "I recovered from a lingering and painful illness and finding myself continuing in a weak and debilitated condition I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and found in it the one thing needful to supply the wanted vitality in aged people.

It improves the appetite, quiets and sustains the nerves, and absolutely cures insomnia (sleeplessness.)"

Mr. Solomon Davis of North Kortright, N. Y., found the same result from using Favorite Remedy. In speaking of it to Editor Champion, of The Stamford (N. Y.) Mirror, he said. "How much better the average old person would feel if they would use this valuable preparation, Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Outside the fact that it will cure the most obstinate case of constipation, it gives strength and tone to the system, and renews one's vitality." jy28waS

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Safety Appliances for Trolley Cars.

Theophile Euphrat, president of the Automatic Life-Saving Guard company, exhibited at the Norwalk Sentinel office the other day a safety appliance for trolley cars. The model showed a wire-latticed apron, which hangs across the lower part of the platform, as near the pavement as possible, taking the irregularities of the latter into account, which, it was stated would, in any case, be close enough to be struck by a person knocked down by a car. When this happened the swinging-apron, in its backward motion, [illegible] releases a flexible, shovel shaped guard, which scoops up the victim, effectually preventing [illegible] with the wheels or other portions of the trucks or the motor machinery. President Crimmins of the Broadway cable line, and also of the Newark Trolley company, has ordered samples to be attached to a car of each system for a demonstration, with dummies of adults and children, of the efficacy of the invention.

City Court—Kelbers, Judge.

Maurice Kelly was in the police court Friday morning charged with drunkenness. He was found guilty, sentenced to thirty days in Jailor Champlin's care and taxed the costs of prosecution, which amounted to $7 88.

John Carroll, for the same offense, was fined $3 and costs, $9 88.

Edward Simonds was presented to answer for another drunk. His fine and costs amounted to $7.88, and he paid the bill.

Joseph Bowler of Greeneville was fined $6 and costs—$12 88—for drunkenness and $20 and costs—$27 88—for resisting an officer.

Speaker Brooks Going Abroad.

Speaker Isaac W. Brooks of Torrington will sail today for a trip to Europe, taking the Bretagne of the French line. Mr. Brooks' services as presiding officer of the house of representatives were equally arduous and acceptable. A good many who did not personally know the mild-mannered gentleman, were surprised at the quickness and accuracy of his rulings and the positiveness of his decisions. All united in commending his fairness and ability as a parliamentarian. The work of the session proved a severe strain upon his strength and he goes abroad for rest and recuperation.

A Magician's Sad Blow

A magician named Selden gave an interesting and amusing entertainment in the parlors of the Fort Griswold house Wednesday evening. After he had concluded his entertainment and while the audience were still laughing over his last amusing trick, the man picked up a New York newspaper and read the notice of the death of his 3-year-old child.

This was the first intimation that he had of anything wrong at his home. The poor man was terribly overcome with grief and received the sympathy of the whole audience when the facts became known.

SNOW IN JULY.

A Providence Steamer's Remarkable Experience in the Sound.

Among the miscellaneous features of this curious summer, have been two or three July snow storms in New England. The first two occurred in Maine last Sunday and Monday along the region between Dexter and Bangor, and gave "enough snow for snowballing," but Maine (always a cool region, with a few boiling exceptions), is not supposed to count.

It is a very different thing when a July snow storm occurs off the south coast of New England. Such a storm was encountered Wednesday morning, the 26th of July, by the steamer Berkshire, off the Long Island coast. "Her decks were covered, and the storm was so thick that she was forced to lay-to until it abated." "Captain Ryder says it was one of the most remarkable experiences he has had during his long service in these waters." Both the Maine and the Long Island snow storms appear to have been sandwiched between exceptionally hot days.

HUNTING OUT OF SEASON.

A New Haven Man Who Violates the Law in this Vicinity.

Here is an opportunity for a prosecution under the game law. The New Haven News says: "An athletic looking young man in canvas shooting jacket, leather leggings and carrying a magazine gun on his left shoulder and a game bag at his side, stepped off the 9 o'clock train last night at the union depot. The game bag was half full of squirrels and birds and slung over the back of the sportsman was an owl of prodigious size and with grey and white crescented plumage. The dead bird of wisdom is a handsome fellow and measures three feet two inches from the point of his hooked beak to the tip of his tail feathers. The sportsman was Joseph M. McKiernan of 243 Edgewood avenue and he had been hunting several days in the wilderness between Voluntown and Norwich, this state. The owl will be put into the hands of a taxidermist and next week will be exhibited in one of the windows of a Church street store."

Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

An Ideal Location—Good Bathing, Etc.

[Correspondence of THE BULLETIN.]

SHELTER ISLAND HEIGHTS, July 27, 1893.

EDITOR BULLETIN: We are situated in a fine location on the shore half way between Prospect and Steara's Point on Shelter Island sound, but a few yards away from the water, screened from view by a thick growth of scrub oak. In back and on both sides of us are thick woods extending for a considerable distance. We have a plentiful supply of water close by from a well we dug last year. The water is clear and cool. The woods supply us with sufficient fuel for cooking our food.

We have two boats for our use, a nineteen-foot cat-boat and a row boat. We have excellent bathing in which we generally indulge twice a day. The prevailing wind is from the southwest, which springs up in the morning lightly and increases in the afternoon, quite often to a reefing breeze. We have taken quite a number of sails in Shelter Island sound, Southold and Peconic bays. We have quoits and stones for exercising, and we "put the shot" every day, generally before going in bathing.

We have quite a number of visitors from the hotels near us. They all seemed to be well pleased with what they see in our camp, especially the well, which makes them wonder a great deal. We have had bright, sunshiny days, with a few rainstorms of short duration.

Chas. B Lathrop pitched on the Prospects in a game of ball—Prospects vs. Manhansets. Prospects won, 8 to 7.

Supt. Harling is going to sail Saturday in the yacht Curlew, John Vichle, owner, in the regatta of the Shelter Island Yacht club.

We are all coated with a heavy layer of tan, which will stick to us for some time.

We have an ideal place for a camp. We can see the yachts on the sound and note the people as they walk by without being observed. We expect to break camp on Monday, July 31, when the boys will return to Norwich. E. F. H.

The idea that this earth is slowly drying up has quite a setback by a recent announcement of the hydrographic engineers that the Gulf of Mexico is one foot higher now than it was in 1850.

An old German scientist has lately come to the front with the startling declaration that all diamonds of this earth originally come from the moon or aerolites or meteorites.

MUST HAVE MONEY.

Fall River is Very Short of Ready Cash.

CHANGE OF FEELING THERE.

Mills Will Shut Down—Leather Business Generally Depressed.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 28.—Within 24 hours there has been a great change in feeling on the part of manufacturers. The Wamsutta mill managers having announced their intention to shut down four weeks in August has led other mill men to follow their example. This morning it is reported that the Flint and American linen mills will shut down in August for a longer or shorter period, dependent wholly on the condition of the money market.

The mills are well able to meet all their obligations, but the directors feel that it is useless to pay 6 per cent. for time loans to enable them to pay operatives' wages. Some of the manufacturers say they cannot get money at any percentage and they are seriously considering the wisdom of Closing Their Concerns For a Time.

Simeon B. Chase, treasurer of the King Philip mills, one of the three finest goods mills in the country, said this morning that he could offer no opinion as to the prospect of the trade. The conditions were unlike anything he ever before encountered, and as did not believe manufacturers could tell from day to day just what they would or could do.

The banking men here say they are doing their best to accommodate customers and still protect their depositors, who may call on them at any moment. They have no money to loan except at long credits, and, of course they say, the mills cannot afford to go into any form of speculation at this time.

City Treasurer Brightman is in Boston today trying to negotiate loans

To Carry On Municipal Business.

The financial pinch in other parts of the country is just beginning to be felt here to a considerable extent.

The water works extension, which this year was to have been provided for by loans, has partly stopped, most of the laborers having been discharged temporarily. The superintendent and mayor carried the department along three weeks, but the treasurer has been unable to float any bonds to speak of, and they declined to go any further in the disbursement of their private money for public purposes.

Mr. Brightman says the bonds are payable in currency, and in a tight time they cannot be easily floated.

He is having difficulty also in negotiating temporary loans in anticipation of the year's taxes, and he is considering how far he should go in the matter of paying high interest before shutting down on the payment of wages in other departments.

BECOMING MORE HOPEFUL.

Business at Rochester, N. H., Improving and Merchants Encouraged.

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 28.—The business outlook in this city has improved greatly during the past week, and the citizens are becoming much more hopeful as far as shoe manufacturing is concerned. Last Monday the Wallace shoe factory, which is the most important industry located in this city, started, after a two weeks' vacation, and the present prospects are that it will continue to run as before.

At the same time the Breed shoe factory was shut down, but yesterday that factory was again put in operation, although it will run but three days in a week for the present. The indications are, however, that it will be run on full time in a few weeks.

The news is very welcome to the citizens of this city, and especially to the business men, who during the last four weeks have experienced the dullest trade known for years.

The outlook, on the whole, is very encouraging, and, considering the state of affairs generally, there is no cause for complaint.

It is expected that the Cocheco woolen mills at East Rochester will shut down about Aug. 1, or as soon as the orders now in hand are filled. During the shutdown which will probably be of six or eight weeks' duration, the canal will be enlarged. About 300 hands will be thrown out of employment.

It is thought that the Waumbeck mills at Milton Mills will also shut down about the same time.

THE LEATHER TRADE.

Reports From Lowell and Other Places Show Depressed Condition.

LOWELL, Mass., July 28.—The leather business is in a very depressed condition. Only a short time since there were four tanneries running in this city, but at the present time there is hardly one, that of White Bros., who have done a very large business manufacturing moroccos and moose leather. The firm of Arey and Maddocks moved their business from here to St. Regis Falls, N. Y., about a year ago, where help can be secured for about one-half what must be paid here. [illegible] tannery, which manufactures nothing but belting leather, has shut down because of the depressed condition of business and the fourth, tannery on Broadway is also doing nothing.

One of the men recently discharged by White Bros. has endeavored to obtain work elsewhere, but has found nothing to do. He went up north, but found the tanneries idle, and then he visited Woburn, Wilmington and elsewhere and found the same condition of things. At Winslow, on the New York and New England road, where is located one of the largest tanneries in this section, he found there were only enough men employed to keep things from spoiling.

EXETER'S BANK.

Examiner Dorr Will Investigate Its Condition and Management.

EXETER, N. H., July 28.—Bank Examiner Dorr of Great Falls arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning, and will at once investigate the affairs of the National Granite State bank. Cashier Rylington stated this morning that he had several months ago tendered his resignation to the directors, but they did not act upon it. He was not at all satisfied with the condition of affairs, and had asked the directors if they considered the bank solvent and they replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Rylington was not satisfied with President Putnam's management of affairs, and when ordered to open the vaults yesterday morning by that official refused positively to do so or to place the keys in any hands except the state officials.

The two banks have agreed to issue checks and take deposits for the present, to accommodate the business men of the town. The bank examiner has ordered the national bank closed, and notified banks to pay no checks on this bank.

IN A QUANDARY.

New Bedford Mill Men In Doubt as to Best Course to Pursue.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 28.—It is stated by a gentleman in a position to know that the subject of running the mills through August is one of moment with mill managers, that they are not so confident of being able to stand the pressure as was at first thought. In fact, it is said that next week will decide whether there is to be a reduction of hours or not.

Most of the cotton mills here manufacture the finer grades of goods, and although they are working on orders and have ample stock on hand, yet it is so difficult to make collections for goods delivered that the mill officials are in a quandary as to what is best under the circumstances.

There will probably be a meeting of the mill agents some time next week, and no doubt if the banks here continue to furnish funds for wages, work will be continued right along.

The weekly payroll of all the mills, including the Gulnac woolen, amounts to $75,000, of which sum the Wamsutta corporation pays out $17,000.

It is surmised that the mill managers will suggest a reduction of wages for a while rather than shut down entirely.

BENNINGTON ALL RIGHT.

Mills Have Orders Enough to Keep Them Running Till Oct. 1.

BENNINGTON, July 28.—In the manufacture of knit goods this village ranks sixth in this country in the value and amount of its production. The mills in the aggregate employ about 2000 operatives. There is also a large woolen mill here employing 300 hands, and there are several foundries and machine shops.

All of the other mills have orders enough booked to keep them running on full time until Oct. 1, and some of them are working nights.

While orders are not coming in as fast as usual, some are received daily, and thus far few have been cancelled.

Collections are reported slow and bills are not anticipated as readily as heretofore.

CLOSING THE MINES.

General Shutting Down in the Lake Superior District.

DULUTH, July 28.—Word was received here yesterday from the headquarters of the Minnesota Iron company in Chicago to close all mining operations at the hard ore mines of the company until further notice. About 300 men will be kept at the several mines to ship the ore now in stock piles. The towns of Tower and Ely are almost entirely dependent on the work of the mines.

The Lake Superior Iron company of Ishpeming, Mich., which laid off 250 men 10 days ago, will close down section 16 mine, throwing 200 more men out, Saturday night.

The North Buffalo mine of the Buffalo Mining company, at Negaunee, Mich., closed down Wednesday night. Railroads refused to haul the ore until the freight bills were paid.

MURDERER'S STORY.

Handling a Revolver It Went Off and Killed Mrs. Copeland.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 28.—The murderer of Mrs. Lizzie Copeland was captured at 6 o'clock this morning in a haymow in Gloucester City, and was taken into custody. He gave the name of Charles Jordan, and has confessed to the police that he did the shooting.

His story is that he stole a revolver from a saloon on Sycamore street, and went to the Copeland store to sell it. Mrs. Lizzie Copeland was the only one in there, and to her he offered it. He says there was one cartridge in the revolver, and he was showing her how to use, it when it accidentally went off. The bullet struck her, she fell and he was so frightened that he ran away.

Important Railway Deal.

YANKTON, S. D., July 28.—James G. Hill of the Great Northern railway has purchased the Sioux City and Northern railway and also the Sioux City, Yankton and Southwestern railway, now under construction. The deal for the Sioux City road was closed two weeks ago. Mr. Hill has also announced his decision to cross the Missouri river at Yankton and proceed southwest with his railway next year.

Rear Seat Smokers Win.

BOSTON, July 28.—The directors of the West End Street Railway company, after considering for a month the petitions for and against the abolition of smoking on the three rear seats of street cars, have decided that the smokers have the best case. Cards will be posted in the cars, however, asking smokers to be cleanly in the exercise of their privilege.

British Bark Missing.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The Merchants' Exchange was yesterday notified by telegraph that the British bark Lamorna, from Newcastle for Honolulu, coal laden, has been officially posted at Lloyds as missing. The vessel left Newcastle Feb. 24 for Honolulu. It is the general opinion that all the crew were drowned.

Body Found on the Shore.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., July 28.—The body of a young man was found on the shore at Scraggy Neck in Pocasset this morning. It is undoubtedly that of Henry G. Bellows of New York, son of the late Rev. Dr. Bellows, who was drowned in Buzzard's Bay July 15. The family have been notified.

Thirty Houses Burning.

PARIS, July 28.—A fire broke out at 4 o'clock this morning in Bercy, a suburb to the southeast of Paris on the right bank of the river Seine. Despite the efforts of the firemen the flames spread, and in a comparatively short time 30 houses were burning. The fire is opposite the wine docks.

Reinforcing the Blockaders.

PARIS, July 28.—The French cruiser Laperouse has been ordered to reinforce the blockading squadron off the Siamese coast. The Debats today foreshadows the occupation of Battambang and Anghor in August.

Cholera on Altona's Streets.

HAMBURG, July 28.—A workman named Prinz was stricken with cholera in the street at Altona yesterday. He was taken to a hospital.

Pedlar Helped Himself.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 28.—Some time yesterday afternoon the dwelling house of John Lombard at Acushnet was entered by thieves and about $100 worth of jewelry and clothing belonging to Dr. Joseph Lombard of New York was stolen. The thief left an old suit of clothes. It is supposed that he was a pedlar, who upon calling at the house found no one at home, and proceeded to help himself to whatever he saw that he wanted.

Arms Shipped to Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The Morning Call prints a statement that within the last month arms have been shipped to Hawaii, and the belief is that an attempt is being made to place the natives in a position to effect a successful counter revolution against the provisional government. These weapons were purchased of a local dealer, by a mysterious person who refused to say who they were for.

Viola Allen will create the leading female role in R. C. Carton's drama, "Liberty Hall," which will be produced for the first time in America at the Empire theatre, New York, about Aug. 21.

READY FOR CHOLERA,

Clear Up the Rubbish Before Disease Appears.

Experience of a Physician With a Dyspepsia Patient.

All Danger Over in Less Than Ten Days—A Simple Treatment.

"Clear up the rubbish from back yards and sweeten cellars with broom, scrubbing brushes, and disinfectant. Now's the time to get ready for cholera," says The Boston Globe.

Clean streets and alleys diminish the chances of epidemic, but it is of more more vital importance that the natural gates and alleys of the body be swept and clean.

The only way to secure this healthy condition of the blood vessels is through the nerves. Blushing and sudden pallor show how absolutely the nerves regulate the blood supply. Sound nerves make healthy blood possible, and lassitude, irritability, dyspepsia, liver complaint and nervous weakness cannot exist where nerves and blood are vigorous and in harmony.

A case in point comes from Rushmore, O., where Dr. A. Page, one of the most prominent physicians in the state resides. He writes:

"About three months ago I secured for the first time two bottles of Paine's celery compound. I carelessly laid them to one side, until I found one of my patients I was treating for dyspepsia gradually growing worse and that remedies I had previously been successful with would not have any effect on him. I then thought of the Paine's celery compound, and as an experiment I gave him one of them, according to directions on the bottle. Imagine my surprise when ten days later, he walked into my office and said, 'Doctor, I believe I am cured of my dyspepsia.'

"Now, after having taken the second bottle, he, as also myself, considers himself a sound and well man, being entirely free from any disagreeable sensations after eating. Since first commencing the use of Paine's celery compound he has gained 35 pounds, and is the very picture of health.

I shall cheerfully answer any communications I may receive in regard to the compound, and hope that my experience may be of benefit to some professional brother who is not too narrow-minded to be liberal professionally." jy29d

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 30. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The danger of becoming hardened. Acts xix, 9; Mark xvi, 9-14.

The danger of becoming hardened or confirmed in sin, unbelief or opposition to God and Jesus Christ is a universal one. It is one that threatens the Christian and the sinner alike, as we see illustrated in our topical references. It is a danger against which the Bible constantly warns all men, and the terrible consequences of which are vividly portrayed in the sacred volume. In our Bible references we see:

1. The unbelievers hardened (Acts xix, 9). Saul is at Ephesus. Some believing Jews are baptised and receive the Holy Ghost, but certain others, who do not believe, become all the more hardened in their disbelief. They close their eyes to the truth. They will not see. They will not hear. They resist the truth. They reject it, and thus become more confirmed in unbelief. This is always the result of persistent refusal to hear God's truth and the rejection of it. God forsakes the unbeliever and leaves him alone in his unbelief, and thus He is said to harden his heart. Thus it is also that men become hardened in sin. In the face of warning and prayers and entreaty and tears, they persist in their evil way until God's spirit is withdrawn from them, and they are given over to a reprobate mind. It was in this way that God hardened the heart of Pharoah of old, by withdrawing His influence from him that would have made him act differently. Let us be warned against the danger and neither persist in unbelief nor actual sin lest our hearts becomes hardened and ourselves forsaken of God.

The believer hardened (Mark xvi, 9-14). In these verses Christ upbraids for unbelief and hardness of heart. But it is not the unbeliever whom he upbraids, but the disciples who have been slow to believe in his resurrection, although two of them testified that they had seen him since his resurrection. There is therefore a possibility that Christian people themselves because of their stupidity or ignorance may become hardened in unbelief. We have such an illustration in the children of Israel in the wilderness. How often they were incredulous! How often they doubted! Their hearts were hardened in unbelief, and the writer of Hebrews warns his readers not to become hardened, as did their fathers in the wilderness. Believers will also, if they persist in sin, have their hearts hardened. Therefore the topic warns all against the danger of becoming hardened, both in unbelief and in sin. Let us heed the warning lest the terrible consequences of hardening come upon us.

Bible References—Ex. vii, 13; Deut. xv, 7; Lev. xxvi, 41; Ps. xcv, 8; Prov. xxviii, 14; Jer. ix, 26; Math. xix, 8; Mark iii, 5; Luke xi, 24, 25; Acts vii, 51; Rom. xi, 7, 8; Heb. iii, 8-15.

Take Hold and Lift.

Indolence in the Christian life destroys our only hope of heaven. The lazy man is at bottom a bad man in the church or out of it. God cannot tolerate him in His kingdom here or hereafter. The redeemed in heaven serve Him day and night. We can hope to enter on that service only as we are active here. A teacher of one of our freedmen's schools told me that one day as she sat at her window she saw two negroes loading a cart. One of them was disposed to shirk. The other stopped, and looking sharply at his lazy companion said, "Sam, do you expect to go to heaven?" "Yes," was the reply. "Then take hold and lift," said the other. There was profound philosophy in that remark.

There are scores of Christians in our churches who expect to go to heaven, who would greatly increase their chances of going there by taking hold and lifting some of the burdens which they are letting their brethren bear alone. And that I believe is the only cure for the sloth to which we all are liable, to take hold of God's work with the little strength we have, and with God's blessings the exercise will increase our strength manifold and by and by overcome the drowsiness of sin.—Examiner.

Christian Endeavor Policemen.

A Christian Endeavor unlike any other in the world has been organized in New York. Its active membership is restricted to the friends who organized the society and policemen and ex-policemen. Its meetings are held every Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 in the rooms of the Christian Police association. The emblem of the society is a combination of helmet, club and shackles which ex-Roundsman Mead, who is president of the society, interprets, "We club together as a Christian Endeavor to free the policemen of New York city from the shackles of sin."

The popular idea of the policemen of the city would not encourage much hope in organizing a Christian Endeavor society among them, but the fact proves that there are on the force many earnest Christian men, who have held fast their faith and consistency of life in spite of the fiercest temptation. The special effort for the New York policemen, which developed into the Christian Police association, originated in the visit of Miss Gurney, an English lady, who has made this her life work.—Exchange.

King's Daughters at the World's Fair.

The headquarters of the King's Daughters and the King's Sons at Chicago will be at Hotel Endeavor, which is built in the form of a hollow square surrounding a small park and inclosing a chapel, where state organizations will hold their reunions. The regular King's Daughters' meeting took place June 14, when the members of the central council were present, but during the entire six months a room will be reserved for the use of the order, a mutual meeting place for its members and a library of its literature, badges, etc.

"THE MINISTER."

The crows were wheeling behind the plow in scattering clusters and plumping singly upon the soft, thick grule which the plowshare was turning out upon an unkindly world. It was a bask, blowy day in the end of March, and there was a hint of storm in the air—a hint emphasized for those skilled in weather lore by the presence of half a dozen sea gulls, white vagrants among the black coats, blown by the south wind up from the Solway—a snell, Scotch, but not unfriendly day altogether.

Robert Fraser bent to the plow handles and cast a keen and wary eye toward his guide posts on the ridge. His face was colorless, even when a dash of rain came swirling across from the crest of Ben Gairn, whose steep bulk heaved itself a blue haystack above the level horizon of the moorland. He was dressed like any other plowman of the south uplands—rough homespun much the worse for wear, and leggings the color of the red soil which he was reversing with the share of his plow.

Yet there was that about Robert Fraser which marked him no common man. When he paused at the top of the ascent and stood with his back against the horns of the plow—the countryman's legacy from Adam of the Mattock—he pushed back his weatherbeaten straw hat with a characteristic gesture and showed a white forehead with blue veins channeling it—a damp, heavy lock of black hair clinging to it as in Severn's picture of John Keats on his deathbed. Robert Fraser saw a couple of black specks which moved smoothly and evenly along the top of the distant dike of the highway.

He stood still for a moment or two watching them. As they came nearer they resolved themselves into a smart young man sitting in a well equipped gig drawn by a showily actioned horse and driven by a man in livery. As they passed rapidly along the road the hand of the young man appeared in careless wave of recognition over the stone dike, and Robert Fraser lifted his slack reins in staid acknowledgement. It was more than a year since the brothers had looked each other so nearly in the eyes. They were Dr. Henry Fraser, the rising physician of Cairn Edward, and his elder brother Robert, once student of divinity at Edinburgh college, whom three parishes knew as "stickit minister."

When Robert Fraser stabled his horses that night and went in to his supper, he was not surprised to find his friend, Saunders M'Quhirr of Drumquhat, sitting by the peat fire in the "room." Almost the only thing which distinguished the stickit minister from the other small farmers of the parish of Dullarg was the fact that he always sat in the evening by himself "ben the hoose" and did not use the kitchen in common with his housekeeper and herd boy, save only at mealtimes. Robert had taken to Saunders ever since—the back of his ambition broken—he had settled down to the farm, and he welcomed him with shy cordiality.

"You'll take a cup of tea, Saunders?" he asked.

"Thank ye, Robert, I wadna be waur o't," returned his friend.

"I saw your brither the day," said Saunders M'Quhirr, after the teacups had been cleared away and the silent housekeeper had replaced the books upon the table. Saunders picked a couple of them up, and having adjusted his glasses he read the titles "Milton's Works" and a volume of a translation of "Dorner's Person of Christ."

"I saw yer brither the day. He maun be gettin a big practice."

"Aye!" said Robert Fraser very thoughtfully.

Saunders M'Quhirr glanced up quickly. It was of course natural that the unsuccessful elder brother should envy the prosperous younger, but he had thought that Robert Fraser was living on a different plane. It was one of the few things that the friends had never spoken of, though every one knew why Dr. Fraser did not visit his brother's little farm. "He's gettin in wi' the big fowk noo an thinks maybe that his brither wad dae him nae credit." That was the way the clash of the countryside explained the matter.

"I never told you how I came to leave the college, Saunders," said the younger man, resting his brow on a hand that even the horn of the plow could not make other than diaphanous.

"No," said Saunders quietly, with a tender gleam coming into the humorsome, kindly eyes that lurked under their bushy tussocks of gray eyebrows. Saunders' humor lay near the fountain of tears.

"No," continued Robert Fraser, "I have not spoken of it to so many, but you've been a good frien to me, Saunders, and I think you should hear it. I have not tried to set myself right with folks in the general, but I would like to let you see clearly before I go my ways to him who seeth from the beginning."

"Hear till him," said Saunders; "man, yer hoast (cough) is no' near as sair as it was i' the back end. You'll be here lang after me, but lang or short, weel do ye ken, Robert Fraser, that ye need no to pit yersel richt wi' me. Hev I no kenned ye since ye war the size o' twa scrubbers?"

"I thank you, Saunders," said Robert, "but I am well aware that I am to die this year. No, no, not a word. It is the Lord's will. It's more than seven years now since I first learned that my days were to be few. It was the year my faither died and left Harry and me by our lane.

"He left no siller to speak of, just plenty to lay him decently in the kirkyard among his forebears. I had been a year at the Divinity hall then and was going up to put in my discourses for the next session. I had been troubled with my breath for some time and so called one day at the infirmary to get a word with Sir James. He was very busy when I went in and never noticed me till the house took me. Then on a sudden he looked up from his papers and quietly said, 'Come into my room, laddie!' Aye, he was a good man and a faithful, Sir James, if ever there was one. He told me that with care I might live five or six years, but it would need great care. Then a strange, prickly coldness came over me, and I seemed to walk light headed in an atmosphere suddenly rarefied. I think I know now how the mouse feels under the air pump."

"What's that?" queried Saunders.

"A cruel ploy not worth speaking of," continued the stickit minister. "Well, I found something in my throat when I tried to thank him. But I came my ways home to the Dullarg, and night and day I considered what was to be done, with so much to do and so little time to do it. It was clear that both Harry and me could not go through the college on the little my faither had left. So late one night I saw my way clear to what I should do. Harry must go; I must stay. I must come home to the farm and be my own 'man,' then I could send Harry to the college to be a doctor, for he had no call to the ministry as once I thought I had. More than that, it was laid on me to tell Jessie Loudon that Robert Fraser was no better than a machine set to go five years.

"Now all these things I did, Saunders, but there's no use telling you what they cost in the doing. They were right to do, and they were done. I do not repent any of them. I would do them all over again were they to do, but it's been bitterer than I thought."

The stickit minister took his head off his hand and leaned back in his chair.

"The story went over the country that I had failed in my examinations, and I never said that I had not. But there were some that knew better who might have contradicted the report if they had liked. I settled down to the farm, and I put Harry through the college, sending all but a bare living to him in Edinburgh. I worked the work of the farm, rain or shine, ever since and have been for these six years the 'stickit minister' that all the world kens the day. Whiles Harry did not think that he got enough. He was always writing for more and not so very pleased when he did not get it. He was aye different to me, ye ken, Saunders, and he canna be judged by the same standard as you and me."

"I ken," said Saunders M'Quhirr, a spark of light lying in the quiet of his eyes.

"Well," continued Robert Fraser, lightened by Saunders' apparent agreement, "the time came when he was clear from the college and wanted a practice. He had been ill advised that he had not got his share of the farm, and he wanted it selled to share and share alike.

"Now I kenned and you ken, Saunders, that it's no worth much in one share, let alone two. So I got the place quietly bonded and bought him old Dr. Aitken's practice in Cairn Edward with the money. I have tried to do my best for the lad, for it was laid on me to be my brother's keeper. He doesna come here much," continued Robert, "but I think he's not so ill against me as he was. Saunders, he waved his hand to me when he was gaun by the day!"

"That was kind of him," said Saunders M'Quhirr.

"Aye, was it no?" said the stickit minister eagerly, with a soft look in his eyes as he glanced up at his brother's portrait in cap and gown which hung over the china dogs on the mantelpiece.

"I got my notice this morning that the bond is to be called up in November," said Robert, "so I'll be obliged to flit."

Saunders M'Quhirr started to his feet in a moment. "Never," he said, with the spark of fire alive now in his eyes, "never as lang as there's a beast on Drumquhat, or a poun in Cairn Edward bank," bringing down his clinched fist upon the Milton on the table.

"No, Saunders, no," said the stickit minister very gently. "I thank you kindly, but I'll be flitted before that."—Montreal Star.

Sea Water as Medicine.

When a bather at Coney Island the other day accidentally swallowed a big gulp of sea water and then rushed off to get a drink of whisky to take the taste out of his mouth, a successful medical practitioner who had witnessed the performance said:

"That man is either a greenhorn or a fool. Otherwise he would have taken merely a sip of lemonade and allowed the sea water to do its work. As a matter of fact, one of the most beneficial features of a sea bath is the salt water inadvertently swallowed by bathers. It is a wonderful tonic for the liver, stomach and kidneys. In many cases it will cure biliousness where all drug preparations have failed. It is peculiarly effective in ordinary cases of indigestion, disordered stomach and insomnia, and has been known to produce excellent results in many cases of dyspepsia. Sea water is full of tonic and sedative properties. It won't hurt anybody. Two or three big swallows of it would be of positive benefit to nine bathers out of ten. It isn't palatable or tempting, but neither is quinine or calomel. You never see an old sailor who is bilious, dyspeptic or a victim of insomnia, and why? For the reason that an ocean of good medicine spreads all about his ship, and he doses himself copiously with it whenever his physical mechanism becomes the least bit deranged."—New York Herald.

Cigars That Are Expensive.

"How often does one see 'Vuelta Abajo' written and printed on cigar boxes, and how seldom does one obtain a real Vuelta Abajo cigar!

"Tell you the reason why? Certainly," remarked the loquacious cigar man. "In the Abajo valley is a small, low piece of country about five miles from Havana, capable of producing tobacco enough to make about 30,000 cigars annually, or about one-quarter of the number smoked every six months in Washington. Without question the tobacco is the finest grown. The result is the kings and noblemen of England, Russia, Germany, France and the other European countries gobble them up. Every single cigar made of Vuelta Abajo tobacco is sold to them at prices ranging from $20 to $150 a hundred.

"Americans would never pay that price, especially when the $20 to $150 a hundred does not include the tariff, which would make the poorest quality of these cigars sell at 47 cents apiece at wholesale. These cigars are bought and paid for, too, by the way, long before the crop is ever harvested. Manufacturers, with that remarkable coolness with which some men are endowed, proceed to call all qualities and kinds of Cuban cigars 'Havana' and 'Vuelta Abajo,' when half of them never saw a cigar of that growth."—Washington News.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON V, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JULY 30.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xix, 1-12—Memory Verses, 2-8—Golden Text, John xvi, 13—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

1. "And it came to pass that while Apollos was at Corinth Paul, having passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus." From Corinth, where we left Paul in the last lesson, he returned to Antioch in Syria, taking with him Priscilla and Aquila as far as Ephesus, where he left them, promising to return, the Lord willing (18-21). After some time at Antioch he started on his third tour, and passing through Galatia and Phrygia, strengthening the disciples, came in due time to Ephesus. This Apollos of Alexandria, eloquent and mighty in Scripture, had meantime passed through Ephesus and had been greatly helped and enlightened by Aquila and Priscilla. How wonderfully the Lord provides teachers for those who are seeking to know Him! Consider the cases of Cornelius and the man of Ethiopia.

2. "And finding certain disciples he said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." There are many like these today who have heard of the love of God and of Jesus as a Saviour from the wrath to come, and they have received Him and are children of God (John i, 12), and therefore have the Holy Spirit in them as believers (I Cor. vi, 19; xii, 7), but yet know little or nothing about the Holy Spirit and have never received Him as their power for life and service. Compare John xiv, 17, with Luke xxiv, 49.

3. "And He said unto them, Unto what, then, were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism." This was as far as Apollos had taught them (19-25) and would include repentance, remission of sins and fruits meet for repentance and should have included an expectation of a baptism of the Holy Ghost (Luke iii, 3, 8, 16). It certainly meant salvation, but not necessarily special power for service.

4. "Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people that they should believe on Him which should come after Him—that is, on Christ Jesus." It was John's delight to cry, "Behold the Lamb of God!" and to point all to Him whose way he came to prepare (John i, 15, 27, 29, 30; iii, 28-30; Math. iii, 11). People are apt to follow the human leader, as did the Corinthians (I Cor. iii, 4), and too often the human leader loves to have it so. But such is not the spirit of Christ, for even He did not His own will nor sought His own glory, but ever sought the glory of the Father (John vi, 38; viii, 29, 50; xvii, 4).

5. "When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus." They had received the truth which they had heard and were living up to the light which they had received, and therefore were ready for more light. Now, when additional truth is brought to them they readily receive it and turn heartily to Him of whom John was the forerunner.

6. "And when Paul had laid his hands upon them the Holy Ghost came on them, and they spake with tongues and prophesied." Being baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus did not necessarily bring the gift of the Holy Spirit (Acts viii, 16). That seems to have been given in answer to special prayer and laying on of hands (Acts viii, 15, 17), though in the case of Cornelius and his company the gift of the Spirit was bestowed while Peter was speaking (Acts x, 44-46), and it was after that they were baptized. There seems to be no set way of receiving Christ or of being filled with the Spirit. The great thing is to receive Him the best way you know how, then trust Him to fill you with His Spirit as He pleases. Only "be filled" (Eph. v, 18).

7. "And all the men were about twelve"—as many as those whom Jesus chose and called unto Himself (Mark iii, 13-15); as many as the sons of Jacob, the tribes of Israel; as many as the gates of the New Jerusalem and the foundations of the same (Rev. xxi, 12, 14). It is the heavenly and earthly perfect numbers 3 and 4 multiplied. The full significance we will see some day.

8. "And He went into the synagogue and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God." He made no apologies for the truth, but believing all things written by Moses he spake boldly in the power of the Spirit (Acts xxiv, 14; iv, 29). Disputing means reasoning out of the Scriptures, as in chapter xvii, 2, while persuading indicates tender and loving entreaty. Thus he patiently and prayerfully opened to them the word of God concerning Jesus as the Christ.

9. "But when divers were hardened and believed not, but spake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus." When truth is rejected, the heart becomes hard ened, and when once the heart is turned away from the only light in this dark world the only prospect is the outer darkness where light never comes. Yet Jesus has taught us that only a portion of the seed will fall on good ground, and that tares will grow among the wheat until the harvest.

10. "And this continued by the space of two years, so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks." The province of Asia, in which were the seven churches of Revelation, is distinguished from the other provinces of Asia Minor in chapter xvi, 6. In this section of the country he testifies that for three years he ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears, teaching publicly and from house to house, keeping back nothing, and all the while with his own hands ministering to the necessities of himself and those who were with him (chapter xx, 31, 20, 34). Thus earning his own living he would have no occasion to fear losing a portion of his salary if the truth he preached should happen to hit some of his hearers rather severely.

11. "And God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul." Whether it be a miracle of healing of the soul or of the body, "it is God who worketh" (Phil. ii, 13). Whether it be wisdom or knowledge or faith or gifts of healing or miracles, it is all the work of the one self same Spirit dividing to every man severally as He will (I Cor. xii, 7-11). We will know His power more when instead of seeking Him to use Him for God we allow Him to take us and use us as He pleases.

12. "So that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them." There must have been some good reason for these special manifestations of the power of God in this unusual way—some special form of unbelief or devilry which needed just these manifestations—for the Spirit does nothing needlessly.

Until the reign of Queen Anne an English army officer was liable to have his tongue bored through with a hot iron for blasphemy.

The sultan has a right royal terror of smallpox, and he is very particular to have the household thoroughly vaccinated.

Christian Endeavorers In India.

The town is Madanapalle, in the Madras presidency. The white bullocks are hitched to the missionary wagon, into which we clamber for a ride of a mile or so from the mission bungalow to the center of the town. Beside the carriage on each side marches a row of Endeavorers, Ephraim and Isaiah, Isaac and Gabriel and Jacob and many other Scripture worthies, forming such an escort of Old Testament characters as we never expected to enjoy.

For awhile they march along in silence, but as we near the center of population our Endeavorers clang their cymbals and strike up a gospel song in Telugu. As they come to the more thickly peopled streets their singing becomes more vigorous, and before they get to the place of meeting they divide into three or four bands and march through the leading streets of Madanapalle singing at the top of their lungs the gospel invitation.

Slowly from street and alley and courtyard the crowd begins to gather, attracted by the singing, and all converge to a central spot under a spreading banyan tree.

A whitewashed wall on one side of the street serves as a white curtain for the magic lantern pictures, and in front of this the expectant people gather.

Now the preliminary services are over, and pictures from the life of Joseph are thrown upon the screen, while one of the missionaries explains, apparently greatly to the edification of the interested throng, the thrilling scenes in the life of Egypt's premier. Then a native pastor takes up the story and sends home the lesson.

Another hymn is sung, and another worker, this time one of the Christian Endeavorers, who is also a catechist, explains and expounds the life of Christ as the scenes are thrown upon the wall.

And so on for more than an hour the gospel is proclaimed to eye and ear. Scarcely any one leaves the circle of listeners. No one yawns, no one seems weary, but in stillness and reverence this audience of 300 heathen listen to the word of life. Who can tell what good seeds are there implanted, which may bring forth fruit, some a hundredfold?—Rev. Francis E. Clark in Golden Rule.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Suffered Every Minute
Since I came out of the war, with catarrh in my head, chronic diarrhoea and rheumatism, says Mr. J. G. Anderson, a well known blacksmith in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad at Scottdale, Pa. "I had pains all over me, my sight was dim, and there seemed to be floating specks before my eyes. The food I ate seemed like lead in my stomach. The rheumatism was in my right hip and shoulders. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills did me more good than everything else put together. They are the only medicines I use now. All my disagreeable symptoms have gone."

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday July 29 1893

"WE CAN BE PATIENT."

The Cobden club is in favor of everything which will advance British interests and is not at all interested in the welfare or prosperity of the United States. This club has hundreds of American members, who, if they are in harmony with the club, are not in harmony with the policy which is for the best interest of the country.

The proposed democratic tariff for revenue only was prepared by these bastard free traders who wear the badge of the Cobden club, and then as American democrats strive to bring about in this country a ruinous policy. Foremost among these Cobdenites of America is Thomas G. Shearman, who helped frame the proposed reform tariff, and who stands as an adviser of Grover Cleveland.

He has been on a visit to England, attended a Cobden club dinner and made a speech, from which the following passage is quoted:

> At least two or three millions of [illegible] of whom I am one, are determined to carry on the work of tariff reform until the tariff is removed out of existence. We are free traders. We look upon the Cobden club as conservative to the verge of toryism. [Laughter.] But we do not pretend to be in the majority just yet. We are convinced that the American people will not stop half way, as you have done, but we allow them ten or fifteen years to loiter along the road to absolute commercial freedom. The president of the United States and his secretary of state are just as good free traders today as Sir Robert Peel was in 1846. This I positively know. The secretary of the treasury is as good a free trader as Mr. Gladstone is today. I am sorry that he is not a better one, but we can be patient if you can. [Cheers.]

Shearman knows Cleveland and Gresham, and makes a positive assertion that they are in their free trade principles the compeers of Peel.

The condition of the country, Secretary Carlisle's folly and President Cleveland's silence have led the people to suspect that, and the fear of ruin are too apparent to need pointing out.

The free traders are in high places, but they cannot foist their policy upon a people who are opposed to free trade, and they will be routed at the polls when the time comes to settle the question.

SIAM AS A VICTIM.

In the issue between France and Siam there can be but one result—the wolf is sure to get the lamb. France has an ambition much larger than her grievance. The Siamese killed two or three French soldiers who assailed them, and France made a demand for indemnity. In proportion to the weakness of a nation the demand for indemnity is increased by powerful Christian nations. There is no justice in the claim, and it is a scandal upon the Christian world. France undoubtedly knows why she wants to extend her possessions in Cambodia, Cochin China and Tonquin by annexing not only the portion of Siam between her frontier and the Mekong river, but a large slice of territory to the west of it.

It is natural that China and other oriental nations should feel nettled by such a display of power brutally used, but why Great Britain, who has always been chief throttler of weak pagan nations, should have her feelings touched is not easy to explain, unless it is upon the ground of having lost one opportunity.

It is not strange that Christian missionaries in foreign countries find themselves handicapped in their work when bayonets, rum and morphine from the nations back of them oppress and demoralize the very people they are striving to save.

CRISIS MEETINGS.

Next week Tuesday there are to be two important meetings at Chicago which will attract the attention of the country because they are to consider the financial crisis and the place of silver in the monetary world. The bi-metallists and populists will meet and confer upon the silver question and the steps to be taken to prevent the establishment of the single gold standard, which they regard as an economic revolution more disastrous to the welfare of mankind than any revolution in the history of the world. The leaders will meet on this occasion to rally their forces for work in Washington as soon as congress opens. This convention may serve as a vent for impassioned declamations and bring to their second sober senses a class of men whose fears are excessive because their conclusions are wrong. The policy of the government should be to establish a sound and safe currency which will not interfere with a limited coinage of silver.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

"All we want is confidence!" exclaims a democratic exchange. That is what the country seemed to have plenty of under President Harrison.

When France gets Siam kidnapped, England will be in a calmer mood, and can realize what a picture of piracy a country presents who has followed her bad example.

We believe St. Simon is the only man who ever had a "niece" of the masculine gender; and probably the Norwich city charter is the only charter in the state distinguished for its Norman French.

The latest Brooklyn scheme for filling the pews of a church is the appointment of young women as ushers to entice the young men to go to meeting. This appears to be making a side issue of the pulpit.

A telegraphic money order for one hundred and fifty thousand dollars scooted across the continent from San Francisco New York the other day in a few minutes. It is said to have been the largest money order ever sent by wire.

Secretary Carlisle took down his spoilsman's broom on Wednesday and swept nineteen old republican clerks out of the treasury department. He assured them they were men of ability and integrity, but he preferred democrats.

From a veteran point of view the United States senate now stands sixteen Union soldiers to twenty confederates; but the most changeable man among the senators is said to be Calvin S. Brice of Ohio, who changes his shirt three times a day.

The silver champions of the west see that they are in a hopeless minority, and concede that the purchasing clause of the Sherman bill will be repealed. Stewart of Nevada in his despair says: "The country is going to Hades!" and Jones is sure the country is "gollyswashed!"

Gov. Waite of Colorado has reached a distinction he never could have anticipated. Harper's Weekly prints his portrait. He has the face of a priest and it gives no sign of the fury of his tongue when it is unbridled. Instead of looking for blood, he looks as though he might be looking for a Sunday school.

It looks as if Cleveland would have to recognize Hawaii as a child of the United States, and accept her as a charge. She has the impress of this country upon her, and if she can't look to the President of this country as a "Pa," by adoption at least, who on earth can she call father? Grover can not shake her with honor to himself or to his country.

Where most states in the union use a license system Ohio just operates with tax laws. She has got the liquor traffic well under control by taxing the saloons heavily, and now the tax law suppression is being applied to the cigarette business. The retailer has to pay $100 and the wholesaler $200 a year for the privilege of carrying on the business.

There are a great many men assaulting the silver dollar now who were never overburdened with it. We have always found the silver dollar a faithful ally, and we hope all those editors who think it is not worth continuing in existence will just express their condemned "cart-wheels" direct to us. It is the kind of old junk we could never get quite enough of.

Butte City, Montana, has been closely allied to Norwich for some time by its silver industries, and that may account for the superior sense of its citizens. They held a meeting upon the silver question recently and voted not to dissolve the union, but only to boycott every portion of the United States not in favor of free silver. If Butte City had boycotted Norwich fifteen years ago Norwich would not have been a loser on account of it.

The fake reporter never loses an opportunity to nourish the people who are hankering after sensations. Thursday, Lizzie Borden and her sister Emma called upon the keeper of the Taunton, Mass., jail, and a fellow with ink and imagination brought out a story that she had made a confession that she had committed the crimes for which she was tried and acquitted, and telegraphed it all over the country. The faker is always a man of ability, who sees no use of having horrors real so long as the public are satisfied with fictions.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

The Man From Aspen.

"In the name of ichthyology, conchology, psychology, biology and bacteriology what do you call this?" said a fisherman on the Massachusetts coast as he held up a creature that seemed to be something half way between the ichthyosaurus and a Rocky Mountain mule. "This is neither a 'hell-grummet' nor a mugwump." "That," said the skipper, "is a liability. What is a liability? Well, we call 'em liabilities because, in the first place, when we are fishing in these waters with this kind of a tide and a dragnet of this sort with a mesh as fine as this, and all sorts of bait from dollar wheat to free beer, we are more liable to catch 'em than we are any other kind of fish. Then again, after they're caught they're liable to flop round and stave a hole in the bottom of the boat if you don't throw 'em overboard. And the marketmen call them liabilities because they eat up the assets." "Ah! yes," said the fisherman, thoughtfully. "I remember we had just such a tide a year ago, and some of my friends set just such a dragnet and threw out all sorts of bait and caught just such a lot of queer creatures. They've been flopping round and threatening to knock a hole in the bottom of the boat ever since. Liabilities are they? Well, the best thing to do is to throw 'em overboard."

In such a tide as that of last November, with such a net as that thrown out by the Chicago convention, the fishermen had no reason to be surprised at anything in the catch—from a saurian to a sea serpent, from a tumble-bug to a bull calf.

Only one of the whole lot—one out of the Pennoyers and Altgelds and Tillmans and Lewellings and Stones and Waites—has any sort of reason for being, any genesis that can stand an analysis down to the sediment and residuum of first causes. That man is Davis H. Waite of Colorado, whom The Tribune has two or three times called off his perch for a little conversation on the subject of blood. Davis H. Waite is from Aspen, Col. He is a populist. Many persons have wondered how he came to be governor of Colorado. It's easy enough when you consider where he came from. Whoever reads the platform of the populists with care will see that when the populists of Colorado, assisted by the democrats of that state, began to look about for a candidate for governor the logic of the situation, the whole trend of events and the irresistible push of the large-hearted, wide-mouthed and extensive eared persons engaged in the movement sent them to Aspen. And then the law of selection compelled the choice of the biggest one in the pen.—[N. Y. Tribune.

What He Caught.

President Cleveland caught a shark the other day. On cutting the fish open, it was found to contain a carpet bag, two paper collars, a petition for appointment as postmaster at Wildcat City, Ga., and sixteen testimonials as to fitness and character.—[Boston Transcript.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered [illegible].

What's SOZODONT? 'Tis this you ask.
To answer is an easy task—
It is a liquid soft and sweet,
Which keeps teeth healthy, white and neat;
Which makes the rosy gums endure,
And renders breath, like roses, pure.

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."
Simply apply SWAYNE'S OINTMENT. No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, &c., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for SWAYNE'S OINTMENT.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

The simplest and best regulator of the disordered Liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in Sick Headache, Dizziness, Nausea, etc.; prevent [illegible] and Pimples from the Complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THE FUGITIVE.

I [illegible] I hid my face from God; I fled
Unto the bounds extreme of earth and sky.
There I sank down, a stone beneath my head,
And day and night—and day and night—passed by.

When I awoke, such peace around was shed,
Methought my fear I had escaped for aye.
I sought to kiss the stone beneath my head—
Lo! in God's bosom lost and saved I lay.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Leading Men Discussing the Silver Problem.

SILVER ADVOCATES' FALLACIES.

Repeal of the Sherman Act Would Not Cause Demonetization.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—In anticipation of the meeting of congress in 10 days, the secretary of the treasury and the Democratic leaders who are here are discussing the different phases of the silver question and the propositions which are likely to be presented in the way of compromises. The administration, it is ascertained, has no other proposition to make than the unconditional repeal of the silver purchasing provisions of the Sherman act.

"The assumption of the free coinage men that the repeal of that act will demonetize silver," the secretary says, "is absurd. There are 400,000,000 of coined silver dollars, and also the millions of ounces of silver bullion purchased under the Sherman act in the treasury. With this large quantity of coined and bullion silver in the treasury, the latter liable to coinage whenever required by congress, the assertions of the silver men in this respect are ridiculous."

The president and Secretary Carlisle fully understand that there will be many schemes proposed as Substitutes For the Sherman Act.

Many of these have already been talked over with the secretary of the treasury. The proposition suggested by Senator Vest and other Democrats interested in the silver question to increase the ratio from 16 to 20 or 22, as a compromise, is not regarded as feasible or practicable. In the words of the secretary, "Under such legislation every silver coin, standard or subsidiary, would have to be recoined. This fact alone precludes the possibility of that form of compromise. Then again," said the secretary, "the incessant fluctuations in the value of silver bullion might render constant changes necessary, and in the end would upset the whole monetary stability of the metal in circulation of the country. Therefore the proposition to change the ratio is not likely to receive serious consideration."

There are other schemes which will be discussed by congress as compromises, any one of which, if adopted by the two houses, would probably be sanctioned by the president if it is a reversal of the statutory provisions now in force. The restoration of the Bland act, which is being agitated, is not regarded in administration circles as any improvement on the Sherman act, and therefore would receive Prompt Disproval by the President.

In administration circles there is a confident feeling of the unconditional repeal of the Sherman act by the house, but they do not entertain the same confidence in the senate. A protracted struggle is regarded as likely to follow there. It is believed that if a direct vote could be had on the question of repeal, it would carry, although the vote would be very close.

The secretary, adverting again to the demonetization, remarked, "The repeal of the Sherman act would undoubtedly have an important influence in an international adjustment of the silver question, as it would show to the foreign governments that the United States is not wedded to a free coinage policy. The great commercial nations like England, France and Germany have been and are still fearful that this government proposes ultimately to adopt a silver basis. When they are assured that this is not the fact, I think the silver problem will have become of easy solution."

EXPLODED CONCERNS.

Summary of Bank Failures From May 1 to July 22 Inclusive.

BALTIMORE, July 28.—A summary of the bank failures in the United States from May 1 to July 22, inclusive, shows that 301 banking institutions, with a capital of $[illegible], suspended.

The Manufacturers Record publishes a complete list of the closed banks by states, also a table which shows that five-sixths of these failures and four-fifths of the capital involved were in the western and Pacific states, while only 12 per cent of the failures and 11 per cent. of the capital involved were in the South. In Colorado alone the capital involved was nearly $5,000,000, greater than the capital of all the banks that failed in the South.

The number of failures in the southern states was 37, involving $4,[illegible]; in the western and Pacific states the number was 221, involving $[illegible]; and in the eastern and northern states, 12, with $[illegible] capital.

FREIGHT PARTLY WRECKED.

Train Breaks Apart, Collision Follows But No One Is Injured.

MANSFIELD, Mass., July 28.—Shortly after midnight a way freight train from Boston, southbound, under the charge of Conductor Casey, was partly wrecked a quarter of a mile north of the passenger station here.

The train was approaching Mansfield from Sharon hill, and was running at the usual rate of speed, when the train parted. Before the engineer discovered it, the rear section crashed into the forward end, piling up and wrecking six cars, partly filled with freight.

Both main tracks were blocked for several hours, and quite a section of the railroad bed was torn up. The wreck was cleared at an early hour this morning. The trainmen escaped injury. The damage done will not exceed $1800.

NO SPECIAL TRAINS.

Transatlantic Mails Will Only Use Ordinary Railway Facilities.

LONDON, July 28.—Several questions were asked in the house of commons yesterday in regard to the transatlantic mail service.

Mr. Morley, the postmaster general replied that the postoffice department had decided to abandon as too costly the experiment that had been tried of forwarding the American mails to London by special train.

If a steamer arrived in Queenstown when the ordinary rail service could not be availed of, her mails could not be landed with advantage at that port; henceforth they would be taken to Liverpool.

Mr. Morley added that he did not think this plan would make much difference to those concerned.

ENGLISH TRADERS INDIGNANT.

Say Blockade Will Cut Off Communication With Houses in Bangkok.

PARIS, July 28.—The Havas agency has received this dispatch from Saigon: The opinion here is that military operations will follow the blockade, to secure to France material guarantees.

English traders in Singapore are indignant, and protest that the blockade will cut off communication with the English and German houses in Bangkok.

Hongkong traders, on the other hand, expect a great increase of business from the closing of the Bangkok market. They hope to send large supplies to Saigon as the French basis of hostilities.

REPORT CONFIRMED.

Managua Was Captured by the Rebels After Hard Fighting.

NEW YORK, July 28.—A cable to The Herald from Panama, Colombia, says: Telegrams received here confirm the report of the capture of Managua by the revolutionists on Tuesday.

Details just received say there was hard fighting and great loss of life on both sides. It is reported that 600 Hondurian troops, under Bonilla, fought with troops from Leon. The Leon troops were much more enthusiastic than those from Granada.

It is reported that during the fight a detachment from one of the government's garrisons in Managua deserted and joined the Leon troops under General Zelaya. General Zavala, with the government troops, has gone to Granada, where a strong defence will probably be made.

Communication has been cut off from all points in Nicaragua except Rivas and Granada. The situation is considered very serious. The United States ship Alliance arrived here yesterday from Callao. She is bound for Corrinto, Nicaragua.

At Bay in a Swamp.

BRAZIL, Ind., July 28.—Charles Cooprider, son of Rev. A. Cooprider, late Wednesday night, shot and instantly killed Thomas Kress, a young farmer, at Middlebury. He then rushed to his home near by, seized a shot gun, and defied the officers to arrest him. He in the meantime retreated to a swamp, where he is now surrounded by a posse of officers. He has abundant ammunition with him, and is holding the officers at bay.

Sullivan May Not Be Tried.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The court martial at Mare island to try J. C. Sullivan, paymaster of the Independence, charged with embezzlement and falsification of his accounts, reconvened yesterday. At the request of the accused and his attorney, a postponement was taken to await a telegram from Washington, which is expected to contain instructions to indefinitely postpone the trial.

Insurance Company Fails.

BANGOR, Me., July 28.—The Bangor Mutual Fire Insurance company has gone into the hands of a receiver. It was organized in 1858 and has done a local business. Its outstanding risks are about $2,500,000. The president, W. P. Hubbard, has been appointed receiver. For several years past its income has not been sufficient to meet its losses.

Four Horses Burned to Death.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 28.—About 10 o'clock this morning a barn owned by John Doherty at [illegible] Bedford street was destroyed by fire and four horses were burned to death. A cottage house and two large tenement buildings adjoining were also badly scorched. The losses will be about $1400 and are covered by insurance.

Protection From Strikers Asked.

MILWAUKEE, July 28.—Governor Peck last night received a dispatch from Shores' Lumber company of Ashland, asking him to call out a portion of the National Guard to protect its property from strikers. The governor wired he could not extend the assistance unless it was requested by the mayor or sheriff.

Wire Nail Factories Closed.

PITTSBURG, July 28.—The wire nail manufacturers held a meeting here yesterday, and in view of the depressed condition of the business it was decided to continue the shutdown until Sept. 1. All the wire nail factories in the United States are shut down at present.

Will Be His First Pastorate.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., July 28.—Rev. Frederick Edwards of Cambridge has accepted a call to become pastor of the Trinity Episcopal church of this town. He is about 25 years of age, and a graduate of the Cambridge Episcopal college. It will be his first pastorate.

Leader of Lynchers Arrested.

DENVER, July 28.—At midnight last night the streets were deserted and everything was quiet. C. W. Brennan, who led the mob that lynched the Italian murderer, has just been arrested. The real charge against him is murder in having caused the hanging.

Strike of Rich Hill Miners.

RICH HILL, Mo., July 28.—A general strike of all the miners of this district was inaugurated yesterday. The men want the privilege of organizing themselves into unions and an increase in wages. From 1800 to 2000 men are out.

Whole Town Destroyed.

CLEVELAND, July 28.—A Press special from Oberlin says that half of Wakeman, a little town in Huron county with a population of 600, has been destroyed by fire.

French Blockade Begins Today.

PARIS, July 28.—The city was startled this morning by the semi-official announcement that the French blockade of the Siamese coast will be put in operation today. Fifteen hundred of the troops forming the foreign legion have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to depart for Siam.

Schooner Aldine Crippled.

LONDON, July 28.—The schooner Aldine from Rockport, Me., July 15, for Port de Paix, Hayti, which put into Bahia for repairs, has been surveyed, and the surveyors recommend that she discharge her cargo, as she is leaking badly and her upper works are damaged.

Ports Infected With Cholera.

LISBON, July 28.—The Portuguese government has declared Naples and all the ports of Senegal to be infected with cholera, and all the ports between Gaeta, 40 miles northwest of Naples, and Salerno, 25 miles southeast of Naples, to be suspected of infection.

Eighth Regiment Reunion.

SALEM, July 28.—The annual reunion of the Eighth regiment association will be held next Tuesday at Gloucester. The business meeting will be held at 10 a. m., after which there will be an excursion and dinner at the Mason house.

Cholera In France.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Surgeon Martin of the navy, on duty at Marseilles, cables Dr. Wyman, surgeon general of the Marine hospital, today, that cholera prevails at La Valette and Aubenas, France.

Won the World's Record.

NEW YORK, July 28.—J. Walter Kennedy won the world's record for a straight hand lift yesterday, raising a dead weight of 1905 pounds clear from the floor twice in [illegible].

To mend small holes in plastering use one part plaster of paris and three parts fine sand; mix with cold water and apply with a small knife.

Cream colored Spanish lace can be cleaned and made to look like new by rubbing it in dry flour. Rub as if washing in water, then take it out of doors and shake all the flour out.

The three essentials for a pleasant room, says Alice Donlevy, are space, the opposite of crowd and clutter; form, the opposite of chaos and confusion, and color, the opposite of black.

CASHIER MISSING.

Charles F. Morrill is Gone from Manchester.

LAST SEEN ON WEDNESDAY.

Rumors of Deficiencies in Institutions He Was Associated With.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 28.—Charles F. Morrill, cashier of the National Bank of the Commonwealth, which suspended Monday night, also the treasurer of the Derryfield Savings bank and of the People's Fire Insurance company, is missing. He has not been seen in Manchester since Wednesday morning, and it is supposed that he left the city on the 11 o'clock train.

The only intelligence of him since was his resignation as treasurer of the People's Fire Insurance company, which was received by mail yesterday by the president, although the handwriting is said not to have been Mr. Morrill's.

There are ugly rumors of deficiencies in all the institutions with which he was connected, the truth of which investigations now in progress will determine within a few days. The finance committee of the People's Fire Insurance company expect to make a report tomorrow.

Mr. Morrill's bond as treasurer of the Derryfield savings bank is signed by Hon. J. C. Moore, president of the suspended bank of the Commonwealth, Alonzo Elliott of the suspended bank of New England and Frank Dowst, the leading member of the contracting and building firm of the Head & Dowst company.

Before being associated with the financial institutions above named Mr. Morrill was cashier of the First national bank for many years. Prior to the present financial troubles he bore an excellent reputation.

Letter Carrier Sues Uncle Sam.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 28.—The first of a series of novel suits against the United States was begun yesterday by William P. Mariana, a letter carrier, who sues for salary for 1548 hours overtime which he says he has been compelled to work. He claims $[illegible], which he says he is entitled to by an act of congress limiting letter carriers' hours of work. Sixty others will begin similar suits. The law providing for eight hours work went into effect in 1888.

Great excitement at Waltham, Mass., over the announcement of a large reduction of workmen in the watch factories there.

Orders Cancelled at Fitchburg.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 28.—The Sentinel says editorially, which is an unfortunate fact: A month ago all the manufacturers in this city had orders enough ahead to keep their men at work till September, some longer than that. At the present time orders are being cancelled daily, and the manufacturers are afraid to go ahead on what orders remain. Another department of the Putnam machine works has shut down.

China In Her Path.

LONDON, July 28.—The Pekin correspondent of The Standard says: While China is not likely to attempt to enforce her suzerain rights so long as the scene of conflict shall be limited to the Menam and the lower Mekong, I can state positively on the highest authority that she is fully determined to uphold her dominion on the upper Mekong. If France encroaches above lat. 21 degrees she will find China in her path.

Mass Meeting to Discuss Silver.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Aug. 1 is the day set for a general mass meeting of the laboring people to be held on the lake front to discuss the silver question. Since the present financial stringency started the labor leaders and officers of the various unions have been discussing the plan of holding a large mass meeting, at which the views of the laboring class could be heard.

Rajah Stays Another Day.

BOSTON, July 28.—The Rajah has decided to stay over until tomorrow at 11 o'clock, when he will start for Saratoga. After lunch today carriages were taken for Harvard university, and after an inspection of the college buildings a return was made to Boston, and the Institute of Technology and other places of public interest in that section of the city visited.

Restricting Coal Output.

GLASGOW, July 28.—A conference of Scottish miners was held here today to consider the crisis in the coal mining industry, brought about by the refusal of the Miners' Federation to accept any reduction in their wages. The conference decided to restrict the Scotch output by ordering the men to work only four days in a week.

Widow Dies of Heart Failure.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 28.—Elizabeth Freeman, a widow, aged [illegible], died of heart failure last night. She retired at 8 in her customary health, after having conversed with her son until he departed on a fishing trip. He returned at 5:30, and found her dead on the lounge in another room.

At a special meeting of Company C., C. N. G., last evening, it was unanimously voted to accept the bill of fare submitted by the state for the coming encampment.

FROM CHICAGO ON FOOT.

Two Pedestrians Stop Over Here En Route to Boston.

Two men arrived in town last night from Chicago. That fact would not count for much except that the men referred to had walked from Chicago. They are trying to beat the record, and so far are ahead of time. They left Chicago July 1 at seven in the morning, expecting to walk from that city to Boston in thirty five days. The trip was made as the result of a bet, the amount wagered being $300, that they would not be able to walk the distance within the time limited. They are ahead of time. When they left Chicago each man had only $10, and of that amount for actual expenses they have spent only twenty-two cents each. This money was spent in ferriage. They are Eugene Comstock and Frank E. Durkee. They are in good physical condition.

MR. SLATER'S NEW YACHT.

A Queen of the Seas to Be Built by the Bath Iron Works.

Captain C. W. Scott, late of the yacht Sagamore, and prospective commander of Mr. W. A. Slater's new magnificent piece of marine architecture, left the city Friday night for New York city. The contract for the vessel will be awarded before the end of next week to the Bath Iron works, and her construction will be commenced immediately. Two hundred and twenty-seven feet in length and fifteen feet of water, the boat will doubtless be one of the largest floating palaces in the world.

Captain Scott will superintend the building of the new vessel, and no better selection could have been made. Thoroughly versed in all the details of his craft, no navigator is more admired and respected than he.

AN ITALIAN COUNTESS.

Formerly a Popular Groton Girl—Her Book on Lace Making.

Countess Cora A. di Brazza Savorgnana Slocomb, who resides in Groton, is the daughter of Mrs. Cuthbert H. Slocomb of Groton Heights, who occupies an elegant house near the war monument. The marriage was a love match and Miss Slocomb and the Count di Brazza first met in Washington. The count was an attache of the Italian legation at Washington eight years ago, where he met Miss Slocomb. Seven years ago they were married and their life together has been a happy one. The count is at present in Chicago attending to his duties as commissioner from Italy to the World's fair.

The countess is a beautiful woman, much beloved by the townspeople. She has written a book which has just been issued, descriptive of "old and new lace in Italy." It is gracefully dedicated to her majesty, Queen Margherita of Italy, and treats of the lace industry in general.

BEST ON THE SOUND.

Progress on the New Norwich & New York Transportation Co. Boat.

President Thomas Clark of the Norwich & New York Transportation company returned Thursday from a trip to Bath, Maine, to take a look at the steamer City of Lowell, now building for the company at the Bath Iron works. He expresses himself as greatly pleased with the steamer and the progress the builders have made up to date.

From present appearances the City of Lowell will be ready for launching early in September, but of course there will be a great deal of work to be done on the steamer after she leaves the stocks, so that December will probably roll around before she is ready to be passed over to the company, the date fixed by the contract. In size, speed and appointments she will be the superior of the best on Long Island sound.

If you've any Saturday trading to do keep these items fresh in your mind.

There is no better way to get all the advantages of trading than by following closely these advertisements.

Women's Waists.

Mid-summer? Hardly! Why, the season for Waists is at its height, you will say. Very true, but, nevertheless, we are going to offer you three lots of Women's White Lawn Waists at prices that will set the women thinking.

Why, the bare material in any one of these three lots would cost more at retail than we ask for the finished garment.

We believe in people buying what they please with their own money, but if we were giving advice as to how to invest money we would say "Buy Shirt Waists." Here they are:

Ladies' White Lawn Waists, 39c each, reduced from 58c.

Ladies' White Lawn Waists, 79c each, reduced from $1.

Your pick of any White Lawn Waist in our store that retails from $1.25 to $2, for $1.

Neckwear.

Get a man a Tie and you'll find he is sure to tell you it is just what he wants. Every man can use conveniently four or five Ties at this season. Every man can afford four or five at this price.

25c for any Four-in-hand Tie in the store. Some have been 50c, some even 75c.

Outing Shirts

The $1.50 grade of the Eagle brand Men's Negligee Shirts have been all ticketed $1.19.

At that price they are the best value in Outing Shirts that are offered.

Underwear.

Ladies' Combination Suits at less than half price. 49c for a Combination Suit that sold for $1. All sizes, in short sleeves and knee lengths.

Men's Fine Ribbed Shirts and Drawers—made from Sea Island Cotton—the softest and best fitting summer underwear in the market, 67c each, have been 75c.

Hosiery.

Three interesting Hosiery items:

Boys' Heavy Ribbed Hose, all sizes, 17c a pair, 3 for 50c; regular value 25c.

Children's Black Ribbed Hose, sizes 5 to 9—extra good value—19c a pair, 3 for 55c, have been 25c.

All our Women's 37 1-2c Black Hose for 29c a pair, 3 for 85c. This is a particularly interesting Hosiery item.

Solid Comfort.

A good opportunity to swing a Hammock, and it won't cost much either.

A good quality Hammock for 89c, former price 75c.

Better grade for 75c, former price $1 25.

OPINIONS OF THE FRENCH PRESS.

What the Leading Paris Papers Say About the Ultimatum.

"ENGLAND SUFFERS A CHECK."

French Cabinet Congratulated Upon Its Firmness and Vigilance.

PARIS, July 30.—The Debats commends the cabinet for having acted with an energy which merited the rich reward now placed in its hands.

The Paix says: "The government has shown that it understands better than any other has understood how to make the interests and honor of the country respected. We cannot but remark in this connection that the extremely culpable administration and insinuations indulged in by the English have exceeded in a marked degree anything before published."

The Figaro says: "England has suffered a moral if not a material check. Her influence in the far east is diminishing in the extreme, while French influence is increased."

The Estafette thinks that Great Britain as well as Siam built false hopes early in the dispute on the supposition that France would show hesitation and weakness.

The Petit Journal says: "The government is still bound to exercise great watchfulness and we feel assured that it will not be found wanting in this respect."

The Echo de Paris and The Evenement insist upon the necessity of obtaining from Siam material guarantees of the fulfilment of France's demands. The former adds: "Siam yielded only because she saw that England was [illegible]posed to support her except by words."

The Siecle says: "The outcome of the affair is a check to the British policy and a victory of French diplomacy. This is all the more significant because England persistently created difficulties for France."

The Voltaire's opinion is: "The country will doubtless express itself very clearly concerning the part France should play in Europe, especially regarding the hostile attitude it is necessary towards England."

The Journal Nationale urges that special attention be given now to the boundary question since England is certain to intervene.

The Liberte congratulates the cabinet upon its dexterity, vigilance and firmness. "We feel no apprehension," it says, "for the view in prospect is that the French will have the English as neighbors, for France will remain in her own territory as she does in Chandernagor and Pondicherry. France is not seeking colonial expansion in that direction."

What the London Papers Say.

LONDON, July 30.—The Daily Graphic says: "Siam acted with indubitable wisdom. Between the apathy of Great Britain and the hostility of France she had no choice. On the surface it looks as if Great Britain received a check, but her prestige is only arranging effectually a safeguard to British commercial interests. Now a protectorate over the whole of Siam west of the Mekong is necessary to restore the prestige. Anything short of this would be a humiliating defeat for England."

The Times' Bangkok correspondent telegraphs: "When the French seized the Siamese ship Chantoboon the native crew, unaware of the blockade, were panic stricken and deserted the ship. Thereupon the French boarded her and ran her aground. The seizure is regarded as illegal."

Stranded in a Pullman Car.

BALTIMORE, July 30.—Nathan Toomer, a wealthy colored citizen of Augusta, Ga., has entered suit in the Baltimore courts against the Pullman Palace Car company for $100,000 damages. Mr. Toomer and his wife, who was a sufferer from nervous trouble, left Baltimore on June 7 for their home, after an exciting experience here over the attempted abduction of their daughter from a convent by her stepbrother. On their way south the Pullman car was switched off at Columbia, and, Mr. Toomer asserts, was allowed to remain for twenty-four hours in the freight yard, exposed to the scorching sun and the noise made by the constantly passing engines. Mrs. Toomer became much excited, and a physician was called in. He accompanied her to Augusta, where she died next morning.

Mrs. Toomer was the daughter of William Dickson, inventor of the [illegible] press, who left her nearly $1,000,000

Women Dragged the Priest From the Church.

[illegible], July 30.—Father Barabasz, pastor of the Holy Rosary church (Polish), was roughly handled by some of his parishioners Saturday morning. The trouble at Holy Rosary church began several months ago by a division of the congregation over the appointment of Father Barabasz to the pastorate. As Father Barabasz entered the church Saturday he was attacked by two women and dragged into the street. Here a crowd of people had gathered. Michael Kiamonski attacked the priest and encouraged the mob to offer violence. The police interfered and several arrests were made. Father Barabasz will be guarded by a special detail until the trouble is settled.

Opinion of the Rev. James Boyle on Business Depression.

WARE, Mass., July 30.—The Rev. James Boyle, rector of All Saints Catholic church in this town, addressed 1,400 persons in his church this morning on the present depression in business and the lockout of 1,500 persons yesterday by the shut down of the Otis company's mills in this town. The Rev. James Boyle, who is a strong republican in politics, declared that no just reason can be given for the depression in business, and gave it as his opinion that the mills now being shut down will be running night and day by the first of October to make up for lost time. He condemns those who were drawing their money from the savings banks and advises them to return it at once, as this country was never in a more prosperous condition.

California Fruit in Demand.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Sixty-two car loads of various kinds of California fruit, the largest quantity ever received at this part of the season, were sold in New York last week. The Bartlett pears are exceptionally fine this year.

$140,000 Loss by Fire.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 30.—The L. H. Harris Drug company's store was burned today, and the A. G. Henderson drug store was damaged by water. Loss $140,000.

Wheelmen Banquetted.

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., July 30.—One hundred and thirty members of the Hartford club were banquetted at the Brighton Beach hotel [illegible] by the Kings county wheelmen.

INDIGNANT VETERANS.

Democratic G. A. R. Men Denounce President Cleveland.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—The Simpson Grove Methodist camp meeting set Friday apart for special G. A. R. services. There was a great outpouring of veterans from this part of the state. The feature of the ceremonies was the speech of Capt. J. Grimm, a well known Philadelphia democratic politician. He said he had voted for Cleveland three times, but he denounced the president and Hoke Smith for their attitude toward the old soldiers. Captain Grimm declared that Cleveland by his course in treating with pensioners adopts the principles of the southern lynchers, who try their victim after they have hanged him. The speaker said that the democratic party was receiving a wound from this administration that it would never recover from.

Capt. McCormick and other prominent veterans denounced Cleveland, Hoke Smith and Commissioner Lochren.

The Advance Guard Arriving at Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The advance guard of members of the fifty-third congress, coming to attend the special session which will begin a week from tomorrow, are at the capital. There are not many of them and the probabilities are that but few congressmen will be in the city before next Saturday. Among those who have arrived the opinion seems to be unanimous that the Sherman law will and must be repealed, or at least the silver purchasing clause, but what shall follow is an unknown quantity.

Representative Geary, known to fame in connection with the Chinese exclusion and registration act which bears his name, says: "I am satisfied that the Sherman law will go and in its stead we will have something of benefit instead of harm. There will be radical changes in the tariff schedule. The country expects this. The declarations of the democratic platform are so plain that there is no chance to misunderstand them. I do not think that action on the silver question or the tariff will be so long delayed as some papers and persons seem to have imagined.

Collapse of a 7-Story Building.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—At 11 10 o'clock Saturday a seven-story brick and iron building, at Spring Alley and Ninth street, owned by the Second National bank, collapsed and crumbled to the ground. About forty workmen were seated inside the building eating their dinners. Some one of their number detected a crumbling of the structure and gave a shout of warning. The men rushed for the street and all escaped, except two, who are supposed to be buried in the ruins. The building was being rearranged for office purposes and a new three-story addition was in process of erection upon the old and weak walls.

[illegible] Sunday Was Passed at Gray Gables.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., July 30.—President Cleveland spent Sunday quietly at Gray Gables. The day was passed on the veranda with Mrs. Cleveland and Dr. Bryant. At 6 o'clock President Cleveland and Dr. Bryant drove to the station and Dr. Bryant boarded the train. The president then returned to Gray Gables. Before going Dr. Bryant said that his visit at Gray Gables was ended. He [illegible] west with his family, and then he would return to New York.

Objected to a Tramp's Washing Himself in West Haven Reservoir.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 30.—August Schlagel endeavored this afternoon to prevent a tramp from bathing in the reservoir at West Haven. The tramp became enraged, drew a revolver and fired four shots at Schlagel, two of which took effect, one in the arm and the other in the shoulder. The wounds are painful in character, but not necessarily dangerous. The tramp made his escape clad only in a pair of trousers, and the police are looking for him.

Their Western Trip Postponed.

NIANTIC, July 30.—John Peabody and Eolie Dyer, two boys residing here, took it into their heads recently that they wanted a change of air, or at least scene. Accordingly, on Tuesday, they left their native heath, bound for the west, first, so it is rumored, confiscating some $37 belonging to the father of one of the boys. Search was at once instituted for the missing lads, but it was not until some two days later that they were overhauled, they being in the act of going into camp near South Lyme. It is probable that their proposed western trip will be deferred for the present.

Sword Contest Postponed.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 30.—The broadsword contest and picnic announced for Saturday at Union grove was postponed until Tuesday next on account of the rain. Both the contestants—Capt. Bryan E. Lynn and Chevalier Orlofsky—were in the city and anxious to meet. The contest and picnic are to be given under the auspices of the Hartford Rowing club.

No Dull Times in Meriden.

MERIDEN, July 30.—Meriden manufacturers are holding their own with those of any other New England city. After the usual July shut down for inventory and repairs nearly all the factories have resumed operations. Orders are slow, but there are hopes of a fairly good fall trade. The local merchants find that money is reasonably plenty and the banks are all right.

A Long-Distance Bicycle Record Broken.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—Late Friday night Charles Petticord, a well known Pittsburg wheelman, completed a twenty-four hour run on his wheel, breaking the record of this country, previously held by Jenkins, who recently traveled 306½ miles in twenty-four hours. Between 1 a. m. and 11.55 p. m., Friday Petticord traveled over country roads a distance of 325 miles.

Boot and Shoe Dealer Assigns.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 30.—Prebble Bros., boot and shoe dealers, running three stores in this city, have made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. Liabilities, about $17,000; assets, $19,500. They have been in business for a great many years.

Killed on the B. & M.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 30.—Michael Hughes, aged 55, was fatally injured by being run over by the 11 o'clock train on the Boston & Maine railroad, near Bradford station last night, and died soon after the accident. He was formerly a clerk at the Hotel Webster in this city. He leaves no family.

World's Fair Executive Officer Dead.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Ex State Senator Donald McNaughton of Rochester, N. Y., chief executive officer of the New York state exhibit at the World's fair, died at the New York state building at the World's fair grounds today. He was 66 years old.

WHIPPED HER MONEY KEEPER.

A Financial Manager Attacked by a Wealthy Long Island Miss.

ASKED HER FOR MONEY,

And Being Refused She Proceeded to Give Him a Thrashing.

GREENPORT, L. I., July 30.—Miss Lise Champion, one of the wealthiest residents of this place, Friday kicked and beat her financial manager, Manager Wells. Miss Champion is about 30, a brunette, high tempered and vivacious. Miss Champion has had her property managed by Mr. Wells. Yesterday morning she decided to visit some friends residing in New London, Conn. She did not have sufficient money with her and called at Wells' office. She asked for some money and Wells declined to give it to her, saying he had none.

Miss Champion became enraged and savagely attacked her manager. She knocked his hat off, kicked him and broke her umbrella over his head. Miss Champion continued her attack on the sidewalk. A crowd quickly gathered and Wells finally returned the attack.

The office is on Front street, but a short distance from the bay, and when Wells grabbed Miss Champion he started to carry and drag her toward the water, with the evident intention of throwing her in. His son and William Phillips, who came up at the moment, interfered. They took Miss Champion away and Mr. Wells reentered his office. He was rather badly beaten.

Miss Champion has been before the public several times before. Five years ago it was alleged she was insane and the matter came to trial. She won, although the evidence to the contrary was very strong. Mr. Wells is a prominent lumber and coal dealer, and last fall ran for supervisor on the republican ticket.

GOLD FOR AMERICA.

Two Million Pounds to be Shipped Within Two Weeks.

LONDON, July 30.—During the last week the rate of long discount has been 2 per cent., short discount ¾ per cent. The tendency is steadily upwards. It is understood that the payment of £2,000,000 of gold will be shipped to the United States within the next two weeks, and the belief is that several millions of pounds will be sent over before the end of the year. The sentiment was last week that the worst was over. Business has been almost suspended. Saturday an easier feeling was notable. Foreign securities have been steady, and the Siamese complications have had little effect on the market. The Paris bourse also suffered little in the uncertain attitude. Prices were fairly firm, although most foreign securities declined somewhat.

A Distinguished Irishman Sails for America.

LONDON, July 30.—Edward O'Flaherty sailed from Queenstown today on steamer Umbria for America. The Cork Parnell [illegible] made a great demonstration with bands, flags and a meeting at which the [illegible]. In response to the addresses of the local Parnell leaders, Mr. O'Flaherty spoke at considerable length concerning Irish politics. He criticised severely the leaders of the Irish national federation in the United States.

Bridgeport Young Lady Wanders Away in a Fit of Temporary Insanity.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 30.—Anna Orr, daughter of Charles S. Orr, living at Holland heights, near this city, in a temporary loss of reason, caused by sickness, eluded the vigilance of her watchers last night and left the house through a window. She was attired in a skirt and one shoe.

Search was at once instituted, by her father and the neighbors, but no trace of her whereabouts was secured last night. Tonight the police were notified and a party of fifty men searched the woods and swamps for a mile around. The girl is 17 years old, has dark hair and eyes and is well developed. The search will be instituted.

Yellow Fever on Board.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The steamer Dorset, which arrived here today reports that in January and February while in Santos she lost eight men by yellow fever. Chief Engineer R. Peters, third engineer Peal, Donkey Engineer Van Tern Wingert, Chief Officer F. Page and four of the crew.

Capt. J. W. Corbet of the American ship Amy, whose crew had been carried off by yellow fever and whose vessel was looted by the natives, took passage in the Dorset and also died of the fever.

A Church Destroyed by Lightning.

VANDALIA, Ill., July 30.—While a heavy storm was raging here Friday night lightning struck the Lutheran church and burned it to the ground.

SUNDAY NEWSPAPER TRAINS.

An Enlarged Government Service Urged by New York Journals.

The Times and Tribune of New York are waging an aggressive campaign to have the government run early Sunday morning newspaper trains out of New York. The idea is to have the government take control of and extend the special Sunday morning newspaper train service, which has heretofore been supported entirely by the private enterprise of the New York newspapers.

The government could carry mails on these early Sunday morning trains, and the trains might also be used for passenger traffic, provided this would not interfere with the fast schedule on which it would be necessary for the trains to travel. The newspapers would pay for the privilege of using these trains at the same rate that they pay for the use of all regular mail facilities; that is, at the standard rate fixed by law, of 2 cents per pound for newspapers. This is the basis of compensation fixed by the government for distributing newspapers in its regular mail trains every day in the week. Under this arrangement the newspapers would bear their full just share of the cost of distribution by the early Sunday morning trains.

Thomas Burgess, business manager of The New York Morning Journal, in speaking of the plan, said to a Times reporter:

"To give you an idea of the extent and strength of the demands for the New York Sunday newspapers, I will mention the case of Nowalsky, the newsdealer in Norwich, Conn., who drove forty miles to Hartford and back every Sunday morning all winter through all kinds of weather in order to get New York papers from the special newspaper train."

Sealing Poaching Denied.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 30.—Collector Milne denies the American stories that British Columbia sealers have been poaching in Bering sea. To get into the sea would require to go through the passes of the Aleutian islands or go to Copper island, points which are well guarded. New information from the schooner Geneva at Akishi, Japan, June 27, says she had 1,800 skins, the W. H. Hall had 778, the Theresa 800 and Penelope 1,800. The seals are all disappearing from the Japan seas and going north.

Four-Year-Old Boy Terribly Burned.

NORWALK, Conn., July 30.—Ephriam, a 4 year-old son of S. P. Spicer, contractor and builder, living on Walter avenue, set his dress on fire while playing with matches today. His clothing was completely burned off and his body horribly blackened and charred. He will probably die.

Refuse to Work with Non-Union Men.

BOSTON, July 30.—The steam fitters, plumbers, plasterers, and other union workmen engaged on the structure being erected by the trustees of the House of the Good Shepherd have refused to work longer on the building until twenty non-union carpenters and eight non union painters employed by the contractors have been discharged or join the unions. The union men claim that the working people support the institution. Tomorrow the building trades council will call upon all working men to remain from the building until a satisfactory settlement has been made with the unions.

Dropped Dead on His Way to Church.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 30.—Mr. F. H. Fuller, a well known society man, dropped dead of heart disease on his way to church this morning. He had been troubled with enlargement of the heart.

Taftville.

Saturday Taftville people observed the day by going to the seashore. The Catholic societies went to Block Island on the City of Richmond, and the Taftville Sunday school went to Watch Hill on the Block Island.

Mr. Thomas Sharples and wife spent Sunday with relatives in New London.

Mr. Fred Blakely of Boston is visiting friends here.

Mr. George Havens, formerly of this place, now of Lynn, Mass., is visiting friends.

Miss Mabie Naismith is visiting relatives in New Bedford.

Miss Nellie Smith of New Bedford is the guest of Taftville friends.

Miss Alice Boardman has returned from a visit in Fall River.

Mr. Joseph Robinson, Jr., leaves tonight with his aunt, Miss Lucy Chapman, for the World's fair.

LIGHTNING'S ANTICS IN SCOTLAND.

Anthony Parkins' House Damaged, But His Family Unharmed.

Among the many freaks of lightning, far and near, in the tempest that came last Wednesday, one of the most remarkable thunderbolts was a flash that hit the dwellinghouse of Anthony Parkins of Scotland. In the house were six persons, including Mrs. Parkins and three children, with two other persons. The bolt seems to have hit a tall tree near the house, and then struck the house. Just where it struck does not appear to be certain for, while it seemed to come down the chimney it also seems to have entered nearly every room in the house. That nobody was killed is perhaps the most remarkable fact about it. Two or three were more or less stunned and Mrs. Parkins was prostrated just as she was in the act of lifting a dipper full of cold water over a kettle on the kitchen stove, being about to pour it into the kettle. The stroke threw her arm up and threw the cold water into her face, as she fell backward—and this, it is thought, helped to revive her. Beyond being stunned completely, she was not seriously hurt. The floor beam, over which she stood, was broken and split into a hundred splinters, and twisted all out of its position. The lightning seemingly struck it after passing through Mrs. Parkins—though why it did not kill her, is not clear. The tree was splintered, the ceilings and joints in different rooms of the house were broken, and a general wrecked appearance was for awhile presented when the different rooms were examined.

THE CAMPANIA'S OFFICIAL TIME.

It Falls Forty-five Minutes Below the Paris Record.

HER OWN RECORD BROKEN.

Holds the Pennant for Making the Most Knots in One Day.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The time of the big Cunard steamer Campania in her race for the Queenstown record was five days, fifteen hours and nine minutes. The Campania fell forty five minutes below the Queenstown record of five days, fourteen hours and twenty-four minutes, established by the American line steamer Paris.

The Campania broke her own last record between Queenstown and New York, which was five days, fourteen hours and thirty-seven minutes. The big Cunarder made a good daily average, yet she made no such phenomenal runs as she has made on previous trips. Her daily runs were: 491, 518, 514, 511, 519 and 343 knots. The Campania holds the record for steaming the greatest number of knots ever travelled by an ocean liner in one day. Her best performance was 549 knots.

EXPRESS MESSENGER HELD UP.

The Robbers Secure $7,900 and Make Good Their Escape.

WICHITA, July 30.—At 9.30 last night a telephone message was received at the Pacific Express company's office, asking that the wagon be sent to Wichita creamery on its way to the 10.35 o'clock Rock Island train. Arriving at the creamery the wagon was met by a man who jumped upon the seat and directed the driver to drive around to the rear. When the wagon entered the alley two men with pointed revolvers ordered the driver and messenger to hold up their hands. They obeyed, and the messenger was then compelled to open the safe, which held $7,900 of silver and currency about to be shipped to the south. The robbers dumped the money into a sack and escaped. There is no clue to their identity.

Cycling Events at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—The first meeting in this city of the National Cycling association better known as the cash prize league, took place before 4,000 enthusiasts at New Sportsman's park this afternoon. H. C. Wheeler won the first event, C. W. Ashinger won the second after a hot contest with Frank Albert, Kluge won the ten mile handicap after a furious windup with Albert. Wheeler started but quit after racing three miles. Fuhrman was awarded first money in the last event, because no other novices started.

The Telescope Editor Shut Up.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., July 30.—Elmer Keyes, editor of The Tunnel City Telescope, for whom the police have been looking since July 4, was arrested Saturday night. In the latter part of June Keyes completed a term in the jail at Pittsfield for libelous statements in his paper, and returning to North Adams announced that he would resume publication of The Telescope. The number was printed out of town and appeared July 4. It contained an article by the editor attacking members of the police force. The whole edition was seized by the police and the selling agent was arrested. Keyes stayed in Bennington, Vt., until Saturday, when he came to Adams to consult his lawyer and was promptly arrested. Theo. J. Lared of North Adams, the selling agent, has been held on bond.

Dinner to Secretary Herbert.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 30.—The Hon. J. L. M. Curry, ex-minister to Spain, gave a dinner at The Louisburg tonight to Secretary and Miss Herbert, ex-Secretary of War Endicott, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, Gov. Carroll of Maryland and others. Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Townsend of Philadelphia gave a large dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor at the Aloha cottage. All visiting diplomats were present.

Depositors Will Lose Nothing.

KANKAKEE, Ill., July 30.—The First National bank of Kankakee which closed its doors yesterday, has assets of $224,000 and liabilities of $174,000. The stringency of the market caused the suspension. Depositors will lose nothing.

COATES & SHERIDAN, 55 West Main St., Dealers in the highest standards of foreign and domestic Wines and Liquors.

Merchants familiar with mixed paints that have been put upon the market during the past ten years, will tell you that many of the manufacturers of these paints seem to think that they could sell anything that was labelled paint, that the merchant cared little what was contained in these paints, and it made no difference to the consumer. The cheapness and convenience of mixed paints, however, counted much in their favor. But the demand for mixed paint that was actually paint, and not simply labelled paint, became apparent, and merchants received the Chilton Paints when they were introduced upon the market, with the greatest of favor, because they knew that they were made out of the best materials that could be bought, were full measure, and that none of the tricks used to cheapen the cost of production were resorted to. The merchant could recommend them. The standard of excellence has never been lowered. The same quality of paint is put up in pound cans as in large packages.

Tents Taken to Niantic.

The tents and other stores to be used at the encampment of the militia were taken from the arsenal at Hartford to Niantic Friday. They filled four freight cars. The work was done under the direction of Captain Cornell. Today a gang of men will begin to put the tents in position.

Willimantic Merchants' Day.

The merchants' day committee of Willimantic have decided to have the annual merchants' day excursion Thursday, August 10. No decision may be made for a few days but a trip by train to New London, a Sound ride on the City of Richmond and shore dinner and beach pleasures at Watch Hill or other convenient resort seems most probable.

An Excursion Adventure.

One of the young men who participated in the Willimantic party on the moonlight excursion of the Rose of New England Wheel club Thursday night, may be classed as a lucky unlucky fellow. The party drove home from Norwich in the early hours of the morning and some of them walked up a hill below Franklin to lighten the load. On arrival home the young man found he had lost off his sash vest with his gold watch and chain attached. He drove back to the hill and there found vest, watch and all with no damage but a broken crystal.

Pool Match in Fitchville.

Next Saturday night a pool match will be played at Sullivan's hall, Fitchville, for a purse of $25, best six out of eleven games. The contestants are A. J. Lynch and J. Hyland vs. J. Foley and T. F. Fields. This is the second game, the first one being won by the first named persons.

Begins His Duties Tomorrow.

Prosecutor Hull, appointed by Judge Crump a week ago under the law passed by the legislature of 1893, to appear for the state in all criminal cases in the court of common pleas, will begin his duties on Tuesday when the court comes in in this city.

The Law Affecting Peddlers.

The peddlers of the state are stirred up about the law which will compel them to take out a license in every town visited, and which goes into effect next Tuesday. They say that it will drive the peddling business into adjoining states. Peddlers of the products of the farm and the sea are excepted from the provisions of the new act.

Struck on Latimer Reef.

Schooner John Hay, from Rondout to Boston with cement, is in Newport harbor after a rough voyage. Friday she struck on Latimer reef, in Fishers island sound, during a heavy northwest wind. Though she worked clear of the reef, she is leaking badly as a result of the accident, so badly that it may be necessary to discharge her cargo and make repairs at Newport. Later in the same day, during a squall off Point Judith, the Hay lost a flying jib.

Broke the Bluefish Record.

Prof. G. D. Watrous of Yale, who is at Block Island wrote to a friend that a fishing party of which he was a member broke the record on bluefish catching a day or two ago. They went off on Capt. Frank Dodge's boat "Puck" and caught seventy bluefish weighing from seven to nine pounds each, nearly doubling any previous catch of the season.

Bluefish are running well at the island now.

New London's Hospital Finished.

The hospital which New London has been waiting so long for, will be opened on Tuesday next for the receipt of patients. It is a model of its sort and will be maintained in the most satisfactory manner, for it has received aid from all classes of citizens and they feel the liveliest interest in the institution. Miss M. J. Wallace, the matron, has been at the hospital for some time preparing the place for occupancy, and now everything is in readiness for any case that may be brought to it.

Inquiry Into the Collision.

The inquiry into the circumstances attending the collision between the steamer City of Boston of the Norwich line and the tugboat Mom Rose in New York harbor recently will begin today before the steamboat inspectors of the New York district. Capt. Shirley, who was in command of the Boston at the time, but who was relieved immediately thereafter and Capt. Ward, formerly of the Worcester, put in his place, will go before the inspectors, as will other employes and passengers who were on the steamer. The hearing will be an interesting one.

STOLE A MILEAGE BOOK.

A Stranger Offering Property Not His Own For Sale.

Saturday afternoon a stranger who is described as a short, thick set man wearing light clothes and a straw hat, called on Mr. J. Palmer Story at his office on Shetucket street, and asked if he wished to buy a mileage book good for travel on the Central Vermont road and having tickets for about four hundred miles in it. Mr. Story said that he had no use for it, but directed him to A. L. Potter.

Mr. Potter quickly suspected the man, and casually asked for the name of the previous owner. Upon being told that the book had been procured of Mr. Charles Eaton of the firm of Eaton, Chase & Co., he replied that he would telephone to see if it was "all right," and that if it was he would buy the book. The man immediately left the office.

When Mr. Potter telephoned to Mr. Eaton he was told that the book had been borrowed by a strange man, who claimed that he was sent for it by a business man whom the owner knew.

The police are looking for some clew of the man and his whereabouts.

CONNECTICUT REALTY.

Slight Falling Off in the Real Estate Dealings During the Past Week.

The summary of The Weekly Record for the past week shows a slight falling off in real estate dealings, as may be seen from the following details:

Real estate sales—New Haven 32, Bridgeport 16, Hartford 13, Waterbury 11, Meriden 8, New Britain 13, Norwich 7, New London 4, Danbury 4, Norwalk 4, Ansonia 6, Birmingham 1, Shelton 10

Real estate mortgages—New Haven $100,960, Bridgeport $50,150, Hartford $13,150, Waterbury $21,975, Meriden $26,342, New Britain $13,175, Norwich $4,260, New London $6,975, Danbury, $1,000, Norwalk $2,225, Ansonia $3,500, Birmingham $1,550, Shelton $9,346.

ANNUAL TRAP SHOOT.

Over $8,000 Offered in Prizes at New London's Tournament.

During the last week in August the annual tournament of the Keystone Target company will be held in New London. This is always recognized as one of the greatest events among trap shooters, and brings all the great experts with shotgun to this state. The supremacy of the country is annually decided here, both individually and for states. On Tuesday of that week the tournament will begin. That day the Standard-Keystone trophy will be shot for. Wednesday the L. C. Smith cup will be contested for, and Thursday the Peters Cartridge cup will be the chief attraction.

Friday will be the most important day of all, for on that day the individual championship of the country and the diamond ring will be shot for, as well as the [illegible] match and the match between the east and the west. Connecticut won the state match last year and will make a strong bid for it this time. There will be an unusually large delegation of Norwich men there this year. Last year the diamond ring was won by Fred Van Dyke of New Jersey, but it is almost impossible to pick the winner this year.

There will also be numerous sweeps, for which $1,000 in guaranteed purses and $1,200 in prizes are offered.

OLD TRIAL JUSTICES.

The Quickened Conscience of the Last Century—The Way Cases Were Disposed of.

One of the most popular justices in the early history of Norwich was Richard Bushnell. In fact, he was a man prominent in almost every enterprise that was set on foot in the place, as he is recorded as having been townsman, constable, schoolmaster, post, deacon, sergeant, lieutenant, captain, town agent, town deputy and court clerk.

Cases were brought before him from Windham, Plainfield, Canterbury, Killingly, Preston, North Groton and North Stonington. The record of these is interesting as showing the state of the local conscience during those early years. The frank simplicity of some of these quaint records acquaints us of more than the mere judicial side of the public life during the early part of the eighteenth century.

"3rd of June, 1708. Joseph Bushnell of Norwich complained against himself to me, Richard Bushnell, Justice of the Peace, for yt he had killed a Buck contrary to law. I sentenced him to pay a fine of 10 shillings, one half to ye county treasury and one half to complainant."

"July 20, 1720. Samuel Sabin appeareth before me, R. B. Justice of the Peace, and complaineth against himself that the last Sabbath at night, he and John Olmsby went on to Wawecoss Hill, to visit their relations, and were late home, did no harm, and fears it may be a transgression of ye law and if it be is very sorry for it and dont allow himself in unseasonable night-walking."

"An inferior Court held at Norwich ye 19 Sept. 1720. Present R. Bushnell Justice of ye Peace. Samuel Fox juror pr. complaint, Lettis Minor and Hannah Minor plaintiffs, for illegally and feloniously about ye 6 of Sept'r. last, taking about 90 water-millions which is contrary to Law and is to his damage he saith ye sum of 20 shillings and prays for justice. This Court having considered ye evidence dont find matter of fact proved, do therefore acquit the defendants and order ye plaintiff pay the charges of Prosecution."

"May 8, 1721. A complaint [illegible] issued by the constable against [illegible] Law, doctor, for profane swearing, he was fined 10 shillings."

On one occasion an Indian having been found drunk was sentenced by the justice according to the statute to pay a fine of ten shillings, or receive ten lashes on his naked body.

The Indian immediately accused Samuel Bliss of selling him two pots of cider. Now the fine for the latter offense was twenty shillings, one-half to go to the complainant. The Indian thus obtained the exact sum necessary to pay his fine. But we will let the justice himself tell the story:

"Feb. ye 7-1728. Apenamsuck being drunk was brought before me R. B. Justice of ye peace. I do sentence ye s'd Apenamsuck for his transgression of ye law to pay a fine of 10 shillings or to be whipt ten Lashes on ye naked body, and to pay ye cost of his prosecution, and to continue in ye constable's custody till this sentence be performed.

"Cost allowed 6 shillings 6d.

"Apenamsuck accused Samuel Bliss yt he sold him 2 pots of cider this afternoon. Mr. Samuel Bliss appeared before me and confessed he let s'd Indian have some cider and I do therefore sentence s'd Bliss to pay ye fine of 20s. for ye transgression of ye law, one half to ye town and one half to complainant."

Justice Bushnell was no more strict in his rulings than was his neighbor, Justice Isaac Huntington, among whose records appear the following:

1729, July 12, John Downer and Solomon Hambleton for profaning the Sabbath day by oystering, fined 5 shillings and costs.

And again:

2nd day of November, 1735, Mary Leffingwell, on ye 24th day of September last, it being the Saboth or Lord's day (and not being necessarily detained) did not duly attend ye public worship shall pay as fine to ye treasury of ye town of Norwich the sum of five shillings and cost of suit.

In 1749 Mr. Huntington fined a person 20 shillings for playing cards, and another 5 shillings for laughing in meeting.

Justice Richard Hide was another strict administrator of the laws, as is evidenced by his record of findings between the years 1760 and 1780.

A man presented for profane swearing, having been heard to say at the public house—"damn me" Sentenced to pay 6 shillings, 8 pence.

Another for a similar offense, the culprit using the words—"go to the Devil." Fined 8 shillings, 10 pence.

A breach of peace by tumultuous behavior, 18 shillings, 8 pence.

1771. A young woman presented for laughing in a meeting for public worship at Mr. Grover's, Sabbath evening—two females for witnesses—culprit dismissed with a reprimand.

1774. Eben'r Waterman, Jr., presented by a grand juror, for profaning the Sabbath in the gallery of the meeting house in West Society, by talking in the time of divine service, in a merry manner, to make sport. Plead guilty—fine ten shillings.

Paul Davenport of Canterbury, appeared and acknowledged himself guilty of a breach of law by riding from Providence to Canterbury on the Sabbath day—paid the fine of 20 shillings.

In 1791 Henry Holland of Plainfield was brought before Justice Bushnell and bound over to appear at the next county court and answer for breaking the peace and the law, by saying "in a tumultuous violent threatening manner, yt he would take the head of Jone's Tracy off his shoulders."

Two young men and two young maids, presuming to "meet and convess together and walk in the street in company, upon no religious occasion," were fined three shillings each.

Justice Bushnell lived to the age of 75 to preside over the administering of law in his native town. His tombstone bore the following record:

Here Lies ye Body
of Capt. Richard
BVSHNELL ESQVIER
Who Died AVGV-T
ye 27 . . 1727 . . and in ye
75th year of His Age.

As you are
So Was We

A recent experiment station bulletin gives startling statistics concerning the seeds of weeds. According to the document referred to the purslane may have as many as 383,000 seeds to the single plant, the thistle 26,386 and the plantain close to 50,000.

In the human blood there is an average of 300 red cells to every single white one. The red cells have an average diameter of 1-3200th of an inch; the white ones, 1-25,000th of an inch.

FELT MILES AWAY.

Shock of Exploding Powder Mill at Acton.

WILLIAM CLEGG LOSES HIS LIFE.

Corning Mill No. 3 Blown to Atoms—Dwellings Shaken.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 30.—By the explosion Saturday of what is called the No. 3 corning mill of the American Powder company's works at Acton one of the employes of the concern, William Clegg, aged about 27 and belonging in Maynard, was instantly killed. Clegg was unmarried, had no relatives in this vicinity so far as is known, and had been employed by the concern about a year.

Owing to the dull and heavy condition of the atmosphere, the shock occasioned by the explosion was heard distinctly only a comparatively short distance; but it was felt in many places several miles away, the glass in the windows of dwellings being visibly shaken, and crockery in closets moved. In the immediate vicinity of the explosion principally to window glass, the doors and windows in some cases being forced inward.

The plan of building the structures used in the powder manufacture is to frame them very heavily, and lightly nail the boards to the frame. In this way the damage done to the buildings and machinery is made much less than one would suppose. The loss to the company by the latest explosion is not stated; neither is the cause known.

The appearance in the heavens of a cloud of smoke, majestically rising like a balloon from the direction of the powder mills, was the signal for a large number of people to hurry to the locality from the surrounding region. The was carried a long distance, but the work of demolition at the company's place of operations was not nearly as complete as has been the case on previous occasions.

Operatives in the different buildings immediately rushed from their work when the shock came, and, so far as known, no one but Clegg was injured.

There had been no explosion at Acton since August last, when one only of the mills was destroyed. The mills were first occupied in 1836. The first explosion occurred there in November of that year, when four workmen were blown to pieces, and upward of 1250 pounds of powder was burned.

In May, 1862, Addison G. Fay of Concord, the agent of the company, lost his life by an explosion. In all, between 30 and 40 men have been killed there.

In 1859 the corporation issued a circular stating that it placed no insurance on the lives of its operatives, but that it would contribute generously to the relief of widows and orphans whose bereavement was due to explosions in the mills, maintaining a fund for that purpose.

VETERANS PROTEST.

Do Not Like Examiners Appointed at Federal Soldiers Home.

RICHMOND, July 30—The protest of Colonel P. T. Woodfin, superintendent of the Federal Soldiers Home at Hampton, Va., against the appointment of medical examiners or pensioners of that institution is attracting attention.

Colonel Woodfin, in an interview today, denies that he objects to these examiners because they are all southern born. He says, though, that the old soldiers at the home claim that at least one or more of them should have been in sympathy with the Union cause. The superintendent of the home has asked the pension commissioner to withhold the commissions of these examiners until the inmates can be heard.

THREE HORSES DIED.

End of a Long Distance Horse Race of One Hundred and Eighty Miles.

VIENNA, July 30.—The Bosnian provincial government recently instituted a long distance horse race. The course lay between Bisheca and Serajevo, and was 180 miles long. The roads were rough and mountainous. All 47 competitors rode native horses, according to the first condition of the race.

Nineteen of the riders were Austrian officers. A Mohammedan landowner won the first prize of 12,000 crowns, given by Emperor Franz Joseph. He covered the course in 20h. 25m. Three horses died on the road.

ROW IN THE COMMONS.

Bowie Knives and Revolvers Can Alone Lower That Body Now.

LONDON, July 30.—The St. James Gazette and several other tory papers contend that Mr. Chamberlain's reference in the House of Commons Thursday to Herod was to be applied rather to Mr. Gladstone's flatteries than to the prime minister himself.

The Globe says: It is not a case for discrimination between parties and factions. Every incident was disgraceful and humiliating. Only one lower depth is attainable, namely, the introduction of bowie knives and revolvers.

ACROBATIC GHOST

Visit the Springs at Woodside, Turns Handsprings and Chases Women.

WOODSIDE, L. I., July 30.—The good people of this village are not at all superstitious and if they don't lay the "ghost of the spring" by putting a few bullet holes through him it will be because their aim is bad or the ghost is a real old-fashioned ghost as transparent as that of old Jacob Marley, through whom Scrooge could see so plainly that the big buttons on the back of his ghostly coat were plainly visible.

"Our ghost," as the women and children of the Heights say about the apparition that has appeared to them when they have been visiting the spring for pails of its translucent water these past three or four nights—"our ghost turns handsprings and cart-wheels, and is very long and slender and white, and it makes no noise among the brittle sticks in the woods, except that it screeches with a blood-chilling, unearthly, piercing yell that makes our knees shake and our hair to stand up."

The ghost chases women and children, but runs away from men. Everybody has seen him, if it is permissible to give sex to an apparition.

Annie Robinson, the 14-year old daughter of the grocer, and pretty Josie Caton were chased a mile by the wraith Tuesday night. The ghost went on all fours, but the little girls were so frightened that they could so hardly faster than the pursuer.

Georgie and Winnie Cator were scared almost out of their wits the same evening as they bent over the spring to get a pail of water.

Another night Charles Christensen, a grown up man, saw the specter and gave chase. It turned a few handsprings, gave forth a screech that paralized Mr. Christensen's legs and then disappeared in the woods. Lots of other people have seen it, but, as before stated, the people of this town are law abiding, God-fearing people, who do not believe in ghosts, and Friday a hunting party was formed.

With guns and clubs they set out to search the woods, find the ghost and club all the fun out of the miserable joker who wears the unearthly white. They found a sort of bed under a rude shelter in the woods, and young Thomas Robinson secreted himself near by with a gun, while the rest patrolled the woods and the neighborhood of the spring all that night, prepared to shoot the buttons off the ghost's wardrobe.

He didn't appear, but the watch will be continued for a few nights, and if it is a perspicacious ghost it will give up the business right away.

FEARS COMING TO WANT.

Popular Portsmouth Man Hacks His Throat in Horrible Manner.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 30.—Charles W. Varrell, one of the best known young men in the city and a popular salesman in the employ of Timothy Gay & Co. of Boston, attempted suicide Saturday morning by cutting his throat.

While at breakfast he suddenly grasped a knife from the table and slashed at his throat. His sister, Louise, who was present, fought hard to prevent him from accomplishing his purpose, but he struggled desperately, and later used a carving knife and razor, hacking his throat in a horrible manner. The sister was badly cut about the hands in the struggle. Assistance was at once called, and everything possible done for the man.

For a long time Varrell has been worrying about money matters, fearing that he was coming to want. Yet he was comfortably well off and earned a large salary. He was to be married this fall to Miss Barnard, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, and was building a house for their occupancy. Many people believe that he has recently lost heavily in stock speculations. The chances are that he will recover, but it is feared that his mind is hopelessly diseased.

Ran Away From Home.

LYNN, Mass., July 30.—John Anderson, 14 years, and Fred Jannelle, 12 years, of Franklin street, have run away from their homes. They left home Friday morning telling their parents that they were going fishing. They were expected home at noon and both parents were so much alarmed that the police were notified. It is believed now that both boys intended to leave home for good.

Baseball at Taunton.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 30.—The Taunton Baseball association has engaged John J. Piggott of this city as its manager, and that gentleman will at once organize a club. Mr. Piggott states that the club will be an independent one, and before the season is much further advanced New Bedford, Fall River, Brockton and Taunton will engage in a series of games for the championship of southern Massachusetts.

Fruit Dealer Disappears.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 30.—Stephen Boltano, who for several years has kept a fruit store on Park street, has disappeared, and his creditors have taken possession of his store. Boltano did a good business, but his domestic affairs have been such as to bring him before Judge Reed on several occasions.

Decrease in Tax Rate.

DANVERS, Mass., July 30.—The assessors give out the following official figures: Number of polls, 2107; valuation, personal estate, $671,597.50; real estate, $3,377,550; total, $4,049,147.50; rate of taxation, $16.50; the decrease on the tax rate is 20 cents on the $1000 over last year.

Drop of Twenty-one Points.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 30.—Owners of mill stock in this city are not feeling very jubilant. Since May 1 all mill stocks have dropped several points, and when shares in different mills were put up at auction Saturday morning at Sanford & Kelley's, the proceedings were watched with interest. Wamsutta mill stock was sold at $90.50 and $90.75, 10 shares at each figure. This is a drop of 21 points since May 1.

Only Three Days Per Week.

LOWELL, Mass., July 30.—The Tremont & Suffolk company has decided to run the mills the first three days of the week, shutting down the other three. The Talbot mills at Billerica will shut down for two weeks, beginning Aug. 12. The Abbott mills of Westford are not expected to shut down. The Collinsville mills will not close, except for three days, when repairs will be made.

Lightning is lightning because as it condenses the air in the immediate advance of its path it flies from side to side in order to pass where there is the least resistance to its progress.

PEARLINE.

In a Peck

of trouble—the woman who washes without Pearline. Her work is never done, and it's never done well. With Pearline she can do twice as much, and have it done better. There is little work, less wear, never the least harm. Try Pearline and see it go for dirt; when you see dirt, go for Pearline.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 259 JAMES PYLE, N. Y.

THE FEAR OF SNAKES.

Why Many Children and Some Grown Persons Dislike Them.

There are many authenticated instances of children becoming attached to snakes and making pets of them. The solution of a question of this kind is sometimes to be found in the child mind. My experience is that when young children see this creature its strange appearance and manner of progression, so unlike those of other animals known to them, affect them with amazement and a sense of mystery and that they fear it just as they would fear any other strange thing. Monkeys are doubtless affected in much the same way, although in a state of nature, where they inhabit forests abounding with the larger constrictors and venomous tree snakes, it is highly probable that they also possess a traditional fear of the serpent form. It would be strange if they did not.

The experiment of presenting a caged monkey with a serpent carefully wrapped up in a newspaper and watching his behavior when he gravely opens the parcel, expecting to find nothing more wonderful than the familiar spongecake or succulent banana—well, such an experiment has been recorded in half a hundred important scientific works, and out of respect to one's masters one ought to endeavor not to smile when reading it. A third view might be taken which would account for our feeling toward the serpent without either instinct or tradition. Extreme fear of all ophidians might simply result from a vague knowledge of the fact that some kinds are venomous; that, in some rare cases, death follows swiftly on their bite, and that, not being sufficiently intelligent to distinguish the noxious from the innocuous—at all events while under the domination of a sudden, violent emotion—we destroy them all alike, thus adopting Herod's rough and ready method of ridding his city of one inconvenient babe by a general slaughter of innocents.

It might be objected that in Europe, where animosity to the serpent is greatest, death from snake bite is hardly to be feared; that Fontana's 6,000 experiments with the viper, showing how small is the amount of venom possessed by this species, how rarely it has the power to destroy human life, have been before the world for a century. And although it must be admitted that Fontana's work is not in the hand of every peasant, the fact remains that death from snake bite is a rare thing in Europe, probably not more than one losing his life from this cause for every 200 who perish by hydrophobia, of all forms of death the most terrible. Yet while the sight of a snake excites in a majority of persons the most violent emotions, dogs are universal favorites, and we have them always with us and make pets of them in spite of the knowledge that they may at any time become rabid and inflict that unspeakably dreadful suffering and destruction on us.

This leads to the following question: Is it not at least probable that our excessive fear of the serpent, so unworthy of us as rational beings, and the cause of so much unnecessary cruelty, is partly at all events, a result of our superstitious fear of sudden death? For there exists, we know, an exceedingly widespread delusion that the bite of a venomous serpent must kill and kill quickly. Compared with such ophidian monarchs as the bushmaster, fer de lance, hamadryad and tic polonga, the viper of Europe—the poor viper of many experiments and much (not too readable) literature—may be regarded as almost harmless—at all events not more harmful than the hornet. Nevertheless, in this cold, northern world, even as in the other worlds where nature elaborates more potent juices, the delusion prevails and may be taken into account here, although its origin cannot now be discussed. For my own part I am inclined to believe that we regard serpents with a destructive hatred purely and simply because we are so taught from childhood.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Hawthorne as a Visitor.

On one occasion after my return from an African and European cruise I was ordered to the Portsmouth station, where we were hardly settled at housekeeping when Hawthorne came to see us.

The hall was encumbered with boxes, the sight of which made him feel his visit to be inopportune, and he said quickly:

"I have just come for an hour or two to see you and must return this evening."

Mrs. Bridge, seeing that he was only afraid of incommoding us, at once answered:

"Must you desert us when I need your aid in unpacking these boxes?"

"Will you really let me help you?" he asked.

Her joking answer, assuring him of her pleasure in gaining a helper so strong, both in muscle and intelligence, put him entirely at ease, and for a week he made himself useful on all possible occasions.—Commodore Bridge's "Recollections."

Mental Emotion and Jaundice.

The connection of simple jaundice with sudden mental emotion is generally admitted. Such facts as the following are not uncommon: A young woman becomes yellow at the discovery of her misdeeds; another on hearing that her fiance was killed; a young man on being discharged from office because he had not grown tall enough.

Simple jaundice is often followed by acute yellow atrophy, which is also known to be directly caused by shock. In this form of jaundice there is always disorganization of the liver cells. Even cancer may have a like origin.—Exchange.

Our Royal Landlords.

It is reported that Queen Victoria has been investing quite actively in real estate in this country of late. The German royal family have already heavy real estate interests here, and in fact about every monarch in Europe, including the Russian czar, has set a stake down in our soil. This shows that faith in the future of the republic is entertained right royally abroad. By and by the candidate for naturalization who has forgotten to pay his rent on American royal territory will be able to swear truthfully that he renounces all allegiance to every foreign prince or potentate.—Boston Globe.

A WHISTLING GIRL.

Gimptown was an old fashioned burg full of old fashioned people, not one of whom pretended to deny that Mellie Rose was the prettiest, liveliest girl in the place.

Now, although Gimptown folk had reluctantly succumbed to the inroads of progress insomuch that they admitted there were no witches they still clung persistently to wise old saws. Why not call them the wornout old saws and relegate them to the rubbish heap of other bygone misconceptions?

Thus it happened that while other girls were "spoke for" as soon as they came of age sweet Mellie Rose wasted her sweetness upon transient lovers.

Joshua Jones, the most appreciative of these, had remarked to his mother: "Now, mammy, I don't believe there's a thing wrong with Mellie. I like her mighty well."

"Gracious, Josh!" said she, holding up her hands in horror. "If you're a-gettin stuck on that gal, you had just better get over it as quick as possible. My grief! A whistling gal in the Jones family! Ugh!"

So honest Josh put aside his sentiment by muttering, "Yes, I suppose 'whistling gals and crowing hens' is as true today as it ever was."

Josh was right. This old saw is just as true today as it was when the lunatic of long ago manufactured it. Accordingly he married a "good housekeeper" who never whistled, and Mellie seemed destined to be an old maid.

In Gimptown a girl became an old maid if she was not "keeping regular company" by the time she was 21.

"I can't see why Mell can't be like other girls," said her Aunt Dorothy, who didn't believe in old maids. "Can't you stop this whistling, Mellie?" she asked her one day.

"I'll try, auntie," replied the innocent girl.

So for a week or so she went about looking as demure as possible, but it was uphill work.

"Got a new minister. They say he's a young man. I'll invite him in. No telling he might—but no, of course not! Well, I'll invite him anyhow," said Aunt Dorothy.

A week or two after this she was busying herself making the little parlor look tidy, when a knock sounded on the door. She ushered in a fine looking young man, with a decided clerical air, but pleasant and kindly withal.

The pastor and his hostess were soon talking quietly on parish matters. In the next room there was a rattle as of some one washing dishes.

"I'll call Mellie as soon as she finishes her work," Aunt Dorothy was saying, when, horrors! there arose in that young lady's clear, piccololike whistle the familiar notes of "Old Hundred." Poor Mellie had kept her mouth in its normal position for two whole weeks, but now, to the time of rattling crockery, the notes rose and fell with startling distinctness.

Aunt Dorothy turned red and then white, fidgeted about and finally, when the assortment of noises stopped, went into the kitchen saying as she went, "Excuse me, Mr. Haviland, and I'll tell Mellie to come in."

With blood curdling coolness she said to her niece: "The new minister is here. Come in and be introduced." That was what her mouth uttered, but her eyes said: "Now you've done it with that whistle of yours! Let's see how you'll get out of it."

Mellie followed the irate lady.

"Mr. Haviland, my niece, Miss Rose."

One would have supposed that a real rose could not be much redder, but when Mr. Haviland said in an amused tone, "Your brother is a fine whistler," then one knew that Mellie's first blush was a mere tinge of color.

"I—I have no brother," she replied honestly, so the evidently painful subject was dropped.

"A remarkably fine young lady," thought the young minister as he was returning to his boarding place, "and evidently as innocent as her name. It's so dull here. I really must cultivate her acquaintance."

So the fleeting summer days found the Rev. Mr. Haviland often at Aunt Dorothy's house or in Mellie's company wandering upon the rocky banks of the river.

To the young lady these bits of sunshine in her life were snatches from dreamland. To hear the educated young man discourse upon the people and things of the big, big world was so different from the humdrum talk and gossip of Gimptown.

Her aunt thought: "Fancy! I do believe the parson's a-getting interested in Mell. Now, if she'll only keep that whistle o' her's quiet who knows?—something may come of it!"

Gimptown in general said it was almost scandalous that so fine a young man should be "took in' by a pretty face, when everyone knew that face was disfigured by a whistling mouth.

Miss Smith, whose age was an unknown quantity between 30 and 40, and who had set her cap so often that that article was badly frayed around its figurative edges, said, "No, he shan't be bamboozled, not if I have to warn him myself!"

And it is on record that she did warn the daring man.

In spite of all this opposing element in his flock, Mr. Haviland could not help thinking how dull life would be without a certain flower whose perfume he alone seemed to have discovered.

One bright September day he walked over to Aunt Dorothy's little cottage, intending to invite Mellie to accompany him upon an errand of mercy. As he reached the gate he stopped a moment. The front door was wide open. Mellie, dressed in pink calico, with a cap of the same material only partly concealing her fluffy brown hair, was busily engaged with broom and duster in the hall. There was a happy look upon her innocent face. When, as if birdlike, she could not restrain her joy, the ruby lips puckered bewitchingly, and the notes of a hymn trilled forth with startling clearness and truth.

Suddenly the unconscious warbler was startled into silence by the sharp words, "Perfectly shocking, isn't it!"

Glancing up, she saw Aunt Dorothy standing with watering can in hand as if preparing to water her own feet, which seemed rooted to the ground.

She was staring at Mr. Haviland, who leaned upon the gate with a puzzled expression upon his face.

Not waiting to hear his answer Mellie fled to her own room, where she indulged in that which seldom spoiled her happy face—a good "cry." For she doubted not that she had forfeited her place in the minister's esteem.

She was not surprised, then, when Aunt Dorothy met her with: "Now you have done it! My goodness. I don't know what to do with you! You're enough to try a saint's patience!"

But Mellie was surprised when her aunt handed her a note from Mr. Haviland containing his request to accompany him to the house of some poor people who lived several miles away.

"Shall I go?" she asked her aunt.

"Of course! No use making matters worse by refusing."

So Mellie said she would accompany the minister, though her sensitive nature rebelled against the trial.

After packing a basket of food for the poor people, Mellie waited in nervous anxiety for her escort. When he arrived, she quietly allowed him to assist her into the trap, where she sat almost dumb, a pained expression upon her face.

"What is the matter with you today?" asked the minister as they trundled through the green fields.

Mellie trembled at his kindly tones, but she would not be drawn into conversation until——

But there, no matter! What right have we to intrude? Suffice it to say that the next day Mr. Haviland asked Aunt Dorothy for Mellie's hand.

That worthy dame could not help saying, "But, Mr. Haviland, she is a whistling girl, and you know"——

"There, there, don't say a word against the future mistress of the parsonage!" he interrupted.

And so, amid shocked Gimptown's surprised talk, the doomed old maid of 20 winters was converted into a happy bride of 20 summers.

Rumor has it that Miss Smith is practicing the much abused art of whistling. But heartless rumor also says that she whistles in vain.—Exchange.

Wine and Water.

The expert glanced along the list on the wine card as he sat at his table in the restaurant. "There is a pure wine," he said, putting his finger on a name. "It is really made in France and is made from grapes. Now here," passing to another name, "is precisely the same wine, but weaker, because it has been watered a little. Here it is in another disguise at a different price, and here it is watered to the third degree and cheapest of all. It isn't bad; only thin. Sometimes the watering has been done in France, sometimes it is done by bottlers in this country. Too often the adulterations are logwood and harsh spirits or raw alcohol. The kirschwasser of most of the New York restaurants would burn a hole through most stomachs in a week."—New York Sun.

Meeting of a Brother and Sister.

While H. M. S. Tourmaline was paying an official visit at Montreal a privileged company of citizens accepted an invitation to dine on board the stately vessel. Among those folks was a charming young lady, who, while inspecting the ship under the guidance of a smart bluejacket, entered into conversation with him and presently made the interesting discovery that they were brother and sister. During early childhood they lost their parents and were placed in an orphan asylum in London, from which institution the boy was sent to a training ship and the girl to a home in Canada. Eleven years then elapsed, during which they lost all trace of one another, until the strange coincidence described brought about their happy reunion.—London Tit-Bits.

Booth's Carefulness.

A Boston jeweler who had occasion from time to time to manufacture jewels for Edwin Booth, the tragedian, to be worn in different characters, says he was extremely conscientious in having them made not only of the best material, but as near as possible historically correct. In having a costly crown of gold and precious stones made for the character of Richard III he sent to London to get the correct design. So in the jewels for the character of Richelieu he took great pains to consult the best authorities. It did not satisfy him to be told that the real could not be distinguished from the imitation on the stage; hence he bought the costliest laces and materials for his costumes.—New York Tribune.

To Start a New England Kitchen.

To start a New England kitchen choose a location thickly settled by wage earners, those to whom ready cooked food will prove a relief from labor and to whom cleanliness and savoriness will appeal. Then secure vouchers from the honest, respectable and reliable business men of the place, from the dispensary, policemen, clergy and parish priests. Any new enterprise is looked upon with suspicion, and our wage earners are sensitive and quick to resent charity or patronage. Helpers in the work should be chosen from the neighborhood, and only those should be taken who can learn to be accurate and trustworthy.

The neighboring grocers, bakers and tinsmiths should be enlisted in the work, for they can do much by their co-operation. The habits of the people should be closely studied and friendly, and neighborly relations should be established with them. Moreover, hot and cold water, which is such an invaluable blessing in a tenement house, should be freely distributed by those in charge of the kitchen. Criticism of the dishes sold should also be welcomed, and suggestions should be encouraged.—Mrs. Ellen H. Richards in Forum.

Spain's Royal Palace.

The royal palace in Madrid, which the Infanta Eulalie still regards as her home, though her mother is in exile, is one of the most magnificent edifices in Europe. It is of marble and granite, occupies an area of 220,000 square feet and rises dazzlingly white against the sky to a height of 100 feet. The scene from the palace gardens is splendid. In the edifice there are a gallery of paintings, a library, a museum, an armory, a chapel and a theater.—New York Sun.

HASHEESH SMOKERS.

A NARCOTIC IN INDIA THAT HAS PECULIAR EFFECTS.

The Use of a Vegetable Among a Savage African People Transformed Their Natures—Hasheesh Makes Some People Peaceful and Others Drunk.

Alcohol, opium and cocaine are the cause of endless woe to humanity. What if something could be found which could be substituted for these poisons and at the same time have a pleasing and beneficial influence on man, and instead of making him wild would quiet him as did the lyre of Orpheus? The African traveler, Wissmann, describes in detail the cultivation and use of the "riambo" among the former cannibal inhabitants of Lubuku, by which their customs and manners were made so mild that it was even forbidden by them to shed the blood of animals. This people, who before had been aggressive leaders in wars, are now living in peace. Villages which heretofore had been engaged in bitter feuds became friendly. Laws and customs of the most peaceful kind were introduced, with the result that the country into which strangers had never before ventured was open to all.

This peaceful disposition, as also this antagonism to the shedding of the blood of animals, points to a characteristic feature of an old oriental people. These are the Indians. The same herb which made the cannibals of Lubuku the friends of man, and which they call "bashilange," has been known to the Indians for centuries as an intoxicant. It is the Indian hemp. In the east the intoxicant extract is made out of the blossoms and out of the whole plant. Generally it is called "hasheesh," which signifies merely hemp. It is chewed like tobacco, or smoked as such, or the juice, called "damameek," is used with sugar and almonds or whisky.

In moderate amounts the Indian hemp and its preparations have a mild effect on the nervous system and produce a pleasant state of feeling, at any rate among the orientals. Larger quantities produce intoxication. In the east the number of those who use the hasheesh is computed at between 200,000,000 and 300,000,000. Physicians are not all agreed as to the effect of the drug, some claiming that it produces nausea, heart beating, dryness in the throat. When fully efficient it produces the feeling of pleased intoxication and the most agreeable and pleasurable thoughts. Thereupon follows sleep, deep and dreamless, and on the following morning the pleasant visions are still real and present. That opium or alcohol eventually destroys those who use it to excess goes without saying. On the other hand the effect of the hemp chewing on the negro is wonderfully quieting.

Wissmann mentions several African people among whom hemp smoking has been firmly introduced as a habit, especially the Waniamesi. He says he is convinced that the effect of this hemp on the negro is to make him milder and more gentle and to make him more accessible to the influences of civilization, although it does have to a certain extent an evil influence on the body, which influence, however, is generally exaggerated. Most remarkable is the manner in which a "judgment of God" is secured by the hemp smokers. Those that are accused continue the smoking of hemp until the guilty one is compelled to make a confession. On the other hand, the thieves of India use this hemp for the purpose of pursuing their work. They secretly make a hole in the house and fill it with fumes of hemp smoke. This has its effect on the people of the house, and when the thieves enter they find them in the most agreeable humor, incapable of understanding what is going on and even welcoming the marauders with the most pleasant words and gestures. These statements are from the travels of Von Bibra.

Then the hasheesh smokers frequently get into a state much resembling hypnotism, in which it is possible to place the members of the body in any position and to treat the body as though it were all made of joints. The similarity between hypnotism and the effects of hasheesh smoking is so great that Dr. von Schrenk-Notzig of Munich made special investigation of this subject. It is well known that when a person is hypnotized a single word or threatening action suffices to throw the subject into spasms of rage. The authority just mentioned has discovered that in a similar way a person under the influence of hasheesh can be affected. He even discovered that persons who do not submit to ordinary hypnotism can be put into this state through the chewing or smoking of hasheesh. The faculty most influenced by this narcotic is the imagination. The immediate present is idealized into the most beautiful and fantastic forms. Hearing is made finer, and the finest strains of music affect as they never did before.—Leipsic Daheim.

Surprised at Clerical Uneasiness.

Dr. Berrian, a former rector of Trinity parish in New York city, was an indifferent preacher, but a fine executive officer and a man of great personal kindliness. Withal he was very simple hearted. A country clergyman, half starved on a salary of $300 a year, came to Dr. Berrian asking his influence to get him a better charge. "Dear me!" answered the good old man. "I don't see why you young clergymen want to change so often. Why, I have been here in Trinity church for 40 years and never have thought of leaving."—San Francisco Argonaut.

"The Wind Blew Through His Whiskers."

A correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch says that the very objectionable bit of slang, "The wind blew through his whiskers," is not American at all. In fact, he says, it was first used by an Englishman, one Dan Chaucer, who wrote the "Canterbury Tales." In the tale of "The Shipman" occurs this remarkable line, "With many a tempest had his beard been shaken."

In a perfect state of being, wit and humor could not exist because both depend upon imperfection or incongruity for their [illegible].

A Man Sleeping In the Street.

A well dressed man leaning against a lamppost and apparently sleeping the sleep of the just created a great deal of interest in a busy London street the other day. He sat on a box which he had been carrying.

Evidently, being suddenly overcome with drowsiness, he had placed the box on the curbstone, and sitting down upon it had fallen asleep. To those who succeeded in getting close enough to the man his gentle, restful snore dispelled the fear that he might be dead. The side of his face was exposed and betrayed no sign of intoxication. It was the judgment of every one that he was sober, in good health and simply taking a quiet snooze.

When the crowd became so deep as to threaten a blockade, the supposed sleeper suddenly jumped to his feet, mounted his box, and flourishing a couple of bottles over his head exclaimed:

"Now, gents, seein that you are all here, I rise to a question of privilege, and after thankin you for this most cordial reception, which I assure you will long remain upon the tablets of my memory, I wish to call your attention to my world renowned corn and bunion eradicator."—Exchange.

Reading of the Schoolboy.

Habits are contracted and character formed early in life, and it is probable that the color of a person's reading is mainly determined during the time of hobbledehoydom, when he is in process of passing from the limp and lanky schoolboy to the set and rigid man. Just at this time is a most critical period in his career, for now it is that he obtains a new outlook into life. Previously he has been concerned with the miniature world of school and looked at the greater world only with the eyes of a schoolboy. But now, entering a business or a profession, he enters into a larger life and begins to look about him with an air of deeper inquiry. And the more he reads of contemporary literature the worse does he become, for the air is thick with controversy. Nothing is too sacred to be contradicted, and the spirit of "sweet reasonableness" seems to be dead.—Chambers' Journal.

A PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE.

The savings societies of New York have met and after conference decided not to pay money to depositors on demand as they have been doing, but to enforce the bank rule which requires that the depositor give thirty days' notice to the bank of his desire to draw out his funds. These banks are upon a sound foundation and have had no runs; but the excited condition of the people has resulted in a steady call for deposits, and they have been paying out [illegible] a week of late. To protect themselves and depositors from the disastrous effects of a run they have deemed it wise to enforce this bank rule. There is nothing but folly in a panic, and a run upon these banks.

Savings banks in New England are as sound as the government itself. There is the utmost confidence in their management which is upon a sound legal basis. There is no reason why every depositor should not feel perfectly secure. There is reason to believe that the height of the crisis has been reached and that before Sept 1, the markets will quicken and the industries of the country all start up.

CATHOLIC TEMPERANCE WORK.

The annual meeting of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America is to be held this week in Springfield, Mass., and will call together one of the best organized temperance bodies in the country, and some of the ablest temperance advocates. To the labor of Father Mathew these organizations owe their origin, and at this meeting it is expected that one hundred unions, representing 700 societies, with one hundred and sixty thousand members, will send delegates. The Catholic Temperance union of Springfield numbers six thousand members, and is the third largest union in the country. Ten years ago the formation of women's auxiliary societies was begun, and they now number seven thousand in one hundred societies.

The pledge, which is the basis of the society's work under its present method of [illegible], reads as follows:

"We promise, with the Divine assistance, and in memory of our Redeemer's thirst upon the cross, to abstain from the use of all intoxicating liquors, including cider, as a beverage, and to do all in our power to discourage the drinking customs of society."

CALLING DOWN GOV. MORRIS.

The democrats of Middletown did not like it because a republican received an appointment upon the state board of charities, and they tried to call down Gov. Morris for not holding up the democratic reputation for partisanship and for recognizing republican claims for office. It was reported that they had sent a letter to the governor, expressing their grievance, but now that report is denied; although it is not denied that such a letter was written. The letter was written but was not sent. It would have made no difference if it had been sent, for Gov. Morris was not to blame for the appointment, as it was within the gift of the board itself.

It is no secret that Governor Morris is not in high favor with the spoilsmen of his party. The "honorable" democratic senators displayed their disapproval of his distribution of the spoils before he had been long in office, and the democrats find constant cause for complaint. In view of the condition of things in this state, it may be said of Morris, as it has been said of Cleveland, that he is better than his party.

THE FAILED BANKS.

The report of Comptroller Eckels makes the statement that the whole number of national banks that have failed and have passed into his hands are one hundred and five out of the three thousand seven hundred and eighty-five in operation in the country. Of them, but thirty-seven have gone into the hands of receivers. Eighty of them are in the western and southern states and only two are in New England. Nine of these banks were ruined by dishonest cashiers. Fourteen of the closed banks have resumed operations, and before September 1 it is expected many others will accept the conditions of the comptroller and resume. In twenty-one states and territories there has not been a failure of a national bank. The closed banks represent a capitalization of about seventeen millions, but the workingmen and business men who have these bank notes in their possession have no reason to be alarmed, as they are all redeemable by the government at their face value and [illegible] government currency." This is the kind of money that the republican party believes in for the people, and contrasted with the old bank notes under the state banking system, which the democratic party platform favors the resumption of, these are as good as gold, while those would be as worthless as paper money could be.

THE GUNN ATTACHMENTS.

The democratic papers in the state in publishing the news of the attachment by Secretary of State Sanger of property in Lima, Ohio, belonging to Agent Gunn, to prevent if possible the school fund from losing largely on account of Gunn's dishonesty, forgot to mention the fact that School Fund Commissioner Olney went to Ohio and found out the exact condition of matters there, and instituted the legal proceedings which it was the secretary of state's duty to join him in carrying through, and upon his arrival home Mr. Sanger took the steps to clinch for the benefit of the state, what Mr. Olney had already as commissioner begun in the west. Mr. Sanger might have done this if Mr. Olney had not. We have no disposition to take from him any credit for the part he is officially called upon to perform.

Mr. Olney says the statements made by the press are very much exaggerated, and that the fund will not be much impaired by the defalcations of Gunn, for he had no opportunity to handle large amounts of money. The democratic press is anxious to get Mr. Olney removed, but no legal way has been found for displacing him, and hence their attempt to injure him by statements which are exaggerated and one-sided.

The Hartford Post says that Governor Morris said to a representative of that paper that he had no idea of removing School Fund Commissioner Olney.

COLORADO'S IDLE WORKMEN.

When Colorado threatened to ship her fifty thousand idle miners east, the east was not alarmed, but it did wonder how that silver state could, with Governor Waite's declared intentions before it, spare so many able-bodied men. In view of Colorado's closed banks, guarded by a military force so that these institutions shall not be looted by idle miners, it is plain enough that Colorado did not know what to do with the men within her borders who were out of work and who had been made desperate by the cyclonic addresses of "gyascutuses" like Waite—who is looking for more than his weight in blood.

The "Centennial" state does not rely upon her silver mines for permanent prosperity, and if silver mining should come to an end in Colorado, there is no doubt that her industries and agricultural opportunities will provide employment for thrice as many men as have been employed in silver mining. Silver is not "king," and now silver mining states cannot be bullied into regarding it worthy of great concessions or of royal homage.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Siam has played the part of Crockett's coon, come down without waiting for the French to fire!

The English yacht Britannia is to defend the gold cup against the Navahoe in English waters.

If an "I-wish-I-hadn't-caucus" could be taken now among workmen who voted for the free-trade party, it would make a big book.

Free trade England has 350,000 miners on a strike. The English workmen do not find free trade such a blessing to them as American toadies would have one think it is.

The great yacht race in American waters has been fixed for October 5. With favorable weather that will be a day when sailing records may be expected to be broken.

Beverly, Mass., is soon to become a city, and will make the thirty-first municipality in that state, which has more cities than any other state in the union of her population.

It is not strange that Butte City, Montana, has a magnified idea of its importance. A Butte City "hole in the ground" has had attraction enough to pull hundreds of thousands of dollars out of New Englanders' pockets that will never come back. New England money has put all the vim into Butte City that she ever possessed, and New England is capable of making her lie low.

STATE EDITORS' OPINIONS.

Oh! Yes!

Siam? Siam? Oh! yes; that's where the Siamese twins come from. Everybody knows that, of course. Another proof of the value of advertising. The twins were advertised. Siam was not to any extent previously, but the twins have made her celebrated.—New Britain Record.

Not Final.

The shutting down of banks, which has become so general in certain localities, is often only a precautionary measure, to be followed in short time by resumption. The loss by a panic is partially prevented, and time is secured for making a turn which saves many institutions in the end. It is the choice between two evils in which the lesser is chosen, and that done which will be ultimately best for all. The national banking system is being vindicated by the possibility of such action at a time when public feeling is swayed by fears often groundless, but before which everything, for a time, goes down.—[Bridgeport Standard.

Cleveland Is Too Slow.

"Cleveland is too slow." This is the startling caption of a leading editorial article in the current issue of the Connecticut Catholic (dem.) Perhaps you jump to the conclusion that the editor is impatient to see Mr Cleveland move upon the entrenchments of "the robber tariff." Not a bit of it. It is Mr. Cleveland's slowness in rewarding deserving democrats with nice fat federal offices that agitates him. "The worst of it is," he says, "that the president doesn't seem to feel disposed to hurry any faster."—[Hartford Courant.

Neither Good Politics Nor Good Morals.

"Was it good politics?" is the head line query which The New Haven Register [illegible] concerning the action of the democratic county commissioners in granting a license for the sale of liquor at Woodmont against the vigorous opposition of nine-tenths of the cottagers there. Our contemporary has a negative answer for the question of its own asking. Of course the performance of the commissioners fatally violated the pretended democratic devotion to the principle of majority rule, and was another exhibition of the frequent discrepancies between preaching and democratic practice. We think, however, that The Register will agree with us that the morals of the affair are a good deal more important than the politics of it; though it is perhaps well enough to understand that from whatever angle their action is viewed the commissioners made a botch of it.—[Waterbury Republican.

They Want Reed Rules.

It is amusing to hear the anti-silver democrats tell how they will pass the Sherman act repeal, by means of rules shutting off debate and preventing filibustering. To pass those rules they must have a working majority of members, and if they can pass the rules which admit of the successful attack upon the Sherman act, they can repeal that act without passing the rules. If there is a sufficiently strong opposition to prevent the repeal without the hard and fast rules, that opposition can filibuster against the adoption of the rules as well as against the repeal of the act. The democrats will have to get the assistance of the despised republican minority in order to do anything, and that minority may want to know whether protection is "unconstitutional" and a "fraud" or not, before they commit themselves to the issue. It would under the circumstances be a natural question.—[Bridgeport Standard.

An Absurdity.

To stop advertising at a season of the year when trade is dull is the height of absurdity. No merchant will take in the sign over his door during the summer because there is little trade. Then why should he withdraw his sign from the newspapers, which is seen a thousand times where the other is once. The writer once knew a prominent New York dry goods dealer who did his heaviest advertising in the country newspaper during the summer. We asked him, one day, why he did so. His reply was: "Because trade is dull everywhere and I want all I can get. In the spring and fall and winter I have all I can take care of here at home. In the summer the country merchants take out their advertisements from the local weeklies and I put mine in. It would astonish them if they knew what a heap of trade I take away from them by that method. But it's none of my business if they don't want it; I do, and I get it."—[Ansonia Sentinel.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

An Undisputed Test of Merit.

A medicine that has been a household remedy for over fifty years and used in that time by more than [illegible] persons must have great merit. Such a medicine is found in BRANDRETH'S PILLS. This fact demonstrates the value of these pills better than any statement of the proprietors. It will be observed that the dose required to cure is small. One or two pills taken every night for ten or twenty days will cure dyspepsia, costiveness, rheumatism, liver complaint, biliousness, or any disease arising from an impure state of the blood.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

The simplest and best regulator of the disordered Liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in Sick Headache, Dizziness, Nausea, etc.; prevent and cure Constipation and Piles; remove Sallowness and Pimples from the Complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhœa, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Backache is almost immediately relieved by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Try one and be free from pain. Price 25 cents.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

Found Wanting.

He had read the work of sages from before the [illegible] age
  And had studied all the writings left from prehistoric times.
She would range from ancient Horace to the verse of William [illegible]
  While she pointed out the difference 'twixt the old and modern rhymes.

She discuss'd the moral hurt in those unhappy [illegible],
  And for relaxation revel'd in the sketches of [illegible].
And she held that Aristotle was addicted to the bottle,
  Or he never would have thought the things that fill'd his mighty brain.

Chaucer, Dante and old Gower she would pore on by the hour,
  But in spite of all her learning I would not have her for my wife,
For, desiring once to carve her—this young latter day Minerva—
  I took her out to dinner, and she ate it with a knife.

THE JEWEL CASKET.

Berry dishes of cut glass have silver handles.

Some [illegible] are seen as the handles of hatpins.

Twisted links of gold and platinum wire make sleeve buttons that are pretty and refined.

At the normal college commencement in New York [illegible] girls had silver combs in their back hair.

There is an attractive [illegible] in an oblong enamel pin with three [illegible] figures set to a garland of gold and pearls.

Corks are luxuriously mounted. To them such descriptive words as spirals, flutes, renaissance, repousse, may be applied.

New rings have three rows of stones covering the top of the finger. The most distinguished of these had in the center a row of rather large pearls. These stood up prominently above the row of diamonds on each side.

A novel bit of realism was seen in a wreath. One half had long leaves of olivine turned on themselves, from which depended a diamond and tiny russet cat tails in high finished enamel. The other half of the wreath was of diamond leaves with pearl berries.—Jewelers' Circular.

THE STOCK MARKET.

[illegible] in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 29.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 8 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market opened this morning unsettled and irregular. London showed little or no change from the close here, while the prospect of a poor bank statement and the announcement of the Brooklyn and New York savings banks that they should hereafter require the legal notice before permitting the withdrawal of deposits had a very depressing effect.

The most important factor in the market, however, is the demand which is now being made upon New York for currency. The calls are from every direction, from Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and other commercial centers south and west. It is almost an impossibility for the banks there to get bills.

Clearing house certificates are being resorted to in a measure, but the prospect for a tight money market is such that no decided appreciation in stocks can be expected until a change takes place. Much in bringing that about will depend on the movement of gold the coming week. Large receipts of that metal from abroad will have an important effect on the supply in hand, and, by restoring confidence to possessors of money, tend to release some of that which is now being hoarded. Clearing house certificates and gold imports are the only two present avenues of relief.

The local market opened with a downward tendency in quotations. General Electric was decidedly stronger at the start, the first sale being at [illegible] as against a final one yesterday at [illegible] and then advanced to [illegible], losing [illegible] points at the close. Cousins and Nathan tried to break the stock again in New York by selling [illegible] shares at [illegible], but the next lot brought [illegible], so that their tactics failed. Sugar was especially weak, the common opening at [illegible], [illegible] off, and then sliding to [illegible], while the preferred dropped from 73 to 70. Boston and Maine opened steady at [illegible], but weakened to 144. Bell Telephone advanced to 17[illegible], while New England opened only ½ down at 18[illegible], but weakened later to 18[illegible], rallying again to 18.

The most important changes, comparing final sales with those of Friday, were: General Electric adv., [illegible]; Atchison dec., 1; Sugar dec., [illegible]; C., B. & Q. dec., [illegible]; Sugar pref. dec., [illegible]; [illegible] dec., [illegible]; Pullman dec., [illegible]; N. MIGHT PREVAILS.

Siam Concedes Every Demand of France.

ULTIMATUM AGREED TO.

Siamese Government Hopes Blockade Will at Once Cease.

BANGKOK, July 29.—The Siamese government has accepted the full terms of the French ultimatum.

LONDON, July 29.—The Siamese legation in this city has received a dispatch from Bangkok stating in effect that the Siamese government, learning that France regards its reply to the ultimatum as a refusal to grant the French demands, and being most desirous of maintaining peace, has telegraphed instructions to the Siamese minister at Paris to inform M. Develle, the French foreign minister, that Siam accepts the ultimatum in its entirety.

The dispatch adds that the Siamese government hopes that the blockade will cease; that diplomatic relations will be resumed, and that an early settlement of the trouble will be effected.

Lord Rosebery, secretary of state for foreign affairs, was at the foreign office at a very early hour Saturday morning. He remained there for several hours. Mr. Gladstone concluded that his presence in London was not necessary, and went to make his promised visit to Stuart Rendel at Hatchlands place, near Guilford.

ATTORNEYS ADMITTED.

Important Decisions of the New Hampshire Supreme Court.

CONCORD, N. H., July 29.—In the supreme court, law term, Saturday, six candidates for admission to the bar were admitted to practice in all the courts of the state.

Decisions were handed down in about 25 cases. In the case involving the validity of the sale of the Academy building by Storer post, Grand Army, of Portsmouth, to the city it was held that the city was bound by the terms of the contract, and is liable in damages to be fixed at the trial term.

In the case of Eaton, administrator, and Emery, administratrix, vs. the Boston & Maine railroad, the exceptions by defendant were overruled.

The bill in equity to compel Mrs. Mark W. Scott of Portsmouth to sell and deliver 50 shares of the Portsmouth Brewing company's stock to Arthur Harris was dismissed. Also the bill brought by the above company to restrain the Portsmouth Brewing & Bottling company from using a name so familiar to its own, the court holding that both companies are engaged in the business of dealing in intoxicating liquors, which is not recognized as a legal business by the courts of this state.

The case of Bigerly vs. Hiram H. Barker of Farmington, an appeal from the appointment of said Barker as trustee of his father's estate, was decided adversely to the defendant, the court holding that the appointment was not valid, as the other trustee had not determined that plaintiff had led a sober, steady life for five years, as required by his father's will.

ENTERPRISING PHOTOGRAPHER.

Taking Snap Shots of Every "Sooner" Who Crosses Into Cherokee Strip.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 29.—For several days an enterprising photographer from Kansas has had a masked camera so arranged in a tent at the main crossing into the Cherokee strip that he can take a negative of everybody passing without their knowledge.

As the department holds that every person who now goes upon the strip is a "sooner" and loses his right to take land there, these negatives will become very valuable evidence against those now pretending to hunt for good claims.

The owner of them can command a good price for them for subjects, contestants or government attorneys employed to hunt up evidence against perjurers.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS.

Overflow of Arkansas River at Pueblo Causes $200,000 Damages.

PUEBLO, Col., July 29.—Pumps of all descriptions are at work relieving the basements of business houses of water from the Arkansas river, which overflowed Thursday morning and again Thursday night. Trenches are being dug across the street and through the levee to carry it off. All the unemployed will have work for a few days.

The loss now figures over $200,000, and many small storekeepers will be ruined. Probably [illegible] people are homeless and are being fed and housed by the charitable. Much sickness is expected when the water recedes, leaving as it must great patches of mud and slime in the low places to slowly dry up.

THE DREADFUL SCOURGE.

Four Fresh Cases and Three Deaths In Naples In Twenty-four Hours.

ATHENS, July 29.—The Greek consul in Naples telegraphs that there have been four fresh cases of cholera and three deaths in that city in the last 24 hours.

The Tribune in Rome, he says, acknowledges that there have been a few isolated cases of cholera in Naples, but does not concede more.

The same paper says that up to Thursday evening there had been [illegible] cases of cholera and 19 deaths in the province of Alessandria.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW SENATOR.

Declares at a Banquet That He Is In Favor of Bi-metallism.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—George C. Perkins, the newly appointed United States senator from California, at a banquet given him by the Merchants' club, said:

"I am in favor of bimetalism to a certain extent and will do everything that I consider will benefit the middle classes of the country, on which I consider our prosperity mainly depends."

GERMAN EMPEROR

Arrives in the Solent and Meets With an Enthusiastic Reception.

LONDON, July 30.—Emperor William, on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, arrived at Dover Saturday morning from Kiel. Count von Hatzfeldt, German ambassador to Great Britain, was at Dover awaiting the arrival of the yacht. He at once embarked, and the Hohenzollern proceeded westward for the Solent.

Some miles east of Spithead the royal yacht Osborne, with the Prince of Wales and a distinguished party on board, met the Hohenzollern, and after exchanging signals with the German yacht, sailed in her company to Cowes, Isle of Wight. As the two yachts entered the Solent salutes in honor of the German emperor were fired at Portsmouth and Cowes. The Solent presented a beautiful appearance, the water being studded with yachts and pleasure craft, all of which were decorated with German and British flags and hundreds of vari-colored signal flags.

The emperor was given an enthusiastic reception. He will witness the races off the Isle of Wight during his stay. His majesty's yacht, Meteor, formerly the well known British cutter Thistle, which was defeated in the races for the American cup in 1887 by the Volunteer, is entered for some of the races.

PLAYING AT WAR.

English Squadrons Manoeuvring to Obtain Command of Irish Sea.

LONDON, July 29.—The annual manoeuvres between the red and blue squadrons began with the declaration of war at 11 o'clock Thursday night. The red fleets, Vice-Admiral H. Fairfax, consist of 21 men-of-war and about a dozen torpedo boats. The blue fleets, under command of Rear-Admiral Fitzroy, are of approximately similar strength.

The objects of the manoeuvres are—on the one side to obtain command of the Irish sea, on the other side to prevent this. Already a series of slight mishaps has been reported. In getting away from the station at Larne, a torpedo boat attached to the blue squadron broke one of her condensers and she was compelled to return to the harbor for repairs.

Two torpedo boats operated against two ships of their own squadron, and then withdrew under a storm of chaff. A considerable list of other casualties has been noted.

OUTLOOK DUBIOUS.

Nicaragua's Government In a Bad Way. Granada Will Capitulate.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Herald's cable from Panama says: A dispatch from San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, says that it is expected that Granada, now held by the government troops, will capitulate before many hours.

The situation of the government troops at Granada is said to be serious. Details are not obtainable because communication with the interior is interrupted.

General Bayola, leader of the revolutionary forces, has occupied Masaya in addition to Managua, having taken each town after hard and desperate fighting and the loss of many lives. He is besieging Granada with so much determination that news of its capitulation may be expected at any moment.

According to the latest news from Nicaragua, the outlook for the country could not be worse.

DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

Many Small Towns In Colorado Depending on Miners Now Deserted.

OMAHA, July 29.—Thomas Cook, a prominent Nebraskan, who was supervisor of the census for Nebraska, has returned from Colorado, and said regarding the situation there:

You can't imagine what it is like and no one can properly describe it. Little towns of from 1200 to 1800 people that enjoyed the trade of perhaps 5000 miners on the hills around it, amounting to $3 or $5 each per day, are now deserted. It is a most deplorable condition of affairs, and a man only needs glance over the ground to convince him of the seriousness of the situation.

Motion of Censure.

LONDON, July 29.—In the house of commons, Bailer Lopes, Conservative for Grantham, moved that the government be censured because they manifested too keen sympathy for sufferers from the agricultural depression. After a debate of three hours the motion was defeated by a vote of 161 to 137.

Closed by Dull Trade.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 29.—The industrial situation at Northboro is not very encouraging for the employes, as all of the shell and horn goods manufactories are closed on account of the state of trade.

Candidate For Senator.

IPSWICH, Mass., July 29.—I. J. Potter, an old newspaper man of this town, is a candidate for the nomination of state senator in the Third Essex district. Mr. Potter is a prominent Republican.

Held For Manslaughter.

BOSTON, July 30.—In the Charlestown district court Saturday morning Thomas F. Sullivan and Patrick Buckley, charged with manslaughter, were held in $1500 each for the grand jury.

INCREASE OF GOLD.

More of the Precious Metal Deposited This Year at the Mint Than Last.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—An increased production of gold in this country and throughout the world is indicated by the reports received at the treasury department for the first half of the present year.

The deposits of gold at mints and assay offices during the six months have exceeded by $1,200,000 those of the same six months of 1892, and it is believed that the increase for the calendar year will be nearly $2,[illegible].

The gold product of the United States for the calendar year 1891 was $33,175,000, for 1892 $33,000,000, so that the increase is likely to reach 8 per cent.

Silver production has also been stimulated up to the present time by the very fact that the United States was soon likely to change her policy of silver purchases.

Detailed returns of the silver product have not yet been received at the treasury department, as the metal is not brought to the mints and assay offices with the same regularity as gold, and returns have to be awaited from private refineries.

It is expected that the production will fall off as soon as the United States goes out of the market as a purchaser, if it is not already falling off in consequence of the reduced price of bullion.

The present situation is thought likely to stimulate the production of gold, and it is believed that gold may yet be discovered in unexplored sections of the Andes or of South Africa.

INVESTIGATING FISHERIES.

United States Commissioners at Eastport Prosecuting Their Search.

EASTPORT, Me., July 29.—The United States fish commissioners' steamer Fish Hawk, now in this harbor, is to remain some time to assist the international fish commission, appointed in accordance with an agreement between Great Britain and this country, to investigate the fisheries in the waters contiguous to Canada and the United States.

The commissioners are now prosecuting their researches in the St. Croix and adjacent waters, the St. John being the next objective point, and, as the examination into the habits of the fish frequenting these waters and the fishery methods in use is to be an exhaustive one, some time is to be spent in the vicinity of the Passamaquoddy.

Professor Richard Rathburn, assistant in charge of the scientific inquiry of the United States fish commission, with his corps of assistants—Messrs. H. F. Moore, B. S. Hardy and W. C. Kendall—has established a laboratory in the warehouse of Messrs. Milliken & Son, and Captain Jerry Sullivan, the veteran boatman, has been engaged to pilot the steam launch of the commission during the investigation.

Dr. William Wakeman, a prominent official of the dominion department of marine and fisheries, with assistants, is working conjointly with Professor Rathburn.

Professor Bell of the Thomson-Houston Electric company in an address the other day said that electricity can be made to carry its energy 25 miles and then be used as a motive power more cheaply than coal.

TARIFF REVISION

Democrats Insist It Is Still Leading Issue.

SOUTH AND WEST DEMAND ACTION.

Declare Pledge of the Party Must Be Fulfilled.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—There has been some discussion during the past few days among the Democratic senators and representatives who have arrived in the city, as to whether the president proposes to confine his message solely to the finances and silver, or will include tariff revision among his recommendations. These senators and representatives maintain that the country was carried and the president elected on the specific issue of a tariff for revenue only, and that it is the imperative duty of the coming congress to fulfill these promises. They do not believe in permitting the silver question to become paramount to the tariff. The troubles growing out of silver depreciation, they assert, have grown up since the election, and should be Treated as an Independent Issue.

They do not object to the silver question being taken up and disposed of, but they intend to see that the tariff receives all the prominence which was given it in the late campaign.

These representatives contend that when the extra session was first talked of, it was with a view to taking prompt action on the repeal of the odious McKinley bill, as they termed it. The people of the South and West, they claim, will insist upon early action on the tariff. The parties upon whom the direction of tariff legislation will devolve have been industriously at work for three months in the compilation of data which will be used in formulating

The Proposed Tariff Measure.

The same work in administration circles has been under the supervision of David A. Wells of Connecticut and Mr. Atkinson of Boston, who are recognized as authorities on a revenue tariff. Both gentlemen have had many conferences with the president and secretary of the treasury and will be consulted when the measure is before the committee on ways and means.

Representative Springer, who is slated for his old position at the head of the ways and means committee, announces that the coming tariff revision will be conducted on the theory of free raw materials as a base of operations commencing with free wool and taking in iron ore, coal, lumber, salt, lead and binding twine. To this list will be added a number of articles in a somewhat advanced stage of manufacture, like pig iron and blooms. One of the most important features of this revenue tariff measure will be the restoration of at 1 cent per pound, in order to get rid of the bounty on the domestic product, which is so objectionable to the Democratic party. It is understood that the Louisiana sugar growers are willing to accept this rate in lieu of bounty.

There is some talk among certain of the leaders of the propriety of imposing a small duty on tea and coffee, but there is much division among the Democrats on this. The Democrats on this proposition say that a small duty on these three articles, sugar, tea and coffee, will realize a revenue of at least sixty millions without incurring any additional expense in its collection. They hold that if a tariff for revenue is the only object, these articles furnish the most economical source. This will, they say, enable them to carry out the free raw-material doctrine without loss of revenue. It is the purpose of both the president and secretary of the treasury if they are to be consulted, to pass a measure upon which they will be prepared to risk the fate of the administration before the country.

COLORED DEMOCRATS

Call For a Convention of Entire Negro Democracy at Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The following call has been issued:

To the Negro Democracy of the United States: The negro democracy of our country having reached such a position in the body politic of the country as to demand respect, it is deemed wise and expedient that a conference be called for the purpose of formulating plans for future success and development.

The coming fall elections demand a hearty co-operation in all ranks of our party, in order to bring it to success and confidence. Also is it necessary to combine and unite the forces among us, and thereby work in unison.

Hoping for the hearty support and co-operation and large attendance of the entire negro Democracy in Washington city August 24-25.

Respectfully, JAMES A. ROSS,
Vice President Association Negro Democratic Clubs.

IMPERIAL UKASE

Forbids Capture or Killing of Fur Seals on Russian Land.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 29.—An imperial ukase issued yesterday forbids the killing or capturing of fur seals on Russian land without special permission from the government.

Persons violating this decree or engaged in unlawful pelagic sealing will render themselves liable to imprisonment for two to 16 months and forfeiture of ships, equipments and the sealskins already taken.

All cases of unlawful poaching on seal life in Russian territory will be referred to a district tribunal sitting at Vladivostock.

Shut Downs In Dover.

DOVER, N. H., July 30.—Williams belt factory was shut down Saturday morning. Work will be resumed Monday, but with only one-third of the help. The cause is a lack of orders. Moulton's shoe shop shut down Saturday morning, on account of inability to make collections. In these two factories 400 hands are thrown out of work.

Died From His Injuries.

NASHUA, July 29.—Ira L. Humphrey, who was injured by the cars at the Worcester & Nashua yard Friday night, died Saturday morning. He was an old and respected employe of the road.

Defender of the Gold Cup.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Herald's special cable from London says the yacht Britannia has been selected to defend the gold cup challenged for by the Navahoe in September.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

CITY NEWS.

Major F. S. Peabody of Westerly is at Gardner's lake.

Miss Annie Nolan of Passaic, N. J., is visiting friends in town.

Prof. J. H. George spent Sunday with friends in Hartford.

Secretary Ross of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. starts for Lake Champlain Tuesday.

Willimantic people are becoming anxious over a serious drop in their water supply.

The Norwich Wheel club cleared $300 from the moonlight excursion Thursday evening.

B. H. Palmer, Jr., of Greeneville has returned after a several days' outing at Niantic.

The veteran firemen are talking of an excursion. They will have a special meeting tonight.

The season at Block Island is reported as extremely dull, and the hotel patronage very light.

The Rev. E. B. Schmitt, rector of Trinity church, preached in Calvary church, Stonington, Sunday.

The Union base ball club of Fitchville give a dance in Fitchville hall Saturday evening, August 5.

The Twenty-sixth Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, will reunion at Bushy Point, August 11.

Miss Hattie B. Gallup, with a party of Groton friends, has returned from a two weeks' visit to the World's fair.

THE BULLETIN acknowledges luscious specimens of native peaches, raised by Mr. R. S. Denison of Preston.

On Thursday, August 3, 1893, the second annual outing of the Westerly Whist club will occur at Watch Hill.

The wooden bridge near Noank, a short distance east of the station, is to be replaced by an iron bridge of three spans.

The passengers on the steamer Block Island saw three whales spouting in the ocean near the bell buoy, off Block Island, Saturday.

A new awning extending the entire length of the property of Joseph Connor on Water street, furnishes grateful shade for pedestrians.

The Rev. C. W. Morrow, pastor of the Second Congregational church, and family, are quartered at the Vaill cottages, Block Island.

Ralph B. Colt, the son of Gen. James B. Colt, has left for New York, where he has accepted a position with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Mrs. Roxy Foss, an elderly resident of Willimantic, is superintending the digging of her grave. She is at present in good health, but fears she will die at any time.

A noteworthy specimen of the night-blooming cereus is the plant of Mrs. Loomis of Church street, which opened three buds Friday night and showed three more blossoms Saturday.

The Pequot and Fort Griswold houses are doing a good business now and both houses are well filled with guests. At Fort Griswold last night every room in the house was occupied.

Friends of Mrs. Geo. S. Smith gathered at her home on Saturday evening to witness the blossoming of a night-blooming cereus. The blossoms were large and handsome and excited general admiration.

Laurel Hill ladies are justly indignant over the copious pools of tobacco filth which nightly defile the new bridge, and can not comprehend why the idlers who line the bridge will not aim their discharges riverward.

Deeds were filed in the town clerk's office Saturday conveying to Solomon Lucas the tract of land known as Perch Rock Point, and which lies at the mouth and northerly of Trading cove and westerly of the Thames river.

James Gradwell, a well-known and popular plumber employed by Geo. F. Bard, died Sunday of cancer of the throat, after a short illness. He was a former member of the Wauregan Hook and Ladder company, and played in the famous Arctic base ball nine. A wife survives him.

Gen. George Havens will return to his position as captain of the New London police force, Tuesday, as Warden Woodbridge, just appointed to the place vacated by Gen. Chamberlain at Wethersfield, begins his duties on that day. Gen. Havens has proved a capable man as warden of the state prison.

There was a free fight at the Sunday evening meeting of the Hebrews in Lucas hall. Two of the most aggressive were arrested and locked up and the police are looking for others. Considerable excitement was caused by the affair and seven officers and a large number of people were attracted to the scene.

Now that housekeepers are purchasing early apples for domestic uses, it may be interesting to know that the so-called "Mike Apple" was first brought to market by, and received its name from Micah Rood, son of one of the early settlers at Norwich Town. This species has a fair outside, an excellent flavor, and each apple exhibits somewhere in the pulp a red speck, like a tinge of fresh blood.

John Carroll, a hod-carrier, who is no stranger in the police court, was arrested by Officer Korn for drunkenness Saturday night. The prisoner protested against being locked up all the way to the court house, and in front of the Broadway church absolutely refused to go further. At this juncture Captain Burdick came to the rescue and the fellow was marched in short order to a cell. The captain's timely action saved Carroll a deserved clubbing.

The current number of The Connecticut Catholic says: Miles O'Sullivan, the talented member of The New York Herald staff, contributed to the journal last Sunday a graphic account of his visit and personal experiences to the celebrated shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre. Mr. O'Sullivan's family live in Greeneville, and he has many friends in this city who will rejoice in his merited promotion in the journalistic ranks.

Saturday evening the management of the Pequot house entertained the guests of the hotel and the residents of the summer colony with a grand hop in the parlors of the hotel. Special arrangements were made to make this hop the society event of the season. There were at least 200 society people present, and some very elegant costumes were worn by the ladies. An elaborate lunch was served during the evening. The cotillion at 10 o'clock was led by Lindley Hoffman Chapin and Mrs. J. W. Miller.

An Assignment in Killingly.

The S. L. Sayles Manufacturing company of Killingly, woolen manufacturers, assigned Saturday to ex-Mayor Increase W. Carpenter of Norwich.

A Liquor Seizure.

Sheriff Story, Officer Park and Constable Gardner raided the houses of W. H. Haven on Ferry street and Jennie Whipple on Durkee lane, Saturday night, and made seizures of illicit liquor.

Marries a Norwich Lady.

The Willimantic correspondent to The Hartford Times writes: Cards are out announcing the marriage of Emma Marie Woisard, daughter of J. H. Woisard of Norwich, to Adelard D. David, M. D., of this city, on Thursday, August 10, at St. Patrick's church, Norwich. Dr. David is a well-to-do physician, and proprietor of one of the best drug stores in this borough. He is the social and political leader of the French population in this senatorial district, an eloquent speaker, affable and pleasant to meet, and of prepossessing appearance. The betrothed couple have the best wishes of this community.

The City of Richmond Excursion.

One of the most delightful Sunday outings that it has been the privilege of the Norwich working people to enjoy was that on the steamer City of Richmond to Block Island, Sunday. The best of order prevailed, and the officers of the boat endeavored in every way to make the trip agreeable to the patrons. The tremendous whale which has been sporting about the Block Island with his companion was plainly apparent from the deck of the boat, and dozens were seen spouting and showing their bodies on the surface of the water. The boat landed at 1.30 o'clock, remaining till 5 o'clock, and arrived home at 9.30 last night. The passenger list numbered 700.

MYSTIC TOUCHES.

They Assault a Foreman and Rob His Workmen.

Henry Chilts, the foreman of the workmen employed on the Spicer library building, Mystic, was found lying in a pool of blood near Main street about midnight Friday night. He was taken to his boarding house and a physician summoned. After an hour's work Chilts was restored to consciousness. He said he had been attacked by three unknown men who gave him a terrible beating. His injuries are serious, but he will recover.

Saturday morning it was discovered that during the night the library building had been entered and tools valued at $100 stolen. The tools belonged to workmen employed on the building. Entrance was effected by forcing open the temporary front door. There is no clue to the burglars.

SHERMAN LAW INFLUENCE.

The Hon. D. A. Wells Says the Commercial Disturbance is Due to It.

The Hon. David A. Wells of this city makes the following statement for The New York World: "The main cause of the commercial disturbance is due to the influence of the Sherman law. I do not think the prospect of tariff legislation can be regarded as an important factor in producing the existing condition of things. There will be no tariff legislation on the part of congress until the silver question is settled.

"With all the uncertainties removed as to what will be our standard value, there ought to be no difficulty in adjusting the country's finances in such a way as not to occasion the slightest popular disturbance. The country has hardly an idea of the elements of financial strength it possesses. Whatever legislation is accomplished by the next congress will in my opinion conduce to the prosperity of the country and not to the depression of any branch of business or commerce."

FIFTH OF THE SERIES.

The Rev. R. H. Nelson Speaks Under the Auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

One of the strongest factors in the religious life of this city during the summer season is the popular public congregation of men of all ages and classes which gathers weekly for an hour on Sundays at 4 p. m. Though well-known and extensively advertised, there may yet be many of our citizens who have not had their attention called to the fact that five meetings have been already held and the series will last into September.

The location chosen for these interesting gatherings is the boat landing of the Norwich & New York Transportation company's steamers, under the large freight shed of the Norwich & Worcester Railroad company.

More seats are usually furnished than are used by the audience. One of the most interesting and impressive services was held on Sunday afternoon when the Rev. Richard H. Nelson, rector of Christ Episcopal church, talked in a forcible and attractive way such as secured for his words the closest attention and the admiration and sympathy of his hearers.

Next Sunday Frank Lawrence of New York city, will come to tell something of his experience as a rescued drunkard. Today Mr. Lawrence stands high in the noble work of winning men from sin and degradation and is the superintendent of the well known Wilson Memorial mission of West 42d street in New York.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HOLDEN AT Killingly, in and for the District of Killingly, on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1893.
Present, ARTHUR G. BILL, Esq., Judge.
The Sabin L. Sayles Company of Killingly, in said district, having assigned its property to Increase W. Carpenter of Norwich, county of New London, as trustee,
This Court doth appoint the 24 day of August, A. D. 1893, at 11 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office in Killingly as the time and place for the hearing relative to the acceptance and approval of said Trustee, and it is ordered by this Court that public notice of such hearing be given by advertising this order in a newspaper printed in Norwich four days previous to said day of hearing, and by posting a copy thereof on the public sign post in said town of Killingly, and return make to this Court.
Certified from record.

THE CHINESE EXCLUSION ACT.

Letter from Secretary Carlisle to Customs Collector Hendricks.

THE COLLECTOR'S DUTIES.

Doubtful Cases to Be Submitted to Secretary of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Secretary Carlisle has taken a hand in the Chinese situation at New York in the following letter which on Saturday he sent to Collector Hendricks:

Sir—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 29th inst. in reply to instructions of the 19th inst., in which you were directed to discontinue the practice of authenticating by your signature or that of your deputies, under the official seal of the custom house, certificates of the Chinese consul at New York to Chinese other than laborers about to leave the country and intending to return thereto. Your letter is an argument in support of the opinion you express that the department should reconsider its instructions of the 19th inst. and permit your officers to authenticate such certificates as heretofore.

After quoting court and department decisions on the point, the secretary says: "Your assumption that the responsibility for the execution of the laws relating to the exclusion of Chinese, rests alone upon the collector is unwarranted. Upon that officer is devolved the duty of examining and deciding upon the testimony presented by Chinese persons claiming the right to enter the United States, but in all cases of doubt it is his duty, as it is the usual practice of collectors of customs, to submit the case to the secretary of the treasury for his decision, with whom lies the ultimate responsibility for the enforcement of these laws, and whose lawful instructions in the premises should be obeyed by collectors without question.

The department cannot concur in your view that the authorized practice discontinued by its order of the 19th inst. of authenticating the certificates of the Chinese consul at New York by the signature and seal of the collector, should be resumed. Evidence is before the department in one case where a Chinese person represented himself to be a member of a firm of Chinese merchants in New York, and was so certified by the Chinese consul at New York, which certificate was duly authenticated by the seal of the custom house and the signature of one of your deputies, when, in point of fact the Chinese person who presented himself at the custom house was another and entirely different person from the one named in the certificate.

This was applied at one of the frontier custom houses upon the certificate mentioned, which according to your theory, would be conclusive evidence of his right to enter, inasmuch as the photograph was that of the person who presented himself, but it was not that of the person named in the certificate, who was a real personage formerly residing in New York, and who was still in China.

That many cases of this kind have occurred is beyond question, and the department sees no good reason for the continuance of the practice by your office which in [illegible] only serves as an aid to those engaged in violating the law. It is an ascertained fact that many hundreds of Chinese laborers have come into the country within the past year, under the guise of merchants, students, actors or other persons of the exempt class, aided in most cases by customs officers who were either corrupt or indifferent to their duty in the premises. It is my duty, as it is my purpose, to employ the means under my control to enforce the law in good faith, and to that end I shall expect the cordial cooperation of all officers of the customs.

Respectfully yours,
J. G. CARLISLE, Secretary."

FRANCE DEMANDS SECURITY

From Siam that Terms of Ultimatum Will be Carried Out.

LONDON, July 31.—The Paris correspondent of The Central News says that it has been learned from good authority that France demands security from Siam that the terms of the ultimatum will be carried out, the temporary custody of Chantaboon, a town near the gulf of Siam; also that Siam shall establish no military stations at certain named places near the frontier of Cambodia or within a certain distance of the Mekong river.

A dispatch to The Central News from Bangkok says: "The uneasiness among the people here, far from lessening, is increasing. Several French gunboats have arrived at Koh-si-chang, making a total of thirteen now there. Negotiations are still going on but details are not reported. The intentions of the French are with fear and apprehension. Rear Admiral Humann, commanding the French squadron, has issued a second blockade notice, to take effect three days from Saturday. He will order the warships Pallas and Swift, now lying off Bangkok, to go outside the blockade limit.

M. Pavie, the French minister resident, has gone to Saigon, and Rear Admiral Humann is under direct orders from Paris. Unless the French government interposes quickly, an attack on Bangkok seems certain. The trading community is surprised that Humann is still allowed a free hand."

THE LIGHTWEIGHT FINISH FIGHT

Won by Paddy Smith of Denver in the [illegible] Round.

ROBY, Ind., July 31.—The lightweight finish fight between Paddy Smith, brother of Denver Ed. Smith, and "Young" Corbett, otherwise known as George Green, at the Columbian Athletic club tonight, attracted about 5 000 people.

Smith won the fight in the twenty-eighth round.

Lawrence Feels the Depression.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 31.—Lawrence now feels the first blow of the business depression. This afternoon notices were posted in the Atlantic cotton mills, stating that the mills will close next Saturday for a month or until the market brightens. The notice was a surprise to the operatives as well as to the city. The Atlantic mills employ 1,300 people, has a weekly pay roll of $8,000 and manufacture shirtings.

First Day Without a Guest.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., July 31.—President Cleveland has spent the day with his family. This is the first day he has had here without a guest. His boat went down the bay without any notables aboard. Attorney General Olney while en route from Boston to Falmouth, stopped off and spent an hour with the president. Afterwards the president and Mrs. Cleveland drove him to Gray Gables station, then the president and his wife drove over and called on Joe Jefferson.

EVERYTHING READY

For the Ten Days' Grand Circuit Meeting at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 31.—Everything is in readiness for the ten days' grand circuit meeting which opens here tomorrow. The entry list is large, the track is good condition, nearly $100,000 is hung up in purses and the outlook is promising for the greatest series of races in the history of the circuit. In all there are 288 horses quartered at the driving park. The horsemen say the track is fast and some record-breaking is looked for if the weather does not spoil it.

The driving park presented an animated appearance this afternoon. All of the stables entered have arrived and the flyers were putting in some preparatory work, getting the kinks out for the start tomorrow. Quite a crowd gathered to watch the horses in exercise and gossip on the various events was freely indulged in and tips were in active circulation. Naturally, the most interest centers in the big free-for-all races. Directum is looked upon as a sure thing in the trot and Mascot is the tip for the pace, though Hamlin's Nightingale in the former and Hal Pointer and Flying Jib in the latter are expected to give the favorites a hot battle.

National Silver Convention to Meet in Chicago Today.

CHICAGO, July 31.—The indications are that the national silver convention to be held in this city tomorrow will be largely attended. Delegates are expected from every state and territory, although the silver producing sections are most largely represented. The leaders of the silver movement are for the first time on record, perhaps, proceeding with caution, and even such noted free coinage advocates as Lee Crandall of Washington and General Warner of Ohio decline to express an opinion as exactly what will be the outcome of the convention.

A strong attempt is to be first made to unite all the different elements of the convention in one line of action, regardless of past political affiliations; and populists, democrats and republicans will be asked to forget for a time their partisanship of the past in the coming struggle for free silver. It is already certain that the resolutions to be adopted and the delegation sent to Washington will be in opposition to the repeal of the Sherman law, unless coupled with the repeal is enacted a new law providing for a greater volume of circulating medium.

Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 31.—The track was in good condition today. First race —Purse for 3 year olds, 6 furlongs. Sister Mary first, Charmion second, and Sarayone third. Time, 1.16¾.

Second race—Purse for all ages, one mile. Prince of Darkness first, Copyright second, Logan third. Time, 1.42.

Third race—Ladies' stakes for 2-year-old fillies, one mile. Martyrdom first, Sarah Ramey second, Coquette third. Time, 1.43¼.

Fourth race—Sea Foam stakes for all ages, 5½ furlongs. Racine first, Lord Harry second; Dr. Hasbrouck third. Time, 1.07½.

Fifth race—Purse for 3-year-olds and upwards, 7 furlongs. Void first, Climax second, Rear Guard third. Time, 1.29¼.

Preparing the Grand Army Encampment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 31.—In reviewing the outlook for the Grand Army of the Republic national encampment to be held in Indianapolis in the first week of next September, the citizens' executive board in charge of arrangements announces that the inquiries for accommodations indicate that the attendance will be the largest in the history of the organization, especially from the central and western states.

The plans have been carried out on a broad scale, and the board is prepared to furnish free quarters in barracks for 100,000 persons. It has a fund of $150,000.

Cup Defender Colonia at New York.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The cup Defender Colonia, the Rogers syndicate boat, returned from Newport late this afternoon. She will go in the dry dock in the Erie basin for a thorough overhauling before meeting the Vigilant and other cracks in the trials that will decide which of the new vessels will have the honor of defending the America's cup. Captain Haas says he is well pleased with the Colonia, and that with the exception of some slight alteration in the set of her sails, she is in racing trim and ready to defend the America's cup. She will be off the dry dock again Friday or Saturday. She is entered for the race there Monday over a thirty-mile triangular course.

Rubber Co. Superintendent Suicides.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 31.—Frank Marquard, superintendent of the electric department of the Dickinson Hard Rubber company, shot himself at his home at 5 o'clock this morning. After bidding his family good bye, as was his custom before leaving for the factory, he went to a room in the second story where he placed a 44-caliber revolver to his temple and fired, the bullet passing completely through his head. It is supposed that money matters had wrought upon him sufficiently to cause his suicide. He leaves a widow and several children.

Charged With Defrauding Creditors.

BANGOR, Me., July 31.—Colin McKenzie, a general trader of Ellsworth, was before the municipal court today on a charge of illegally obtaining goods, cheating and defrauding creditors. He was held in the sum of $3,000, which was furnished, to appear on Friday next. The action was brought by several merchants in this city, who claim fraud on the part of McKenzie. In June McKenzie went through the insolvency court at Ellsworth and this action is the result.

Think the Watermelon Was Poisoned.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., July 31.—Benjamin E. Fuller and wife of 127 State street, a brother of Mrs. Fuller, and Ed. Jordan and wife of Braytonville, guests on Sunday of the Fullers, were taken sick Sunday evening, with all the symptoms of poisoning. All are worse today and Mrs. Fuller's condition is critical. It is thought that the watermelon they ate was poisoned.

Valuable Mail Pouch Missing.

SALT LAKE, July 31.—A registered mail pouch containing $50,000 in securities, left the Salt Lake post office, eastbound, on July 5, and has not since been heard from, except that the postmaster in this city has a receipt for the pouch upon its arrival at Ogden. Post office detectives and inspectors have been sent to different points along the Union Pacific in Wyoming to recover the missing pouch.

Trouble in Peary's Expedition.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—A St. Johns, N. B., dispatch says: "Information has been received here from Labrador of serious trouble in Lieut. Peary's expedition. It is said that the trip is likely to prove a failure."

BICYCLERS AT SEASIDE PARK.

Many Well Known Riders in the Races at Bridgeport.

3,000 SPECTATORS.

Fred Hoyt of Bridgeport Wins the Five Mile Handicap.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 31.—The bicycle races in which many well-known riders from all points in the state participated, took place at Seaside park this afternoon. About 3 000 persons were present. The track was in fine condition but not very fast time was made.

The one mile novice race was won by E. C. Coester, New Haven, in 2.40; J. McLaren of Torrington, second.

One mile Y. M. C. A. championship, was won by Fred Hoyt of this city.

The one mile handicap was won by M. J. Daley, scratch man.

The boys' half-mile race was won by E. Penny of Southport.

One mile open race was won by F. J. Catlin of New Haven. Time, 2 36.

The five-mile handicap, open to all, was the principal event of the day. There were 23 entries with riders from all over the state. Fred. Hoyt of this city, 200 yards handicap, won, F. J. Catlin of New Haven second. The prizes were valuable gold and silver medals and cups.

Highwaymen Operating Near Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 31.—Police today are trying to find two highwaymen who operated in this vicinity Saturday night and yesterday. In the western part of the city Saturday night two farm hands were held up and relieved of small sums. They cannot speak English and can furnish but a meagre description of the men. A horse and carriage was stolen yesterday morning from in front of St. Thomas' church, Fairfield. The thieves were traced to Westport but no further clue has been obtained.

A Rumor Again on Its Travels.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 31.—A Meriden dispatch today says that it is once more rumored that the Meriden & Waterbury division of the New England railroad has been or is about to be sold to the Consolidated road. Such a rumor has been the rounds so often that little credit is given this one, but an inquiry indicates that there is a probability that such a transfer is under consideration by the two companies. One of the stockholders of the Consolidated road said this morning: "Negotiations have been in progress for several days for the sale of the road. The overtures have been made from the New England side. I would not be surprised if a deal was made."

The Blockade to Be Continued.

PARIS, July 31.—It is stated on good authority that the French intends to take decisive steps to insure Siam's carrying out the terms of the ultimatum. The blockade of the Siamese coast will be continued, it is said, until France's demands are satisfied. The French force now present in Siamese waters is believed to be sufficient to make the blockade effective. The general opinion here is that the issue of the controversy is a triumph of French over English diplomacy.

Revolt Among Prisoners.

BOSTON, July 31.—This afternoon a revolt occurred among sixty prisoners at the city institution of Deer Island, the alleged cause being the heat, poor victuals and hours. Word was sent to the director of the island, and officers were soon on hand and quieted the prisoners. During the fracas the prisoners attacked Officers Fitzgerald and Burnham with scissors and other tools used in a tailor shop, and officer Burnham's ear was severely bitten.

Sporting Men to Contest the Anti-Pool Law.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 31.—Several wealthy sporting men in this city have contributed funds to pay the expenses of contesting the anti-pool room law. They have consulted eminent legal counsel and decided to make a test case. It is expected that the pool rooms will be opened in the city in a day or two. It is expected that sporting men all over the state will support the local men.

Decreased Death Rate in New York City.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Dr. Nagle of the bureau of vital statistics, Saturday reported that during the last week there were 1,084 deaths, 166 marriages, and 947 births. The death rate was 29 32, which is lower than that of the preceding week.

The mortality among children under one year was 451, as against 607 for the preceding week, and 38 over the average for the corresponding week during the last five years. The deaths among children under five years of age were 619, being 174 less than for the week previous, and 26 over the average for five years.

Preparing for the Goelet Cup Races.

BOSTON, July 31.—The Pilgrim arrived here this forenoon from Marblehead. She will be hauled out tomorrow at the Charlestown navy yard dock and be cleaned and painted. When she is launched she will leave for Newport and take part in the Goelet cup race. After the race she will join the New York cruise.

The Jubilee will be hauled out at high water on Wednesday in the railway on Border street, East Boston, for cleaning and painting. After that she will go to Newport and race for the Goelet cup August 11. The Jubilee's sails are to be altered a little.

Still Missing.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 31.—The search for missing Anna Orr, the 17-year-old daughter of Charles S. Orr, who in a fit of delirium (the result of typhoid malarial fever) jumped from a window at Castleview, her father's home, on Holland Heights, near this city, Saturday night, has thus far proved fruitless.

Offers to Match Nelson for $1,000 to $5,000.

BOSTON, July 31.—C. H. Nelson of Waterville, Me., owner of the stallion Nelson, writes The Globe offering to match Nelson against Kremlin for $1,000 or $5,000 upon any park agreed upon.

A Night Clerk Disappears with $400.

BOSTON, July 31.—T. H. Wilcox, night clerk of the Boston Industrial home, disappeared Saturday night and $400 in money from the safe and valuables worth $200, belonging to Superintendent Roberts, are missing.

Gold Ordered from London.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Advices from Chicago state that the First National bank of that city has ordered $500,000 gold in London for shipment on Wednesday, and that two other banks had ordered smaller amounts.

BOLD ROBBERIES IN CHICAGO.

A Woman Bound and Gagged and Her Jewelry Taken.

CHICAGO, July 31.—One of the most daring robberies ever attempted in this city was committed at the home of Mrs. R Ammon on Saturday afternoon. The thieves succeeded in robbing her of her diamonds and jewelry, valued at $2,900, and made their escape. Two well dressed men were admitted to the house about 3 o'clock, and one of them displayed a detective's badge and said that he was searching for a thief whom he suspected to be a friend of Mrs. Ammon's servant, and to be in hiding in the girl's room. While Mrs. Ammon was showing the supposed detectives up stairs one grasped her by the throat and, putting a revolver to her head, threatened her with instant death if she made an outcry. At the same instant the other man thrust a handkerchief into her mouth and taking a rope from his pocket bound her hands and feet. They then placed her on a bed and robbed her of the jewelry she wore, two diamond rings and diamond ear drops, tearing and lacerating her ears in pulling them out. The thieves then ransacked the drawers of a dresser and found other jewelry and took their departure, leaving Mrs. Ammon bound and gagged. The most startling theory in connection with the robbery is that the thieves were police officers.

May Seymour, the keeper of a disreputable house, was robbed of $3,500 worth of diamonds last night. The police have been asked to find Jessie Stevens, one of the inmates, and a young man seen in her company shortly before the diamonds were taken.

Journalist Barker's Widow Dead.

BOSTON, July 31.—A private dispatch from Richmond, Va., brings news of the death of Rachael A. Barker, widow of Joseph P. Barker, of The Boston Transcript staff. Mrs. Barker never fully recovered from the shock caused by her husband's death at the Federal street fire in January last. For weeks after that disaster she was dangerously ill. On becoming strong enough to leave her home in Cambridge she visited her parents and sister in Richmond. Such gain as the change of scene may have brought proved, however, only temporary and her death had for some time been expected. The body will be brought to Boston for burial beside that of her husband in Holy Cross cemetery, Malden.

California's Big Sugar Beet Factory.

CHINO, Cal., July 31.—The Chino sugar beet factory, the largest in the United States, with a maximum reducing capacity of 740 tons of beets a day, has started. The industry gives direct employment to 2 000 men in Chino and 700 at Anaheim. The crop of the Chino ranch is estimated at 50,000 tons. The crop to be shipped from Anaheim is 10,000 tons. The factory will run day and night throughout the season, reducing the acreage of 600 tons of beets daily. The output for the season will be 16,000,000 pounds of refined sugar.

Drowned Bodies Recovered.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 31.—The bodies of Ernest Severance and Arthur [illegible], drowned in Little Farm pond, Sherborn, yesterday afternoon, were recovered by searchers this afternoon after many hours grappling for them.

Bank By-Laws to Be Enforced.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 31.—The Worcester savings banks give notice tonight that beginning tomorrow they will, in common with the majority of the savings banks throughout the state enforce the provision of their by-laws which requires notice of withdrawals of amounts exceeding fifty dollars.

Italian Catholic Mission Attacked by Fanatics in China.

LONDON, July 31.—A despatch to The Times from Shanghai says that the Italian Catholic mission at Mioo-Yang, 90 miles from Hankow, has been destroyed by native rioters.

Agriculture Congress Delegate.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 31.—Governor Cleaves today appointed B. Walker McKeen delegate from Maine to the World's agriculture congress at Chicago, October 16. Mr. McKeen will give a condensed history of Maine agriculture industry, with special reference to farm culture.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The receipts from internal revenue today were $733,250; customs $469,810; and miscellaneous $12,661.

The national bank notes received for redemption today amount to $88,666.

BOSTON, July 31.—John Hadley, 24 years old, a teamster, fell from his wagon this afternoon and was run over, being injured so badly that he died soon after.

Suicide of Almshouse Inmate.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 31.—The body of Edward B Smith, an inmate of the almshouse, was found in Watershop pond at 2 p. m. today. All appearances indicated suicide. It is believed the man has no relatives living.

THE BOSTON SAVINGS BANKS.

Representatives of Eighty-Five Institutions Hold a Meeting.

RESOLUTIONS REPORTED

Requiring a Notice from Depositors of Intention to Withdraw Funds.

BOSTON, July 31.—Representatives of the eighty-five savings banks in this state met this afternoon at the Tremont house. There must have been 150 men or thereabouts present. The Hon. A. H. Evans of the Boston Five Cent Savings bank presided and Mr. H. D Buxton of the Hyde Park Savings bank was secretary. Mr. D. H. Sweetser of the Lynn Institution for savings, Mr. S. R. Heywood of the Peoples' Savings bank of Worcester and Mr. Gilmore of the Ware Savings bank were made a committee on resolutions. This was the committee report:

Whereas, The action of the savings banks of New York and Brooklyn require a notice from their depositors of their intention to withdraw would seem to make it imperative that some action should be taken by the savings banks of this state to prevent the depletion of the cash resources and the sacrifice of valuable securities, therefore

Resolved, That in the interest of depositors we would recommend that the savings banks enforce their respective by-laws requiring notice of intention to withdraw deposits.

The resolution was amended by a motion that it take effect tomorrow signifying that it was the sense of the meeting that the individual savings banks should act in the matter promptly. The amended motion was approved by 49 yea votes with only two negative votes. The remaining thirty-four institutions were either not represented at the moment when the vote was taken or their representatives were not authorized to act. A number of gentlemen so stated their position but said personally they approved the resolve. The savings bank commissioners approve the action of the meeting.

SENSELESS BANK RUN.

A Few New Haven Depositors Request Their Money.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 31.—A mild run was instituted in New Haven today, when runs began on all of the savings banks in the city. The banks now experiencing runs are: The New Haven Savings bank, President Samuel E Merwin; Connecticut Savings bank, President Governor Luzon B. Morris, and the National Savings bank, President Major Zunder. As soon as the runs became evident and pronounced the bank officials took steps to check it. They posted the following notice on the doors:

Depositors withdrawing their money will be required to give the notice required by law.

Having issued this ultimatum the bank officials were in position to stand any sort of run. They all took refuge behind the sixty or ninety-day limit. They have all received assurances from the other banks and are in a position to fear nothing.

United States Watch Co. Resume Work.

BOSTON, July 31.—The United States Watch company resumed work at their factory at Waltham this morning with a full force, after two weeks' vacation. This was an agreeable surprise to the operatives and the community, as it was feared that, owing to the general depression in the watch market the company would extend vacation another week or make considerable discharge of help, as did the Waltham company. The operatives, both piece and day hands, were notified of a reduction of 15 per cent in pay during the present stagnation only, with the promise that as times improved the old wages would be restored. The reduction applies to foremen as well as others.

Bridgeport Clothing Store.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 31.—Meigs & Co.'s clothing store was badly damaged by fire this morning. Manager Ball estimates the loss at $15,000, total insurance, $30,000. The fire originated in the cellar and its source is unknown.

Three Negroes Lynched for Assaulting a White Woman.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 31.—Two negroes who had committed an assault upon Mrs. Sightler of Gaston, were lynched yesterday.

Will Thompson, an overgrown boy of 16, was caught near Columbia and taken to Gaston early yesterday morning, where his captors were met by a mob of 200 people, who were joined by 100 men from this city. Thompson confessed that he and Tom Preston and Andy Kaigler, all colored, committed the crime a week ago.

The crowd proposed to nail him up in a turpentine barrel and burn him, but instead he was hanged to a small tree. Before the hanging, Arch Sightler, husband of the woman, laid fifty lashes upon the negro's bare back with a heavy buggy trace, every blow bringing blood. When he got tired another man took his place and continued the whipping. Thompson could not yell, as the rope around his choked him. After the hanging 100 men men fired into his body with pistols, shotguns and rifles. Hardly a square inch of his body escaped a bullet.

At 11 o'clock Preston was captured and taken to the scene of the early morning tragedy. Here all the horrors of the Thompson lynching were re-enacted. He was swung from the same limb to which Thompson had been hanged.

A special from Swansea says that the third negro, Kaigler, was hanged to the same tree as the other two this morning at 6.30. No confession could be extorted either from him or Preston, his alleged accomplice.

G. A. R. Day at Lakeview Chautauqua Assembly.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 31.—This was Grand Army day at Lakeview Chautauquan assembly grounds and many Grand Army men, Sons of Veterans and members of Women's Relief Corps were on hand. At 10 30 a rousing camp fire was held in the auditorium, presided over by Department Commander Eli W. Hall of Lynn, and speeches were made by Chaplain Wm. C. Barrows, Judge Putnam of Bridge, Judge Advocate E. B. Burbidge and Medical Director Isaac W. Starbird. At 3 o'clock Chaplain George A. Crawford of Woburn delivered an eloquent address and at his close was followed briefly by Capt. Luke Smith, 81 years old, who fought in the rebellion and whose father fought in the revolution at Concord and Lexington.

This evening Lieut. Wadham gave a very interesting stereopticon lecture.

Stolen Silverware Found.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 31.—Workmen who were stocking the cellar of the Westfield depot with coal on Saturday, were somewhat surprised to find a number of articles of silverware under the depot platform. Investigation showed them to be the sacerdotal vessels stolen from St. John's Roman Catholic church last November by burglars. The articles have been returned to the church. At the time the silver vessels were removed the poor boxes were broken open and their contents taken. At about the same time St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in Portland was entered, but little of value was secured.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Saved Her Sight

"My little girl Hazel two years ago had the grip, leaving her with inflamed eyes, so bad that for seven months we had to bandage them and keep her in a dark room. The family physician and an oculist said the sight of one eye was destroyed and she might lose the other. She suffered intense pain, and when light was admitted to the room would cry as if burned with a hot iron. We began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, and to our surprise her eyes began to improve rapidly. The sight

Still at the Old Homestead.

The article on "Old Trial Justices" in Monday's paper develops the fact that the Richard Bushnell referred to was great-great-grandfather to Mrs. Henry Cardwell and her sisters, one of whom, Miss Jane Morgan, still occupies the homestead built by Richard Bushnell on the New London road, just below Thamesville. The bones of the old-time justice repose with other townsmen of his day under Christ church, on Washington street.

FIGHT WITH A SWORDFISH.

A Noank Captain's Encounter With an Infuriated Monster.

Captain Latham Rathbun of the schooner smack Martha of Noank had a memorable encounter with a swordfish off No Man's Land last week. At one stage of the fight it looked as if Capt. Rathbun would lose his boats, smack, and entire outfit. The fish rose alongside the smack, and the captain and a Norwegian put off in a dory and got the irons firm in the fish's back. The swordfish at once made a rush for the boat which was avoided by quick turns of the oars. The swordfish kept on the surface of the water and seemed to know that no lance was aboard, for every time a pull was taken on the rope to twist the irons he would make a straight dash for the boat. By dextrous handling of the oars over a dozen rushes were avoided. But once he struck the "ribbin" of the boat, and at last his sword went straight through both sides of the bow.

The Norwegian partly plugged the holes with his vest while Latham signalled the smack for help. The spare hand with the remaining boat came and took them aboard, but when they started to row away the fish made a last furious rush for the new boat, but he was handicapped by dragging the disabled dory. By this time the sails of the smack had filled and she was skimming along a mile away with unlashed helm, and it was only by the most strenuous exertions and in an exhausted condition that the crew regained the vessel. When at last Captain Latham put the smack about and reached the battle ground, the swordfish had given up the fight and was floating belly up attached to the crippled boat.

BIG YIELD OF FRUIT.

Peaches Will be More Plentiful and Cheaper than Ever Before.

This is essentially a fruit year, and the remarkably high prices which have ruled so long on ham and bacon and such stuff need not terrify the housekeeper any longer, nor force her to substitute tripe for sirloin steak. There is much nutriment in peaches, and peaches will soon be here by the carload, for never before has the yield been so big and never before was the fruit so fine at this stage of growth.

Last year the peach crop filled 4,000,000 baskets—that is, it was sufficient to fill that number. This year the estimated yield is 5,500,000 baskets, and there is no additional area for their distribution.

Canners are reported as discouraged, because they don't think that it will pay to can as many as they must to keep their works in full operation, and some say that they will not put up any. Within a few days peaches will be everywhere, and within a few weeks they will be a drug on the market, if the crop fully ripens without disaster. The fashion has for years been to destroy the peach crop of the country every spring—that is, on paper. This year the destruction act didn't work.

In fact, this is a big year for all fruit except apples, and while there will be no scarcity of these they will not be so plentiful nor so low in price as they have been in some "apple years." Pears, grapes, melons and all the other delicacies of the season will be plentiful and cheap.

MICAH ROOD.

The Eccentric Genius from Whom the "Mike" Apple took its Name.

Reference was made in Monday's BULLETIN to the "Mike" apple, named for Micah Rood who lived in Norwich Town in 1699. In the papers of the New London County Historical society occurs an address by Patrick Henry Woodward, Esq., of Hartford, entitled: "The Tradition of Micah Rood," which bears upon the origin of this name.

Micah was a farmer, so says the story, not far from the "Susquetonscut" river, tilling his fertile acres with all the zest of youthful ambition. Of a sudden his habits changed; he grew idle, restless, intemperate. He lost interest in both work and worship. Cattle were neglected and neighbors shunned.

Some attributed the change to witchcraft; others hinted at insanity. So the winter wore away, spring returned, and the orchard of Micah Rood burst into blossom.

On one tree, it was then observed, the flowers had turned from white to red. The superstitious neighbors wondered, especially as Rood seemed drawn to this tree by a cruel and resistless fascination.

August came, and the red blossoms had developed into fruit. When the large yellow apples fell from the branches each one was found to contain the well-defined globule to be known thereafter as the "drop of blood."

The conduct of the apple tree deepened the mystery of Micah's behaviour. Conjecture ran riot, and soon it was remembered that the previous fall a peddler of foreign aspect had passed through the village, and had spent the night at Micah Rood's. Popular opinion held that the latter had murdered him for his wages, and had buried his body under the apple tree.

Search was made for him, but in vain; nor was any trace of his stock found among the unhappy Micah's possessions. The settlers were completely baffled. As usual they fell back upon the supernatural, and the evidence was summed up in the manifestations of a troubled spirit and a blood-mottled apple. If a load rested upon the conscience of the unhappy farmer, it never forced confession from his lips.

His farm gradually drifted to decay, and too broken down to reclaim it, he assumed care of the meeting house in 1717, receiving as compensation a peck of corn yearly from each family in the society.

Ten years later the records of the church contain this item:

July 5, 1727. The inhabitants do now, by their vote, agree to allow each man that watches with Micah Rood two shillings per night; also to those who have attended ad Rood by day, three shillings per day.

December 17, 1728. To Jacob Hyde for digging Micah Rood's grave, 5ll. 4s. 0d.

So the little tragedy ends as it began—in mystery. Only while the blood-spotted apple continues to grow the name and history of Micah Rood will be perpetuated.

Queen Elizabeth raised the standard of English money to a point higher than was ever before known, but at the same time made a separate coinage, containing half the usual amount of precious metal, for special use in Ireland. "It's good enough for the Irish," was her remark when a remonstrance was made.

The world's agriculture occupies the attention of 280,000,000 of men, represents a capital of $234,000,000,000 and has an annual product of over $20,000,000,000.

ENGLISH OPINION.

What Leading Journals Say of Siamese Settlement.

FRANCE HAS WELL LINED PURSE.

Her Cleverly Prepared Electoral Success Not Grudged.

LONDON, July 31.—The Standard says editorially: Nobody can doubt that Siam was well advised to surrender, but the European estimate of French fairness, never very high, will be appreciably lowered. We have no reason, however, to grudge France her cleverly prepared electoral success.

"It would have been Quixotic and unwarrantable for us to have interfered actively, but whatever questions arise between Great Britain and France must be defined at once with the utmost clearness.

"If France cherishes peace as warmly as does England, there ought not to be any insuperable difficulty in arranging matters with perfect friendliness.

The Daily News understands that a meeting of the cabinet will be held today to consider questions from the Siamese difficulty.

Siam's acceptance of France's ultimatum, of course, has done a good deal to diminish anxiety, says the News, but it has by no means settled the difficulty.

Between France and This Country.

After commenting on Great Britian's refusal to recognize the blockade, the News continues:

Within the 24 hours which ended at midnight, the whole question of the blockade and the presence of British vessels at Bangkok assumed the gravest aspect. It was evident that a blockade, continued after Siam's submission, could only be directed against British commerce. Happily, France appreciated the gravity of the situation, and there is new reason to hope and believe that the blockade will be withdrawn.

There will still remain, however, important matters for negotiation between Great Britain and France. We hope that the French ministry now will permit itself to understand the best interests of its country in the matter.

This country has been hardly used, not by France, but by a portion of the French press. We used all possible forbearance in the dispute, and despite the relative magnitude of our interests

Did Not Stir a Finger to Save Siam.

We counseled in every possible way surrender, and in conformity with our counsels Siam has yielded.

What remains is not in Siam's power to bestow. One part of the territory which the French covet is occupied by China: the other is no more the property of Siam for cession than of Timbuctoo. Some Frenchmen simply shut their eyes to this. It remains to be seen whether they become the dupes of others who are better informed, but who are content to trade on ignorance for their political ends.

The Daily Telegraph says: Great Britain's attitude toward France throughout has been uniformly courteous and considerate. Doubtless the firm stand taken by Lord Rosebery was a timely warning to the French advocates of a spirited policy.

The Daily Chronicle says: The somewhat shadowy injuries alleged to have been sustained by France receive ample amends by a well filled breeches pocket. The settlement is not equitable, perhaps, but it might be worse for Siam, and, since it ends a situation in which England might have become entangled, it is cordially welcome.

NEW YORK SAVINGS BANKS.

Pronounced Absolutely Safe—Money Is Withdrawn and Locked in Vaults.

HONBOCK, N. Y., July 31.—Charles M. Preston, state banking superintendent, spent Sunday in the city. When asked regarding the action of the New York and Brooklyn savings banks in requiring 30 to 90 days' notice from depositors on intended withdrawals of money, he said:

"They are simply enforcing their bylaws, as they have a right to do at any time without consulting me. In 1892 the increase in savings banks deposits in this state was nearly $41,000,000, a sum largely in excess of the increase in any previous year. I do not attribute this great increase to the unusual prosperity of the country at that period, but to the fact that money was diverted in a measure from legitimate and ordinary channels of business and placed in savings banks, all because a larger revenue could be realized than from other investments which at that time were obtainable.

"This was the condition in 1892; but now, owing to the depression in value of listed securities, I am of the opinion that a great many deposits have been withdrawn for the purpose of investing in securities at present low prices. I know that much money has been withdrawn from savings banks and locked up in safe deposit companies and elsewhere, owing to a foolish lack of confidence on the part of some depositors.

"As to whether this action of the banks will tend to increase public confidence or lessen it is a question of opinion. The fact remains that the deposits in savings banks of New York and Brooklyn are as absolutely safe now as they have ever been."

SPORTS AT CHICAGO.

Amateur Athletic Meeting Open to the Amateurs of the World.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The board of governors of the Amateur Athletic union has decided to hold the international games on the grounds of the League baseball club of Chicago on Sept. 14, 15 and 16. The events are open to all amateurs in the world.

Thursday, September 14, will be devoted to athletic, track and field games, including 75 yard, 150 yard, 300 yard, 600 yard, 1000 yard and two mile runs; 120 yard and 220 yard hurdle races, three-quarter and two mile walks, five mile safety bicycle race, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, putting 16 pound shot, throwing 16 pound hammer, throwing 56 pound weight, tug-of-war (teams of four men), weight unlimited. All events handicap, except tug of war.

The prizes for these games will be the regular A. A. U. die medals to first, second and third in each event, and an emblematic World's fair souvenir medal to every athlete who competes. On Friday, Sept. 15, there will be team contests, such as baseball, lacrosse, football, cricket, etc. Sept. 16 will be a World's fair championship track and field meeting.

FLOCKING TO CHICAGO.

Thousands of Unemployed Workingmen Come in There Daily.

CHICAGO, July 31.—One thousand unemployed men reached Chicago yesterday on freight trains over the various western roads running into the city. They scattered as soon as they reached the suburbs, fearing they might be arrested by city policemen.

The number of men now out of work in Chicago is larger probably than ever before. The work with building trades in the World's fair, as well as in the city auxiliary to the World's fair, has come to an end. Laborers are being thrown out of work daily. Factories are reducing their working force.

The General Electric company furnishes one instance in the discharge last Saturday of 15 traveling salesmen. It will also at once reduce the office and shop forces. Many other large employers of labor in the city are adopting the same course.

No provision has yet been made by Chicago authorities for caring for the unemployed toilers from other cities. If they continue to pour into the city, as western dispatches indicate, in armies of from 200 to 600, it may become a matter that will demand either their transportation or other action on the part of the commissary department.

Inspector Hayes Dead.

LOWELL, Mass., July 31.—Inspector Daniel M. Hayes of the police department died this morning at his home on School street, aged 48 years. Inspector Hayes was appointed a patrolman in 1878, and about 15 years ago was appointed an inspector. His death was caused by inflammation of the bowels being attacked while visiting Boston last Thursday in search of an offender. His death was a surprise to his most intimate friends as it was believed last night he was recovering.

Shot Himself Through the Head.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 31.—Frank Marquard, superintendent of the electric department of the Dickinson Hard Rubber company, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head. He bade his family good-by as usual, and they supposed he had gone to work until the pistol shot was heard. No reason is assigned for the deed.

State Laws For Silver.

DENVER, July 31.—Attorney-General Engley has rendered an opinion to the effect that it is within the power of the legislature to enact appropriate legislation for the establishment of a state depository of silver bullion, and the issuance thereon of certificates assignable by delivery and receivable by the state in payment of state taxes.

Police Hunting Highwaymen.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 31.—The police are today trying to find two highwaymen who operated in this vicinity Saturday night and yesterday. In the western part of the city Saturday night two farm hands were held up and relieved of a small sum. They cannot speak English, and can furnish but a meagre description of the men.

Bricklayers on a Strike.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 31.—The union bricklayers of this city, Manville, R. I., and Millville and Blackstone, Mass., Saturday last demanded a nine-hour day, which was generally refused. Consequently the bricklayers are generally idle today. The number of men affected is not large.

TRADE PARALYZED.

Reports From Peru Indicate That Country to Be in Bad Condition.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—James Hicks, ex-minister to Peru, arrived here yesterday from Panama. He reports that Peru is in a bad condition, all trade being paralyzed, every one being afraid of a bloody revolution that will surely follow the attempt of ex-Dictator Pierola to regain power.

President Bermudez has governed the country wisely but no administrative abilities can make head against the hard times due to the fall of silver. The gold mines of Peru like those of California are pretty well played out and the main revenue is derived from the silver mines, which have cost large fortunes to develop even with cheap labor.

To add to the country's troubles, Pierola is known to be somewhere near the borders, planning to obtain the presidency, while this position is desired by ex-President Caceres, and Bermudez, now in office. Each has a large following, and as the election does not occur until next April, it is probable one of the aspirants will attempt to get the place by force of arms.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Maine state pension agent has received 1148 applications for pensions this year, of which 1000 have been acted favorably upon.

Samuel Jones, aged 25 years, of Portsmouth, N. H., went home intoxicated, threw himself face down on a bed and was smothered.

The French cabinet has decided that Siam's offer to accede to the ultimatum should be accepted. The blockade is still maintained.

Hattie Hall, a young school girl, while picking berries on Somerset mountain, in Portland, Conn., killed a rattlesnake which measured 4ft. 6in. long.

The following fourth-class postmasters for towns in New Hampshire were appointed: A. J. Nickerson, Pequaket; L. B. McLaughlin, Salem; J. O. Deering, Snowville; H. W. Hayward, Temple.

No Fish and No Market.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 31.—The Church Bros.' fish and guano works at Portsmouth, R. I., ceased operations last night, and 247 men and eight steamers are idle. It was at first reported here that the financial condition of the country was directly responsible, but this is not the case. D. T. Church, senior member of the firm, said this morning that there were no fish to be caught, and there was little or no market for the production at the present time.

Missing From Home.

LYNN, Mass., July 31.—Frank Trayer of 25 Waverly street, has been missing from home since last Monday. He is 30 years of age and is of dark complexion. The police have been notified and an effort will be made to find him. Foul play was at first suspected, but his close friends say there is nothing in it. His accounts are all right and it may be that he is seeking new fields of labor.

Hard Times at Marlboro.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 31.—There is a prevailing dullness in the shoe manufacturing business at Marlboro, as nearly all of the 15 shoe shops are now running four days a week. Orders for goods come in plentifully enough, but payments are slow. The result is many men are idle a portion of the time.

Ignorant of the Law.

LEOMINSTER, Mass., July 31.—The case against Amos C. Lurchen for a violation of the law by burying the body of his child in his garden without a permit, was placed on file Saturday, as it appeared that there was no criminal intent on Lurchen's part, and he was ignorant of the law provided for such a case.

THE PROPER CAPER.

Cream white silk gloves, delicately stitched with black, are very fashionable on dressy occasions.

Pale russet and tan ties and shoes are preferred to black with day costumes on the beach or in the mountains.

Silk, net, batiste, flowered silk muslin and organdie form some of the most charming toilets of the summer season. Hats and parasols to match are often en suite.

Some of the beautiful summer toilets of flowered muslin, sprigged or dotted organdie or silk crepon are made with folded empire girdle and Queen Anne sleeve puffs of pale tinted French surah.

The majority of the most fashionable corsages are either seamless and drawn over glove fitting linings or merely fitted with side forms, with the immediate front and back portions slightly gathered.

For wear over the white cloth gown, as well liked at the seaside, is a reefer jacket of white cloth, lined throughout with primrose yellow silk, the deep collar and revers faced with the same pale golden color.

A popular and beautiful fabric is patterned silk grenadine, which, when made up over shot surah with the prevailing color brought out in relief on the corsage, forms an exceedingly rich and becoming toilet.

Sheer white lawn blouses and waists are at once cool, dainty and stylish. They may be in serpentine form, may follow the conventional lines of the silk or crepon shirt waist or drooping blouse or be shaped in some pretty simple fashion of the owner's conception.

Dainty and elegant dresses of India muslin are made with alternate trimmings on the skirt of lace insertion and rows of tiny gathered ruches of the muslin. The corsage is a belted round waist with the same style of trimming coming from the neck and shoulders to the waist.—New York Evening Post.

BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS.

Paquerette will return to Paris the last of August.

Frederick de Belleville has returned to New York much benefited in health by his trip to Europe.

The Kendals have engaged Cecil Morton Yorke and Annie Irish for their coming American tour.

George C. Jenks of Pittsburg is writing for James B. Mackie a new play, which is to be called "The Sideshow."

Marion Booth, the niece of Edwin Booth, will emerge from her retirement and appear in a new comedy the coming season, opening at Pittsburg Sept. 25.

Mrs. Harriet Holman, who was the first to organize a juvenile opera company in America, contemplates forming another to go on the road the coming season.

Manager T. Henry French has purchased the American rights to "A True Lover's Knot," Henry Pettitt's new melodrama, recently produced at the London Adelphi.

Joseph P. Reynolds, the American representative of Mrs. Langtry, has received a cablegram from her directing him to book a tour for next season, beginning in New York city in October.

Charles Alfred Byrne, Louis Harrison and William Furst have disposed of their new comic opera, "Princess Nicotine," to John E. Henshaw and May Ten Broeck, who will produce it about Oct. 1.

"The Algerian" is the title of the new comic opera by Glen Mac Donough and Reginald DeKoven, in which J. M. Hill will star Marie Tempest next season. It will be produced in Buffalo in September.

Augustus Thomas goes to Washington shortly to study the political life in the national capital, of which he will treat in the new play he is writing for production by Charles Frohman at the Empire theater, New York.

Not a Faux Pas.

"I fear I have committed a faux pas," said the elegant young man, who had put his arm around the girl about the time her father opened the front door.

"Don't you worry about the faux pas," she exclaimed, with charming naivete. "It's the pa pa that you want to be looking out for," and the elegant young man did.—Detroit Free Press.

A BALLOON ADVENTURE.

Setting Off Fireworks at an Altitude of a Thousand Yards.

M. John Lemoinne, the French academician and publicist who died recently, made a balloon ascension in his younger years which cured him of the taste of aerostation. He was at the time a bachelor, but in spite of his want of a family had some one who looked after him carefully in the person of the concierge or porter of the house which he occupied. At the moment when the aeronaut gave the word, "Let go all!" from the balloon at the Hippodrome, in Paris, Lemoinne, who was the only person in the basket with the aeronaut, called out to a friend:

"Please go and tell my concierge, who's very fond of me, that I shan't probably sleep at home tonight. Just that—it's all that will be necessary."

Up went the balloon. A height of 1,000 yards was reached.

"Now," said the aeronaut, "we will set off the fireworks."

"What?"

"Oh, I promised to set off some fireworks at this altitude, and as I can't leave this cord I'll trouble you to touch off the roman candles. And do it carefully, for if one of the balls should strike the balloon off she'd go like a bombshell, and that would be the last of us. There they are. Now touch them off."

"Oh, yes. Certainly," said Lemoinne, with his heart in his mouth.

The balloon was plunging this way and that, and the great bag dipping down irregularly. Lemoinne touched the match to one of the roman candles, which he held with a trembling hand. Off it went—then another ball—fizz, pop—almost grazing the great plunging bag, which he knew was filled with a highly inflammable gas.

Then a bengal light was brought out, placed on a metal plate and set off. It sputtered and flamed, and little intense patches of fire were thrown off from it upon the osiers of the basket.

"Put those out!" screamed the aeronaut. "They'll set the basket on fire!"

Lemoinne scrambled over the basket, putting out the sparks of fire. The bengal light sputtered on. A fierce breeze struck the balloon, and it bent low almost to the level of the basket, which tipped sidewise fearfully. The men in it had to cling to its sides for their life.

The fire was scattered about, and some of the osiers of the basket were seen to be smoking. The thing was on fire. Lemoinne had his choice of letting it burn or falling 3,000 feet to the earth. If it blazed, and the fire was communicated to the bag, they would go to the ground anyhow.

The aeronaut meanwhile was plying the line which communicated with the escape valve and was letting out the gas with a rush. Down went the balloon. No more fireworks that day. The descent was made rapidly and successfully, and before long the ground was safely reached.

"It was just in time," said Lemoinne, in telling the story, "for the basket was on fire in several places. If we had had any difficulty in descending my concierge would have been waiting for me yet."—Youth's Companion.

A Tale of Love and Robbery.

"I have just come from a scene of love and robbery," said Otis Hewitt of New York yesterday. "It was an interesting game, and my friend, who was the principal, got the worst of it. There was a family party in the hotel at Jacksonville, Fla., in which we were stopping. The party was composed of a man, his wife, his wife's 20-year-old sister and a child about 3 years old. My chum was very much smitten with the 20-year-old sister and danced attendance on her in great shape—flowers, theaters, boating, and all that sort of thing, you know. Well, one night, a quiet family game of poker was suggested, and of course he was in for it.

"Well, after awhile the cards began to come his way, and in one pot both he and the young woman began to bet against each other rather lively. His hand was a sure winner, and he kept betting it. The brother-in-law and his wife dropped out. Then the brother-in-law looked at the girl's hand and said he would back it for anything, and the betting got more lively. My friend considered that as he was winning the other fellow's money, he needn't care. After a while there was about $160 in the pot and they were still betting. At that point the child ran into the room, and running up to the table stood beside her aunt. Then the young woman said, 'Oh, by the way, this is Flossie's birthday; whoever wins the pot, let us give it to her.' Now, what could the fellow say? He had to agree. He won the pot and withdrew gracefully, but it's safe to bet that Flossie never gets the pot. It's the oddest case of robbery I ever heard of."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Eyes of a Fly.

How doth the fly detect the craftiness of thine approach and the suddenness of thine onslaught? Hast thou considered those orbed brown eyes of his? First, he winketh not, and remember that of the 20 pairs of gladiators matched by the Roman emperor, 'twas the two unwinking swordsmen who survived. For no briefest tick of time are the mirrors of M. D.'s (Musca domestica) sense shrouded over. Approach him on the right, and through 4,000 six sided lens facets he hath knowledge of thee. Approach him on the left, and thou art betrayed to his vigilance by another 4,000 windows. If thou menace him from above, he watcheth thee through three skylights in the roof! Place him on the thirtieth meridian of Mercator's projection, and shall he not take in at one glance the old world and the America and a starry creature of the zodiac overhead?

If thou be a physicist, adapt one of his myriad faced corneas, and with the help of a microscope thou shalt multiply a guardsman into a host of lilliputians and shalt enjoy a civic illumination at the cost of a farthing candle. But not thus doth M. D. take cognizance of creation. Rather doth he use his optical instruments in [illegible] of a manifold stereoscope, and picture to himself the whole ring of the horizon in a single flash. That speck of "gray matter" at the center of his diminutive head is a magic mirror showing the circumference of all without. How he burnisheth those marvelous eyes with the silken brushes nature hath attached to his feet [illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

AN EMPRESS WHO IS A MODEL MOTHER AND HOUSEKEEPER.

Gladstone's Views on French Gowns—Women Draw the Line at Cranky Cranks. Sweet Pickled Watermelon Rinds—Care of Food In Summer.

The Princess Augusta of Augustenburg was a fine looking blond girl with pink and white complexion, splendid physique, a cheerful, unaffected manner and trained in the frugal habits of the ducal court of Dolzig. She was chosen as a possible bride in view of healing the breach between the Holsteiners and the Prussians. After a brief courtship the couple were married in February, 1881, in the Schloss chapel of Berlin. The princess had a difficult part to play between her English mother-in-law and her headstrong young husband, and both Bismarck and the old emperor expected her to take an active part in all their schemes. The emperor became very fond of her, as did all those who were about her during those early years. She possessed a winning, gentle dignity, great powers of self control and an art of healing all quarrels by a word in the right place. She was the mother of five boys when she became empress, and notwithstanding her royal position she remains an ideal domestic housewife, who stays at home and looks after the house and children in true German fashion. She does not lead in the social world and has no female friends, the emperor being her only confidant.

The empress rises early and breakfasts with the emperor every morning at 8 o'clock. At 9 she is in the nursery superintending the baby's toilet, arranging with the nurse for the walks or drives to be taken by the children, and always decides what clothes are to be worn by the young princess. Her one extravagance is in baby clothes, and all the little garments, with few exceptions, are made by German needlewomen under her supervision. At 10 o'clock the empress receives her housekeeper and attends to the luncheon and dinner menus, always including one or two favorite dishes of her husband's. A few moments every morning are spent in the linen room, and not a sheet or a duster is given out except under her direction. At 11 she goes riding with the emperor or walking with two of her boys.

Luncheon comes at 1, and all the children except the last baby are present at this meal, which is conducted without much ceremony. After luncheon the emperor and empress play with the children for an hour. The present ruler is the only kaiser to whom six sons have been born in uninterrupted succession. This last comer is a girl and about 8 months old. The system on which the four eldest sons are being brought up was arranged without reference to their mother's wishes, but she sees that everything is carried out and superintends their studies, is always present at their violin lessons when they are practicing, and all their little troubles are poured into her ears. The empress receives from 3 until 6 and in this time considers charitable cases.

There are sometimes as many as 60 guests invited to dinner, which is at 6 o'clock and lasts an hour. Beside each plate is a menu printed in German and containing no foreign dishes; also a printed programme of 24 pieces of music about to be played. One servant waits upon two persons, and every little detail of the service is closely watched by the empress. She goes every night with the emperor to see the children, and if there is the slightest illness among them she sits up all night and sees that the doctor's directions are carried out. In the nursery she wears a soft, white flannel wrapper and a large apron. Her taste in dress is for bright colors and glossy materials. The empress' early education was very simple, and although she understands French and English she does not care for foreign fashions or literature.

Until her marriage she had not read a novel. She retains an early habit of writing a few lines every day in a diary which no one sees, and at the end of each year it is locked and put away in the safe with her jewels, and another one is commenced. Her bedroom and sitting room are simply furnished in blue. A large allowance is made to her for personal expenses, yet she makes with her own hands all the birthday gifts for her own and the emperor's numerous family. It is said that the emperor has developed into an affectionate and devoted husband, won by his wife's sweetness and submission.—Pall Mall Budget.

Gladstone's Views on French Gowns.

The second day of the congress of representative women at Chicago there were meetings in full blast in five halls of the great Memorial Art palace on the lake front. But not one of these, nor all of them combined, drew one-sixth of the audience which flocked to Hall III to hear a talk upon dress reform. It was packed to the doors and way beyond.

On this occasion all the leaders of advanced dress reform were present and had something to say. Henrietta Russell was there in a funny dove colored dress, which seemed to fall entirely from the shoulders, but which was becoming to the wearer, although, as a woman who stood just behind the reporters' table remarked, it did make her look as though she had hung a bedspread upon her back and a tablespread upon her front. Mrs. Russell had talked with Mr. Gladstone about dress.

Mr. Gladstone told Mrs. Russell that he had for years approved of long lines and Grecian draperies, but had only lately ventured to say so.

"The love for French gowns," said he, "with their tight waists and distorted shoulders, is so deeply implanted in the breasts of English women that it is like making a personal attack upon their lives to say that such gowns are not beautiful. For myself I see nothing lovely about them, and I should be glad to see all women dressed in an art robe without a belt or a collar.

"Men's clothes are all wrong too. But I shall talk about that at some other time. Let us now go on with our crusade against woman's dress—corsets, French heels, tight gloves and tight collars."

Mr. Gladstone promised at some future time to give his ideas more fully.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Women Draw the Line at Cranky Cranks.

The Woman's Federation of Philanthropic and Christian Societies of the city held its first meeting since its permanent organization, yesterday afternoon. A letter from Miss Ada C. Sweet, president of the Municipal league of Chicago, was read. The writer told the women to "particularly avoid putting cranks in the foreground of this work."

This letter was listened to in complete silence and had evidently put some of the equal suffragists who were present to thinking, for at its conclusion one of them arose and asked what a crank was.

"I want to know what a crank is," said she. "I am called a crank."

Mrs. Byron Sherry arose and explained that a crank, according to her theory, was one who was ridiculous in the judgment of another person. "It is a test," she said, "of a person's moral and intellectual strength. The saloon keeper considers the temperance woman a crank, the frivolous woman thinks the woman who belongs to a sewing society a crank, and the society woman considers the equal suffragist a crank. All who inaugurate great reforms are called cranks. If you are afraid of being called a crank, you don't belong here, where people want to do earnest work and fight time honored evils."

Many offered their definitions of the word crank. A hardworking suffragist and zealous W. C. T. U. woman considered it an honor to be called a crank because it was a synonym for making things go.

It was finally decided that a "cranky crank" should be avoided by the federation, and by this title was meant a person who had a superabundance of zeal without judgment.—Kansas City Times.

Sweet Pickled Watermelon Rinds.

Peel the rinds with a sharp knife that will take off the green skin evenly. Trim off also every trace of the pink flesh of the fruit, because it is too juicy to make a firm, crisp pickle. Then cut the strips of rind into small pieces 2 to 3 inches long, and placing them in a large earthen dish sprinkle them lightly and evenly with salt. Cover the dish and let it stand overnight. In the morning drain off the water that will have formed, rinse the rinds in cold water and cook them in a steamer until a broom splint will readily pierce them. Cooking the rinds by steam is an easy method, as they are less liable to burn than when they are cooked in spiced vinegar. When the rinds are tender, take them out carefully with a skimmer and put them into a stone jar.

Take good cider vinegar for the basis of the pickle. Allow a pound of sugar to a pint of vinegar and add also half an ounce of stick cinnamon broken into inch pieces and a half teaspoonful each of whole cloves and blades of mace. The whole amount of vinegar, sugar and spices used must of course depend on the quantity of rinds to be pickled, but a quart of vinegar is usually sufficient for the rinds of a medium sized melon. Boil the vinegar, sugar and spices together vigorously half an hour, skimming off the froth, and pour the pickle boiling hot over the rinds. Press the rinds down under the pickle by means of an earthen plate or saucer, fasten the cover on and tie a cloth over the whole. These pickles will be ready for use in two weeks.—Harper's Bazar.

Care of Food In Summer.

The food question is often a serious one to the country housekeeper. It is usually within her power to get a good supply of fresh vegetables, milk, butter and eggs, but one cannot be sure of even these things unless they are produced on one's own farm. If the housekeeper must depend upon the marketman's cart for her meat supply, and she is without an icehouse, she must resort to many expedients to provide her family with the necessary variety of animal food. The marketman may bring fresh beef, lamb, veal, poultry, corned beef, salt pork, tongue and sometimes fresh fish. If there is an icehouse on the place, it is an easy matter to lay in a supply which shall last until the next visit, but if not other means must be used.

Charcoal is of great value in keeping ice chests, storerooms and food sweet. Place a shallow dish of fine charcoal in the ice chest. In milkrooms and other rooms where food is kept set dishes of charcoal. If poultry or birds are to be hung in a cool room for a few days, remove the internal organs and partially fill the body with charcoal. Now wrap the birds in paper and hang up. If the outside of the poultry is rubbed with black pepper before being covered with the paper, it will be still further protected from the flies. Small birds, livers, kidneys, sweetbreads, etc., may be wrapped in paraffin paper and then be buried in a bed of charcoal.—Maria Parloa in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Minuet Party.

One of the recent fads is a minuet party. This has a peculiar effect where fanciful costumes—picture costumes as they are called—are introduced. At a recent fashionable party a minuet was danced by the bridal party, the bride and groom leading off the dance. Minuet parties are said to be most conducive to wedding parties, for among other things a minuet party is a charming manner for fostering friendships, almost as good as private theatricals. One retains the same partner at all the practices, of course, and if a careful selection has been made this is an advantage, as American girls who encourage the idea, even if there be no minuet in question, know well. A great deal in a minuet party depends on the mise en scene. It is not enough to provide pretty faces and graceful dancers. The room should be large and the spectators be crowded as much as possible out of sight. A line of benches set close against the wall is recommended, as it takes far less space than chairs. It must be admitted that they are not as comfortable; still some sacrifices must be made. If a bowerlike appearance be given to the room by wreaths of evergreen round the cornice drooping down in the corners and round the windows, so much the better.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Happy Little Princess.

The Princess Margaret of Connaught, who is only 11 years old, took her mother's place at the recent opening of a bazaar at Southsea. Her father accompanied her, and the two were addressed as "Your royal highnesses," much to the delight of the little princess, who was presented with a handsome casket.

Children Over Six Hundred Years Ago.

Somebody has unearthed a book written by Bartholomew Anglicus about 1260, of which one of the most amusing chapters is on the children of his day. Of these he writes: "They dread no perils more than beating with a rod, and they love an apple more than gold and make more sorrow and woe for the loss of an apple than for the loss of a heritage. They desire all that they see and pray and ask with voice and with hand. They keep no counsel, but they tell all that they hear and see. Suddenly they laugh, and suddenly they weep. Always they cry and jangle and jape; that uneath they be still while they sleep. When they be washed of filth, anon they defile themselves again. When their mother washeth and combeth them, they kick and sprawl and put with feet and with hands, and withstand with all their might." All of which sounds very modern and up to date.

The Midway Plaisance Girl.

The Midway girl is attired alike—that is, all of her wear broad, straight brimmed straw hats, with pretty ribbons and a high crown. She has a shirt waist and a pretty tie, sometimes soft silk in a butterfly bow, oftener in simple sailor knot, with the ends tucked in. Over this is an Eton jacket, simple and sweet, but mightily becoming withal. She has discarded the trailing gown with the great good sense that characterizes her and has on a plain stuff skirt that clears the ground all around. Her boots and gloves are sensible. The plaisance is a mile long, and there are many things to be handled in the bazaars and round the tables near the great bands, so she is comfortably booted and not gloved with things that soil easily.—Chicago Mail.

"The Waggle."

Are you on to the new walk—the new gait—of the fashionable girl? The paragrapher of the summer girl does not appear to have caught it, but it is here. It beats the Grecian bend or anything the girls have ever yet adopted as their own. It can be best described as a swagger. The head is moved from side to side, the shoulders and the whole body sway, giving exactly the motion a person apparently has who is standing sideways in a boat when the waves are rough. It is a foreign notion introduced last season abroad, and the few fashionable women who are trying it on may think it beautiful, but it isn't. It is technically called "the waggle."—Philadelphia Times.

Economical Costumes.

It is very much the custom for girls and young matrons whose purses are not overweighted to have two very well cut skirts, one of some soft serge or like serviceable material, the other of dark silk, plain or figured, and to wear with these four or five pretty waists turn and turn about—cambric, pink or blue linen, victoria lawn, etc., for the morning, and silk for the afternoon, either shot, checked, plain or flowered, of surah, china or bengaline silk. With navy blue silk skirts are worn pretty blouses of pale blue or one of the oriental printed silks, which, despite the lightness of texture, are of practically endless wear and always in excellent taste.

Red Is the Rage.

Spanish effects and also Italian mixtures are on the special list of fashions this summer. In the latter style of dress red, of course, prevails. Red of every shade, red triumphant, absolute and insolent, will flourish in tones and semitones all the summer and autumn seasons through. There will be no abatement in the popularity of this striking torrid color, no matter what blood boiling degree the thermometer reaches. This particular hue appears to have some inexplicable affinity with the advanced and somewhat erratic tastes of the times. Nine out of ten women delight in red, and 98 out of 100 men detest it.—New York Post.

The New Walking Stick For Women.

If you have not seen the new walking stick, you will do so before long. The stick has the appearance of an umbrella rolled extremely tight and slender to a degree. The handle in ebony or light walnut, with a gold band, is convenient to hold. Nothing indeed could be smarter. Many women who love walking with a support forego the pleasure because of the mannish look of the ordinary stick. The mock umbrella changes all this. It has, moreover, the advantage of being as light as a feather.

Grandma's High Shell Comb.

Another of grandmamma's old fashioned ornaments is in great demand among her grandchildren since empire gowns and hair parted in the middle and combed down over the ears came in style. That's her high shell comb. Those who have no grandmamma to apply to can of course purchase one, as everything used at that epoch is now shown.

The Latest Kind of a Walk.

Another new fad is the heavy step. This is done by lifting each foot in a solemn kind of way and putting it down as if it weighed a ton. A series of these steps may be termed an individual funeral procession. It isn't a fast kind of walk, but it may be depended upon as a means to get there.—Exchange.

Women behave in street cars a mighty sight better than they get the credit for. A strong woman yields a seat to one who needs it more. A man looks for a pretty woman to give his to.—Exchange.

Pretty Cold Weather.

Two boatmen on the Ohio river were talking about cold weather and of a certain severe winter. "It was just awful," said one of them. "At Cincinnati the river was froze tight, and the thermometer went down to 20 degrees below Cairo."

"Below which?" asked his puzzled companion.

"Below Cairo, you blubberhead! You see, when it freezes at Cairo it must be pretty cold, so they say so many degrees below Cairo."

But light was bursting in upon the other. "No, they do not," he exclaimed eagerly. "You've got it all wrong. It's so many degrees below Nero. I do not know what it means, but that's what they say when it's dreadful cold."—Harper's Young People.

Two Strange Meetings.

At table d'hote in a New York hotel two strangers met about a year since. An interesting conversation ended by hearty pledges of mutual friendship. Precisely six months later to the day and almost to the hour they again met, without the slightest provision or prearrangement, at the same hotel and the same table. During the interval each had traveled around the world, one eastward, the other westward.—Exchange.

Chokes, Not Jokes.

"Don't send the horse reporter to any more hangings," said the proprietor of a Texas paper to the managing editor.

Managing Editor—Why not?

Proprietor—In this report of the double hanging he has it that the two entries came in neck and neck. In reporting executions levity is out of place.—Texas Siftings.

NEW SCHOOL LEGISLATION.

The legislature of 1893 added several important acts to the school laws of the state which may improve the facilities for education under a school system which is regarded more faulty than meritorious.

The act conferring upon women the right to vote for school officers and upon school questions is regarded as a law that may materially change the administration of the schools of the state.

An important act is that which provides for the proper ventilation of the schoolhouses for the preservation of the health of the pupils. Under this law the state board of education or a local board, finding the lighting or ventilation defective, or the sanitary conditions unsatisfactory, may recommend alterations of the building for remedying the defects, and if these authorities do not act within two weeks, the board of health may be called in, and they have the power to order the changes made as recommended if they meet their approval.

Another act compels every town and school district having at least 10,000 inhabitants to maintain evening schools.

The selectmen of every town are now required to provide each schoolhouse with a United States flag, and it is the statutory duty of schools to observe flag day each year.

There are more than a score of acts with reference to schools to which educators and committee should give their attention.

AN UNPOPULAR POLICY.

The policy of the pension office in suspending old pensioners whose claims have been proven and challenging them to reprove their claims, has not only brought distress to many old and worthy pensioners, making a maniac of one old soldier of eighty-three years, but has disgusted the democratic union soldiers in all the free states. There is no disguising the fact that the rule and the order of the pension department is designed to embarrass old soldiers and to rid the department of many of them by unfair means. It is not an easy matter to reprove claims, for doctors and witnesses die. There are feeble veterans in Norwich who ought to be receiving pensions of from $25 to $36 a month, who were, on account of the death of witnesses and inability to establish good claims, obliged to make application under the invalid pension law and take $12 a month, which is not sufficient to keep them in comfort.

Congress ought to take notice of this abuse of pensioners and see that the unjust rulings of Secretary Smith are suspended, and that the union soldiers are treated as well as the widows of the heroes of Monterey and Chapultepec!

CHEAP FOREIGN LABOR.

It is generally conceded that the work of foreign workmen does not compare with work turned out by American workmen in the same classes of industry, yet, the attraction of cheapness takes from the workmen of this country a large amount of work. This is specially true of the iron ship-building industry which makes the Clyde famous; and although the American armored ships are superior to the English, the builders of this country cannot compete with English builders on account of the low wages paid to iron workers. The other day the narrow escape of the English battleship Hood from meeting a fate similar to the Victoria, revealed the risks which come of poor work to the purchaser.

The armor clad ship Hood was about to leave Chatham to join the Mediterranean fleet, when it was found that her forward compartments were full of water, and that the ship was leaking badly. She was immediately docked to find out what the matter was with her. It was found to be traceable to bad workmanship on the bow. A rivet which should have been driven through was only driven part through the plates, and the vacant rivet hole was covered with a stud. The moment any strain was brought to bear a serious leak opened along the keel plates, near the stem. But for its timely discovery this shiftless piece of work would have sent this battleship with its seven hundred officers and men to the bottom. Cheap work is usually the poorest work, because cheap workmen are generally the poorest workmen.

EASTWARD-BOUND WORKMEN.

The exodus of idle workmen from the west eastward has begun, and the turnpikes are lined with companies of unemployed men who expect help by coming this way. It is something new for them to start on extended tramps in companies of three or four hundred; but one company as large as that is said to be marching through Iowa; and another large crowd seized a railroad train and compelled the engineer to take them over the road as far as he could run, and they too will soon be on the road. With such hordes of hungry men on the road there is danger of lawlessness, and evil results are to be feared. The position which the authorities of Kansas City took when asked to provide for them is the position every place, by force of circumstances, is bound to take, that they have all they can do to care for their own poor for which they are specially taxed. There are idle men everywhere in these times needing assistance, and they should remain in the towns where they have worked and where they may be aided until their labor is again needed. It is foolish for men without means to throw themselves upon strangers with the expectation of getting help.

THEORY VS. PRACTICE.

Congressman William Everett, popularly known as "the Quincy school master," entered upon his career with mugwumpian notions with reference to the part a congressman should take in aiding the distribution of spoil in his district. He did not believe it was any part of a congressman's duty to endorse any candidate for an office, and positively refused to come down to the customary level of every day politics. He has kept his word and lived thus far; but the democratic leaders of the Seventh district did not like his attitude so they united the other day and had a conference about his future prospects, and plainly told him that if he did not come down to practical politics and lend himself to the promotion of the schemes of those who elected him to office he could never get another nomination to office. Under the party pressure, showing signs of nervousness, Dr. Everett yielded, and taking a note sheet he wrote a recommendation for the man in whose interest the party workers had called upon him. He was pulled from his elevated political plane down to the plane of practical politics in good shape, and will undoubtedly, after this, be distributing his signature the same as the old line politicians have always done, for the good of himself and of his fellow workers.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Hoke Smith has saved the government $150,000 in three months by refusing to pay pensions that are due!

A curious result of the Sherman bill: The government issues to the silver states gold certificates for 4,500,000 ounces of silver a month, and brings upon them dire distress.

The democratic record for five months: Shrinkage of values, one thousand millions; 100 banks failed; five thousand industries at a stand still; a million workingmen idle; 5,000 pensioners denied their just dues; and Cleveland fishing for scorpions in Buzzards bay. Hurrah, for Cleveland and reform!

At Long Island City the Roman Catholics have accepted from the Baptists of that place the use of their church while they are rebuilding an edifice that has been burned. This is a manifestation of Christianity which is seldom equaled and it will do much to break down the sectarianism and bigotry which keeps Christian brethren apart.

The best husband in Brooklyn is a man who earns $18 a week and gives his wife $15 of it every Saturday night. He hasn't the best wife in Brooklyn, for when he recently decided to take a night off with the boys, something he had not done for fifteen years, she cut up his hat, and he didn't have the grit to go bare-headed. He doesn't claim he is mismated; but says "he is a man that is completely tied up!"

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

You Were!

"Were we lying," anxiously inquires the democratic governor of Missouri, "when we talked this tariff issue and thrust it forward as the author of all the ills the body politic is heir to?" An increasing number of the American people are concluding that you were.—[Boston Journal.

What Democracy Means.

It is a curious circumstance that while President Cleveland is committed to the unconditional repeal of the silver act, the vice president, whose official function is to preside over the senate, is on record as a violent inflationist, a fiat money man and an advocate of free coinage.—[Boston Journal.

Mr. Cleveland's Opportunity.

When President Cleveland shall have declared his [illegible] from the views expressed in his message of 1887, and when congress shall have declared its purpose to let the tariff alone, the great cause of disquiet in "small as well as big centers of industry" will be eliminated.—[Utica Herald.

The Effect of the "Change."

During the last fourteen weeks the sales of wool in Philadelphia, Boston and New York have been 30,429,174 pounds less than during the corresponding time last year, and this notwithstanding a marked decline in prices. This is the shadow of free trade. Manufacturers are afraid to buy, even at much lower prices, and mills are closing up every day.—[Philadelphia Press.

Punishing the Veterans.

The pension spy system is working to the satisfaction of Hoke Smith. Pensioners are dropped from the rolls without reference to their service, their wounds or present condition and needs. Hoke Smith has set out to save $18,000,000, and the pensioners are to be compelled to contribute this sum.—[Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

A Shining Example.

General Black, late commissioner of pensions, will be a shining example in Washington next winter of the sincerity of democratic devotion to "pension reform." General Black receives a pension of $100 monthly as a physical wreck, but that did not prevent him from running for congress last fall in Illinois. It did not prevent his election, either, and it probably will not prevent him from drawing a $5,000 salary as representative.—[Boston Journal.

The Bulletin.

BOOH!

On afternoons, when baby boy has had a splendid nap
And sits, like any monarch on his throne, in nurse's lap,
In some such wise my handkerchief I hold before my face,
And cautiously and quietly I move about the place;
Then with a cry I suddenly expose my face to view,
And you should hear him laugh and crow when I say "Booh!"

Sometimes that rascal tries to make believe that he is scared,
And, really, when he first began, he stared and stared and stared,
And then his under lip came out, and farther out it came,
Till mamma and the nurse agreed it was a "cruel shame"—
But now what does that same wee toddling, lisping baby do
But laugh and kick his little heels when I say "Booh!"

He laughs and kicks his little heels in rapturous glee, and then
In shrill, despotic treble bids me "Do it all again!"
And I—of course I do it, for, as his progenitor,
It is such pretty, pleasant play as this that I am for!
And it is, oh, such fun, and I am sure that I shall rue
The time when we are both too old to play the game of "Booh!"

—Eugene Field in Chicago News.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Growing date palms in the interior of Australia is being tried with fair success, some fine young trees having been sent over from the Sahara.

That fragile and paradoxical wonder, the "snow plant," which is found in the Sierra Nevada mountains, is pronounced by botanists as probably our most remarkable plant.

Among the products which science has put to valuable service is the nettle, a weed which is now being cultivated in some parts of Europe, its fiber proving useful for a variety of textile fabrics.

The Japanese secure the fine poise their flowers have when arranged by packing them in sand instead of water. The beauty of the stem is, however, lost by this arrangement and the flowers fade sooner.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings In Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 31.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 8 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market opened this morning without any improvement in the situation. London came irregular, and was especially weak for Louisville and Nashville and St. Paul. The short interest was so large in Western Union and the street so bare of the stock that there was some good bidding for it at the opening. But the attack of the traders on sugar weakened the whole list. Their success in this was aided by the belief that the money market this week was likely to be tight and clearing house certificates would have to be liberally resorted to.

The local market opened regular. General Electric showed the greatest strength. Opening at 57⅛, the fraction below Saturday's final sale, it advanced to 61, weakening at noon to 59¾. Sugar was 1 down at the start at 66, and then sold to 65⅛, recovering again to 66. The preferred was off from 70 to 68¾. Atchison opened ¼ weaker at 18, declined ¼ to 17¾, then rallied the fraction. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy was 1⅝ down at the opening at 70, but rallied to 71¼, while New England was off ½ at 17⅛. West End Railway ¼ at 49 and Union Pacific ¼ at 17. Boston and Maine and Pullman were both weak, the former down from 145 to 140 and the latter from 149 to 139.

The bond market was without feature. General Electric 5s sold 1 down to 64. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy 7s ¼ down to 103, and Atchison 4s ¾ down to 67¼. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy convertible 5s were up 1 at 88.

HAIL BRITANNIA.

Prince of Wales Yacht Wins the First Race.

DEFEATS NAVAHOE AND VALKYRIE

The American Gained at the Race Proceeded.

LONDON, July 31.—The regatta of the Royal London Yacht club took place today. The course was from a mark boat off the clubhouse at West Cowes, Isle of Wight, eastward to and around the Warner lightship, then westward to the buoy marking the East Lepe shoal, passing north of Norman fort. The course was sailed over twice.

The weather was beautiful and the Solent was filled with pleasure craft of every description. There was a fair breeze from the north-northwest, and the Yachts Got Away In Capital Style.

The boats that took part in the race were Royal Phelps Carroll's Navahoe, Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie, J. Jameson's Iverna, the Prince of Wales' Britannia, A. D. Clarke's Satanita and P. Donaldson's Calluna.

The starting gun was fired at 10 o'clock, and under full sail the yachts made for the line. The Valkyrie (with Lord Dunraven on board) was first across; the Iverna Britannia (with the Prince of Wales on board), Satanita, Navahoe and Calluna following in the order named.

Great interest was manifested in the Navahoe, which is the American challenger for the Royal Victoria Yacht club's gold cup, the Brenton Reef cup and the Cape May cup.

At the Beginning of the Race

the Valkyrie drew away sharply from the other boats, and the Navahoe seemed to close slightly. The wind freshened on the rising tide, and the Navahoe, with everything except spinnaker set, began to haul up on the leaders.

At 12.30 o'clock the Navahoe was leading, the Valkyrie being two seconds behind.

The Navahoe continued to gain slowly, and at 1:15 was leading the Valkyrie by 10 seconds. The Britannia was a close third.

The wind moderated during the second run and the Navahoe led the fleet. In the windward work the Valkyrie battled the Navahoe, the Britannia drawing clear and taking first place.

The Navahoe lost in the beat the second time, working up to the Calshot lightship, and here she was third boat, though very close to the leaders. The position of the boats at Calshot the second time was: The Britannia, the Valkyrie and the Navahoe bunched, with the Satanita, the Calluna and the Iverna in order.

The Navahoe Sailed a Great Race and, for her maiden attempt, made a good showing. She is sure to improve by racing.

The Navahoe was so close to the Valkyrie at the finish of her first race that she will be most dangerous.

The race ended amid great cheering and the screeching of steam whistles.

The Britannia finished one minute and three seconds ahead of the Valkyrie, and 32 seconds added to this over the American boat. The Navahoe lost 16 seconds from Calshot to the finish line, a broad reach of four miles.

CHOLERA IN RUSSIA.

Official Returns Show Marked Increase and Terrible Death Rate.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 31.—Official returns just issued show a marked increase in the ravages of cholera in the parts of the empire where the disease is epidemic.

The figures show that from July 9 to July 22 there were in the government of Podolia 1164 cases and 360 deaths, as against 400 cases and 123 deaths during the week preceding.

In the government of Orel, from July 16 to July 22, there were 224 cases and 91 deaths, as against 140 cases and 56 deaths during the previous week.

In the government of Toola there were 77 cases and 19 deaths from July 16 to July 22. In the preceding week there were only 31 cases and eight deaths.

In Moscow, from July 16 to July 22, there were 73 cases and 21 deaths. The epidemic exists, though in less severe form, in the governments of Viatka, Kasan, Riasan, Oosta and Simbersk.

ENFORCE THE LAWS.

This Is What Secretary Hoke Smith Says He Is Doing.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A special to The Sun from Chicago, in an interview with Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior, gives the following:

When told it had been reported that a number of northern Democratic congressmen are finding fault with his pension policy, the secretary said he did not believe the report.

"The policy of the department, as far as the secretary is concerned," he said, "is to enforce the law as it was enacted by congress. No pensioner who has once proven his claim will be asked to do so again.

During the investigation of the Bennett case the medical referee of the department, Dr. Ingraham, notified the acting secretary that the department had allowed pensions under the act of 1890 without regard to the capacity of the applicant to do manual labor. This was in clear violation of the act of congress. If you will print the decision rendered in the case together with the order, you will have a full explanation of my views on the subject.

"You will find that the department is simply determined to enforce the laws as it finds them."

WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Story of Forged Grain Certificates Denied by Leading Officials.

DULUTH, July 31.—George C. Spencer, president of the Lake Superior Elevator company, and Colonel Graves, formerly president of the same company, and a director of the Northern Pacific Elevator company, deny in every detail the story published east that New England and New York banks have been victimized by forged certificates issued by the Northern Pacific company.

"There is absolutely no truth in the story," said Mr. Spencer; "there has been no overissue of certificates and no use of forged certificates as collateral in New York or any place else. The only probable foundation for the story is the fact that a plan for the reorganization of the company is under consideration, under which the debts of the Northern Pacific company will be taken up, and Mr. Kellogg of St. Paul, attorney for the company, has just returned from Boston, where he submitted the plan to the creditors of the Northern Pacific company. The scheme for reorganization has been accepted, and it is practically assured."

Colonel Graves said: "It is a sensational story without any foundation. No forged certificates were ever issued or used for collateral. The Northern Pacific company met with losses, but there was nothing fraudulent in the matter."

Catholic Mission Destroyed.

SHANGHAI, July 31.—The Italian Catholic mission of Mien-Yan, 90 miles from Hankow, has been destroyed by native rioters.

THE WOOTEN GANG.

Battle With Four of These Outlaws Kills One and Wounds Another.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A special to The Sun from Vinita, I. T., says: United States Deputy Marshals Peck, Bruner and Posey had a battle with four outlaws a few miles west of this city late Saturday evening, in which one of the outlaws was killed and another severely wounded and captured.

The dead man lived three hours after being shot, and stated that he had participated in the mountain valley bank robbery, and belonged to the Wooten gang of cow and horse thieves that has been stealing and plundering in the district west of this place for more than a year. His name is Ralph Halleck, alias Roxie, and his home is in Kansas. Wooten, the leader of the gang, and another outlaw escaped.

POISONED LIQUOR.

Man Who Sold It Under Bonds to Appear at Trial Later.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 31.—James F. Quinn, who, it is claimed sold the liquor to John Gilligan, William Norris and Robert Kyle, which poisoned them, was this morning arraigned before Justice Shave in the district court on a warrant charging that he mixed poison in the liquor with intent to kill Gilligan.

He pleaded not guilty, and was held under $3000 bonds for his appearance for trial two weeks from today.

Norris died last night, and Gilligan died at 7:30 this morning. Kyle will probably recover.

No Case Against Beard.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—In the case of Collector Beard, who is charged with being engaged in the importing business, Secretary Carlisle said today that an examination of the papers did not confirm the allegations made against the collector. "There is no evidence," said the secretary, "that the collector is a member of a firm which is carrying on business and importing goods."

Damaging Cloudburst.

DENVER, July 31.—A cloudburst at Black Hawk, yesterday afternoon, swept through the streets of the place, doing considerable damage and carrying Christopher Smith, proprietor of the Little Hotel, down to his death. The railroad track in the canon was covered with sand and all traffic stopped until this morning.

Lowell Jeweler Dead.

LOWELL, Mass., July 31.—Eugene Robitaille, a well known jeweler, died this morning at his home, 577 Middlesex street, aged 45 years. Mr. Robitaille was born in Quebec, and was in business in Ottawa and Boston before coming to Lowell. He was prostrated on Friday by the illness which caused his death.

Locomotive Boiler Bursts.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 31.—The boiler of the only locomotive on the Martha's Vineyard railroad burst this morning, and traffic with Edgartown is suspended.

Survivors of Victoria.

LONDON, July 31.—The British warship Triumph sailed from Malta for Portsmouth on Saturday last with 300 survivors of the Victoria disaster on board.

Salisbury Beach Private Property.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 31.—By the late decision of the New Hampshire supreme court in the case of the town of Seabrook vs Fowler a strong precedent in the commoners' favor for their possession of Salisbury beach is established. This was a test case to determine the ownership of the beach. Fowler was a squatter on beach land and the town of Seabrook tried to collect rent from him. The decision states that the town has no claim to the beach, but is private property.

Four Days a Week.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 31.—The Fitchburg Manufacturing company, which makes ginghams, announces this morning that its mill will run but four days a week until further notice. The Putnam Machine company has closed its tool shop, and is running its machine works on full time, though with a reduced number of hands.

Train Struck a Sand Bar.

DENVER, July 31.—A passenger train on the Rio Grande road struck a sand bar near Cotopaxi, on the Arkansas river, last night, and the engine and baggage car were overturned. Engineer Andrews and an unknown man were killed and Fireman Ellis badly injured.

Maine Yachting Notes.

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., July 31.—Yacht Foam will clean and paint on the railway. Yacht Lucy and steam yachts Polly and Gleaner have arrived, cruising westward. The Massachusetts club will sail for Rockland today.

High Toned Hunting.

WENHAM, Mass., July 31.—The fall hunt of the Myopia club will commence the latter part of September. The Beverly people will participate in the rides, and before starting hot breakfasts will be served.

A Contented Pastor.

SALEM, Mass., July 31.—Rev. G. F. Haines of the Advent church has declined the offer he received from the church in Worcester. The pastor is satisfied to stay where he is.

Gold Coming Our Way.

LONDON, July 31.—The business situation looks bright this morning. The outflow of gold to America is causing a steady rise in the rate of discount in the open market, though the bank of England is in a position to stand the export of $20,000,000 without raising the official rate.

Burglars at Natick Escape.

NATICK, Mass., July 31.—Burglars entered Mublig's shirt factory last evening and stole $300 worth of machinery, the property of George W. Travis. The police fired upon the thieves and recovered the goods, but the robbers escaped.

Governor Russell in Prison.

BOSTON, July 31.—Governor Russell and Superintendent Jones of the prison commission made a tour of the state prison this forenoon, and his excellency expressed much pleasure at the result of the inspection.

New District Attorney.

BOSTON, July 31.—Hon. Sherman Hoar has notified United States District Attorney Allen that he will assume the duties of that office tomorrow.

Suicidal Intent.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., July 31.—Michael O'Toole of this place, who recently drank carbolic acid with suicidal intent, died last night. He leaves a widow.

Lieutenant and Seven Soldiers Drowned.

SAIGON, July 31.—Lieutenant Puysegur and seven soldiers of the French force were drowned last week in the river near Kroung island.

MISSING MORRILL.

Reported to Have Been Seen in Manchester.

BARBER SAW HIM IN MONTREAL.

First Day of Amoskeag Shut Down—To Start Up Aug. 28.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 31.—The report gained credence here this morning that cashier Charles F. Morrill, who left this city so suddenly last Wednesday, and has since been under a cloud, had returned. Two ladies claimed in the most positive manner they had obtained a glimpse of him at his residence.

A newspaper representative visited the fashionable quarter at the North end, where the Morrill mansion is situated, but found the curtains drawn, and there was no response to the ringing of the door bell.

There were no signs of life, with the exception that several workmen were busy building an L to the house.

At the stable the coachman was found, and said that Mrs. Morrill was away, staying with her sister in the eastern section of the city, and that

Mr. Morrill Had Not Returned.

It is not believed possible for him to have returned and not have been recognized on the train or on the street in getting to his stopping place.

Edmond Leblanc, a hairdresser, who knows Mr. Morrill, returned from a trip of several weeks in Canada yesterday. He says that he is sure he saw Mr. Morrill in the dining hall of the Windsor Hotel in Montreal last Friday. That there was a large party present and he was near enough to recognize him.

What attracted his attention to the party was a peculiarity which Mr. Morrill had of twisting his mustache. He was doing this when identified by Mr. Leblanc. After the latter had concluded his meal he went over to that portion of the dining hall where he had seen Mr. Morrill eating, but could not find him.

The streets are filled with a large number of idle people this morning, this being the first day of the shutdown in the Amoskeag mills.

Eight Thousand Operatives Are Idle, and this number would have been increased by another thousand had not the Jefferson mill resumed work after a shutdown two weeks ago.

All fear that the mills will not start up again after a shutdown of four weeks has vanished, and unless something unforeseen happens they will begin running Aug. 28 as usual. But there is to be a scaling down in the wages paid operatives.

It is given out on unquestioned authority that the general help will suffer a cutdown of 10 per cent, and that those who have been receiving somewhat better pay will have to submit to a reduction of 15 per cent.

CARRIAGE MEN VEXED.

They Object to Ferd E. French as Member of World's Fair Committee.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 31.—There is much dissatisfaction among the carriage manufacturers of this town over the selection of Ferd E. French of Boston as a member on the committee of awards at the Columbian exposition.

About 30 manufacturers of the town have sent a petition to John B. Thatcher, chairman of the committee on awards, remonstrating against the selection of Mr. French and urging the appointment of John A. Scott and Chauncey Thomas of Boston to membership on the committee. The petition is indorsed and approved by the World's fair committee of the Amesbury board of trade.

Bismarck Out of Politics.

BERLIN, July 31.—While passing through Hanover on his way to Kissengen, Prince Bismarck was presented with an address by the municipal authorities. In replying to the address the prince said that he had withdrawn from the political scene, and now made his criticisms merely as a spectator. His aim in life had been to secure German unity, and this had been attained in its highest grade.

Depositors Must Give Notice.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 31.—This morning in accordance with an agreement at the local clearing house Saturday, the savings banks of the city took advantage of their bylaws to prevent any further withdrawals of deposits. Hereafter, until further notice is given, depositors will not be allowed to withdraw large sums except after giving 30 or 60 days' notice.

Took Rough on Rats.

SALEM, Mass., July 31.—Mrs. John Kehoe had some trouble with her husband and the result was that she took a dose of rough on rats. She intended to commit suicide, but Dr. F. A. Atwood succeeded in saving her life by the use of a stomach pump. Mrs. Kehoe took an extra large dose, but now she is on the road to recovery.

Race For Pope Cup.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. July 31.—The fourth road race of the Rockingham bicycle club for the Pope cup was held this morning over a seven mile course, and was won by H. E. Boynton, with G. E. Philbrick second. Boynton's time was 26m 18s. A second class race followed, and was won by Charles L. Smith, time 26m 30s.

Very Sound Sleeper.

LYNN, Mass., July 31.—Harry Edwards of 54 Market street was robbed of a gold ring and a pair of gold cuff buttons last evening. At the time he had fallen asleep in the rear of Peavear's factory on Munroe street. The police think that it was the work of tramps.

BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS.

Charles Wyndham has been ordered by his physician to abandon acting for a time and take a sea voyage.

Wood and Sheppard will dissolve partnership next season, as the former will be a member of Russell's comedians.

It is rumored that Coquelin the elder is to be associated with Sarah Bernhardt in her venture at the Renaissance in Paris.

Louise Montague, the $10,000 beauty, is going to London, where she has been engaged to play lay parts at the Gaiety theater.

Ballet girls were never before in such luck. Young, old and middle aged, they are in demand this summer as they never were before.

Henri Marteau, the violinist, returns to this country next fall and will make an extended tour under the direction of Rudolph Aronson.

M. Lacressoniere, whose death is announced at the ripe age of 74, was perhaps the most celebrated of melodramatic actors in France since Lemaitre.

A law in Michigan makes the American Trotting and other registers of recognized standing prima facie evidence in all courts of the state of the pedigrees therein stated.

Major McDowell is having the hoofs of the dead Dictator bound and trimmed with silver. They will be mounted and occupy a prominent place in the parlors at Ashland.

REMEMBER IN SPEAKING—

To speak in chest tones.

To pronounce vowel sounds correctly.

To say, "It is I" and "He went with me."

To speak distinctly, but softly and slowly.

To give each syllable its proper value or length.

To say "waistcoat" and trousers" and not "vest" and "pants."

For an inferior to say "sir" or "madam" in speaking to a superior.

To say "memorandum" in the singular and "memoranda" in the plural.

To pronounce the letter r in words where it occurs, as in "arm," "girl," "rubber."

To avoid coarseness and rudeness of speech and language and harsh laughter.

To lower the voice and speak slowly when one wishes to enforce one's authority.

To train children carefully to read aloud, both for the sake of the voice and the pronunciation.

To avoid the overdelicacy of language and affectation of precision which belong to persons of narrow culture.

To pronounce in English fashion the names of foreign places and persons which have become Anglicized, as Paris, Vienna, Napoleon.

To say "sir" or "madam" if one have occasion to address a stranger, using the word "madam" for a single as well as for a married lady.

To pronounce correctly, studying not only the dictionary, but the language of living speakers who are entitled to speak with authority.

To teach children to say "Yes, mother" (or father), and "No, mother," and to say "Yes, sir" (or madam), to old people or to those who adhere to the old ways of speech.

To remember that slang is unmeaning as well as inelegant and that words like "jolly," "beastly," etc., used in season and out of season soon lose all their meaning.

To use words of Saxon rather than of Latin origin whenever it is possible to do so, thus gaining terseness and vigor rather than a large number of syllables with diminished force.

To use the words "man" and "woman" in many instances where formerly one would have said "lady" and "gentleman," the latter words having largely lost their significance from excessive use—or abuse. The phrase "Mrs. Ames is a charming woman" would now be preferred to "Mrs. Ames is a charming lady."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

CROWN AND SCEPTER.

The queen of the Belgians is reputed to be one of the best living performers on the harp.

Queen Margherita of Italy on the occasion of her silver wedding day received among other things over 22,000 begging letters.

The empress of Austria is said to spend nearly half the day in having her hair cared for. During this time she is read to and smokes consumedly.

Alexander the Great is the only celebrated man of history of whom it may be truthfully said, "He was born in Europe, died in Asia and is buried in Africa."

As a rule the Gaekwar of Baroda bestows precious stones as presents, but he always throws in a tiger or hyena to a monarch to whom he desires to be especially polite.

By order of the German emperor there has just been placed in one of the cabins of his yacht a plate recording the fact that "Marshal von Moltke lived here from the 3d to the 19th of September, 1890."

Queen Victoria is superstitious about precious stones. She invariably wears a chrysoprase in one form or another, this stone being thought to bring nothing but good luck. She considers it beautiful too.

Princess Marie of Edinburgh, now the Crown Princess of Roumania, has made considerable progress in mastering the language of her new country, and her maids of honor are much astonished at her facility in conversation.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Dry flour applied with printed paper to articles a trifle damp gives a good polish to them if they are of tin or britannia.

Mildewed clothes may be renewed by making the spots in buttermilk and spreading the garments on the grass in the sun.

Before beginning to seed raisins cover them with hot water and let them stand 15 minutes. The seeds can then be removed easily.

To make boots waterproof, boil a quart of linseed oil with half a pound of venice turpentine. While the mixture is still warm, but not hot, paint the leather until it will absorb no more.

Save all the paper bags. They are most convenient to draw over cans of fruit to shut out the light. The hand can also be slipped into one when cleaning the stove, as well as in doing much other household work which is hard on the hands.

POWDER AND BALL.

Fully 80 per cent of Russian and Servian soldiers are unable to either read or write.

The oldest type of magazine gun in the world, it is said, is the John Cokson, which was made in London during the last part of the sixteenth century.

A new French torpedo boat, the Lansquenet, attained a speed of 26 knots, nearly 30 miles, an hour on her official trial. The boat is the fastest craft in the French navy.

The officers of the German army are to have a new cloak, the novelty of which lies in the fact that by an ingenious device the cloak may be made thick or thin. It is adapted for winter or summer use.

The recent trial of the British gun vessel Alarm showed a horsepower development for that vessel of 3,694 horses, or 394 more horses than required by contract. The main speed attained was 19.2 knots.

CITY NEWS.

Dwight S. Tweedy of Providence, R. I., is registered at the Wauregan house.

Miss Fannie Beckwith of this city is spending a week with New London relatives.

Mrs. P. H. Cosgrove and Miss Mary Cosgrove of New Haven are the guests of friends in this city.

Miss Genie Roath is spending a two weeks' vacation with relatives at Portland and Old Orchard Beach, Me.

Passenger Agent D. E. Gallisher of the Central Vermont road has arranged an excursion to Lake Pleasant for next week.

Master Philip E. Thompson of Franklin street is enjoying the hospitality of the family of Mr. Charles F. Kocler at Gales Ferry.

The steamer Gypsy ran aground at Gales Ferry on her down trip Monday morning, and it was an hour and a half before she floated again.

The police court record of arrests during July was the largest in years. One hundred and two offenders against the law languished behind cell bars.

The Rev. Mr. Kuss of the German Lutheran church will continue to edit and publish The Church Messenger for the edification of the German people.

Mrs. L. J. Lavalle retires from the local Western Union Telegraph office tonight, after a faithful service of two years. She is succeeded by Miss Daniels of Warren, Mass.

Harwood, Bishop & Bidwell, the wholesale grocers, put a new metropolitan truck on the street Monday, the first of the kind in town. It is presided over by Sheriff Morgan.

Prof. E. F. Harding, Charles D. Lathrop and Charles Whitney returned Monday evening from a month's camping on Shelter Island. Prof. Harding leaves for Block Island tomorrow.

The United Workers have taken advantage of some recent gifts by putting in a new floor to the reception room of their home on Washington street, and otherwise improving the premises.

Farm help is scarce in this vicinity. Farmers are unable to hire haymen to help them harvest, and are making long days and co-operating in order to secure their crops in good condition.

The county commissioners will meet in this city at 10 o'clock this morning to audit the July accounts of the Norwich jail and the county home, and to attend to any other business which may come before them.

Joseph A. Burr, New London's "bus" proprietor, who has been running the steamer Our Mary between Ocean Beach and New London during the summer, assigned Monday in favor of C. H. Halbert of this city.

Wreckage in the shape of a cabin roof and side of some vessel is washed ashore at Groton, near Spicer's ice houses. On one side of the companionway is the letters "L. R." in monogram. The craft was of good size judging by the cabin roof, which is of 300 to 500 tons.

A nodding night-blooming cereus plant, with a handsome and fragrant blossom, lent additional enchantment to Steiner's soda fountain last night. The specimen was the property of Mrs. C. W. Spalding of East Main street, and was exhibited in the window of the pharmacy a year ago.

The New London Day says: "Members of the Rose of New England Wheel club are frequently seen on New London streets, the run down to the cool seashore from dusty Norwich proving an attractive change. The Norwich boys are nothing if not patriotic and some of them, for fear everyone won't know they are from Norwich, have painted their wheels a bright red."

Captain G. A. Cornell and a gang of men arrived at Niantic Monday and are engaged in putting up the tents and placing things in readiness for the "bold soldier boys" when they reach there three weeks hence. Orders have been issued to allow no one on the state militia camp ground for the present, and a guard has been stationed there to keep people off. People generally seem to be unacquainted with the reason therefore.

$10,000 Fire at Westerly.

Early Monday morning two barns and a carriage house at Westerly were burned, with most of their contents, and two dwelling houses were scorched. The damage was about $10,000; only partly covered by insurance.

Who Crossed the Bridge.

Four nickle-plated horse shoes in the window of Herrick's pharmacy Monday, solved a mystery which has been puzzling the town for several days. Each shoe bore the inscription: "Worn by Peter, the first horse with carriage to cross the new Laurel Hill bridge, July 24, 1893, at 11.30 p. m. Driven by George R. Harris, M. D., and Dr. Harry J. Knapp."

Up to His Tricks in New London.

The young man who tried unsuccessfully to dispose of a stolen mileage book in this city Saturday, perpetrated a theft during his brief visit to New London. Arriving in that city late Saturday night, he put up at the boarding house of Mrs. Thompson, corner John and Main street, and slipped away Monday morning taking a fellow boarder's coat and vest and forgetting in his hurried departure to pay his board bill. The rascal is clad in a gray suit, and one hand is amputated.

City Court—Kellogg, Judge.

The following cases were disposed of in the city court Monday morning:

John Zadowsky of Taftville, was convicted of beating his wife. He was fined $1 and costs, and in default of $10.73, went to jail.

John W. Robinson, an aged colored man of Ledyard, was adjudged guilty of being drunk and fined $3 and costs—$10 86. Robinson was committed.

Maurice O'Donnell, for disturbing the peace, was fined $3 and costs—$11.23. He was committed.

John Carroll was fined $5 and costs for a Sunday drunk and $10 and costs for resisting Officer Korn and sent to jail for a month. His fine and costs amount to [illegible]

Felix Proux was found guilty of drunkenness and fined $5 and costs, amounting to $11 68. He was committed.

John Bloom and Kiver Lahn were accused of disturbing a Russian Hebrew meeting. Their cases were continued until August 3.

T. Hagerty was arraigned for theft. His case was continued until August 3.

Intolerable Cruelty of a Chesterfield Hebrew.

The Chesterfield Hebrews are evidently imbued with as little of the spirit of humanity as they are with the knowledge of how to farm successfully. A Norwich gentleman who had occasion to visit that region Sunday was taken out into a field adjoining the farm of Albert Williams on Raymond Hill, and shown a sight that stirred his emotions against the inhuman cruelty of one of the alleged foreign farmers.

A cow which had broken one of its hind legs lay helpless and panting in the hot sun, and its owner had made no attempt to end its sufferings. For a week, the animal had been in this condition, tormented by flies and exposed to the full force of the July heat.

Agent Backus of the Humane society was notified Monday and will investigate the matter immediately.

A BOY LOST.

Feared That Albert Zahn Has Drowned in the Harbor.

Monday afternoon the police were notified that Albert Zahn, eight years old, was missing from his home at No. 18 High street. The boy when last seen wore a blue and white striped shirt-waist, dark pants and was barefooted. He was seen on Osgood's wharf about noon by Joseph Pearson of the West Side.

The boy is the son of Emil H. Zahn, employed in the Cranston Press works. It is feared that he has fallen into the water of the harbor and drowned. Early last evening Michael Fenton dived and swam under water around the float on which the lad was seen playing alone, but could see no trace of the body.

THEIR ANNUAL GATHERING.

The Religious Work Committee of the Y. M. C. A. Entertained.

The religious work committee of the Young Men's Christian association enjoyed their annual gathering through the hospitality of Mr. Lewis A. Hyde and family at his residence Monday evening. A delicious repast was partaken of on the lawn after which the business of the committee was transacted.

Following the reports of work, plans, etc., the members adjourned to the house for social exercises, concluding the evening's work and entertainment shortly after nine o'clock.

The following members and guests were present: Messrs. Lewis A. Hyde, George F. Hyde, William T. Lane, Rev. C. T. Weitzel, C. C. Haskell, F. J. Hammer of Boston, Archibald Ladner of Springfield, George W. Swan, K. H. Leavens, George W. Kies, Robert J. McMullen, Arch. Kimball, William B. Howe, William C. Farrington, James Grierson, Horace G. McDivitt and Robert S. Ross. A hearty rising vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Hyde and his family for their kindness and hospitality.

FIGHT WITH A MADMAN.

Vallino Domenique Makes Things Lively at Police Headquarters.

A stalwart Italian working man, wearing a blood red flannel shirt and corduroy trousers, was observed by Officer Ebberts late Sunday night on the steamboat wharf, gesticulating wildly and apparently preparing to plunge into the water. On questioning the man he betrayed such evidence of insanity, that the policeman wisely decided that he was no fit character to be at liberty.

Not till the foreigner was behind the barred door of a cell did he give vent to the vagaries of his disordered brain. His shouts and poundings resounded through the city hall building all night, and the morning found him in the same frame of mind and action.

At 8 30 o'clock when Officer Irish went into the lockup for the city court prisoners, an unusual sight met his startled gaze. The mad foreigner was crouched by his cell door, and with a piece of iron which he had wrenched from the bench, was fast making his way to freedom. With an ingenuity and industry inspired by his insanity, he had unweariedly removed brick after brick from his walled quarters till in a few minutes more he would have been at large.

Summoning several other policemen, Officer Irish started in to transfer the prisoner to the adjoining cell, a perilous proceeding, for the bare-armed, fearless, resolute madman was now pacing his cell sulkily and warily, scorning to flee or turn aside from any foe that assailed him. No sooner had Officer Young attempted to grapple with the prisoner than he was hurled aside, ripping his coat from end to end, and his assailant rushed out into the corridor to be confronted by Chief Bowen and Officers Ebberts, Korn and Irish, who flung themselves on the furious foreigner. He held his own but for a moment and then succumbed to the numbers, was handcuffed and carried kicking and shouting to confinement.

He said he was Vallino Domenique, and became more rational as the day progressed, but was tireless in heaping Italian vituperation on his captors. He gave his brother's address as 69-71 Wythe avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and his name as Vallino Gio Vanni. Chief Bowen communicated with Chief Riley of Brooklyn, and last night received word that relatives would arrive early this morning and take the man in charge. Vallino says he came to this country two years and a half ago and journeyed this way looking for work. He speaks French fluently.

RATIONS THEN AND NOW.

Old Soldiers Recall the Hard Tack Days of 1862–1863.

The bill of fare for the troops at the coming Niantic encampment is being compared by some of the old veterans of this place with the bill of fare for some of the encampments of Connecticut troops in 1862–1863. For instance, the bill of Friday:

1893.

Breakfast—Beefsteak, baked bluefish, fried and boiled potatoes, corn bread, bread and butter, tomatoes, tea, coffee.

Dinner—Bean soup, roast veal, baked fish, pork and beans, mashed potatoes, pickles, bread and butter, catsup, tomatoes and melons.

Supper—Raw and hot oysters, cold meats, bread and butter, cheese and crackers, stewed prunes, melons and milk, tea and coffee.

1863.

Breakfast—Three hard tack, slice of raw fat pork, coffee with sugar, but no milk.

Dinner—Raw pork or pork toasted on stick, three hard crackers, black coffee.

Supper—Two crackers, pork any way you chose to fix it if any was left to fix, coffee.

Of course these rations for the army were subject to variation, but that they were the actual rations, both in quality and quantity, for days and weeks in succession, no one will dispute. When the occasional better times came and beans were issued or there was an opportunity to secure fresh beef, "the boys" of those days lived in clover.

TAFTVILLE.

Mr. Robert Graham, who has been in New Bedford for several weeks, has returned to this place.

Mr. I. W. Rist, who has been butcher in the Ponemah market for the past year, has severed his connection with the same.

Miss Mary Hutchinson has returned from a visit to friends in Waltham, Mass.

Mr. George Grant spent Sunday with friends in Willimantic.

Mr. Rhodes and son Benjamin, have returned from New Bedford.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Harrows have moved their apartments from the Ponemah boarding house to the house lately occupied by Mr. Thomas Webster.

WILLIMANTIC.

Various Matters in the "Thread City."

Mr. J. Delap, one of the clerks in the employ of W. B. Carr & Co., clothiers, is spending his vacation in the west and will take in the big fair before his return.

The wreck occasioned by a freight car, loaded with brick, running wild Sunday evening, was cleared away about 8 o'clock in the morning. The United States express was delayed about three minutes.

Pease & Edwards, the dry goods dealers, who were damaged by fire and water about a week ago, reopened their store Monday.

Fred Reynolds of San Diego, Cal., is on a visit to his uncle in this city, Mr. L. G. Flint.

W. D. Brigham, assistant superintendent of the Linen companies, has purchased a building lot of Charles A. Youngs, on Pleasant street, 90x136 feet, and will erect a handsome dwelling house thereon in the near future.

President George E. Hurman and Captain B. L. Hicks, of the Thread City cyclers, took a run to Gardner's Lake Sunday. Treasurer W. P. Jordan went part way, but had to return on account of a broken wheel.

L. N. Ayer, the ice dealer, is confined to his home with an attack of rheumatism.

MARRIED.

HENRICH—KRUDEL—In the Lutheran church, this city, July 31, by the Rev. F. R. Kuss, Mr. August Heinrich to Miss Katharine Krudel, both of Taftville, Conn.

DIED.

KINNEY—July 31, Hettie E., infant daughter of John T. and Sarah Kinney, aged 5 months and 12 days.
Services at the house at 9.45 a. m. today. Burial at Canterbury.

GRADWELL—In Norwich, July 30, James Gradwell, aged 67 years.
Funeral services from his late residence, 15 Park street, at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Friends and relatives are invited. Burial private.

AMERICAN BIMETALLIC LEAGUE.

Financial Veterans Assemble in a Common Cause.

OPENING ADDRESS

By Chairman Warner—Metropolitan Newspapers Denounced.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The national convention of the American Bimetallic league met at 10 o'clock this morning in this city, and the attendance was larger than that of any previous assembly of like character in the history of financial agitation. The array of delegates assembled overcrowded the First Methodist church auditorium an hour before the meeting was called to order, and it was early apparent that a larger hall would have to be sought for future sessions.

The features of many of the battle-scarred veterans of financial agitation were visible in the heterogeneous assemblage of today. Gen. A J Warner of Ohio, president of the Bimetallic league, stood side by side with Congressman Bartine of Nevada, and a short distance away was seated Congressman W. J Bryan of Nebraska, a man of opposite politics from Mr. Bartine, but foremost in the common battle for free coinage. A few feet away in the Colorado delegation was the picturesque Governor Waite of the silver state, conversing with Senator Stewart of Nevada, the one a populist and the other a republican, but both united in a common cause today. United States Senators Mantle of Montana and Shoup of Idaho conversed fraternally with T. M. Patterson of Colorado, the first two republicans and the last the leader of the free coinage faction in the democratic national convention of a year ago.

When Chairman A. J. Warner of the Bimetallic league called the convention to order scores of delegates were obliged to stand in the aisles.

In a few opening words Chairman Warner introduced Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago, who welcomed the delegates to the city.

The Hon. Thomas M. Patterson responded.

Chairman Warner of the bimetallic league delivered his opening address. "The most extraordinary condition of affairs," said he, "meets the assembling of this convention. Almost perfect peace prevails over the world, the earth is yielding her fruits in unusual abundance and rich harvests are being gathered under favorable skies. There is enough and to spare, and yet never before in the history of the country has there been such widespread fear and distress, never before such loss of confidence and destruction of credit. Industries are everywhere breaking down, and laborers by tens of thousands are thrown workless on the streets, with want staring them in the face. Scores of banks, most of them prudently managed and showing assets which under ordinary circumstances would place them above suspicion, are driven to suspension. There has been a shrinking of hundreds of millions in the value of stocks and other property and agricultural products.

To attribute all this condition to the present silver purchasing law of the United States is absurd. Under this law since 1890 $150,000,000 have been added to our currency. Does anybody believe that the presence of this $150,000,000 makes money scarce and dead? Would we be better off if we were out of it? The real object lesson of the situation is very different from that which the gold conspirators intended. It enables us to see the beginning of the shrinkage in prices that must take place in order to go to a purely gold basis.

The trouble is in the change in the monetary standard. The value of money may be doubled either by doubling the weight of standard coins or by destroying half of the metal out of which coins are made. One is as effective as the other. The establishment of a single gold standard is equivalent to putting the value of the two dollars into one. It is doubling the unit and putting property down one-half. This is what is going on. To do this and still require the same number of dollars in payment of debts and taxes is to sanction the spoliation of one class by the other. And the talk of such a thing as honest money or such policy as sound finance is rankest hypocrisy." [Applause.]

In conclusion, the speaker denounced the metropolitan newspapers of the country as being controlled by the money power, and characterized their editorials as being but the inspiration and the bidding of the gold bugs instead of the conscientious expression of the writers.

Mr. Thurman then addressed the convention. He said: When the people of this country awaken to the fact that there is being made a systematic attempt to force them to pay the obligations of this government in gold alone, when they have always had the right to pay them in gold or silver; when they realize that the contract with their creditors is to be violated, I have not the slightest doubt where they will stand.

This convention must demand of the servants of the people that they administer the laws according to the terms of that contract. No man will dare in the future to stand before the people and advocate that they be deprived of their rights under the contract. I charge that those who now demand that silver shall be destroyed are not true hard money men, but paper money men. The national debt is being paid off, and with the banking corporations the question is fast resolving itself into no bonds, no banks. To carry out their scheme of paper money every argument will be used to try to deceive the people. If they succeed in unconditionally repealing the Sherman law, you will hear demands that the government issue other bonds upon which these banks may supply the deficiency in the circulating medium, brought about by the government ceasing to issue the coin certificates under the Sherman law. Finally the further demand will be made that greenbacks be retired with a long time bond, upon which more promises to pay can be issued by these banks. When this comes about the victory of the Shylocks will be complete.

The speaker continued at some length and received considerable applause.

T. V. Powderly of the Knights of Labor and the Hon. Ignatius Donnelly followed in short addresses.

The Typewriter Man Eloped With His Typewriter.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 1.—It has just been learned that Edwin Townsend, a contractor for the Yost Typewriter company of this city, has eloped with Eva Hawley, aged 18 years, who was in his employ. Townsend is 30 years old and has a wife who is an invalid. The couple left the city last night. Mrs. Townsend is prostrated and fears are entertained for her life.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Duke of Veragua the Cause of Friction Among Members.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The Duke of Veragua is the innocent cause of considerable friction among the Knights of Columbus. When the distinguished Spaniard was in this country a number of the big officials of the Columbian order decided to confer upon him the highest honor of the order, and made him a "Knight of the Golden Cross." Quite a number of the order's members have united in a mighty kick as to the expense attending the duke's decoration, and The Hibernian Record of this city says that many are seeking information as to the origin of the order conferred on the duke.

The same paper refers to money recklessly and without authority expended in giving entertainment to the distinguished knights, who assayed to represent the organization, and whose particular privilege it is to create at will such a degree as that of the "Knight of the Golden Cross." The present managers have set themselves up as supreme rulers, and are running the machine in a way which, if not checked, will result in the order's ruin.

The ceremony of presenting the decoration was at the Hotel Waldorf just before the Duke of Veragua left for home. Secretary of State Phelan, supreme knight of the order, Mayor Tracy of Meriden and Thomas Harrison Cummings made up the delegation. The insignia presented the duke was of gold and is said to have cost $800.

WARDEN WOODBRIDGE

Installed in Office—Surgeon Fox Reinstated—The Prison Force.

HARTFORD, Aug. 1.—The new warden of the state prison at Wethersfield, ex-Chief of Police Woodbridge of this city, assumed the management of that institution at half-past 12 today under gratifying auspices. At that hour the prison officers were assembled in the warden's office and the new head of the prison was presented to each of them personally by General Haven, the retiring military commandant. At the conclusion of the personal introduction by the general, the latter informed the officers that from that hour Warden Woodbridge would be in charge of the institution and that they would receive orders from him.

All the members of the board of directors were present with the exception of Director Sanford of Simsbury. The warden spent an hour or more with the board prior to assuming the control. The subject of refurnishing the warden's house was discussed by the members, and improvements will probably be made.

At 12 o'clock Dr. Edward G. Fox was sent for by the board and reinstated in the position of surgeon. The additional regulation is that he shall visit the prison daily. Under the old regime he was accustomed to be there every other day. Surgeon Thompson was notified officially of Dr. Fox's reinstatement by Warden Woodbridge. Dr. Fox has been prison surgeon four years and is familiar with the duties and requirements of the place.

Chaplain Atwood was continued in that office.

The total prison force consists of twenty-seven persons, the list being: Warden, deputy warden, physician, chaplain, matron, eight overseers, one hall keeper, seven watchmen, seven wall watchmen, two night watchmen and an engineer.

Bridgeport Banks Give Notice.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 1.—This afternoon four savings banks in this city gave notice that they will take advantage of the 90 days' clause in their charter regarding the payment of money to depositors. For the past month they have paid out large sums of money and met the demand easily, but today they could not get money from the New York banks and decided to stop in order to prevent the sacrifice of valuable securities.

Retail Feed Dealer Suicides.

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Aug. 1.—Fred Whittaker, a well known retail feed dealer of Belleville, Vt., shot himself this morning, firing two shots. One passed just under his heart and that not being fatal, he fired a second through his head. He is still living but with no hopes of recovery. He is about 37 years old, unmarried. His business is in good condition and no reason can be given for his act.

No General Shut Down.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Aug. 1.—There has been no general shut down at Fairbanks' Scale works, as rumored. The works have been dropping out a day or two per week for a short time, on account of a lack of orders. At a directors' meeting the usual seven per cent. dividend was declared. The company is in a sound financial condition.

Still Searching for Miss Orr.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 1.—This afternoon Moody's pond and Mill river were dragged in the search for the missing Anna Orr, but no trace of the girl could be found. Both are near her home. A large party of men were searching today but returned tonight with no tidings. It is feared that the girl has wandered into the woods and that her dead body will be found if any trace of her is ever secured.

Brave Act of an 11-Year-Old Boy.

WELLFLEET, Mass., Aug. 2.—Frank Mott, the 9 year-old son of A. C. Mott, fell from a wharf into the harbor and was rescued by Eugene Rodman, 11 years old, who jumped from the wharf and swam to a pile with young Mott, unassisted.

GRAND CIRCUIT AT BUFFALO.

"Bellini" Wins the 2.25 Class Trot in Three Straight.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The Opening Day—Meeting Promises to Be Very Successful.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The feature of the opening day of the grand circuit meeting here today was the victory of Bellini, driven by "Gen." Turner, in the 2.25 class trot. Siva was made a very hot favorite, but at no stage of the race was she to be considered. She was unsteady, repeatedly broke and Goldsmith could not get her going. In no heat of the three today was Bellini worried and he was in front every time.

Robert J. had an easy victory in 2.10 pace, as the withdrawal of Manager, who will be started in the free free-for-all, left him without a troublesome rival.

Director's Flower captured the $2,000 for 2 year-olds eligible to the 2.25 class, and was never bothered by any of the others.

About 4,000 people saw the races today and the meeting promises to be very successful. Summaries:

Found His Wife Unconscious.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—When William Thompson went home this evening he found his wife lying on the floor, her mother, Mrs. Murphy, in an adjoining room, both unconscious. He threw water in his wife's face, but she did not revive and he called a doctor, who pronounced her dead.

Mrs. Murphy recovered shortly afterwards and claims Thompson killed his wife. The authorities put no faith in her statement and the physicians say Mrs. Thompson's death was caused by alcoholism. Thompson was detained to await an autopsy. Mrs. Murphy is held as a witness.

All Unpleasantness Prevented.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The Italian warship Etna was visited by large crowds today. The threat of Admiral Magnaghi to leave port unless a salute was fired in return to her salute on entering the port caused a sensation, but all unpleasantness was prevented by a telegram from the minister of Italy that a salute of twenty-one guns be fired from St. Helen's Islands, which was done this evening. Admiral Magnaghi and his officers are receiving numerous attentions.

Cut Out Their Tongues.

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 1.—Near Montgomery three negroes attacked the house of a man named Marsh, killed him and assaulted his wife.

Then he turned to his two children, 7 and 4, and cut out their tongues. Mrs. Marsh is believed to be dying. One negro was caught and lynched. The sheriff and a posse are searching for the other two.

Not an Especially Brilliant Performance

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Times says the Navahoe beat the Satanita decisively enough but it was not an especially brilliant all around performance. In going to the windward the Navahoe was unquestionably superior to the Satanita and Calluna. The Navahoe was well piloted. The course was not suited to the Satanita.

Neutral Zone Established.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—In the house of lords, Earl of Rosebery, secretary of state for foreign affairs said: "I have signed an agreement in Paris establishing a neutral zone in Hindoo-China.

$5,000 Fire Loss at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—Brown's bakery and a stable adjoining, on First avenue, West Haven, were burned about 1 o'clock this morning. The fire caught from boiling grease. Loss about $4,000 to $5,000.

Bridgeport Silver Factory Resumes Work.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 1.—Holmes & Edwards silvery factory resumed work today after being closed several weeks. They will run four days a week and employ 600 hands.

Seven Persons Killed by a Boiler Explosion.

NEWARK, Ohio, Aug. 1.—By the explosion of a boiler of a farm engine near here, seven persons were killed and several others injured.

Won $2,500 in Three Straight Heats.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—A trotting match for $2,500 a side, which has attracted considerable attention among local horsemen, was decided at Belmont park today. The race was between Charles Hood & Co.'s brown gelding John S. and John Hart's bay gelding Sleepy Ned. The former won easily in three straight heats. Time, 2.22¾, 2.21, 2.21¾.

Shut Down for Two Weeks.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 1.—The Cocheco mills will shut down Saturday, August 12, for two weeks, or perhaps longer. Nearly 1,200 persons are employed.

CAPT. LYNN DEFEATED.

Chevalier Oriofski Wins the Broadsword Contest at Union Grove.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 1.—In a broadsword contest at Union grove this evening for $300, $250 to the winner, Capt. Bryan E. Lynn of New Haven was defeated by Chevalier Xavier Oriofski of Hoboken. Oriofski scored 16 points before Lynn made 5, in 23 rounds. Neither man was hurt. Captain Charles E. Clay of The Hartford Telegram was referee. He is an ex-officer of the Indian contingent of the British army and an accomplished swordsman.

Lynn immediately challenged Oriofski to a battle with lances, to be fought within six three weeks for $250, but his money was not put up to cover. Oriofski tonight sent a challenge to Lieut. Wm. Henderson of the Second Gatling battery, New York, for a broadsword contest, amount to be named by Lieut. Henderson.

Latest from Buzzards Bay.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Aug. 1.—The president remained at home today. This evening at sunset, in company with Mrs. Cleveland and a gentleman visitor, the president drove over to the village. The only caller today was a gentleman acquaintance of Boston, who was unwilling, from personal reasons, to give his name. In relation to the report that the steam yacht Almy had already sailed from New York for Buzzards Bay with a party of prominent financiers aboard, who were to confer with the president, Mr. Cleveland was called upon this evening and said that he had heard nothing of such a visit and did not expect any one excepting Secretary Carlisle, who has already left Washington and would probably arrive tomorrow. Mr. Carlisle will remain several days and accompany the president back to Washington. Mr. Cleveland has not decided the exact time of his returning to Washington, but it is understood that it may be the last of the week. Joseph Jefferson and Clark Davis of Philadelphia went on a fishing trip today, but the president was unable to accompany them.

Father Fagan of Naugatuck Dead.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 1.—The Rev. James Francis Fagan of St. Patrick's church in Naugatuck, died at 12 o'clock, today, after an illness of two weeks.

The reverend gentleman received a paralytic shock at Saratoga, N. Y., July 19, and has failed steadily ever since. Yesterday afternoon pneumonia set in, causing complications that his weakened constitution could not overcome. Father Fagan was born in Providence in 1849, and received his early education in the public schools of that city. He afterward graduated from Holy Cross college, Worcester, with high honors. Later he studied abroad and was ordained in Louvain, Belgium. He had held pastorates in Hartford, New Haven and Waterbury, and was made pastor of St. Francis, Naugatuck, in 1878.

General Haven Relieved—Cost of the Investigation.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 1.—Governor Morris today issued an order relieving General Haven from the military command of the prison, and he and the acting physician, Dr. Thompson, assistant surgeon Third regiment, C. N. G., returned to New London this afternoon, where General Haven will resume his duties as chief of police. In the order Governor Morris highly commended General Haven for his management of the prison affairs from April 17. The cost of the special investigation and the military government was about $6,000.

Northfield Bible Conference.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 1.—The eleventh general Bible conference at Northfield, under Mr. Moody's direction, was opened this evening in Stone hall. Mr. Moody is still in Chicago and will not attend the conference until next Tuesday. This evening's session, which had a large attendance, was addressed by Rev. Dr. Gordon of Boston, who will preside while Mr. Moody is away. Edwin A. Smith of England spoke on work among children in that country. Mr. Sankey led the singing and Rev George C. Needham read the scripture. Rev. A. C. Dixon will speak tomorrow morning.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The debt statement issued this evening shows a net increase in the public debt less cash in the treasury during July, of $4,264,073.31. The interest bearing debt increased $240,000, the non-interest bearing debt decreased $311,069.50, and the cash in the treasury decreased $4,507,229.81.

LEBANON.

A New School House—A New Physician.

The school district in which the Brick church stands has voted to build a new school house, and a committee has been appointed to obtain plans and specifications.

The Rev. Dr. Palmer has returned from his vacation, and is to board at Mrs. Hattie E. Stark's during the month of July.

A new physician, Dr. W. H. Street, has entered upon practice in this town, and has taken the office occupied by the late Dr. Barber.

During the shower of July 26, lightning struck in several places in the village, and played strange and startling freaks in the creamery.

GLASGO.

Base Ball.

The base ball club of this village went to Oneco on Saturday last to play the Oneco nine. They defeated them by a score of 10 to 3. The score by innings was as follows:

"SPOTTER" EVIDENCE CONVICTS.

Three Well Known Citizens of Essex Caught Napping.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT.

Personal Injury Threatened the "Spotter" by the Accused.

ESSEX, Conn., Aug. 1.—The excitement caused by the employment of "spotters" by the Local Law and Order League, for the purpose of obtaining evidence against several persons suspected of illegal liquor selling, culminated Monday, when Edward Murdock, proprietor of the Griswold house; E. E. Platt, a well known liveryman, and H. Scoville, were arraigned before Justice Buckingham.

The prosecution was conducted by Prosecuting Agent Derby, assisted by Attorney Cleveland of New Haven and Squire Wright of this place, while the defendants were represented by ex-Congressman W. P. Wilcox and Attorney James L. Phelps.

There was a large audience present and the excitement was intense when Mr. Phelps arose and asked that his name be erased from the list of witnesses presented by the prosecution. He claimed that he could not be subpoenaed to testify against his own client, and asserted that his name had been placed on the witness list through the prejudice of Attorney Wright. The court held the point well taken and ordered Mr. Phelps' name erased.

The prosecution sprang a surprise when they placed on the stand J. L. Briggs, who has been boarding for several days at the Griswold house. He had claimed to be an insurance agent, but under Congressman Wilcox's rigid examination he admitted that he was a professional "spotter," and had come on from Middleboro, Mass., at the request of the Law and Order league. His testimony was very damaging to Landlord Murdock, as he affirmed that he had on several occasions purchased liquor at the hotel and put in evidence a bottle of whisky.

At this juncture the lawyers for the prosecution and defense held a consultation, which resulted in the settlement of the cases against Murdock and Platts, the former paying $25 and costs and the latter $34 and costs. Mr. Scovill's case went over to the superior court.

"Spotter" Briggs took the first train out of town by the advice of his employers, as threats had been made of personal injury should he remain over night here.

Denies the Charge.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 1.—Capt. W. W. Hardy, of the bark William W. Crapo, whose home is in this city, denies the charges of murder and wholesale cruelty to the crew brought against Mate Gilday by Seaman Ladu. The captain says that during the passage the mate reprimanded Ladu for not doing certain work better, when Ladu became insulting and hot words followed. Ladu drew a knife and rushed at the mate, who knocked him down with a hatchet, the wound incapacitating him from duty for two or three days. All the trouble was between three or four men of the crew of sixteen, and the only serious difficulty was between Ladu and the mate.

Working Hours Reduced.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 1.—Today the Bennington woolen mills, owned and operated by Holden & Co., and the largest in Vermont, closed down their working time to eight hours for a day's work, probably of half time shortly. In over ten years this is is Mr. Holden's first shut down, because of uncertainty. He attributes this whole depression to the tariff uncertainty, and thinks the silver bill has little to do with the situation. These mills manufacture ladies dress goods, cloaking and men's wear. This action affects about 250 operatives.

Catholic Total Abstinence Union.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 1.—The national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union opened in this city at 3 o'clock this afternoon with a large attendance. In the absence of Bishop Cotter, the president, Vice President J. W. Logue presided. The afternoon was given up to routine business. In the evening a banquet was held in Union armory.

Loss of a Yacht Feared.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The residents along the east shore fear that a yacht went down in the sound last night. About 11 o'clock from the Pequot club house at Morris Cove was seen a craft lying seven or eight miles out from the new breakwater. Signals of distress were set off. First, rockets were discharged and later red fire was burned. So far as known no effort was made to relieve the distressed party.

OCEAN STEAMERS.

Arrivals and Departures.

LONDON, August 1.—Arrived: Estella, from New York, off Gibraltar; Garden Castle, from New York, off Prawlpoint; Maryland, from Philadelphia, off the Scilly Islands; Mohawk, from New York, off the Lizard; North Britain, from New York, off Lewis Island; Zaandam, from New York, off Prawlpoint; Chicago, from Baltimore, at Rotterdam; Dora, from Baltimore, at Sharpness; Geestemund, from New York, at Cuxhaven; Salerno, from Baltimore, at Antwerp; Alma, from Baltimore, at Leith.

Sailed: Island, Swinemunde, for New York; Brooklyn City, Swansea, for New York; Panama, Bordeaux, for New York.

Struck Against a Cheap Hand.

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 1.—The firm of Derby & Fowler is building a big gas receiver for the Derby Gas company, in the lower part of Ansonia. This morning five of the riveters struck because the foreman proposed to put a young man at work who had had no experience. The work is cold riveting, and it is claimed that anybody can do it. The men were getting $2.75 a day and the green hand was to receive only $2. They feared this would result in a cut of their wages and they quit. New men have been sent for and the work will go along without a hitch.

New Haven Factories Busy.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The present depression in industrial circles has not yet been felt in all branches of business, and inquiry among the manufacturers revealed that there are a number which have not yet been called upon to cut down their hours of production. The big Winchester Repeating Arms company has cut off their production to some extent, but the factory is running on full time, and the only reduction which had been made is in certain departments, where the force has been cut down slightly, which is always the case at this time of year. The reduction was not due to any depression in business, but simply the usual rules of trade at this time of the year.

Will Sail for Home Aug. 8.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 1.—Authentic advices received here state that Minister Blount has determined to turn over matters in Hawaii as far as the United States are concerned, to Commodore Skerret of the Boston, and he will sail for the United States on the 8th inst., without waiting for the appointment of his successor. Mr. Blount may therefore be expected to arrive at San Francisco about August 18.

Hartford's New Masonic Temple.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 1.—The Masonic Hall association of this city has purchased a large lot, 60x100, on the corner of Allyn and Ann streets upon which they will build a Masonic temple. The building will be five stories high with stores on the first floor and offices and a large hall above. The location is one of the most central in the city.

New Haven's Bank Scare Ended.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The bank scare which was the sensation of this city yesterday, is subsiding. The prompt action of the directors of the local savings banks in availing themselves of the requirement of the notice clause in their charters in order to protect their depositors and borrowers has met with the approval of all the business men of the city.

Bicycle Races at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 1.—In the bicycle races B. L. Gary of Chelsea, Mass., won the first event of the afternoon, the quarter mile open. Tyler of Springfield, Mass., was second, and Brow of Cleveland third. Zimmerman and Sanger were entered for this event, but Sanger did not start, while Zimmerman broke his wheel at the outset.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Commissioners In Session.

The county commissioners audited the Norwich jail and county home accounts Tuesday, and transferred the license of Patrick J. Kelly from 48 to 46 Franklin street. The commissioners will be in session in New London today.

A Wedding in New London.

A number from this city will go to New London today to attend the marriage of Attorney Thomas F. Dorsey and Miss Charlotte G. Cronin. The contracting parties are both popular young society people of New London. Attorney Dorsey is a graduate of the Yale law school '89, and is well known in this city. The ceremony will be performed at 10.30 a. m., and a reception will be held at the home of the bride in the afternoon.

Snakes That Swim Five Miles.

It may appear like a strange statement, but it is nevertheless a fact, that snakes often swim across from the Stonington shore to Fishers Island, a distance of five miles. They are often seen by Stonington fishermen midway between the two points, and are often killed while making the passage. What should induce them to make the trip has never been made clear but that they do so is a certainty, not questioned by persons familiar with their habits.

Marriage Fee Raised.

It costs a dollar now to get married instead of the fifty cents which has heretofore been the price in this easy to be married and easy to be divorced commonwealth. A law enacted at the recent session of the general assembly provides that every person applying for a marriage license must make an affidavit to the truth of the statements which he is required to make preliminary to the issuance of the license by the town clerk. He must pay the town clerk fifty cents for the affidavit and must also pay the fifty cents before, now required.

To Meet the Lawyers.

The prosecuting attorney for the criminal court of common pleas, within and for the county of New London, will be at the office of the clerk of the court in this city on Thursday at 11 a. m. sharp, for the purpose of meeting the attorneys relative to the business of the August session of said court. All cases not arranged are to be considered as assigned for trial at the opening session in this city, August 8, at which time a jury will be in attendance.

Another New Londoner to Walk to Chicago

Herbert Williams of New London left that city Tuesday morning to visit the fair at Chicago. He is to walk the entire distance, and take only what clothing he can wear. The satchel he will take with him weighs eleven pounds. His course is from New London to Colchester and then through Hartford, Albany, Buffalo, and so on to Chicago.

Mr. Williams is thoroughly acquainted with this route, having traveled the distance to Chicago twice. He hopes to be able to make the trip in less than thirty-five days.

Rev. C. G. Bristol Accepts.

Rev. C. G. Bristol of Danielsonville, who received a call two weeks ago from the Church of the Good Shepherd of Hartford to become the rector of the church, has sent a letter to the committee accepting the call.

He will not, however, assume charge till the third Sunday in September, the 17th. The members of the parish are greatly pleased at the acceptance and look forward to his coming with great pleasure. The church has been newly repainted and decorated.

DISTRIBUTING PEACHES.

Small Connecticut Cities to Get Their Share of Delaware Fruit.

The Hon. A. N. Brown of Wyoming, Del., secretary of the Maryland and Delaware Peach Growers' association, is in Connecticut completing arrangements for the more even distribution of the peach crop of some 5,000,000 baskets expected on the peninsula this year, shipments of which will begin this week. In the past, peaches in cars have only come to Bridgeport, New Haven and Hartford.

The smaller towns, buying from these points, have often been short of fruit when the large markets of New York, Philadelphia and Boston have been overloaded. The effect of the producers' association, through Mr. Brown, now is to reach directly every town that can use 200 or more baskets per day. He is canvassing all towns from South Norwalk to Putnam, and will cover other New England states in the same way. Other agents are doing the same thing in the west.

Asked about the new peach yellows law and the confiscation of fruit from diseased trees if found in our markets, Mr. Brown said it would no doubt shut out all fruit from the diseased districts and cause growers who had premature fruit to keep shy of Connecticut. This would be a good thing for the state, but bad for Delaware now; but in the end the law would do good even there, for when growers find they cannot sell their premature fruit they will learn to destroy their diseased trees. The Connecticut law is an improvement on the Michigan one, and that has accomplished great results.

THE HORSE RAILROAD.

Its Corporators and the Original Charter.

Now that Norwich is enjoying the benefits of rapid transit, and that the electric road will soon be radiating from the business center to the four important points of the town, it may not be amiss to recall the fact that in 1864 the original horse railroad was chartered, its capital stock being one hundred thousand dollars.

David Smith; John T. Wait, A. H. Almy, Gardner Greene, J. Hunt Adams, Alba F. Smith, Samuel Mowry, Moses Pierce, Joseph G. Lamb, J. A. Starkweather, Amasa L. Hyde, J. D. Mowry, J. Halsey, H. H. Starkweather, L. H. Bromley, William H. Tingley, Chester Clark and John W. Stedman, with others, formed the body corporate, who were empowered to complete a railway with not more than two tracks along the following route:

"From some suitable point in the village of Greeneville, at or near the tavern of Jason Gleason, through Main street in said village, and through Greeneville road, to the intersection of said road with Main street in the city of Norwich; and thence through Main street to a convenient and suitable point on Franklin square in said city; thence through Franklin street to Broad street; thence through Broad street to Broadway; thence through Broadway to Town street; thence through Town street by the residences of Daniel W. Coit and Moses Pierce, to a convenient point near the First Congregational church; and thence by the most feasible and convenient route to the village of Bean Hill."

The company was further empowered to construct a branch road from Franklin square through Main street to such point west of Yantic cove, as the directors of the company might determine; and further, to extend a branch railroad from Main street through Thames street, to a point near Trolan's boiler shop.

Permission was also given them to extend a branch from Broadway through Williams avenue to Sachem street; thence through Sachem street to Lafayette street, thence through Lafayette street to Broadway.

Fare in the city was not to exceed five cents, and to any point without the city limits was fixed at a limit of ten cents.

In 1867 a change of route was decided upon, viz: Up Franklin street to Rockwell street, through the latter to Crescent street, thence to Broadway.

A further change of route was made in 1870, when the company was authorized to maintain a track through High street in Greeneville.

Additional powers were conferred upon them in the shape of authority to operate a road from Franklin square across Preston bridge to Center street, thence to Hamilton street, to a convenient point on the highway leading to Preston City, opposite the bridge across the Shetucket from the town of Preston to Greeneville, with the privilege of continuing said road as far as the residence of Edwin N. Roath, in Preston.

In the same year the road was mortgaged to George Pratt and Charles Bard. With later changes in the company the public in general is familiar.

France, Belgium, Greece, Italy and Switzerland constitute the Latin union. Their coins are alike in weight and fineness, differing only in name. The same system has been partly adopted by Spain, Servia, Bulgaria, Russia and Roumania.

THE NAVAHOE WINS.

Beats Three British Yachts in Second Race.

YANKEE LEAD FROM THE START.

Satanita Second and Calluna Third. Course Same as Yesterday.

COWES, Eng., Aug. 1.—The Navahoe showed in yesterday's race that she is a speedy vessel and the equal of any of the cracks on this side, and consequently the interest in the regattas in which she takes part will be greater than ever, for, now that her capacity is known, the confidence in the ability of the boats here to beat her has been considerably lessened.

As the difference between the three leading boats in yesterday's race was not two minutes over the entire course of 53 miles, the result for some time hung in the balance, and particularly when the Navahoe was leading.

When the result of the race became public everybody was talking of the splendid performance of the "Yankee boat," and, from the expressions heard on all sides there is a tide of opinion going in favor of your ship. Evidently yachtsmen here are

Not So Sanguine of Success

since the Royal London regatta.

Today's race being the second in which the Navahoe contests for honors, there is almost as much excitement over the event as yesterday. Early this morning crowds wended their way down to the shore, and from every available point of vantage they waited patiently for the start.

There was fully as big a turnout of the nobility and titled yachtsmen as in the race yesterday, although much of the interest in today's regatta is lost on account of the absence of the Britannia and Valkyrie.

Still, even with these boats out, the fact that the Navahoe is in, and is tackling the big Satanita, which in rating comes close to the Navahoe, making the race almost a boat-for-boat contest, is sufficient to hold the interest.

The race today is that of the Royal Southern Yacht club, and the starters are the Satanita, Fife's Calluna and the Iverna. The start was made at 10 o'clock, and the boats sailed the same course as in yesterday's regatta, only that the first hitch was to Calshot, thence to Warner lightship, thence to starting line, twice round, distance 53 miles.

There Was Very Little Wind at the start, and the boats kept close to the line and maneuvered for a good birth preparatory to getting away with the gun.

Charlie Barr berthed the Navahoe in excellent style and sent her away in the lead. O'Neill, on the Iverna, however, followed him closely at the line and sent his little cutter right in his wake. The Satanita was third over the line, and the Calluna brought up the rear.

The breeze held light in Southampton water, but as soon as the boats got to the opening of Calshot lightship it freshened up and the boats began to get a move on.

The Navahoe began to open up on the rest of the boats, and the Iverna slowly began to drop, as the pace was too fast for her. The Satanita in the strengthening wind opened up on the Calluna.

The Navahoe had a lead of 65 seconds on the Satanita at the end of three miles, and she was 1 minute and 45 seconds ahead of the Calluna. She steadily gained, and was the leading boat when half of the course had been sailed.

The Satanita continued to hold her lead, and the order was at the end of the first round: Navahoe, Satanita and Calluna. The big cutters were too much for the crack Iverna of last year.

The Navahoe Kept Coming Up on the Satanita on the second round of the course. The wind held good and even reaching the big Satanita could not pull back the Navahoe.

The Calluna held the Satanita well. From a lead of 65 seconds over the Satanita at the end of the first round, the Navahoe increased her lead one minute and five seconds by the time that she had got in Cowes roads. She was leading the Satanita two minutes when passing Cowes roads on the way to the finish line.

The Calluna was making a great fight with the Soper boat, but the length of the Satanita told and she could not overhaul her. The Calluna was a good third in Cowes roads. The Navahoe came in first, the Satanita being a good second and the Calluna third.

"AN OUTRE MODEL."

Yet Admits the Times the Navahoe Is Remarkably Fast.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Times, commenting on yesterday's yacht race, says: It must be admitted that British yachtsmen thought the Navahoe an outre model, and that they had only a moderate opinion of her abilities. She has fairly upset the preconceived opinion entertained in regard to her. She is remarkably fast.

She cannot sail in a race which is sailed under what could be called international lines, inasmuch as the Britannia and Valkyrie weather bowed each other unmercifully during the contest, giving their opponent every chance of winning.

No doubt light weather will prove the Navahoe's forte. Her sections and far from striking lines seem perfectly designed for a vessel of the centerboard type. Her draught when racing with her centerboard down was 23 feet.

Emperor William, who accompanied the Prince of Wales on the Britannia, was jubilant when the Britannia so handsomely won the race. A guest of the prince, he made himself one of the crew and actively assisted in getting in the mainsail. When the spinnaker was set he grasped the halliards, and hand over hand with the crew he did his share of the work of hoisting it into place.

EXPENSIVE CASE.

Cost of the Borden Trial Is Estimated at About $14,000.

TAUNTON, Mass., Aug. 1.—County Commissioner Pratt has at last obtained, through vouchers, an approximate estimate of the cost of the Borden case. They will figure up about $14,000, somewhat less than was anticipated.

The figures for the total expenses at the preliminary hearing cannot be obtained at this time, owing to the peculiar workings of the new law relative to district court expenses, but from the treasurer's books it is seen that the grand jury costs in 1892 were $900; the sheriff's, $300; witness fees, $425, and "other expenses," $1476.

At the trial the expenses for the jury were $1875; for the deputy sheriffs, $1780; Parker House bill for the jury, $708.25; New Bedford police department, $177; witnesses and other expenses, $3752.67.

Out of these costs come the following separate accounts of people whose names have become almost household words. Dr. Dolan, first hearing, 1892, $700; second hearing, $612. Captain Philip Harrington, first hearing, $104; second hearing, $62. Professor Wood received $1400 for his services; Dr. Draper, $840.30; Dr. Cheever, $[illegible]; Dr. Richardson, $[illegible]; Dr. Dwight, $[illegible].

Stenographer Burt, for his force of men at the last trial, received $1387.87; Mr. Brownell of the Parker House, for taking care of this force, $[illegible], and William B. Wright, one of the force, for extra work, $[illegible]. F. E. Hurd, for what he did, received $[illegible], and William H. Moody, district attorney for Essex county, received $800, by order of the court, for assisting Mr. Knowlton.

SUFFERING UNPRECEDENTED.

An Entire District In Turkey Devastated by an Earthquake.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Milo A. Jewett, United States consul at Sivas, Turkey, reports to the state department that he had just returned at the date of his letter (July 5) from a visit to the almost inaccessible district in Asiatic Turkey, which was devastated by an earthquake three months ago and tells of suffering almost unprecedented.

The effects of the disturbance, he says, were confined to a mountainous territory about 40 miles square, of which Malatia and Adiaman are the principal villages. Two thousand houses were entirely ruined, 2000 others were rendered unfit for habitation, 918 people were killed and a much greater number injured, and 6900 cattle, horses, sheep and goats perished.

Weeks of severe suffering have followed the catastrophe, aggravated in that mountainous country by snow and rain. A result of the exposure has been the death of a large number of children. The Turkish government sent army tents and issued rations of bread to the stricken people and the Sultan sent pecuniary assistance.

The suffering is by no means ended, as the loss of human life and of working cattle will prevent the reaping of reasonable crops.

JONESES GETTING MIXED.

Leander Has Disappeared, Also His His Cousin's Wife.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Aug. 1.—This quiet old town is somewhat stirred up over the absence of Leander L. Jones. He has not been seen in the neighborhood since Saturday last. It is further alleged that he has not gone alone, as Mrs. Ella Jones is also missing.

Mr. Jones is more than 50 years old, and leaves behind him a wife and three children. Mrs. Jones' age is about 45. She has a husband and one child. Mr. Jones and Mrs Jones' husband are cousins.

It is currently reported about town that the two were very intimate, and that these friendly relations have been running along for some time. Mr. Jones took with him a change of clothing, his pension papers and horse and carriage. Some of the relatives and friends of the parties have begun a search.

BLOW TO BOOMERS.

Vast Prairie Fire In Cherokee Strip Sweeps All Before It.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A special to The Sun from Hennessey, O. T., says: The United States cavalry are supposed to have fired the Cherokee strip, and there is now a vast prairie fire, which will cause great loss. There was a thrilling scene. Cattlemen started their cattle on a dead run, as they fled before the rapid flames. Boomers put their horses to the gallop to get away.

This will be a crushing blow to the boomers who intended to take claims in the strip, as it will destroy the forage.

Escaped From Jail.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 1.—Two bad thieves, who have of late given the police of Boston, Cambridge, Brookline, Waltham and Manchester so much trouble, escaped from the jail here last night. They are Herbert E. Knights and Frank Le Clair. The cell from which the men escaped is situated on the third tier. Investigation shows that the men broke off the leg of the bedstead, and, with this as a wedge, they forced apart one of the two bars of the door. They then ran down the three flights of stairs into the basement, where they broke open a wooden door, and their escape was then an easy matter.

Sixty Days' Rule Enforced.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1.—The officers of the savings banks of this city met yesterday and agreed to put into effect the rule that makes a 60 days' notice imperative before money is drawn from the banks by depositors. There is no apprehension of trouble, but the bank officials thought they would take necessary precautions, as there have been a number of runs on the savings banks in towns adjacent to Cleveland.

He May Recover.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 1.—Paul Cleveland, aged 30 years, attempted to commit suicide this morning by shooting himself with a revolver at his boarding place on Merrimac street. His wife was in the room at the time. No special cause is assigned for the act. Cleveland, who was married but a few months ago, is a shoe packer. He may recover.

Bank Cashier Dead.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 1.—Augustus Stevens, cashier of the Beverly National bank, died at his home on Cabot street at 11 o'clock this forenoon after a long illness. He was 54 years of age and leaves a wife and three children. He was one of the most prominent men in eastern Massachusetts in financial and social circles.

Burglars Plunder Houses.

TOPEKA, Aug. 1.—The stream of idle workmen from Colorado continues to pour through Kansas. In the towns along the line of the Santa Fe and Union Pacific roads, tramps and burglars have taken advantage of this movement east of idle workmen and are plundering farmhouses and residences.

Another Lynn Man Missing.

LYNN, Mass., Aug. 1.—Another Lynn man is missing from home. It is now George Beaudreau of 29 Harvest street. He left home July 24 to go to Malden to do some carpenter work. He took a chest of tools with him. The police of Malden and Lynn have not been able to get any trace of him.

Lawrence Banks Require Notice.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 1.—The Broadway and Lawrence savings banks put into effect today the 60 days' notice to depositors and the Essex savings bank will follow suit tomorrow. All the banks are perfectly solvent and the Essex has now on hand over $300,000 which it can use if necessary.

Eighth Regiment Reunion.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 1.—The reunion of the Eighth Regiment association is being held here today. At the business meeting in the forenoon Fitz W. Perkins of Salem was elected president. This was followed by a sail and then a dinner at the hotel. There were 75 members present.

Training School to Be Moved.

SACO, Me., Aug. 1.—The Adventists of New England contemplate an immediate removal of their school from Concord, N. H., and Saco is likely to be the place selected for its permanent location.

Vacation Extended Two Weeks.

WALTHAM, Mass., Aug. 1.—The Waltham Dial company has extended its vacation for two weeks. This step is taken mainly on account of the new factory in Crescent Park not being ready for occupancy.

Throws Out 3000 Men.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1.—The Cleveland Rolling Mill company has closed its plate, wire and rod mills and steel works, throwing 3000 men out of employment.

LADIES OF LEISURE.

Harriet Beecher Stowe's twin daughters are maiden ladies nearly 48 years old.

Mrs. E. J. Whitten of Topsham, Me., has a magnificent head of hair which measures 8 feet six inches. It has been growing 18 years.

Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood draws a pension of $30 a month as the widow of an infantry chaplain. She does a big pension claim business.

Mrs. William Kane, a New York beauty, has the fair and delicate coloring of her mother, who was a daughter of General Winfield Scott.

Mrs. O'Leary, the owner of the famous O'Leary cow whose kicking led to the great fire in Chicago, is still living. She resides in Masonville, Mich. She doesn't keep any cow now.

Emma Schillinger, 44 years old, has been awarded the gold medal of the old settlers of Chicago for "the girl working longest in same family." She has been with the same family since 1859.

Miss Cecilia Mackenzie of Bruchnair is the leader of the Scottish Women's Church Defense union, which is organized to combat the proposed overthrow of the national church of Scotland.

Miss Emily Louise Gerry of New Haven, who has been elected regent of the Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, is the last living child of a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

As Mrs. Cleveland's private secretary, Mrs. Toomey, who was similarly employed by the late Mrs. Whitney, will attend to all the White House social correspondence, receiving $3,000 salary.

Mrs. Lloyd S. Bryce, daughter of ex-Mayor Cooper, has really wonderful talent as an artist, and had she not been a "society girl" she would probably have achieved distinction as a portrait painter and caricaturist.

Gabrielle Greeley, daughter of the founder of the New York Tribune, who is married to Rev. F. M. Clendenin, the pastor of a fashionable church at Westchester, N. Y., is active in all the charitable work in the parish and has done a great deal toward building the hospital, which is now nearly finished.

Mrs. Lynde Craig, for 10 years a teacher in the girls' high school of San Francisco, has been admitted to practice before the supreme and other courts of California. She completed the three years' course of study in one-half the usual time and stood at the head of the 16 students who finished the course.

THE PROPER CAPER.

Among the variety of tailor gowns made for the races, linen duck and holland suits figure conspicuously.

Slender, long waisted women look very dainty in the new cross over blouses that tie at the side or in the back, as is found most becoming.

A new summer weight hopsacking, in admiral blue, cherry red and silvery eadet blue, is made into pretty day dresses for country and seaside wear.

Nearly all the pretty zephyrs, lawn and French batistes are finished on the skirt hem with tiny ruches or small lapping frills made of the dress goods.

Low necked linings, under high waisted corsages of diaphanous fabrics, are seen at all fashionable summer resorts. The sleeves as a rule are unlined, but made excessively full.

The gowns for the summer are made of beautiful crepons of light ground strewn with flowers, also of flowered dotted swiss muslin, tamboured organdie and soft undressed india mulls.

The new make of crepon differs from the crinkled lines alternated with plain stripes and looks like idealized crocodile skin in respect to design, and the dyes are more beautiful than ever.

Plain Chambray and French zephyr dresses for morning wear have seamless, shirred princess backs, with fronts painted and finished either as a corselet with guimpe or in surplice form with folds coming from the shoulders.—New York Evening Post.

THE MOVING WORLD.

A man in California has invented a device that will prevent gas from escaping when it is blown out.

There are nearly twice as many newspapers printed in the state of New York now as there were in 1870.

French ingenuity has contrived an improved stone cutting saw of remarkable efficiency—a circular saw having its edge set with black diamonds in the same way as the straight blades.

A new material, called rubber velvet, is made by sprinkling powdered felt of any color over rubber cloth while the latter is hot and soft. The result looks like felt cloth, but is elastic, waterproof and exceedingly light.

Captain Buisson of the French cavalry is the inventor of what he calls a "hippometer," an instrument for measuring the distance covered by a horse. The instrument resembles a watch, and it works by the stepping of the animal.

PEN, PENCIL AND BRUSH.

M. Zola, the famous novelist, has become an enthusiastic bicyclist.

John Ruskin, the new laureate, wrote his first book, "Modern Painters," not, as he said, for fame or for money or for conscience sake, but of necessity. Yet it brought him both fame and money.

Mrs. Hodgson Burnett and her sister picked and sold wild grapes to get money to pay for paper, envelopes and stamps which took her first stories to an editor from the Tennessee mountains, where they lived.

Sir John Gilbert, president of the Royal Society of Painters in Water Colors of Great Britain, has not sold any of his water colors or oil paintings for many years past, intending to build a gallery for them and present the gallery and pictures to the public.

Arlo Bates, the Boston novelist, has been elected professor of English literature in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Bates is not only a writer of books, but an experienced journalist as well, having been editor of the Boston Courier for several years.

Miss Florence Marryat, daughter of the famous writer, has always made literature a profession. She lives alone, attended by two servants, at a pretty little house in West Kensington, London, where she has a remarkable collection of "pets"—dogs, birds and flowers.

The Comtesse de Mirabeau Martel, more widely known to fame by her pen name of Gyp, and accredited by one critic at least with being the cleverest newspaper writer of her sex in Europe, is a blond and no longer young. She is of medium stature, with wavy hair and large, brilliant eyes.

A Bad Break.

Gus Snoberly—I hear Miss Daisy Dimple is engaged again. Is it a fact?

Billy Gaitling—Yes, I know it is so.

Snoberly—Well, they say practice makes perfect. She has been engaged at one time or another to almost every blank fool in Harlem. Who is her last victim?

"I am."—Texas Siftings.

HUNTING ASTEROIDS.

Astronomical Sport That Is Being Robbed of Part of Its Pleasure.

There was a time when the hunting of asteroids was the athletic sport with which the tired astronomer refreshed his mind and muscles. Wearied with prolonged calculations as to the weight of a ton of coals on the surface of Jupiter or the density of beer on the surface of the sixth moon of Uranus and with his right arm and fingers cramped and numbed from the excessive use of chalk and blackboard, the astronomer would take his telescope and in the bright, crisp winter night stalk the timid asteroid through the starry jungles of the skies.

It was not often that he made a successful bag. Sometimes he would hunt night after night for weeks before capturing a single asteroid, but he was always buoyed up by the hope of game, and when he did bring down an asteroid with his breechloading reflector, his small but handy refractor, and was enabled to make a present of its elements to a favorite fellow astronomer he was indeed a proud and happy man.

But this fine old astronomical sport is at an end. The asteroid trapper with his photographic trap is abroad, and there is every reason to believe that in the course of a very few years at the furthest every existing asteroid will have been captured.

The method of the trapper is as simple as it is unsportsmanlike. He sets his camera at nightfall and goes home to his family until the following morning. A clockwork attachment gives a motion to the camera identical with the apparent motion of the fixed stars, so that the images of the latter never vary their places on the sensitive plate.

When, however, the trapper finds a faint but prolonged line of light extending over the plate, he knows that it is the trail of an asteroid, and he at once proceeds to complete its capture by giving it a name and calculating its elements.

The unsuspecting asteroids who had long ago grown shy of the telescope have not yet discovered the existence of the camera traps, and they are captured in alarming numbers. It is quite usual for a trapper to report the capture of four or five asteroids in a single night.

It is true that he rarely makes any distinction between the traces made by an asteroid and the marks on the plate due to imperfections in the emulsion or to scratches made during development. In his greed he treats all marks as asteroids that come to his trap, and there can be no doubt that a certain proportion of the asteroids recently named and given a place in the solar system have no existence outside of the photographic plate, where the trapper fancied that he had detected their trail.

Still it is evident that the traps are nightly capturing an enormous number of asteroids, and unless something is done for their preservation this variety of celestial game will sooner or later become as extinct as the American buffalo.

To the average man it may seem to be a matter of very little consequence how asteroids are captured, but to those who are familiar with astronomers and who have their welfare and that of their wives and families at heart the prospect that legitimate asteroid hunting is about to become impossible is alarming.

If the tired astronomer can no longer keep up his health and spirits by beating the milky way for asteroids his health must inevitably suffer. Physicians are agreed that astronomy, if habitually indulged in, is peculiarly exhausting to the nerves. Indeed the confirmed and excessive astronomer is invariably irritable and quarrelsome, even in spite of the tonic influence of asteroid hunting.

If that resource should no longer be open to him, his condition will be simply pitiable, and such a thing as an astronomic home will be utterly unknown. The astronomer's only recreation will be found in contradicting the theories and denying the discoveries of other astronomers, and the meeting of an astronomical society would be a scene of wild uproar mingled with flying slates and lumps of chalk.—Washington Star.

The Age of the Earth.

The earth's age, like that of the proverbial spinster, must, I suppose, be deemed uncertain, or at least (as in the case of the census paper) we must allow a fair margin for probabilities. The geologists on the one hand are supposed to make very big drafts indeed on the bank over which Father Time presides; while the physicists on the other hand insist on more moderate demands being formulated. The latest explorer in this field of inquiry is Mr. Clarence King, a well known American geologist, who seems to lean to the side of the physicists in this matter. Of course everybody starts with the earth as a gaseous mass and everybody gets to the earth as a cooling globe, which is certain in time to become a burnt out cinder like the moon.

From researches on the effects of heat and pressure as applied to a cooling orb, Mr. King concludes that Lord Kelvin's estimate of the earth's age is very near the mark. According to Mr. King the age of our world is to be set down as not exceeding some 24,000,000 years, which, I venture to say, is so entirely unthinkable a number that nobody may feel intellectually perturbed if a few millions more be added or a few millions be subtracted from the amount.—Dr. Andrew Wilson in London Illustrated News.

The Educated Hoosier Cockroach.

While a gentleman was at his office desk a day or two ago, one of these disreputable roaches ran across the paper on which he was writing. He flipped it against the wall with his finger, and it bounded back on the desk, lighting upon its back. It remained motionless for some time until it recovered from the shock and then endeavored to get upon its feet again, but in vain. Smaller roaches passed by their prostrate brother, evidently without noticing it, but a larger one came along pretty soon, stopped, went over to the one that lay upon its back, straddled across it, and giving it a quick jerk with its forelegs landed it deftly upon its feet, and the two disappeared over the edge of the desk.—Indianapolis News.

Waste.

He threw her a kiss as he went, did he,
And she said to herself, did the maiden gay:
"Why didn't he leave it here with me?
As it is it is simply thrown away."

She Scared Him.

"I'm awful fond of driving, miss,"
Her would be suitor said
As passing teams gave emphasis
To thought the moment bred.

"So's pa. He's quite a whip, they say,"
She answered him. "No doubt
If you should come around some day
He'd gladly drive you out."
—Boston Courier.

A VILLAGE KISS.

Jacqueline was a young country girl, who was 16 years old last apple harvest, and was a veritable model of sincerity. Every one who knew her loved her. Her skin was as white as the field daisy and as brilliant as the corn poppy.

On market days Jacqueline mounted her donkey, laden with fresh vegetables, the appetizing products of her mother's kitchen garden, and went to sell them in Blois. When she appeared in the square, every one welcomed her. Her eyes were so innocent, her voice so engaging that every one was attracted by her. Her carrots seemed better than her neighbors', her potatoes had not the least scar upon them, and her crisp lettuce or cresses from the brook, looking as fresh as herself, were quickly bought and at the highest price.

I ought not to forget to tell you that Jacqueline had no lovers.

At the village festival she made the old dance till they named her the daughter of miracles. Protected by the purity of her thoughts, she kept the young men at such a distance that they dared not even so much as press her finger tips in sign of friendship. Jacqueline had a friend in Blois who was going to marry one of the village boys. Suzanne was her name, and she was two years older than Jacqueline. She was pretty, but coquettish; attractive, but capricious. She had made her lover miserable by her changing and fanciful moods.

One day Jacqueline was about to set out for the village, when Blaisot, the lover of Suzanne, approached her and said:

"I suppose you will soon see my affianced."

"In an hour and a quarter from now," answered the courteous fruit seller.

"And you will speak to her?"

"As I am speaking to you."

"Oh, how happy you will be!"

"What prevents you from going and having the same happiness?"

"She is gentle and kind to me sometimes, and then she is cold and haughty, and I can do nothing to please her."

"Bah! my friend, you are too good to be worried like this. If I were in your place, I would have no fear—no more fear than of the house wolf, of which we are often told, but which we never see."

"While waiting, will you do me a kindness, Mlle. Jacqueline?"

"What is it?"

"Take a commission for Miss Suzanne."

"With much pleasure, M. Blaisot. Is it something to give her?"

"It is indeed," said Blaisot, rubbing his hands to give himself courage.

"And is it heavy to carry?"

"Light as a feather."

"Then I will take it," said the imprudent messenger.

Quick as a flash Blaisot leaned down and kissed the pure white forehead of Jacqueline.

"What are you doing?" cried the astonished girl.

"I have given you a commission."

"That kiss?"

"It is for Suzanne. You will carry it free of charge and not leave it to be called for. You know the address," and he disappeared, laughing, around a turn in the road.

It appeared as if the kiss of Blaisot was heavier than he said, for Jacqueline remained pensive and serious all the way to Blois, and her donkey even seemed to share her melancholy.

On her arrival at Blois she took care not to break her promise and ran quickly to Suzanne's house.

"I have a commission for you!" she said.

"Ah! An embroidered bonnet—some fresh nuts—a rosary blessed by the priest?"

"It is none of these things."

"Oh, hurry and tell me."

"It is a kiss from your betrothed."

"Oh, from him! He is no longer my betrothed."

"Ah, well, take the kiss all the same, even if you are having another quarrel! What, you refuse?"

"Absolutely!"

"You will not leave it upon my hands?"

"You need not feel it a burden."

"But I do not wish to keep a kiss that does not belong to me."

"That is your own affair. You should not load yourself with such merchandise. It may cost you a good deal before you are through."

Jacqueline returned to the village in a state of great perplexity. It seemed as if the kiss was visible upon her forehead, like the mark of a penitent in the church. She hurried as fast as she could, and as soon as she reached home she hastened to call upon Blaisot, to whom she related her lack of success.

"Oh, she is in one of her proud fits. It is all the same to me. I am rich. I am not ill looking. What is the old saying? If I find another girl that pleases me, I will drop Suzanne like a weight that is too heavy."

"But your kiss—what shall I do with it?"

"Whatever you wish!"

"Ah! well, if I had known"——

"But if you will please return it to me"——

The charming girl advanced, then quickly recoiled.

The remedy was worse than the disease—the restitution more difficult than the deposit.

"That cannot be," she said. "It is only our husbands that we kiss."

"Ah!" broke forth Blaisot, "there are coronets which crown heads not nearly as pretty as yours. I have never seen such pretty feet in any shoes, and you have a form and eyes to make a harvester dance when his day's work is done." And in his turn he began to sigh.

Meanwhile the pretty girl had reflected. She must avoid gossip. She accordingly ran to the house of the good priest to ask his advice. He was not at home, but Bertha, his housekeeper, received her.

"And this is all that troubles you?" said she when she had heard Jacqueline's story.

"And is it not enough?"

"Console yourself. There is near here a deposit of kisses, which contains plenty of room. Since I came to live with the priest more than a hundred thousand kisses have been put there."

"Truly!" exclaimed Jacqueline, overwhelmed.

"Yes, and there is still room for you to deposit yours." She conducted the young girl to the altar of the Virgin.

There Jacqueline freed herself from her load.

She felt herself lighter by many pounds after she had deposited the kiss upon the cold stones of the altar.

Two days after this she met Suzanne in the market clothed in gay apparel.

"See here, little one!" she cried mockingly. "I have reflected. Blaisot has a hundred acres of ground and a good mill. You may give me that kiss now."

"Oh, dear!" answered Jacqueline. "I can't walk round the world with other folks' goods. I no longer have it."

"Where is it, then?"

"Upon the first step of the altar of the Virgin Mary."

"That's good. It is not lost. I will go and get it the very first time I visit the hamlet."

But it was Suzanne who was snared this time, for that very evening Blaisot came to Jacqueline's mother's house in his Sunday clothes.

"Mademoiselle, I must have my kiss."

"It is in the chapel. Go get it there."

"That one does not belong to me. I gave you something to carry. You must either execute your commission or return the kiss to me. That is wholly just. I leave it to your mother."

"What should she have done with it?" asked her mother. "Jacqueline can kiss only her husband, and she is still too poor to find one."

"I will give her all that I have," said Blaisot.

"You!" exclaimed the two astonished women.

"Of course, when I give commissions, I pay for them. I will add to it my hand and my name. Will you accept them, beautiful messenger, and be my wife?"

Jacqueline, overwhelmed, nearly fell into her basket of salad.

When, several days afterward, Suzanne went to seek the kiss, the priest made her acquainted with what was going on. Shaking his white head and smiling, he said:

"You will never find it again."

"Somebody has taken it?" asked the coquette.

"No, but Blaisot and Jacqueline were married this morning. They kissed together the holy stone. The three kisses are now blended in a pious and chaste love. You can never recognize now, my dear, the one that was destined for you."

Etiquette of Letters of Introduction.

In the giving of letters of introduction permission should first be granted even in the case of intimate friends, as the introduction of a person whom you do not know thoroughly and well is attended with danger in many cases, and more particularly when the presentation is made by letter, as the written words always appear to carry more weight with them than the spoken ones, and the recipient of such an epistle feels in duty bound to show the newly introduced every courtesy that lies either in his or her power. Many unpleasant happenings have resulted from unthinking good heartedness that prompted the letter without inducing a careful study of the one to whom it was given.

Many letters of introduction are presented in person, but the more elegant way is to send them by messenger or post, accompanied by the card of the person conferring the introduction and your own with your address on it. A visit should be made within a week after the arrival of the letter by the person receiving it if the acquaintance is desired.—Philadelphia Times.

Smashed Idols.

What years and years of labor will men not go through in order to gain the esteem of their fellow man! Yet how uncertain the reward. A thousand successes, a single mistake, and all is lost. It is said now that if Admiral Tryon had lived he might have been shot for his great blunder. Only those who die or retire at the right moment can hope to retain what they have earned of fame.

Perhaps the cause of this smashing of idols for a first offense is that, feeling ourselves equal as a whole to the idol, we take advantage of the first error that shows the lack of supposed superiority to knock the idol down to the common level. Certain qualities may cause men to become famous, but it is doubtful if in the eyes of an all seeing Spirit we are not all about as evenly made up of what we call bad and good qualities as to make a claim for any superiority other than animal superiority ridiculous.—Jamestown All.

A Great Salt Lake In Siberia.

The great salt lake at Obdorsk is 9 miles wide and 17 miles long, yet except in a few places it is solidly roofed over with a deposit of salt which is getting thicker and thicker every year.

Our guide, who is an old man, said that he could remember when the salt crystals first began to gather upon the surface of the water. Year by year, owing to the evaporation of the water, the crystals became more numerous and then caked together till this great roof formed.

In 1878 the water beneath this salt crystal roof found an underground outlet into the River Obi. This lowered the lake's surface about three feet, leaving that distance between the water and the roof.

Looking down through one of the openings made for the purpose in the roof, we saw a low sided small boat. Our guide put us one at a time into the boat. We lay flat on our back and looked up at the curiously beautiful salt ceiling overhead. We propelled the boat by pushing with our hands against the irregularities of the roof.

The guide held a long rope attached to the boat to prevent our going too far and getting lost—a thing he said it was easy to do.

Many springs surround this lake. Their water flows over the roof and evaporates there, and thus continually adds to its thickness. After many years the springs will probably become choked with their own deposits, and then the whole will gradually become covered with earth, and so a great salt mine will be formed—a treasure for the Siberians hundreds of years to come.

FARM, FIELD AND GARDEN.

MOTH WORMS.

Directions Given by The American Bee Journal For Destroying Them In Combs.

A few worms in a hive can be taken care of by the bees themselves, especially if the bees kept are Italians. But if the colony is very weak and of black bees the worms may get the start of them.

Brimstone the combs after the bees are all out, but do not forget that when worms have grown to considerable size it takes a great deal of smoking to kill them. Give them twice as much smoke as you think they need. But while you are transferring the combs why not pick out the worms yourself? You can do so with the point of a penknife and leave very little cleaning out for the bees.

Probably some would prefer to use foundation and melt up the old combs. The character of the combs themselves would have something to do in deciding it. Nice, straight, all worker comb might be better than foundation, while crooked combs with a good proportion of drone comb might better be melted up.

Bear in mind that putting wormy combs into a new hive does not insure the continuance of worms. The worms do not multiply, only as moths enter the hive and lay more eggs. So if a strong colony is put upon wormy combs strong enough to prevent moths entering, just as soon as the worms present come to maturity the trouble will be at an end, even if the bees should not succeed in tearing out the intruders.

Top Dressing Grass Lands.

The idea that used to be prevalent that stable manure cannot be spread upon grass lands in summer without great wastage is contrary to the experience of most farmers and is now contradicted by pretty good theoretical arguments. American Cultivator says: At all events don't plow stable manure into the soil in summer. There it has a far more injurious drying effect on the soil than if put on the surface, where it at least serves as a mulch. If manure is spread on grass lands after cutting off the hay crop, it should be rolled so as to press the manure as closely to the soil as possible. If heavy storms come, the rain will leach through this manure and carry some of its fertilizing properties into the soil. Very little ammonia will be lost, as on the surface and scattered there will be little fermentation. The soil under the manure will be kept moist, and the growth of aftermath will give the manure a shelter from the scorching rays of the sun. It is the best possible time to apply manure to grass land that is to be put in hoed crops next season. So after the grass is cut no time should be lost in drawing and spreading on grass land any stable manure that has accumulated since the spring cleaning of the barnyard.

Bordeaux Mixture.

There are several formulas, varying in strength. One strong enough for most purposes is one-quarter pound each of copper sulphate and lime to each gallon of water. For potatoes paris green may be mixed with this at the rate of one-half pound to 50 gallons. To make the bordeaux mixture suspend the copper and lime in separate casks of water in coarse gunny sacks and allow them to remain immersed for several hours, or for an entire day. When ready to mix, pour the liquid from each into a 50 gallon cask and fill up with water. Wooden vessels are best, as these chemicals corrode ordinary metals.—Rural New Yorker.

Strawberries.

A new bed, which will bear a fair crop next season, may be started from the first runners. These may be potted in small pots sunk in the ground and allowed to root in them or on small pieces of sod—say 4 inches square—placed grass side down. When well rooted, separate them from the parent plant and transplant to a well prepared and enriched bed during cloudy or rainy weather or just before a rain.

Experiment Station Notes.

A crop which will produce a good yield of forage and hay upon light soils is one of the things that we need. The Michigan station thinks we may have it in spurry, an annual which they have recently been testing with good results. This is called a weed in Great Britain, but is a hay and forage crop in Belgium, France and Russia.

A new experiment station will soon be in active operation on the nonirrigated plains of eastern Colorado at Cheyenne Wells. This will be the first general experiment station in the semiarid region.

It is claimed at the Illinois station that a good seed bed for corn is of more importance than early planting. Many of the best corn crops of the state have been harvested from late May planting.

In order to grow the best celery, according to the New York station, one should apply, in addition to a heavy dressing of stable manure, a liberal quantity of potash and phosphoric acid.

Experiments made at the Massachusetts station appear to have proved that it is not profitable to feed pigs after they reach a weight of 180 to 190 pounds, excepting perhaps when pork commands an exceptionally high price. Fed beyond this weight, the food consumed increases and the percentage of gain in live weight steadily decreases, so that the daily cost of food consumed is more than the value of the daily increase in weight. This fact has since been confirmed by other stations.

At the Ottawa experiment farms it has been made to appear that sulphate of copper (bluestone) is decidedly the best preventive of smut in wheat and is remarkably uniform in its action, and that a pound to 10 bushels is as effective as twice that amount. Agricultural bluestone, although next in value to sulphate of copper, is still not nearly equal to it as a preventive of smut.

The experiments made in detasseling corn at the various stations have not yet been so fruitful of results as to convince us that in this matter science has improved upon the ways of nature.

Reason For the Past Tense.

"It was, however," said the distinguished foreigner as he concluded his story, "simply a matter of beardsaid."

"You mean 'hearsay,' of course, count?"

"Ah, but sis was told me some time ago!"—Exchange.

People Who Whistle.

"Most people look upon whistling as a nuisance," said Herbert C. Sutliffe, "but there is no doubt that a whistling man has a good deal to recommend him. I have a friend who is a warden in a large penitentiary, and he states that in all his long experience he never knew a habitual whistler condemned to a term in the institution, and he says, moreover, that although the rules as to quiet and order are frequently broken he never remembers to have heard an attempt at a musical whistle within the terrible looking walls of the institution. Whistling seems to be the natural safety valve of good spirits and satisfaction, and the grumbling man couldn't whistle if he tried.

"I had a man to work for me once who was a model in every respect except that he kept my teeth constantly on edge by a series of whistling solos of anything but a cheerful character, although the good man was evidently trying to reproduce the latest operatic hits. I broke him of the habit by continuous scolding, but the man became so idle and indifferent in consequence that I was very glad to encourage him to resume a habit which at first had given me so much annoyance. I try to get out of the way when the spirit moves him to announce in whistling tones some important or romantic event, but I am perfectly certain that as long as he whistles he will work as hard as his hands and arms will let him."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Trouble With a Cold.

"S'matter?"

"I got an awful cold," replied Colonel Murray.

"Have you"——

"Yes, I have. I have polished my bronchial tubes with 'Coulin's Consumption Coughine.'"

"No, but have you"——

"Yes! Course I have. I've had goose grease rubbed all over my throat and chest, and I"——

"But, I say hold on, have you"——

"I tell you there's nothing I haven't tried. I took a hot bath, drank a pint of boiling lemonade and rubbed my hide almost off with Mustang liniment, but"——

"Now, listen! Have you"——

"Yes, I have. Tried them all, but they're no good. Why, last night I"——

"That's all right, but have you"——

"Have I what?"

"Have you time to go over to Flynn's and have something?"

"Why the deuce didn't you talk sense at the start?" responded the colonel. "I'm with you."—Exchange.

"THE CULMINATING ATROCITY."

The democratic statesmen abroad are tickling their English audiences almost to death by their frank and loud declarations for free trade and an English policy for America. Mr. Thomas G. Shearman assured them positively that "President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham in free trade principles are the peers of Peels, and that Secretary Carlisle is as sound as Gladstone upon the subject, and he wished he could say of him 'more than this.'" And Cousin Ben Folsom repeats the old revolutionary language of the Chicago platform that "protection is a fraud and a robber," and "that the McKinley bill is the culminating atrocity of class legislation in this country." They are having a real good time condemning a republican policy under which great industries have been built up and the country carried to a height of prosperity never before known in its history.

The men who voted to place them in office are not having such a good time. Millions of them are walking the streets in idleness, and a blight is upon every industry in the land. It is a sad picture to see a country as prosperous as this has been brought by democratic folly to a condition of distress and embarrassment unparalleled in its history. It is an "object lesson" that the workingmen will have reason to remember, and a mistake they will take the first opportunity to remedy at the polls.

THE NAVAHOE'S FIRST RACE.

The American yacht Navahoe made her first appearance at a race in English waters in the Royal Yacht club's race on Monday, and although she did not win she showed that she was a worthy competitor for honors with England's best sailing yachts. She led the fleet on the first round, and finished third, being so close a follower of the Valkyrie that the race was made particularly interesting. She beat the Satanita and the Calluna.

The Navahoe is a Herreshoff boat, and the faith her commander had in her was shown when he invaded English waters with the express purpose of taking from the English the cups won by the Genesta in 1885.

The programme announced for future races was that the Britannia should defend the Royal Victoria cup, the Calluna the Brenton Reef cup, and the Satanita the Cape May cup. The Navahoe's good time Monday will require a change in this order of things or the Navahoe may capture the cups she went abroad to take.

Besides the Navahoe, the yachtsmen have four yachts which have been built this year to meet the Valkyrie in American waters this fall, and the prospect is that the greatest sailing contests of this century are to be witnessed in American waters in September and October. The remaining English races will be watched with interest by Americans who have a love for sport and a patriotic desire to see the Navahoe win.

CRIPPLED SIAM.

It is gratifying to hear that France hopes to have the good will of Siam after she has taken that pagan nation by the throat and wrested from her over a third of her territory and a large amount of treasure. The demands made by France and ceded are as follows:

1. A recognition of the rights of Annam and Cambodia on the left or eastern bank of the Mekong river as far north as the twenty-third parallel of latitude.
2. The evacuation within a month of the forts held by the Siamese on the east bank of the river.
3. Full satisfaction for various Siamese aggressions against French ships and French sailors on the Menam river.
4. The punishment of the culprits and provision for the pecuniary indemnity of the victims.
5. An indemnity of 12,000,000f for damages sustained by French subjects.
6. The immediate deposit of 5,000,000f. to guarantee the payment of the fourth and fifth claims, for the assignment of the taxes in certain districts in lieu of deposits.

Siam has consented to part with 99,000 square miles of her 250,000 square miles of territory, which is equal in extent to all New England, with twenty states like Rhode Island thrown in. The indemnity called for equals $[illegible]; and the guarantee $950,000. Considering England's neutral attitude France has declared her intention to share the booty. The King of Siam was forced to violate an agreement with Burmah and France may yet find considerable trouble in taking possession of the ceded territory.

LITTLE TIME FOR TALK.

Congressmen are of the opinion that the country needs action more than talk, and recognize that the free silver minority desire talk instead of action, and will do all they can to obstruct the repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law by filibustering. Hence, the first step to be taken when congress meets on August 7, will be to pass a closure act to prevent inexcusable delay. The democrats do not take kindly to this mode of procedure, but the necessity for it is so apparent that enough of them will probably swallow all objections to it and vote with the republicans to secure to the majority the power which is theirs by right, that immediate legislation may be made possible. The republicans have shown in the past that they believe in limiting debate to hasten legislation.

The minority in this crisis, if they get an opportunity, will talk the country out of patience and their opponents into a compromise. They cannot hope to do more than to delay the repeal of the silver purchasing clause.

Senator Wolcott of Colorado, who is en route for Washington with an interview favoring free silver, for every representative of the press, is determined that nothing shall be done unless something as good or better than the silver purchasing law is substituted for it; and as there is estimated to be only one majority in the senate for the repeal of the law, it looks as if such a lively and determined antagonist might delay the measure annoyingly.

If debate cannot be limited it will be some time before the necessary legislation to relieve the treasury and the country can be accomplished.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The fellows who are riding policy gigs this summer are not getting much recreation.

Those who are walking to the World's fair for notoriety can cheer up those who are walking home from the fair from necessity.

Don't forget that a silver dollar is just as good as a gold one, and will pay for just as much provender or advertising space.

A Boston carpenter on Monday fell six stories and escaped unharmed. He walked home from the hospital and will be ready to take another tumble in a day or two.

Most of the democratic campaigners who deluded the workingmen into voting for free trade are in fat offices, while the men who elected them are idle and subsisting on lean fare.

Webb, the Washington correspondent of The Boston Journal, makes a comparison showing that we have purchased only $626,567 a month more of silver under the Sherman law than we would have had to do under the Bland law, is significant. And the Bland law did not pledge the government to maintain the parity of gold and silver.

The gold situation is daily improving, the crops are heavy, foreign demand for cereals never promised to be better, but the business situation does not improve. The manufacturers and merchants want to know where this democratic administration stands upon questions of vital importance to the great business interests of the country. If the Chicago platform's declarations are to be endorsed the soup houses will keep more people alive the coming winter than the mills!

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Own Up.

Now let President Cleveland be as candid as Admiral Tryon and confess: "It was all my fault."—[Kansas City Journal.

Inevitable.

If the sugar duty isn't restored at the special session, it will be at the regular session, and the people may as well prepare to pay a higher price for that indispensable article.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Hard on the Ladies.

A Boston Post reporter in last Thursday's issue of that lively journal describing a suicide, said: "It is quite certain that he is unmarried, and there is absolutely no apparent motive for the self-destruction."

Of Trifling Importance.

The interests menaced by the tariff smashing programme of the democrats, recently contemptuously described by a tariff reform organ as "a few manufacturers," represent a capital of $4,600,000,000, turn out a product of $8,500,000,000, and pay annually in wages $1,221,170,454.—[Boston Journal.

Democratic Comments Upon Wages.

The New York Evening Post's naive observation that while the reductions in wages now beginning to be reported are to be deplored upon general principles, still "under the present circumstances they can hardly be avoided," is almost as good as The Boston Herald's acknowledgment that a "rise in wages" is "directly opposed to the principle of free trade."—[Boston Journal.

Where the Woodbine Twineth.

Nicholas Staub's luxuriant whiskers are gone where the woodbine twineth. That is, there is a report that the recent cyclone in Hartford blew them off and they are now lodged in a tree near the capitol, being taken for a bird's nest by the casual observer. This is probably wrong. It is much more probable that Nicholas gave a barber the job, and will continue to do so.—[New Britain Record.

When Confidence Will Return.

Confidence will return when the wild-cat currency and mad dog tariff programme of the democratic party is abandoned or beaten, and not till then. The country was prosperous. Certain people wanted a change. They are getting it—"in the neck." We are sorry to believe that it has but just begun. Alas! that the innocent have to suffer with the guilty, but they will try to bear it if the deluded will only learn.—[Home Market Bulletin.

To be Remembered.

Just remember what we have already said several times. If you need a dress or a coat or a pair of shoes or a new furnace or a new carpet or any other of the things people have to have, and you see your way to paying for it, go and get it. Don't go without what you need unless you must. Voluntary poverty on your part may mean compulsory poverty on the part of somebody else. The only way anybody makes a living is by furnishing what somebody else wants. If everybody defers buying what he wants, business activity dulls.—[Hartford Courant.

How Is It?

A woman called on Chief Clerk Logan Carlisle of the treasury department the other day in relation to the new circular providing for the weeding out of employes when several relatives are in office together. "Are all who have relatives in office subject to removal?" she asked. "Yes," was the reply. "Well, how is it that you and your father are both holding offices at the same time?" Young Carlisle was staggered for a moment and then said: "Madam, I acknowledge the logic of your reasoning. In a very short time the old gentleman will have to go." This story is good enough, perhaps too good to be true.—[Waterbury American.

A NEW SAVINGS PLAN.

He Could Have Saved $475.00.

It is my family doctor now, many hundreds of people say [illegible] Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and thousands more would say the same thing and save hundreds of dollars if when they feel out of sorts, run down, pain in the back, sick headache, bilious, loss of appetite, sleepless nights, dyspepsia, or suffer from eruptions of the skin or any of the various ailments brought about by the impure condition of the blood, would use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Mr. James Cook of Catskill, N. Y., writes us, I suffered with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and after spending $475 with doctors I found myself no better. I then determined to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and after using three bottles which cost me just $3 I was cured. We always keep it in the house now, for it is our family doctor.

You tired out women! Half sick men, don't continue so, but try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, it will build up, restore the shattered constitution to permanent health and make the mind and body strong and vigorous. It is $1 per bottle and guaranteed to benefit or cure or money refunded.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

An Undisputed Test of Merit.

A medicine that has been a household remedy for over fifty years and used in that time by more than [illegible] persons must have great merit. Such a medicine is found in BRANDRETH'S PILLS. This fact demonstrates the value of these pills better than any statement of the proprietors. It will be observed that the dose required to cure is small. One or two pills taken every night for ten or twenty days will cure dyspepsia, costiveness, rheumatism, liver complaint, biliousness, or any disease arising from an impure state of the blood.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The simplest and best regulator of the disordered Liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in Sick Headache, Dizziness, Nausea, etc.; prevent and cure Constipation and Piles; remove Sallowness and Pimples from the Complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Backache is almost immediately relieved by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Try one and be free from pain. Price 25 cents.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc. The long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are considerably weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

The Bulletin.

A Blow to Friendship.

Perhaps you've met a fellow whom you thought of pretty well
When you had a brand new story that you fairly ached to tell.
So you'd get him in a corner or against an area rail
And begin with joyous unction to relate your little tale,
While he hearkened, all attention, with the
buddings of a smile
Showing faintly on his interested countenance
the while,
And you tried to be dramatic and to interest
your friend,
While he listened most intently till you almost reached the end,
Till you'd nearly reached the climax, when the listener should roar,
Then he'd say, "It goes just this way—I've heard that yarn before."

FIN, FEATHER AND FUR.

A pet crane acts as watchdog for a man at Tennille, Ga.

Near Tanquebar, on the southeastern coast of India, there is a species of fish which not only is able to walk on level ground, but can climb trees.

The common gnat has 150 times as much wing service per unit of weight as the Australian crane, which weighs 3,000,000 times more than the gnat does.

Baby, a cat belonging to Mrs. Cragin of Worcester, Mass., is believed to be the giant of the domesticated feline race. It is 3½ feet long, 16 inches high and weighs 32 pounds.

An act passed by the Alabama legislature prohibits the killing of ring necked Mongolian pheasants in that state for a period of eight years beginning June 1 of the present year.

The celebrated "globe fish" is not always globe shaped. They have the power of distending themselves into a globular form by inflating a large air sac in the abdomen. When this is blown out, they assume a normal shape.

ARCHITECTURAL.

The temple of the sun at Palmyra covered a square of 20 yards on each side. It was approached by a magnificent avenue over half a mile long flanked by rows of columns and statues.

The tower of Babel at Babylon was composed of eight square towers, one upon the other, the pile being 680 feet high. Babylon was a square 15 miles on each side, the walls 87 feet thick and 370 feet high.

Cromlechs, found in many countries, are rude monuments to the dead. Nearly 70 round towers from 50 to 135 feet high are found in various parts of Ireland. They are believed to have been used in the ceremonies of fire worship.

The grand triumphal arch begun by Napoleon is 147 feet by 73 feet at its base and rises to a height of 162 feet. The central archway is 95 feet high and 45 feet wide. The inner walls are inscribed with the names of 384 generals and 96 victories.

Some housekeepers serve lemon with mutton, but most people prefer a combination of tart and sweet, as in mint sauce or fruit jellies.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings In Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 8 to 10 per cent, and time money nominally 6 per cent.

August opens with a much better feeling in the market. The surface developments are certainly for the moment in favor of those who are looking for an improvement in prices. The market in the first place is largely oversold. This is shown by the premiums which all of the active stocks command with borrowers. Then, again, the disbursements the first of this month, while not comparing with the July payments, are yet greater than for any recent August.

On the local list General Electric was the strongest and most active at the opening. Starting ½ up at 44, it advanced irregularly to 48.

Sugar likewise was stronger, the common opening at [illegible] up, and advancing to 67¼, and the preferred strengthening from [illegible] to 75. Atchison opened ¼ up to 18¼, and Burlington and Quincy is up at 73 advancing later to 73¾. New England was 1 stronger at 19, Boston and Albany 3 stronger at 185, Boston and Maine quittered weak, selling down to 125 from 135, and rallying only to 128.

SIAM THE BUFFER.

Between the Possessions of France and England.

DEVELLE AND DUFFERIN AGREE.

Both Countries Make Some Concessions —Situation Is Still Critical.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Post's Paris correspondent says: A lengthy interview on Monday morning between M. Develle and Lord Dufferin resulted in a friendly entente permitting Siam to be maintained as a buffer between the British and the French possessions.

France abandons the ceded parts to which England lays claim as having formed part of Burmah previous to Thebaw's overthrow. England agrees to the necessity of an accurate adjustment of the Siamese frontier in relation to Tonquin and Annam.

The entente is so complete that Lord Dufferin will probably return to England on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Standard this morning again affirms and at greater length than yesterday, that, owing to the representation made by M. Develle, the foreign minister, by Lord Dufferin, the British ambassador to France the question of a neutral zone between the French possessions in the Siamese peninsula and British Burmah and the Shan states has been settled satisfactorily, and that it has been agreed that the French blockade of the Siamese coast shall be raised immediately.

Reports of similar purport appear today in The Times and Post.

GOVERNMENT BENDING.

Blast From the Boulevards May Yet Complicate Siamese Matters.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A dispatch from Paris to The Daily News says: There are signs that the government is bending somewhat before the blast from the boulevards.

It is now explained that France has not actually accepted Siam's submission to the full demands of the French ultimatum. The submission was only put on record when it was received from Prince Vadhana, the Siamese minister to France, and nothing final will be done until M. Lemyre de Villiers, the French plenipotentiary, who is now on his way to Siam, has accomplished his mission to Bangkok.

His instructions, as Siam's submission to the terms of the ultimatum was expected, were to exact material guarantees against a renewal of the Siamese attacks upon the French, and to ask for special advantages on behalf of the French, in which the financial world is understood to be interested.

Another dispatch from Paris states that Lord Dufferin, the British ambassador to France, and M. Develle, the foreign minister, at their interview yesterday, merely amplified the papers that had already been prepared for signature.

Inquiry at the foreign office elicits the information that the discussion was confined to a rough [illegible] of a convention for the delimitation of the frontiers of the territory to be handed over to the French by the Siamese and the formation of a buffer country between the French and British possessions.

LATEST NEWS SERIOUS.

How the Situation Appears to a Leading English Journal.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Daily News says: The latest news from Bangkok is very serious. Siam having accepted the French terms, France's persistence in coercive measures will be equivalent to an unprovoked declaration of war, if not an open demand for the cession of Siam.

The British foreign office has never been in abler or firmer hands than now. We have no desire to attack France, but while Lord Rosebery made up his mind from the first not to assist or encourage the Siamese, he was equally determined, with the full approval of his colleagues, to protect the commercial rights of his own countrymen. He distinctly warned France that British vessels could not be stopped under a blockade avowedly pacific in character.

It is quite impossible for Great Britain to withdraw the ships she sent to Bangkok for protective purposes. We cannot be accused of exciting public feeling against France. But moderation is one thing, weakness is another.

ADVICES FROM BANGKOK.

People There Do Not Know That the Blockade Is to Be Raised.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Advices received here from Bangkok show that no understanding has been reached in regard to the delimitation of the territory claimed by the French, or, at least that no knowledge to that effect has reached the Siamese capital. Neither is it known at Bangkok that the blockade is to be at once raised.

On the contrary, the dispatches from Bangkok fully support the reports current last night that much uneasiness as to the final outcome of the trouble is felt in Bangkok, and that the anxiety is increasing daily.

It is feared that an attack will shortly be made upon Bangkok, unless the French government sends orders to Vice-Admiral Humann not to attack the city.

MERCY TO ARMENIANS.

Ten Prisoners Condemned to Death Have Sentences Commuted.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 1.—The sentences of 10 of the Armenian prisoners recently condemned to death at Angora for taking part in the seditious uprising at Marsovan and Cesarea have been commuted by the sultan to penal servitude for eight years.

The death sentence will be carried out in the case of five other prisoners, who, it is claimed, have been proved to be common murderers. The terms of 24 other prisoners who were sentenced to imprisonment have been reduced.

Lucania's Speed Trial.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The new Cunard steamer Lucania, under easy steam and escorted by four tugs, left Glasgow yesterday for Greenock, where she will begin her speed trial forthwith. Her builders are confident that her specially strengthened hull will successfully resist the vibration from the engines and allow her to run continuously at full speed.

CANNOT GET MONEY.

Iron Works Closed Waiting For Something to Turn Up.

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 1.—The Industrial works, ranking among the largest iron works and boiler shops in the country have been closed, it is said, for repairs, but really because the firm operating it cannot get money for the goods sold, and has decided to wait until something turns up.

Clements & Son, the owners, who are among the millionaires of the state, and have offices and agents in all the leading cities of the United States, manufacturing anything from an engine up to a complete iron mill.

GOING TO GRAY GABLES.

Carlisle Will Confer With President. Speaker Crisp's Views.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The appearance of Mr. Crisp at the capital and the gathering of the few representatives who have arrived in the city in groups about the hall to talk over the situation and the prospects of the session are the first indications of the near approach of the extra session of the Fifty-third congress. Mr. Crisp is the center of activity, but, not yet having been reelected speaker, studiously declines to express himself concerning any of the complicated questions which are likely to arise in the new congress, nor will he discuss the proposed formation of the committees and their chairmen. He says:

"It will be time enough to discuss these matters after the house is organized. The first step is to get the Democratic majority in the lower house into a conference to talk over the situation with a view of reaching some understanding concerning their policy on the financial and [illegible] questions. The Democratic party has a great duty to perform, and it is to be hoped that the leaders representing the Democracy of all sections of the country will rise above personal or sectional interests and endeavor to reach some legislation which will not only avert the present unsettled and disturbed condition of the country, but will have the effect in a measure, of restoring confidence among the people. If the repeal of the silver purchase act will contribute to that end, it should be enacted, and that speedily. If other measures are required to strengthen the moneyed interests, which are now timid, that also should be done."

In regard to the composition of the committees, Mr. Crisp's conversation in a general way indicates that the leading committees which have charge of the subjects mentioned will be constituted with a view to facilitate legislation along the line of policy of the administration, not only on finances but economic questions as well.

Secretary Carlisle leaves this afternoon for Gray Gables by way of New York. He goes, it is understood, to confer with President Cleveland about his message and the prospective action of congress. He will take President Cleveland the latest information from Mr. Crisp about the reorganization of the committees.

It was expected that President Cleveland would return tomorrow or Thursday, but it is evident from the fact that the secretary of the treasury is going to him that he will not come back immediately.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Silk mills at Newton Upper Falls, Mass., have temporarily stopped.

F. H. Wilcox, night clerk, robbed the safe of the Boston Industrial home.

A bloody and newly ground axe was found by boys in the woods in the town of Shrewsbury, Mass.

The 60 days' notice requirement has been put into effect by savings banks of Portsmouth, N. H.

The Atlantic, Arlington and Pemberton mills of Lawrence, Mass., has posted notices of a shut down.

Frank Peck, a visitor in North Leominster, Mass., was killed by colliding with a hitching post while running to a fire.

CRISIS REACHED.

Strikers Brutally Attack Non-Union Workmen at Ashland.

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 1.—A crisis has been reached in the lumber shovers' strike. The strikers openly defied the officers of the city and county, closing with them in a hand-to-hand battle, in which blood was shed freely.

The Shores Lumber company sent word to Mayor O'Keefe that it would commence loading the boats with non-union laborers, and asked for police protection. The mayor sent Chief of Police Schwarz and some officers to the docks, where they were joined by Sheriff O'Brien and deputies. They took a stand on the tramway of the dock.

Work had hardly commenced on the dock when a great mob of strikers marched down the dock and the tramway. The foremost of them were forcibly handcuffed by the officers, and others were arrested who were afterwards rescued from the police by their fellows.

A desperate hand to hand contest followed in which revolvers were flourished and several shots fired. The officers were nearly all bruised with clubs and stones. The advance on the tramway was finally checked but the strikers then swung down underneath the tramway and made for the boats, reaching them ahead of the officers.

There was an awful scene of brutality enacted by the violent mob upon non-union men who were loading the boats. They struck them down with clubs and forced them to run for their lives. Forty of the ringleaders among the strikers were arrested. It is feared that many of the men who were injured in the riot will die.

WIND AND FLOOD.

Drought Broken by Terrible Thunder and Rain Storm and Tornado.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 1.—The long drought which has prevailed throughout this section of the state was broken by a terrific thunder and rain storm, which swept over the entire region from west to east last evening. Over 300 telephones were burned out in this city, and great volumes of water rushing down from the hillsides made the streets look like rivers. The surrounding country was greatly in need of the rain.

A special to Caldwell, O., a few miles from here, reports great destruction of property by a terrible tornado which accompanied the rain. The Presbyterian church was completely wrecked. The steeple fell across North street, crashing into the residence of James Kennells and wrecking it. The Noble County National bank building was also wrecked. The Opera House, a newspaper office and several other buildings were badly damaged. Many shade trees were torn up by the roots.

In the surrounding country great damage was done. No fatalities are reported.

KANSAS TROUBLES.

Cattlemen Quarreling and Bloody Conflicts Likely to Occur.

PARIS, Tex., Aug. 1.—There is serious trouble among the cattlemen in the Panhandle. As usual, it is a fight between big ranchmen representing English syndicates, and the owners of the smaller ranches.

Water is scarce, and, as the syndicate have all the principal streams fenced up, the smaller cattlemen are shut off from water, and they have proceeded to cut fences and open the way for their suffering stock to quench their thirst. Rangers are patrolling the country, and the cattlemen are up in arms and insist that the water shall be open to all.

On Saturday a man representing the English syndicate was shot dead in the depot at Childress by one of the Beckams, who own a large ranch and are leading the fight against the syndicate. Beckam was surrounded in the depot until friends came and rescued him. The situation is complicated, and bloody conflicts are liable to occur at any moment.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Crowded With Productions of Outlying Districts.

VEGETABLE TRADE AT ITS BEST.

Financial Uncertainty Cuts Down Demand for Finer Grades.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—The markets of Boston today afford one of the most interesting sights to the visitor to the hub. In few cities is seen such a great amount of traffic in an equal area, and today the markets are crowded with the best productions on a large district lying adjacent to the city on the west and north.

The Vegetable Trade

is now at its best. Almost every farmer within 20 miles is able to send a good quota of stock, in fact one of the greatest dangers at this time of the year is a glut in the market. Undoubtedly the financial uncertainty and the consequent closing of many manufacturing plants in this vicinity has had an effect to cut down the demand for the fine grades of vegetables, but the commoner lines are a necessity as much as beef to human existence, consequently these do not feel the effect of the money panic to any considerable extent.

Cucumbers are worth $1.25 per hundred, new beets 25 cents a dozen bunches, cabbages $6 per 100, rutabaga turnips $1 a barrel, white turnips 50 to 60 cents a bushel, lettuce 20 to 25 cents per dozen, native tomatoes 12 1-2 cents per pound, string beans 75 cents to $1.25 a bushel, carrots 20 cents per dozen bunches, and radishes 25 cents a dozen bunches; new bunch onions $2 per 100 bunches. Summer squash are $4 a hundred. Small amounts of green corn from New England farms are seen in the market, 10 cents a dozen being the price for good full ears.

The Fruit Market

is doing a large berry business. The traffic in blueberries has been very large so far this season, and the fine quality of fruit now coming in from Massachusetts and New Hampshire pastures assures a continuance. Some very fine berries are being sold for 10 to 14 cents per box. Choice large blackberries bring 12 to 14 cents a basket, while currants are worth 3 to 7 cents per pound. Native raspberries are 10 to 15 cents per quart.

Early apples have appeared. Jersey sweet boughs are $3 a barrel and Astrachans from the Southern Middle states bring 75 cents to $1 in crates.

Southern growers are sending grapes. Delawares at $2.50; Moore's early at $1.50 to $2 and Niagaras, $1.50 to $2. Peaches of tempting appearance are displayed. These come from Maryland and Delaware and sell for $1.25 to $1.75 per basket.

The Butter Market

this week is reported to be in the buyers' favor. Those in a position to offer cash for consignments can dictate, but the fact is that few have the ready money. Fine norther butter ranges in price from 21 to 22 1-2 cents. Dairy lots from Vermont sell for 18 to 20 cents, and ladle packages sell for 15 to 17 cents.

The Provisions.

BEEF—The beef market is actually firmer, with a better trade. The best steers are firmer by about 50c per 100. The market is quoted at: Choice fancy steers, [illegible]; prime, [illegible]; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; extra heavy hinds, [illegible]; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; fores, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; backs, [illegible]; rattles, [illegible]; chucks, [illegible]; rounds, [illegible]; rumps, [illegible]; rumps and loins, [illegible]; short ribs, [illegible]; loins, [illegible].

OATS—Oats are also exceedingly quiet. Receivers are not taking them and buyers are not permitting shippers to send them along. The market on old clipped to arrive, is nominally quoted at [illegible], with new clipped, to arrive in August, at [illegible]. The spot market is very quiet, with quotations at: Clipped [illegible]; fancy, [illegible]; No. 2 white, [illegible]; No. 3 white [illegible]; clipped, mixed, [illegible].

LAMBS AND MUTTONS—Muttons and lambs are also doing better, with the quotations firmer at: Choice spring lambs, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; poor and ordinary, [illegible]; Brightons, [illegible]; yearlings, [illegible]; muttons, [illegible]; choice heavy Brightons, [illegible]; choice eastern veals, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; Brightons and fancy, [illegible].

HAY—Hay is in quiet demand here, with straw also quiet. Millfeed is well sustained, considering the position of wheat. The flour product has to be sold at prices so unremunerative that the millers are holding loss as far as [illegible] figures as possible. Sack spring bran to arrive is quoted at $15.25, with sack winter at [illegible].

CORN—Corn is easy. Shippers, in fact, are doing very little. Chicago No. 2 yellow is quoted at [illegible], to arrive, with No. yellow at [illegible], also to arrive. The spot market is very dull, with quotations at: Steamer yellow, [illegible]; No. 3 yellow, [illegible]; steamer mixed, [illegible].

FLOUR—Flour continues very quiet. Quotations are: Fine and supers, [illegible]; extra and seconds, [illegible]; Minnesota bakers', clear and straight, [illegible]; winter, clear and straight, [illegible]; winter pat., [illegible]; spring pat., [illegible].

EGGS—Eggs are firm, from a rather light supply. Some strictly fancy fresh sold yesterday as high as 20 [illegible]. The market is quoted at: Western, [illegible]; Michigan, [illegible]; Island, 17c; eastern and northern, [illegible].

CHEESE—Cheese is in quiet demand, with the quotations at: [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; western choice, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; Liverpool is quoted at 45s 6d for white.

POTATOES—Potatoes are in good demand, with Rhode Islands at [illegible]; Jerseys and natives, [illegible]. Sweet potatoes are in small supply and sell at $4 to [illegible] for good.

APPLES—Apples are in good request for good barrel lots, which are quoted at $1 [illegible], as to quality. Crates are quoted at [illegible], as to quality.

MEAL—Cornmeal is easy, with bag meal at [illegible], and with barrel meal at $2 [illegible].

BUTTER—The butter market is quiet, with values easy. Quotations are unchanged.

PORK—Pork and lard are steady. Trade is fair, with quotations unchanged.

Bank Officials Indicted.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 1.—The United States grand jury has indicted W. H. Scoggins of the defunct Commercial National bank of this city for wrongfully certifying checks. A new indictment was found against F. Porterfield, cashier of said bank, and one against G. A. Dancy, charging conspiracy. George Childress, cashier of the defunct Second National bank of Columbia, Tenn., was also indicted.

Inducted Into Office.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Hon. Sherman Hoar, the newly appointed United States district attorney was inducted into office this noon by Judge Nelson. Hon. Frank D. Allen, who has served as district attorney under the last administration, accompanied Mr. Hoar into the United States district court rooms and both occupied seats together.

Miners Ready to Give Up.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 1.—Noah Allen, the attorney of the striking coal miners, returned yesterday from Pittsburg, Kan. He admits practically that the miners have lost the strike, and that they are about ready to give up and return to work at the operators' terms. He hopes, however, for some concessions.

One Disadvantage.

"Johnny, would you like to be a missionary to the savages?"

"Sometimes I'd like to be a missionary, and sometimes I'd like to be a savage," replied the boy.

"Why?" was the astonished query.

"Well, you see, a missionary has to wear clothes in summer."—Washington Star.

MASCULINE CELEBRITIES.

Hon. C. C. Beaman, ex-Secretary Evarts' law partner, is the [illegible] landholder and taxpayer in Cornish, N. H.

General Nelson A. Miles was a clerk in a Boston store and familiar with the yard stick before he took hold of a sword.

William A. Deharity, the mayor of Elwood, Ind., is [illegible] years old and probably the youngest city executive in the country, as he claims to be.

Prince Bismarck has a great dislike to lamp shades, or indeed to any kind of drapery used as a means of ornamentation, so his rooms have a very bare look.

"Brick" Pomeroy is 60 years of age. Twenty five years ago his writings were read all over the country. He is now interested in railroad schemes in Colorado.

Ex-Treasurer F. E. Spinner, who had more autographs in other people's hands than any man of his time, is to have an eight foot monument, costing $10,000, erected to his memory in Washington.

Harvey Allen has been constable of one township in Illinois for 30 years. He has never had any opposition at any election, all parties voting for him. When first chosen, he was not quite 21 years of age.

Mr. Goschen, the English chancellor of the exchequer, is of German parentage. His father started in business in England in a very small way and made a success of it. Mr. Goschen is not ashamed of his plebeian origin.

Mgr. Satolli, who knew no English whatever when he arrived in this country, has put in all his spare time studying the language and is now so far proficient that he replied to an address of welcome at Helena, Mon., in a speech of considerable length.

Baron Alphonse Rothschild of Paris has now only one eye. In a hunt which he gave on his estate in France last fall one of his guests accidentally shot him in the eye. Although the best specialists in Europe tried to save the organ, it was found impossible.

Van Leer Polk, the new consul general at Calcutta, was for some time associate editor of the Nashville American. He was a member of the Tennessee senate, was educated in England and France and speaks several languages. He is 36 years old and unmarried.

Ex-Senator Hill of Colorado has made a fortune by smelting gold and silver by a secret process of his own, by which his big refinery in Denver is able to do some of the best refining in the world. He is said to be one of the best judges of metals in the United States.

Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state, is one of the youngest members of the sacred college, not being yet 50 years of age. He is a tall, handsome man, but already begins to be bent, not with the weight of years, but with the weight of work which the pope imposes on him.

Joseph H. Choate of New York, the silver tongued orator and defender of the heathen Chinee, is an epicure and delights in choice viands as much as he does in choice language. He has made no record as a big eater, however, and may be called a dilettante gourmet with a refined appetite.

The court of common pleas came in at New London Tuesday morning and took a recess to come in here at 11 o'clock, when the case of Buchanan vs Buchanan, which was tried last June, was argued. No settlement was reached in the case, and it will be again argued August 8 at 9 o'clock, to which date the court of common pleas adjourned.

A curious coin, about the size of a copper cent, found on a Preston farm, has come into the possession of a New York gentleman who formerly resided here. The obverse side bears a King George's head, and this inscription is made out with difficulty, "Georgius Dei Gratia Rex." On the reverse side is what appears to be the representation of a rose and the inscription "Rosa Americana," with the date "1722," which is quite distinct.

The Masonic Temple Progress.

Contractor John Donovan expects to have the rough brick walls of the Masonic temple in place in a fortnight, and will then commence on the fine buff brick front, with terra cotta and Ellicottville, Ind., limestone trimmings. The set piece, sixteen and a half feet high, will effectually shut out the view of the Hopkins & Allen Manufacturing company employes from the town clock, and they are taking farewell glimpses these days.

George A. Jackson, colored, non support of family, bond of $100 to discharge his duty for six months.

Alexander and John Dombrofski, breaches of the peace, $1 and costs each —$5 93.

William Greene and Jennie Whipple paid $42.28 and $43 08 respectively for violating the liquor law.

Young Zahn Found Drowned.

The lifeless body of 8 year-old Albert Zahn, whose disappearance was reported in THE BULLETIN Tuesday, was brought to the surface of the Yantic river at Osgood's float by Thomas J. Comstock Tuesday noon. Coroner Park and Medical Examiner Paddock viewed the remains, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon they were taken to the home of the lad's parents on High street. He was the oldest of three sons.

It is supposed that while playing alone on the float Monday noon the boy fell overboard, and drowned without attracting attention.

At the Willimantic Camp Grounds.

On Monday, August 14th, a mass meeting and conference of temperance workers will be held at the Willimantic Camp grounds under auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Connecticut. Circulars to this effect containing the programme of exercises have been received by temperance workers in this city.

Among those who take prominence in the exercises are Mrs. Anna M. Herr, Norwich; Mrs. C. B. Forbes, the Rev. J. H. James, Mrs. M. E. A. Gleason, Massachusetts; Colonel George W. Bain, Mrs. F. M. Stanley, the Rev. S. B. Forbes. The children's meeting will be led by Mrs. C. H. Fitzgerald.

The New London Northern and New England roads will make special excursion rates that day to the camp ground.

SAIL AND DINNER.

The Arcanum Club Visits the Fort Griswold House, Eastern Point.

A hundred members of the Arcanum club left the steamboat wharf on the Ella at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening for a dinner at the Fort Griswold house, Eastern Point. The boat arrived at 9 o'clock, and the members of the party sat down at once to do justice to the following menu:

Soup.
Consomme en Tasse.
Chow Chow. Cucumbers.
Bluefish Baked au Madeira.

New Green Peas.
Roman Punch.
Ribs of Beef au Jus.
Mashed Potatoes. New String Beans.
Sponge Pudding. Assorted Cake.
Nuts. Raisins.
Cheese. Crackers.
Cafe Noir.

After two hours' pleasure at the table the company strolled about the grounds of the hotel, and many participated in a hop given by the guests.

An orchestra accompanied the excursionists and discoursed music on the trip to and fro and during the repast.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSIONS.

The Common Council Postpones Action to the Next Meeting.

A special meeting of the court of common council was held Tuesday evening. Senior Alderman Sevin presided in the absence of Mayor Harwood, and there were present Alderman Aborn and Councilmen Henderson, Brewster, Ralston, Stetson, Murray, George and Hough.

The council convened at 8.48 o'clock, and Alderman Aborn presented a resolution on the petition of the Norwich street railway to erect, place and maintain poles, wires and conductors along the route of the proposed extensions. Action was postponed to the next regular meeting of the council, on motion of Councilman Brewster.

The street railway company asked for the passage of an order relative to the erecting, placing and maintaining poles, wires and conductors, and designating size, kind, quality and finish in West Main street from the point where its present poles are erected westerly to the city line. In an accompanying paper the property holders on the line waived all objection. The matter was referred to the mayor and street committee, who are in charge of the street railway extension.

A petition signed by W. T. Lane and thirty-three others urged that a grave mistake would be made if the layout for the street railroad from River avenue to a point at the northerly end of the park were in the middle of the highway, and asked that the track be placed on the side of the road as originally intended. The petition was referred to the same committee as the preceding one.

Alderman Aborn announced that there would be a hearing given to the remonstrants in the council chamber Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

Richard F. Goodwin petitioned to erect a wooden addition for manufacturing purposes to his cork shop, 82 Chestnut street. Referred with power to the fire committee.

A batch of sheriff returns were ordered printed in the council journal, following which the council adjourned.

Sheriff Hawkins Overboard.

Tuesday Sheriff Hawkins repaired to Niantic to replevin the naphtha yacht of J. M. Logan of East Lyme, at anchor in the harbor. Procuring the services of two men, one as oarsman and the other as keeper, the sheriff started out for the craft. Before his rowboat had cleared from the wharf, Logan came rushing to the scene and jumping aboard, tried to prevent the boat reaching his yacht. In the scuffle, it was overturned and the four men were floundering in the water. All reached shore by swimming and Logan was placed under arrest. Then the sheriff performed his duty without further interruption.

REPORT OF EXAMINING BOARD.

All Officers Who Appeared Given a Clean Record.

Orders were issued from the adjutant-general's office Tuesday announcing the result of the examining board. All officers who appeared before the board passed a satisfactory examination in duties pertaining to their rank, and they will be commissioned.

The following named officers having failed to appear before the examining board, or to present a satisfactory excuse, their appointments are hereby revoked, and they are discharged from the military service of the state to date from July 17 1893:

First Lieutenant Dennis J. Murphy, Company B, First regiment.

First Lieutenant Charles B. Sheppa, Company E, Second regiment.

First Lieutenant William H. Bramhall, Company I, Fourth regiment.

Second Lieutenant Louis A. Hado, Company F, Third regiment.

The commanding officer of each company in which a vacancy is created by this order, is hereby ordered to warn the members of the company to appear at their armory to make nomination by ballot to fill the vacancy, and in like manner make nomination for any vacancies in the commissioned officers occurring by reason of the nominations herein ordered.

PUTNAM.

Mills Shut Down—Reducing Running Time—Base Ball—Other Matters.

The shoe manufactory of Fisher & Co., which employs about one hundred hands, has shut down.

The woolen mill in Mechanicsville is closed, and the operatives are idle, owing to the depression in trade.

The twine mill in Woodstock closed its doors Saturday night, for three weeks, unless the market changes and the demand for goods increases.

Hammond, Knowlton & Company's silk mill, Putnam, has reduced its running time fifteen hours per week.

The Putnam strong team will cross bats with the "Norwich Clippers" on the Brooklyn fair grounds next Saturday. The event will be for a purse.

Mrs. Thomas Hughes is visiting friends in Mystic.

Whether the county commissioners will appoint three prosecuting agents—one at Putnam, another at Willimantic and a third at Killingly—will be decided tomorrow in Brooklyn.

SILVERITES IN SESSION.

Doings of the Bimetallic Convention at Chicago.

RESOLUTIONS OFFERED.

Much Enthusiasm Evoked by the Speech of Senator Allen.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 2.—The national bimetallic convention met in Central Music hall today.

As soon as Chairman Thurman called the body to order, I. S. Dougherty of Texas moved that the roll of states be called for the appointment of a committee to devise a plan and consider ways and means for impressing upon congress the ruin and peril now threatening all our material interests by the demonetization of silver.

He claimed that the proceedings of the convention were not being fully represented to the country and need existed for the immediate resolution.

Several objections were made on technical grounds, and Gen. Warner announced that the committee on resolutions would fully cover the subject.

The committee on resolutions not being ready to report, ex-Senator Hill of Colorado was introduced to the convention and spoke at length. His arguments were chiefly based on statistics tending to show that the adoption of a gold or single standard in any country had invariably been followed by decades of poverty and depression.

Ex-United States Senator James R. Doolittle of Wisconsin presented the following resolutions, which were referred to the committee on resolutions:

"Resolved, That the constitution of the United States, in declaring that "no state shall coin money, emit bills of credit or make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts," and at the same time declaring that "congress shall have power to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin," gave to the federal government supreme and exclusive jurisdiction over the money question.

Resolved, That instead of fixing the relative ratio of value between gold and silver coin, the constitution expressly gives to congress the power to ascertain and declare that ratio as it may change, from time to time, as was done during the administration of Gen. Jackson.

Resolved, That since the ratio of 16 ounces of silver to one of gold was adopted, about 60 years ago, and especially within the last 25 years, two most potent causes have produced a great change in the relative value of gold and silver. First: The war between France and Germany, recklessly brought on by Louis Napoleon, resulted not only in the invasion of France, in the capture of Napoleon and of Paris, but in the exaction by Germany from France of $1,000,000,000 in gold. That enormous spoil taken from France in gold fairly intoxicated the conquerors. It led Germany to demonetize silver, and, like England, to establish the single gold standard. Her example was followed by the Scandinavian states. Altogether it threw suddenly upon the market of the world $400,000,000 of silver, or five times the annual production of all the silver mines of the world. The other cause is to be found in the fact that since 1878, within the last fifteen years, the annual output of the silver mines of the world has been nearly doubled. Instead of 72,000,000 ounces, it has become 140,000,000 per annum.

Resolved, That congress in the exercise of its undoubted power, and in the discharge of its clear duty, whatever the European nations may do, should coin both gold and silver into money and maintain the bi-metallism of the constitution, and that in such coinage the bullion value of silver to be coined into a dollar shall be substantially equal to the bullion value of gold in a dollar, provided always that value shall be fairly estimated upon the basis that the two metals concur together in forming the monetary circulation of the world, and that it is the general mass of the two metals combined which serve as the measure of value of things."

The first speaker of the session, John B. Lennon of New York, representing the legislative council of federation of labor said that half a million of federation men are advocates of the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Gov. Waite of Colorado, made a characteristic speech, winding up with his well known remark about wading through blood up to the horses' bridles.

Ex-Congressman Rice Pierce of Tenn., created a sensation by arraigning President Cleveland. He asserted that Mr. Cleveland did not represent the democratic majority in the silver question.

C. E. Goodwin of Salt Lake city, followed in a speech which was loudly applauded.

Congressman Francis G. Newlands of Nevada followed in an address reviewing congressional legislation on the silver question.

United States Senator Allen of Nebraska provoked much enthusiasm in a brief but stirring speech, in which he pledged the people's party to the cause of silver. "I do not come here to talk politics," he said, "but I want to say that so far as the populist party is represented in the United States senate it will not be found wanting. [Applause.] We may not understand the parliamentary manoeuverings as well as some, but I tell you we will be in sight of the fox all the time. [Great laughter.] Our party is pledged now and all the time for the free coinage of silver at a ration of 16 to 1." [Cheers.]

A platform was framed and after some discussion was adopted.

The address of Chairman Warner delivered yesterday was adopted as the address of the convention to the American people. Adjourned sine die.

Was Working Overtime to Meet Market Demands.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 2.—The old Dugdale mill, on Willie street, near Broadway, and owned and operated by the Standard Worsted company, manufacturers of worsted yarns, was the scene of an extensive fire tonight. In spite of dull times the company was working overtime to meet the demand for goods.

The fire caught in the engine room and spread rapidly along the upper story toward the front. A second alarm was sounded before the fire was subdued. The damage was probably from $150,000 to $200,000 on stock, machinery and building. The whole was insured for $53,500. One fireman got a scalp wound from falling slate.

Took a Dose of Carbolic Acid.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Charles Warwick, 60 years old, rooming at 507 Harrison avenue, was found dead in his room tonight, having committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. No reason is known.

BICYCLERS AT DETROIT.

Zimmerman and Sanger Come Together—Sanger Wins the One Mile Open.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 2.—About 1,800 people saw the second day's bicycle racing at the Detroit driving park under the auspices of the Michigan division, L. A. W. The track was in fine condition, but a strong wind rendered fast time impossible. Zimmerman and Sanger came together in earnest for the first time in the opening event, and the western man won. In all the other events, of which both men entered, one or the other failed to start.

One mile open—W. C. Sanger, Milwaukee, won; Zimmerman second. Time, 2.20 4-5.

Half mile state championship—T. W. Cooper, Detroit, won. Time, 1.08.

Two mile, handicap—C. L. Berthol, Detroit, won. Time, 4.57 3.5.

Half mile, open—A. A. Zimmerman won. Time, 1.19 3-5.

Two mile, state championship—W. Steubes, Detroit, won. Time, 5.14.

Half mile, handicap—A. A. Zimmerman (scratch) won. Time, 1.08 1-5.

Quarter mile, open—G. L. Garry, Chelsea, Mass., won. Time, 33 3-5.

One mile, international—W. C. Sanger won. Time, 2.16.

Sensation at a Southington Funeral.

SOUTHINGTON, Aug. 2.—There is some excitement among the parishioners of St. Thomas' Roman Catholic church owing to the action of their pastor, the Rev. Father M. A. Hunt, at the funeral of Mrs. Bridget Ryan this morning. While arranging for the digging of the grave, this morning, Patrick Ryan, a son of the deceased, came to blows with the sexton. Father Hunt, hearing of it, publicly reprimanded the young man during the funeral services of his mother. He then announced that no one would be allowed to enter the cemetery except the relatives in the carriages following the hearse. A large number of Mrs. Ryan's friends presented themselves at the gate where they found an officer, who refused to allow them to pass. In a short time a large number of persons [illegible] admission but Father Hunt remained firm.

The Consolidated Road Affected.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—The Consolidated road has begun to be affected by the general business depression. During the past week the freight traffic on the several divisions has decreased more than ten per cent. The passenger traffic has also fallen off considerably. The road has laid off seven work trains and one gang of freight trainmen were dismissed from the Shore Line division yesterday. The decrease of business is chiefly felt on the New York and Shore Line division. It is thought that unless business picks up soon more men will be dismissed. It is said here that 60 men were discharged at the Hartford shops yesterday.

The President's Return to Washington.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Aug. 2.—All arrangements for the president's return to Washington have been completed. The president, Secretary Carlisle, Secretary Lamont and possibly others will leave here Friday afternoon and take the Fall River steamer Puritan at Fall River. On arrival in New York Saturday morning they will be conveyed to Jersey City where a special car will be in waiting to take them to Washington. It is understood that the run between Jersey City and Washington will be made without any stops.

Umbrella Manufacturer Assigns.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A receiver was today appointed for Amasa Lion, manufacturer of umbrellas in this city. Liabilities $120,000. Actual assets $60,000.

Sulzbacher, Gitterman & Wedels, importers of woolens, assigned today. Liabilities $280,000. Assets nominally the same.

Tax Rebate Fraud Arrest.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Detective Bagenallo made his second arrest today in the tax rebate fraud case. He took into custody Lieut. Col. Selden C. Clobridge of the Fourteenth regiment N. G. S. N. Y. The colonel is a tax searcher. It is said he confessed to having received some money unlawfully. He waived examination and was held for the grand jury. The charge was larceny in the second degree.

First Gun of the Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Representative Robertson of Louisiana has issued the following call:

"By authority from the Hon. W. S. Holman, chairman of the democratic caucus, I hereby call a caucus meeting of the democratic members of the fifty-third congress to meet on Saturday, August 5, at 8 o'clock.
S. M. ROBERTSON,
Chairman Democratic Caucus.

To Partially Shut Down.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 2.—Another mill in Lawrence is to suspend. The directors of the Washington mills decided to partially shut down next week. Over 1,300 men and women operatives will be idle. The mills have large orders, but the directors decided to close on account of the present uncertainty in business.

N. Y., N. H. & H. Employes Discharged.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 2.—Fifty-three employes in the car repair shops of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad company in this city were discharged today by orders received from Superintendent Fry of New Haven. The men were carpenters, joiners and painters, who earned from $2 to $2.50 per day.

Navahoe's Measurement Taken.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Navahoe's measurement has been taken and her rating is declared to be 161 tons. This is exceeded only in the case of the Satanita, which is rated at 159 tons, while the rating of the Valkyrie is 146 tons.

Hope Almost Abandoned.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 2.—A posse of men that has been searching during the past few days for the missing Anna Gray Orr, returned tonight with no tidings of the girl. Her parents and friends have almost given up hope of finding her alive.

Employes to Be Laid Off.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 2.—Notices were issued from the Stark mills today to the effect that beginning August 12, one half the employes will be laid off for two weeks, the cause assigned being lack of orders.

Won by the Britannia.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Today's race was won by the Britannia. No time was taken.

$100,000 Fire Loss at Yonkers.

YONKERS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Several business concerns were burned here today. Loss probably $100,000.

SECOND DAY'S RACES AT BUFFALO.

Tip-o'-Tip Danced Away the Lucre of His Backers.

MAY MARSHALL WON

The $3,000 Stake for Pacers Because She Was a Stayer.

BUFFALO, Aug. 2.—That erratic pacer Tip O'Tip, gave the talent another hard shock this afternoon in the second day's events of the grand circuit meet. May Marshall ruled a long favorite in the $3,000 stake for pacers eligible to the 2.25 class, but Tip had his speed under control for the first two heats and showed in front handily each time. Then after he had got the money all placed on himself he became unsteady and danced away the lucre of his backers. May Marshall possessed the staying powers and landed the next three heats, though Dreilincourt gave her a hard race of it and would have won the concluding heat but for a break near the wire.

Loosepilot was first choice in the 2.18 trot but Crit Davis drove Henrietta three fast heats and she won handily without being at all extended.

Fantasy had an easy thing in the three-year-old event and won it off the reel.

Today's attendance was 5,000

Catholic Total Abstinence Convention.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 2.—The proceedings of the Catholic total abstinence convention was devoted entirely to routine business. Reports were read by the officers, which showed an encouraging growth during the year. The report of the general secretary, Philip A. Nolan, showed a total of 737 secretaries in the country affiliated with the national union and having a membership of 54,676. The Rev. A. P. Doyle of New York, editor of the publication bureau, showed that there have been 705,000 pamphlets printed during the year, 360,000 of which have been sent to regular subscribers.

This is a new field of work, and is felt to be a very important one. The report of the treasurer, the Rev. Wm. McMahon of Cleveland, gave a total of $2,583 of expense, $2,515 of receipts and a balance of $968. John O'Brien of Stillwater, Minn., treasurer of the fund for endowing a university church of moral science, reported a total of $22,734 in gifts, and the balance in the treasury of $22,447.

The delegates to the Catholic total abstinence convention had a largely attended rally in the city hall this evening after a parade, in which twelve societies and 500 men were in line. At the rally Rev. B. S. Conaty presided, and the speakers were J. W. Logue of Philadelphia, presiding officer of the convention; Rev. James O'Reilly of Lawrence, Thomas McSheehy of Fremont, Ohio, Rev. Walter Elliott of New York and A. P. Doyle of New York.

Meeting of New England Labor Conference.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—The New England labor conference began a two days' session in this city today. The meeting is composed of seventeen delegates from the several local sections of the International Cigar Makers' union, and they represent 7,500 members of that trade. President T. F. Tracey of Boston, union No. 97, presided. The object of the convention is to adopt ways and means of protecting the blue labels, the private mark of the society, which are placed on all union-made cigars; also to take the best means of having the stamp generally adopted.

Attempted Suicide at Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 2.—Cora Graham, the wife of Frank Graham, living on Freeman street, took an overdose of laudanum tonight with [illegible]. She will live. Mrs. Graham is 34 years old. She had frequently threatened to kill herself.

Drowning Accident at Haddam.

MIDDLETOWN, Aug. 2.—A sad drowning accident occurred on the Connecticut river last evening. Mrs. Woods Smith of Haddam and May, her 13-year-old daughter, were rowing about in the river preparatory to anchoring to fish. Having found a desirable spot they stopped, when the anchor was thrown into the water. The daughter in some way became entangled in the rope and was drawn overboard, and the boat upset. Wilbur Hall, a well known young man of Haddam, went to their rescue in a row boat. He succeeded in rescuing Mrs. Smith, but before he could reach the girl she sank and was drowned. The body was recovered at 9 o'clock last night.

Woman Prostrated by Lightning at Norwalk.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 2.—Yesterday afternoon a thunder bolt entered the kitchen of the house occupied by John White. Mrs. White was ironing at the time. The bolt struck the iron in her hand, hurling it from her. Mrs. White was rendered insensible. She remained unconscious for an hour and a half and today is suffering from nervous prostration.

The large grain barn owned by John Cunningham of New Canaan was struck by lightning during the storm yesterday afternoon and entirely destroyed by fire. The total loss is about $6,000.

Fears of an Epidemic of Diphtheria.

NORWALK, Aug. 2.—It is feared that an epidemic of malignant diphtheria has started in this place, owing to a piece of gross carelessness on the part of some one. Last Friday, Johnny, the 10-year-old son of David Kennedy, was stricken with black diphtheria. No doctor was summoned until Sunday, and a large number of children were exposed. Yesterday Johnny died. Two of his sisters are now very low with the disease. There are three cases in what is known as Cobble Hill and two more in another district. The health authorities have quarantined all cases.

Boy and Horse Killed.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 2.—Thomas M. Shea, 14 years old, of 33 South Leonard street, and Mrs. James Quinane, while driving across the tracks at the Naugatuck division this afternoon, were struck by the train due in this city at 4 o'clock. The boy's head was crushed to pulp but the woman jumped and escaped with a broken leg. The horse was killed instantly and dragged 100 yards.

WILLIMANTIC.

Water Scarce—A Mowing Machine Accident—A Hand Crushed—Other Matters of Interest.

The water in Natchaug lake is still alarmingly low, and it is feared that it will be still lower unless we have immediate rain. The street sprinkler is still running on Main and some of the principal streets, but the one that lays the dust on the side streets has been taken off, saving a little water. It is to be hoped that enough water can be secured to keep the reservoir full.

Elbridge Chappell, about 34 years of age, while mowing a meadow owned by A. B. Green, about three miles from the city, near the Hop river, met with a painful accident about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. One of the horses attached to the machine stepped into a bog hole and fell. Mr. Chappell jumped off to free the horses and succeeded in getting one unhitched when the other started on a run, throwing Mr. Chappell to the ground. He succeeded in throwing back the cutter, for which in all probability saved his life. As it was, the knives in the machine caught his legs and hacked them up terribly.

His left leg was horribly lacerated and the right badly cut. Three other men were at work in the meadow and they rushed to his assistance, binding the wounds in handkerchiefs until he could be brought to the office of Dr. McGuinness in this city. His wounds were dressed by the genial doctor, assisted by Dr. Weldon. His loss of blood had been great and it left him very weak. It is remarkable how he ever came out of the mishap alive.

Mr. D. K. Thorne, the engineer employed by the Hall & Bill Printing company had the misfortune to catch his hand in a bruising machine Wednesday morning, which severed a portion of the fore finger on his right hand. Dr. Hills dressed the injured member and thinks there is a possibility of saving a portion of the finger.

The Thread City cyclers have voted to give a clambake during the month of August. Of course they will have a good time.

TAFTVILLE.

Mr. Thomas McLyman of Chicopee, Mass., is the guest of Mr. Sterry Davis.

Miss Ida M. Weller leaves Friday for Willimantic, where she will visit relatives for a few days.

A party from this place secured a small boat Tuesday evening and rowed down to Trading Cove, where a pleasant evening was passed.

Mr. William Willey caught a fine string of black bass Wednesday in the reservoir.

The Gold Reserve Intact for the First Time Since April 20.

NET BALANCE DECLINING.

Treasury Officials Doing Everything to Relieve the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—For the first time since April 20 the gold reserve has been made intact.

The gold in the treasury today exclusive of that held as a basis for gold certificates amounts to $100,791,370, or $791,370 free gold.

Information received here in the treasury circles indicates that $10,000,000 in gold is now on its way from Europe to the United States, and it is expected will find its way into the treasury.

The treasury net balances, however, is declining, the stated amount today being $17,251,000.

The receipts, too, for the past few days have been disappointing, the business troubles throughout the country having an effect upon government revenues. These troubles are receiving the closest attention by treasury officials and everything that can be done is being done to relieve the situation.

Fatal Accident to a Picnicker.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Among those who went to Lake Walden, Concord, to a picnic today was Thomas McCaffrey, 18 years old, of 26 Franklin street, Arlington. He jumped off the train before it stopped, fell under and was run over by the cars. He was brought to the Massachusetts General hospital, where he died this evening.

Applied for a Stewardship.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—William Henry Grenfell, member of parliament for Hereford, has applied for the stewardship of the Chiltern hundreds. Mr. Grenfell is a liberal and home ruler, but he does not approve of the proposed retention of Irish members in the imperial parliament, and as he cannot support this clause of the home rule bill he wishes to retire from parliament.

Navahoe Superior to the Satanita.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Mr. Watson, the builder of the Valkyrie and Britannia, says he considers the Navahoe better than any English yacht excepting those two. He is confident that under ordinary circumstances the Valkyrie or the Britannia can hold the Navahoe safe. He does not doubt, however, that the Navahoe is superior to the Satanita.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Wanted in This City.

John F. Ryan, a tailor, a former resident of Woonsocket, R. I., and young man of loose financial habits, has been arrested in Willimantic, for passing bogus checks. He is wanted in Putnam and Norwich for non-payment of board bills.

Crooked Native of Mystic.

George F. Haynes, whose crooked dealings were disclosed in an article which appeared in a New York paper, is a native of Mystic, this state.

His method has been to obtain railroad tickets as a representative of well-known newspapers and sell them to scalpers. He wrote on forged stationery and did a big business.

An Equine Malady.

There is a disease existing among horses about the state at the present time which has within the past week carried off many valuable animals. It is more prevalent among the older horses at the record shows, but still a number of young animals are among its victims. It takes the form of a violent distemper which very often produces lung fever.

Campers at Gale's Ferry.

A party of campers, forty in number, from Springfield and Hartford, are living under canvas near Gale's Ferry on the bluff overlooking Harvard's quarters. They have lots of boats and canoes and find no difficulty in supplying their tables with all sorts of fish to be found in these waters.

The neighboring country yields fresh eggs, vegetables, milk and poultry, and the campers are storing up health seasoned with pleasure in abundance.

Willimantic's Merchants' Day.

The merchants' and business men's committee of Willimantic have perfected arrangements for the annual merchants' day excursion. The day fixed is Saturday, August 12. The excursion will leave Willimantic by special train—in two sections if the number going warrants it—at 7 o'clock a. m. for New London, where they will take the steamer City of New York for a three hours' sail around Fisher's Island and Long Island sound, landing at Crescent Beach in Niantic bay, about noon. Here a shore dinner will be served, special and ample arrangements having been made for the feeding of 1,000 people at one sitting. After dinner the party will embark on the steamer and sail for Watch Hill, where a three hours' stop will be made, leaving that place in time to take a three hours' sail on the return to New London, reaching home in the early evening.

SALOONS CLOSED ELECTION DAY.

Interpretation of the Amendment Passed in the General Assembly.

The saloon keepers of the state have been under the impression that the law relating to the sale of liquor on election days had been amended to provide that the saloons could open up for business one hour after the polls closed.

An effort was made in the legislature to amend this section of the license law, but it failed, and the law now reads, as it has read for some time, that saloons on election day must remain closed all day and up to 5 a. m. of the following day.

The amendment to this law that passed the general assembly was that in all borough elections the saloons in the borough must remain shut up from 12 o'clock the night before election until 1 a. m. the day after. Heretofore in borough elections, the saloons were running in full blast.

WHOLESOME LESSONS.

Offenders Pay Dear for Misbehavior in the City Court.

Judge Kellogg has begun the task of inculcating into local offenders some conception of the respect the law is entitled to. A few days ago a drunkard whom Policeman Ebberts had arrested hurled an insulting epithet at the officer in court, and promptly had $10 added to his fine. Wednesday Thomas Meehan had a taste of the same bitters.

Meehan has been wanted for several weeks for abusing Officer Royston. Tuesday night Officer Maher and assistants arrested him and a companion in a Slater avenue barn. Meehan was fined $20 and costs—$36 05—and sentenced to jail for three months. Hardly had Judge Kellogg left his seat of justice before the fellow in a discreet undertone informed Mr. Royston "that he would get square with him." His threat was reported to the judge, who immediately added two months to his term of imprisonment.

Meehan has a charge of theft hanging over him, which he will answer for next Monday. His partner, James Morgan, Jr., for breach of the peace, was fined $10 and costs, $17 36, and the charge of sleeping in an outbuilding against him was continued to Monday.

Rowland Green and David Flannagan of Boston, for drunkenness went to jail in default of $8 26 and $8 10 respectively.

WHY STONINGTON PEOPLE REJOICE.

The Projected Removal of the Steamboat Line Seems to Have Been Abandoned.

The people of Stonington are rejoicing over the fact that that place continues to be the eastern terminus of the New York line of steamers that is controlled by the Consolidated road. There had been some talk that this summer would have seen the transfer of this terminus to New London, but it seems the railroad company has no such intentions for the present.

The railroad has erected large freight and passenger stations at the steamboat dock; has extensive boiler works where the boilers of the steamers are repaired, and the weekly pay roll for all the men employed by this line plays an important part in the business life of Stonington.

The Consolidated road has fine wharf properties both at New London and Groton, just opposite, and could accommodate a line of steamers. Undoubtedly such a line of steamers will be established, but not for the present, at least. Meanwhile Stonington will go on her way rejoicing.

OLD INN-KEEPERS.

Who They Were and Where They Kept Taverns.

The session of the county commissioners, Tuesday, recalls the time in the early history of Norwich when a "license to keep a "tavern" meant much more than it does at present. Inn-keepers in the early days were considered as town officers; the appointment was one of honor and respectability, to obtain which a man must be of good repute, and possessed of a moderate estate.

The first townsman winning this privilege was Thomas Waterman. In 1679, December 11, it was Agreed and voted by ye town yt Sergeant Thomas Waterman is desired to keepe the ordinary. And for his encouragement he is granted four ackers of pasture land where he can conveyently find it ay about the valley going from his house into the woods.

Deacon Simon Huntington succeeded Waterman about 1690. Dec. 18, 1694, occurred the following record:

"The towne makes choise of calib abell to keep ordinari or a house of entertaynement for this yeare or till another be choosen."

In 1700 Thomas Leffingwell was granted permission to open the famous Leffingwell Tavern at the east corner of the Town-plot, which flourished for more than a hundred years.

In 1706 Simon Huntington, Jr., was licensed, and in 1709 Joseph Reynolds. Then in 1718, Dec. 1, "Sargent William Hide is chosen Taverner."

The frequency of taverns in those early years, when the population was comparatively small and travelers few, was doubtless due to an inherited English love for a common gathering place, for the exchange of local gossip and private opinions; a forerunner of the meeting places of the "potato parliament," the "cracker-barrel politicians" of our own day.

Later on, in ante-revolutionary times, the half-way houses between Norwich and New London — Raymond's, Bradford's, Haughton's—enjoyed more than local celebrity. Later still the Hyde Tavern in Franklin was the favorite terminus of sleighing, dancing, or driving parties. Its attractions moved even a local poet to sing its praises in verse beginning:

"What pleasure is greatest? My fancy decides
A party select, and a sleigh ride to Hyde's."

The Lathrop Inn, on the Plain, was also a favorite gathering-place. Upon Bean Hill Major Durkee entertained country travelers and town politicians; at the landing public houses were kept by Ebenezer Fitch and Jeremiah Harris.

Peck's Tavern, on the green, was overshadowed by a large elm, among the central boughs of which an arbor was formed, containing seats for the groups of frequenters who cared to take their refreshment in its shade. Access to this retreat was gained by means of a plank walk from a window of the tavern.

Jesse Brown's Inn built on the Plain near the close of the Revolution was also a famous hostelry. It was noted particularly for its good dinners, and was the Mecca of merchants from the West Indies who came to Norwich, and were always ready for excursions and out-door amusements. In later years the house was repaired and improved, and became the residence of Mr. Moses Pierce.

Westerly Excursionists.

The ladies of the Broad street Christian church made an excursion to this city Wednesday on the steamer Martha.

The steamer Martha has been chartered by the Daughters of Rebekah of Westerly to carry themselves and friends to Norwich and New London today.

The Westerly Whist club is to play the part of a host, today, when it will entertain at Watch Hill the Providence Whist club and a number of its local friends. A sail on the steamer Herald will be followed by a dinner at the Larkin house, after which it will require two or three hours to determine who can play a hand at whist the best.

IN THE INTEREST OF DEPOSITORS.

The Norwich Savings Banks Vote to Enforce the Ninety Day Rule.

At a meeting of authorized representatives from the Norwich Savings Society, the Chelsea Savings Bank and the Dime Savings Bank the following action was taken Wednesday afternoon:

"Voted, That the sense of this meeting is that the best interests of all depositors will be protected by concert of action respecting the withdrawal of deposits.

"Voted, That on and after this date the notice provided by our respective charters be required from all depositors for withdrawals of money from either of the savings banks of Norwich."

The foregoing action was in concurrence with all the Hartford Savings banks; similar action having already been taken by the Savings banks of New Haven, Bridgeport, and other places of this state as well as by Savings banks in the cities of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

The Reason.

Wool is 14 cents a pound because the cloth to be made for next season's use may have to be sold in a free trade market.—[Cleveland Sun.

The Record Breaker.

There are four times as many idle laboring men in the United States today as at any previous time in the history of the nation.—[Iowa State Register.

Burglars Alert.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says that burglars flock to every town where there is a run on the banks. They know where to find their harvest. The safest place for money is in the savings banks.

Republican Votes Being Made Daily.

There is not much political activity in the country at present, but all that there is indicates certain republican success in every state where an election is to be held in November.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Perfectly Sound.

The savings banks are perfectly sound. If the minds of all the depositors were as sound there would be no withdrawal of deposits for the mere [illegible] of looking [illegible] up where they will be no safer and will earn no interest.—[New York Recorder.

Above Laws.

The silver men ought not to be surprised at the action of Secretary Carlisle in virtually suspending the purchase law. Secretary Hoke Smith has suspended the pension laws, and in general this is an administration which puts itself above laws.—[Boston Journal.

The Man in the Moon.

A Catholic church picnic in Salem, Mass., wound up with the ascension of a balloon containing several hundred love letters from the young ladies of the parish addressed to the man in [illegible] And the young men of the [illegible] mitted that balloon to get away [illegible] burden.—[New Haven Union.

Christian Fellowship.

The Catholic summer school which has been opened at Plattsburg, makes use of an opera house offered by a Protestant; a local Baptist clergyman has tendered the use of his library to members of the school; and the Y. M. C. A. of the place has given the school an invitation to use any of its rooms that may be serviceable. These are pleasing evidences of the cordial feeling between various religious denominations.—[Albany Times.

The President's Opportunity.

President Cleveland has power to render the country an extraordinary service. It is but just to presume that he is anxious to benefit the country if he can. The tremendous losses which have been sustained by business men, many of whom are his personal friends, must have touched his sympathies. As no party can hope to elect a president a third time, Mr. Cleveland has no reason to care more for partisan applause than for the deliberate judgment of history, which never fails to be adverse to a president whose administration is a period of disaster to business and want and suffering to the laboring millions. If the president can help his countrymen, many of the strongest and most honorable impulses which govern human conduct impel him to do so without delay.—[New York Tribune.

Two girls recently walked from Muskegon, Mich., to Chicago. Another woman is walking from Dallas, Tex., to Chicago. Altogether pedestrianism seems to be gaining in favor.

ENGLAND GETS IT.

Her Bering Sea Claims Held to Be Good.

ALL POINTS ARE ADJUDICATED.

Decision Will Be Unanimous on All Points but One.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—A dispatch from Paris to the Pall Mall Gazette says that the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration has made good progress, and that it is expected that a decision will be rendered in a fortnight.

The dispatch adds that every point at issue has now been adjudicated, and that the decision will give entire satisfaction to Great Britain and Canada.

In every instance the claims advanced by Sir Charles Russell and Sir Richard Webster of counsel for Great Britain are held to be good.

The decision will be unanimous on all points save one, on which Justice John M. Harlan and Senator John T. Morgan, the American arbitrators, held out for the American claim.

The tribunal is now discussing the question of the regulations to govern the seal fisheries.

SIEZED MANY TOWNS.

Victorious Revolutionists Marching Onward in Santa Fe Province.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Herald's special cable from Buenos Ayres, via Valparaiso, says: In the province of Santa Fe the revolutionists against Governor Cafferata are rapidly gaining. They have siezed many towns. A large body of revolutionary troops, largely composed of colonists from Europe, is marching toward the city of Santa Fe, which is the capital of the province.

Notice has been sent Governor Cafferata that unless he surrenders the city by daybreak today (Wednesday) and agree to give up control of the province, a bombardment will be opened. It is not doubted that the revolutionists could readily take the city by storm. The insurgents are impeding railroad traffic.

The city of Rosario, the largest in the province of Santa Fe, is already in the hands of the revolutionary forces. It is reported that 120 persons were killed and wounded during the fighting with the insurgents and the police of that city.

GONE TO ROME.

Archbishop Corrigan Secretly Sails Away to See the Pope.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—It was stated last night in well informed quarters that his grace Archbishop Corrigan has left the city secretly for Rome, whither he was summoned some time since by his holiness the pope. The archbishop, it is said, has not gone by any steamship from this port, but has taken a northern course and will cross the Atlantic from Canada. It is believed that he will sail or has sailed from Quebec.

Dr. Ferrante, his Italian secretary, who has been for several weeks in the Eternal city, did his best, it is said, to arrange matters so that the archbishop might be spared obeying summons to Rome, but failed. The pope would have the archbishop over for a personal interview.

WOODS RESOUND

With Nightly Revels of Indians Who May Go on the Warpath.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 2.—Advices from Shoe Lake and Spooner, in Washburn county, on the Omaha road, say that between 400 and 500 Indians have congregated and may go on the warpath.

They secured special permits from the government to go off on a tour to pick blueberries, and have taken advantage of this freedom to a dangerous and unusual degree. Three squaw houses and several dancing platforms have been built, and the nightly revels of these Indians make the woods resound.

Whisky flows freely. Many of the Indians are armed and threats upon the lives of settlers have been made.

LUCKY GREENFIELD.

Wave of Depression Makes Its Force Felt There but Slightly.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Aug. 2.—The wave of depression in business and financial circles, which is sweeping over the country has made felt its force to but a small degree in this section, notwithstanding the reports published in local and daily papers. In certain lines of business this has been an extremely dull season by reason of natural causes; and manufacturers overlook this fact in stating their views. To be sure the tightness of the money market affects them, as it does in all sections; but it is to be understood that in no great degree has the tightness been felt. [illegible] most sanguine admit that trade is lighter than last season, but a good fall trade is looked forward to which shall more than counterbalance the present dullness.

From the fact that throughout New England shoe manufacturers, as a whole, are doing less business, the firm of Cutler, Lyons & Field of this place find themselves affected in a greater degree than the other manufacturers. This firm within the week has cut wages of piece hands on certain grades of goods. This cut, say the proprietors, has been necessitated in order that they might compete with other manufacturers of similar goods. Several other changes have been made to meet the present condition of the market, which requires the strictest economy and prudence. Their orders have been plentiful, but a hesitancy has been shown in filling them. No trouble has yet occurred between the firm and it employes; but should the Lasters' Union order the men out whose pay has been cut they would go.

Wells Bros., manufacturers of machinists' tools, are running on full time with a full force, and though they are not overcrowded with orders, they find plenty to do. The A. F. Towle silver shop is now on full time with their regular force. The Rugg Manufacturing company has large orders for snow shovels on hand, which will occupy a large force of men until winter, when work for the summer trade will begin.

Nichols Bros. are running with their usual force and do not fear any serious depression. Goodell Bros. have on hand all the orders they can fill. This firm's cutlery is handled by one wholesale house, so they do not feel the changes in the market as if they were dealing direct with the trade. Mr. Weissbrod finds but little change in his business—pocketbooks—and anticipates the usual brisk fall trade.

Field's carriage factory and Noyes' hardware shop are the only concerns in Greenfield to shut down awaiting livelier times.

FOR THE METEOR SHIELD.

Only Two Yachts Start to Win Emperor William's Gift.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The yacht race for the Meteor challenge shield, presented by the German emperor, was the chief event today among the yachtsmen who are gathered at the Isle of Wight for the week's racing.

The course covered a distance of about 100 miles, extending from Cowes around the Nab lightship, which is two miles east of the Isle of Wight, then around the outside of the island and up to the Solent, to and around the Bramble lightship, and then back to Cowes.

Only yachts built in Europe were eligible to take part in the contest. Although there were six entries, only two yachts started. These were the Prince of Wales' Britannia and Mr. A. D. Clarke's Satanita.

At 8 o'clock the starting gun was fired and the Britannia went across the line first, but the Satanita was close behind. There was a fresh westerly wind, which, it is believed, was more favorable to the Satanita than her competitor.

WORKING REDUCED TIME.

Affairs at Milford Unsatisfactory to the Working People.

MILFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—This forenoon the Milford Savings bank posted notices requiring 90 days' notice of all proposed withdrawals of deposits amounting to more than $50. There is no local occasion for this action, but it is in accordance with an agreement of the savings banks of the state.

All the Milford shoe factories are working on reduced time, generally four days per week, until further notice. There is a plenty of orders, but the business outlook is rendering local firms very conservative.

The coal dealers here have raised the price of coal 50 cents a ton, and the price of wood for fuel was never higher. This, coupled with high prices for meat, and enforced vacations, is decidedly unsatisfactory to local working people.

HUNDREDS OUT OF WORK.

Enforced Idleness of Operatives in Concerns at Passaic, N. J.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 2.—As many as 2000 operatives are now in a state of enforced idleness for a part or the whole of their time. The Passaic print works, employing 800 hands, has been closed several weeks, and on Saturday the Pantasote Leather company gave notice of a two weeks' shutdown to its 100 men.

In the Manhattan print works work has almost ceased, and the New York Belting and Packing company is laying off hundreds of men daily. The other mills in the city are working on half or three-quarters time.

Insurance Rate Increased.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 2.—Insurance rates in Minneapolis and the northwest yesterday underwent an advance of 20 per cent. This applies to all mercantile property and other "specials," the rate on paper and pulp mills being increased 50 per cent. The increase is the result of increased and heavy losses, and the falling off of business.

Burglars Strike It Rich.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Three burglars overpowered two watchmen in the offices of the Chicago Newspaper union on Jefferson street last night. They secured $15,000 worth of notes and commercial paper and $300 in cash. President Strong of the concern says the papers are negotiable.

Clergyman Married.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 2.—Rev. A. W. Tibley, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Advent church in this city, was married to Mrs. M. E. Prescott of St. Louis. The wedding was solemnized in Goffstown, N. H.

St. Paul Bank Assigns.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 2.—The Seven Corners bank of this city, a state institution with $100,000 capital, assigned yesterday. It is the first bank failure in St. Paul in more than a year, and it is not believed to be a bad one.

Family Stricken With Cholera.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The whole family of the sheriff of the village of Ewyk, in the province of Gelderland, Holland, was stricken with cholera nostras yesterday. One of the children died of the disease.

Celebrated the Anniversary.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 2.—Bishop Mullin of this diocese celebrated today the 25th anniversary of his elevation to the episcopacy of the Catholic church. The two functions that made the silver jubilee memorable were the first mass in the cathedral and the sermon by Cardinal Gibbons, who was raised to the episcopacy in the same month with Bishop Mullin. They had met before in their Catholic education.

Gored by Ferocious Cow.

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 2.—Cyrus Loud aged about 65 years, residing on Congress street, was attacked by a ferocious cow in the pasture back of his house yesterday afternoon. A number of men at work near by came to his assistance and rescued him. As it was, he was quite badly bruised and had a very narrow escape from [illegible] injury.

Appleton Mills Will Shut Down.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 2.—Agent Richardson of the Appleton mills received orders this morning to shut down the mills tonight for four weeks. The mills operate 61,000 spindles, give employment to about 1100 persons, consume 120,000 pounds of cotton per week, and produce 315,000 yards of cloth. The weekly pay roll is over $10,000.

Attleboro Water to Be Tested.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Aug. 2.—The new water supply of this town, it is intimated, is not fit for use, and while the state assayer, L. L. Carpenter of the water board, and the engineer at the water works both say that the water is all right, yet samples will be sent to Boston for analysis.

Earthquake at New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—A slight but well defined tremor of the earth was felt at 3:10 this morning in the more elevated sections of this city. The earthquake was accompanied by a rumbling sound.

Wheat Crop in Hungary.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Standard's correspondent at Buda-Pesth says that the wheat crop in Hungary will be 1,000,000 hundred weight in excess of the estimate, and that the quality is excellent.

Six Business Houses Gone.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Aug. 2.—Fire at Cloverdale, a village in southern Putnam county, destroyed six business houses last night. The total loss is [illegible], with an insurance of $10,000.

Buildings and Contents Burned.

MILFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—The house and barn on the Seeley place at Hayden row, Hopkinton, were burned last night, with their contents, including furniture, one horse, two cows and some hay. Loss, $2000; insurance, $1500. It is believed that the fire was incendiary.

The Fall Was Fatal.

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 2.—Lillie M. Wheeler, 3-year-old child of C. A. Wheeler, fell while at play on a sidewalk yesterday and received injuries from which she died at an early hour this morning.

Engine Works to Close.

MASSILLON, O., Aug. 2.—Russell & Co.'s agricultural and engine works, employing 800 men, will close for an indefinite period about Aug. 15, on account of the uncertainty of the business future.

Philadelphia After Gold.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—The Press today says: An effort is being made in this city to import $1,000,000 of gold direct to this city from Europe.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Suffered Every Minute

Since I came out of the war, with catarrh in my head, chronic diarrhoea and rheumatism, says Mr. J. G. Anderson, a well known blacksmith in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad at Scottdale, Pa. "I had pains all over me, my sight was dim, and there seemed to be floating specks before my eyes. The food I ate caused the load in my stomach. The rheumatism was in my right hip and shoulders. Hood's sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills did me more good than everything else put together. They are the only medicines I use now. All my disagreeable symptoms have gone."

A SAVAGE CANARY.

One of the Very Latest of Wild Stories About Well Known Animals.

So many stories have been told recently of battles between tigers and snakes, wildcats and elephants, eagles and alligators and codfish and wild hogs that the following accurate description of an encounter between a tomcat and a canary bird cannot fail to be interesting.

The tomcat and the canary were the property of an animal dealer on the west side who has long had a reputation for veracity. The canary was noted for its fierceness. It is a female bird about 3 years old with bright yellow feathering. The tomcat is quite white, with four legs, and weighs—or rather weighed—about 12 pounds.

During the morning it was noticed that the canary seemed unusually savage. She paced up and down her cage in a great rage, gnashing her teeth and glaring at the poor cat, toward whom it turned out she had developed a fierce antipathy.

The keeper secured the door of the cage, as he thought, firmly, but during a paroxysm of temper the canary smashed the fastening and was free.

What a moment! The unfortunate tomcat gave a cry of terror and looked around for some means of escape, but there was none, the door of the room in which the carnivorous animals were kept being locked.

The proprietor of the menagerie could do nothing. Spellbound he watched the uneven contest, fearing all the time that the fury of the canary bird would be expended on himself.

With a piteous moan the wretched tomcat felt the talons of the canary bird sink into his head. He raised himself and tried to fight her off, but the bird parried his every blow and fiercely pecked at his eyes.

Once the cat seized the bird in his paw, but she got away from him in a moment with the loss of only one feather. She returned to the charge and rendered one of the cat's eyes blind with her sharp bill.

The fight had lasted five minutes, and the cat had all the worst of it. He was panting, and every now and then rolled over exhausted, uttering pitiful cries. Though he was valued at $100, the keeper of the menagerie, who was armed with a sword and a shotgun, did not dare to interfere to save him. The blood of the canary was up, and she meant to slay the cat.

It was not long before the awful work was accomplished. The bird by an adroit movement common to canaries when in conflict with quadrupeds rendered the poor Thomas cat quite blind. Then, at her leisure, with a series of fierce jabs, she penetrated his brain, and he rolled over completely dead.

The boss was trembling for his own safety, but it now seemed that the savage instincts of the canary had been satisfied, for with a jaunty air she regained her cage and began to warble a song of victory.

It meant life or death to shut the door, but the brave boss crept courageously up to the cage and succeeded in accomplishing this feat. Then he ran out into the street and fainted. The nerve pressure had been too great for him.—New York Herald.

The Weight of Crowds.

The load which is produced by a dense crowd of persons is generally taken at 80 to 100 pounds per square foot and is considered to be the greatest uniformly distributed load for which a floor need be proportioned. That this value may be largely exceeded in an actual crowd was pointed out by Professor W. C. Kernot of the Melbourne university, Australia, in a paper before the Victorian Institute of Engineers. In an actual trial a class of students averaging 153.5 pounds each in weight were crowded in a lobby containing 1,323 square feet, making an average floor load of 134.7 pounds. There was still room to have placed another man, which would have brought up the loading to 143.1 pounds per square foot.

Professor Kernot also quoted from Stoney, who placed 36 Irish laborers averaging 158 pounds each in weight in an empty ship deckhouse measuring 57 square feet floor area. This was a load of 147.4 pounds per square foot. In another test, with 73 laborers crowded into a hut 9 feet by 8 feet 3 inches, Stoney produced a load of 146 pounds per square foot and estimated that two or three more men could have been squeezed in. It appears from these experiments that while the figures ordinarily assumed of 80 to 100 pounds are sufficiently correct for spaces on which there is no cause to induce the collection of great crowds, larger figures, say 140 to 150 pounds per square foot, should be used for railway stations and platforms, entrances and exits to places of public assemblies or of office buildings, bridge sidewalks, pavements over vaults and other places where dense crowds are likely to gather.—Engineering News.

The Custom of Collecting "Peter Pence."

The custom of collecting "Peter pence," or "Rome scot," as it is sometimes called, is of ancient origin. If the custom is fairly understood by the outside world, it consists of setting aside one day out of each year for taking up a collection of money (not necessarily pennies) to be sent to the pope at Rome, who is supposed to use it in defraying the expense of the holy see. Chambers' "Book of Days" and Brand's "Popular Antiquities" neither mention the custom, but I have succeeded in tracing it back to the twelfth century for a certainty. One authority even goes so far as to ascribe its origin to Ina, king of the west Saxons, who went to Rome in the year 721 and founded a hospital for English pilgrims to the sacred city, the expenses to be defrayed by "each mayle adult" giving one "small copper coyne each yeare."

This mighty collection of pennies was forwarded direct to the pope. Others claim that the honor of originating the Peter pence scheme is due to Ethelwulf. At a very early date (the most laborious research fails to locate these things as far as the year, month and day are concerned) the copper penny clause was changed until the tribute was understood to consist of a "silver penny" to be contributed by every family who possessed land or cattle of a yearly value of 30 pence. This probably means upon which a yearly tax of 30 pence was levied.—St. Louis Republic.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

ENGLISH JUSTICE TO OUR GIRLS.

Sir Edwin Arnold Tells Englishmen Their Ideas of American Women Are Absurd.

In England men of letters and humorous artists are accustomed to treat the American girl from two widely differing, but in either case unjust, points of view. "Mr. Punch's" artists confess graphically that the American girl is often sumptuously beautiful, but they rarely present her to public admiration without putting in her mouth utterances which are either grotesquely "outre" or downright vulgar. If she is asked to partake of refreshments, she declines on the score that she is "pretty well crowded already," and if the Chicago exhibition is alluded to in her presence she incidentally remarks that the World's fair is "too big a chunk to be chewed" without difficulty. As for the English novelists, the American girls they depict are in most instances handsome and more or less unscrupulous young persons, who complete their education by the intense study of Burke and Debrett, and who embark on board the ocean steamship which is to bring them to Europe with a firm resolution to marry very high up indeed in the English peerage.

We shall never have a thoroughly artistic series of studies of the American girl from English pens and pencils until our countrymen recognize the fact that American girls differ physically and characteristically among themselves quite as widely, if not even more widely, than English girls do. In the Union multitudes of girls may be met with who are almost Germans or almost Irish in blood. Half Swedish, half Spanish South Americans, half Italian types of femininity are also continually met with, and indeed there are skillful students of American character who declare that the genuine American girl is only to be met with in New England—that is to say, in the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. In those states the original English blood has, with scarcely any foreign strain in it, descended from the time of the immigration of the Pilgrim Fathers to our own days. They are the true Yankees, and yet unobservant writers are ready to typify the New York, or the Philadelphian, or the Baltimore, or the Virginian young lady as a Yankee girl.

New York city is perhaps one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world, and the French, the German and the Irish types have been freely mingled with the Anglo-Saxon ones, while some account must be taken of the Knickerbocker aristocracy—that is to say, of the descendants of the old Dutch settlers. The expert in character will at once be able to distinguish between a young lady from Manhattan and one who hails from Pennsylvania or Maryland, while journeying farther west another type of American girlhood makes herself manifest in Ohio and Michigan, and so soon as the Rocky mountains are crossed and the descent of the Pacific slope is begun yet another wholly independent type of the feminine American makes its appearance. Nor would the study of the American daughter of Eve be complete by even the minutest observation of the girls of the eastern, the middle and the western states. There remains the southern girl to be dealt with, and when we approach that charming type of feminine humanity it will be found that the girls of Kentucky, those of the Carolinas and the belles of Louisiana, Alabama and Georgia differ among themselves quite as widely as does a Parisienne from a Provencale.

On the whole, if the American girl is to be thoroughly studied, the European student should live long in the States or make many recurring visits thereto. The existing and most current types of the American female are either stupidly conventional or wildly exaggerated and in most cases are altogether misunderstood.—Edwin Arnold in London Telegraph.

The Treatment of Princesses.

Princesses in their own country, like the proverbial prophet, meet with scant honor when that country happens to be America. During all the festivities that welcomed the charming Princess Eulalie to these shores this was going on in New York at the Young Women's Christian home: It seems that four Indian women became guests there. There are about 90 young women in the house, and when Princess Viroqua of the Mohawks and Misses Carrie Blue Jacket, Daycrahcosa and Naconches of the Cherokee tribe arrived they were avoided and shunned. The princess overheard one of the women say that she would not eat at the same table with "those Indians." The princess, who is a well educated woman and a graduate of medicine, stood up in the dining room and read the entire crowd a lesson in politeness. Matron Marsh was unable to check her flow of speech. She pointed out that our government said all men were equal, and our civilization extended the hand of fellowship to her people. But these were only words of mouth and found no place in the hearts of the speakers. She extolled the purity of the blood in her veins, and when she sat down she had abashed all present by her arraignment.—Cor. Philadelphia Ledger.

A Young Girl's Bravery.

Every summer's list of watering place calamities is partially relieved by the bright instances of bravery and self sacrifice and timely thoughtfulness which many of them produce.

The latest and the most unusual instance of [illegible] heroism occurred at Cottage park, near Winthrop, a point on Boston harbor about five miles from Boston. Mrs. Spencer, a young bride, while bathing was overcome with vertigo in somewhat deep water. Miss Millie, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. Edwin B. Ide of Brooklyn, who was bathing beside her, instead of running away in terror, approached as near as the depth of the water would allow and held up the head of the nearly insensible lady until other aid came.

This display of presence of mind might be remembered and imitated with advantage by all persons whom the season is likely to make spectators of accidents in the water.—New York Telegram.

A Clever Reminder.

A very brave soldier had both his arms carried off in battle, after which his colonel offered him half a crown.

"Colonel," said the soldier, "you think I have lost a pair of gloves."—London Tit-Bits.

The Professional Women's League.

The greatest women's club in the world, as the professional women call their league, met Wednesday afternoon at 39 West Thirtieth street. Well known actresses in pretty summer gowns sat side by side with women whose faces perhaps were not quite so familiar to the public, but whose gowns were quite as pretty. There was a freemasonry about the assemblage which would have been a revelation to people who think that actresses systematically slander and criticise each other.

It might also have been a surprise to these people to see several scores of women, who are not expected to know anything but their art in its narrowest sense, listen with close interest and attention to a thoughtful and serious paper on music and then discuss it intelligently and critically. The paper was read by Miss Marie Merrick, who selected the piano stool as her point of delivery, so that at any time she could turn to the keyboard to illustrate her words. In this manner she gave examples of the way to produce certain varieties of tone and then excited a good deal of laughter by showing how not to do it.

At the close of the reading her listeners plied her with questions, and little impromptu talks were given by Miss Fannie Gillette and Miss Grace Addison. Miss Katharine Stagg, who was the presiding officer, closed the discussion, and then the company separated into groups, and for an hour conversation flowed at high tide. A reporter found that almost every group was engaged in the discussion of dramatic art, a mighty intelligent discussion, too, with a startling abundance of polysyllables.—New York Letter.

Outdoor Shelters.

Now is the time when we should get "near to nature's heart" and spend our days as much as possible in "the open." The year round dwellers by the country side seem to become so wonted to the changing aspects of nature that their senses are blunted to her beauty, and heedless of the laws of health they frequently shut themselves up in summer almost as much as in winter, shunning the sunbeams as they would an evil influence and avoiding fresh air as they would the cholera.

All this is as it should not be, and in every community some philanthropic woman should organize a fresh air crusade and endeavor to persuade these misguided people not only to admit the blessed sunshine and life giving air to their homes, but also to spend as much time as possible in the open air during the warm weather.

A very picturesque shelter can be arranged simply with a large Japanese umbrella. This of course screens from the sun only, unless there be a bank of shrubbery or mayhap a garden wall to the windward. For a lawn fete several of these can be arranged with charming effect, and some bright girl reading this will think at once of a Japanese lawn fete as a delightful substitute for the timeworn strawberry festival. Nothing prettier could be devised for a tennis tea.

The housewife will never regret time spent in this provision for the comfort of her family, for this inducement to lead an outdoor life will bring its return in increased health and happiness.—Demorest's Monthly.

Anne Katharine Green at Home.

Mrs. Charles Rohlfs (Anne Katharine Green) and her family are residing in a cosy little house on Highland avenue, Buffalo. Of course such a distinguished woman could not be exempt very long from special attention. So she was recently visited by a live Buffalonian, who expected to find her up to the neck among books and papers, turning out manuscript for her next story like snowflakes. He was disappointed, however, for Mrs. Rohlfs was found minding her children, attending to her home duties. No matter, there was an interesting conversation which found its way into the columns of the Buffalo Inquirer. Here is what was said by Mrs. Rohlfs:

"We don't expect to go away from Buffalo this summer. At least we have made no arrangements which include an absence. I like Buffalo and find it cool and comfortable in the summer. We spend our afternoons largely on the tennis court across the way. I am not writing anything this summer. I have only just fairly detached myself from my last book, and my custom is to put a period of at least two years' rest between my stories. My children are of an age when they require a great deal of my attention, and while I have a thousand fancies and ideas flitting through my mind my pen gives tangible shape to none of them.

Rooms Banked in Flowers.

A London weekly notes the growth in extravagance of floral decorations and cites an instance of a ball recently given by an Australian lady where the ballroom was a mass of mauve and white orchids, while another room was draped in white and yellow orchids. Bowers of roses were in abundance. The stairs were festooned with roses, stephanotis and smilax, tied up with pink and yellow satin ribbons. Even the electric lights peeped bewitchingly from between sprays of yellow and white flowers, and the hostess was dressed to match in white satin and yellow velvet. Flower baskets hung everywhere, and draperies of art silk were looped up with flowers. Two halls, a large staircase and six or seven rooms in all were decorated, and the whole must have cost a small fortune.

Southern Colleges Open to Women.

The cause of woman's education receives new stimulus in the south by the action of the trustees of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and of the Tennessee State university in Knoxville in voting to throw open their doors to the daughters as well as the sons of the two states. In the former they must be at least 18 years old. In Tennessee it will be sufficient for them to have reached the age of 17. The women of Knoxville are raising a fund to build a dormitory for the girls.

Rivet Heads Made of Clay.

Rivet heads made of clay and painted over so as to represent perfect rivets are cited by a German contemporary as makeshifts known to have been adopted by German dealers in second hand steam boilers with the view of selling them to unsuspecting customers. Some folks might call that cheating.

IN OCEAN'S DEPTHS.

STRANGE CREATURES OF THE DEEP BROUGHT TO LIGHT.

Animal Life That Falls to Pieces When the Pressure of the Water No Longer Holds It Together—The Bottom of the Sea. What It Is Like.

The new submarine world now explored and mapped out presents a very different picture from that painted for us by the poets. But a short time has elapsed since the bottom of the ocean was supposed to be the counterpart of the face of the earth above water—with hills and valleys, with precipitous mountains lifting toward the surface and profound gorges sinking to unfathomable depths. The ocean floor is far less diversified than the land.

Here and there, to be sure, islands in midocean are the summits of enormous mountains, rising more or less abruptly from a generally level surface, and the sea lying over a narrow, depressed region in the northwestern Pacific reaches its greatest depth. But this is exceptional. In its general character the ocean bottom consists of vast flat or slightly undulating plains. An extraordinary circumstance that has been noticed with interest and that always creates surprise when first learned is the entire absence of foreign matter in the upper part of the ocean's floor.

Of all the vessels lost in midocean; of all the human beings that have been drowned; of all the marine animals that have perished; of all the clay, sand and gravel let fall by dissolving icebergs; of all the various substances drifted from every shore by shifting currents, not a trace remains, but in their place water from 1,000 to 2,500 fathoms in depth covers the uniform deposit of thick, bluish, tenacious slime called globigerina ooze. A bit of this under a powerful lens is a revelation of beauty not readily forgotten. The ooze is composed almost entirely of the daintiest, most delicately beautiful shells imaginable.

At depths greater than 2,500 fathoms the bottom of the sea consists mainly of products arising from exposure, for almost incalculable periods, to the chemical action of sea water, of pumice and other volcanic matters. This finally results in the formation of the red clay deposits that are considered characteristic of the profoundest depths of the ocean. Carbonate of lime, which in the form of the shells of foraminifera, makes up so large a part of the globigerina ooze, is here almost entirely absent.

Sea water is very nearly a universal solvent, and before any shell, large or small, reaches the bottom of these tremendous abysms it is chemically eaten up, literally dissolved—a result which the enormous pressure of the water must materially hasten. At 1,000 fathoms the weight of the water pressing on all sides of an object immersed to that depth is very nearly one ton to the square inch, or more than 100 times that sustained at the sea level, and at the greatest depths the pressure is so increased that it would seem nothing could withstand it. In fact, heavy metal cylinders let down with the sounding apparatus are sometimes, being drawn up again to the surface, found bent and collapsed; strongly made glass vessels which the metal enclosed are shattered into fragments.

In the profoundest abysms of the sea are strange forms of life that never, save when brought up by the trawl, see the upper light. The work carried on by means of the United States fish commission vessel, the Albatross, has established the fact that forms of sea life inhabiting upper waters may descend to about 1,200 feet from the surface, but that below this, to a depth of 300 or 350 fathoms, a barren zone intervenes where marine life seems absent. But still deeper, strange to say, has been discovered an abundant and varied fauna, new to science, living under conditions of tremendous pressure and paucity of the life sustaining element of oxygen that induced an eminent zoologist to say quite recently, "What we know of the greatest ocean depths forbids us to expect to find them inhabited by living organisms." Here indeed survive forms of life the like of which no inhabitant of the upper world, not even the sun himself, has looked upon before the dredges of the Challenger, the Albatross, the Blake and similarly equipped vessels dragged up marine creatures from congenial cold and dark.

It might reasonably be supposed that these denizens of great sea depths would be built more firmly and strongly than surface animals to resist the pressure of the element in which they live, but it is just the contrary. The most universal characteristic of these creatures is the looseness and flabbiness of texture they exhibit. Indeed they seem to need the excessive pressure of the water about them to keep their parts together, for when they are brought to the surface they are ready to fall to pieces. It is a problem, so strangely are some of them formed, how they can move from place to place. Were they not entirely below the disturbing element of wave action, they would, to all appearances, be helpless.

Inhabiting these abysmal spaces, as completely cut off from communication with the upper waters as we are from the inhabitants of other planets, we can only vaguely speculate on their habits and judge their manners of life from their somewhat remote analogies to the surface species nearest akin to them. Plant life is entirely absent from their place of abode, and although they doubtless prey upon each other some original sources of food supply must of course be conjectured to exist.—Cosmopolitan.

A Well Filled Postal Card.

At the Dusseldorf exhibition a few years ago a gentleman showed a postal card upon which the whole of the first three books of the Odyssey were written, the remaining space being filled with the transcript of a long debate which had taken place in the German parliament a short time before. The whole card contained 33,000 words.—Boston Commonwealth.

A Monster Ox.

The McMillan museum of Omaha owns the largest specimen of the bovine race now in existence. This gigantic ox was bred by C. W. Curtis of Cass county, Ia. At last accounts he weighed 3,740 pounds, stood 6 feet 4 inches in height and measured 10 feet 11 inches in girth.—St. Louis Republic.

A Bashful Lord of Other Days.

There was a young lover who was a compound—very rare—of high rank and great abilities, with sweetness, great modesty and shyness. Most noble lords know their own value and behave accordingly. This noble lord, however, was modest. He thought himself so far—so very far—below the worth of the young lady whom he loved that he was afraid to speak. Some women do not understand this modesty. Believe me, ladies, 'tis a sure and certain sign of a noble character, because only a lofty soul can conceive the existence of a goddess. We measure others, you see, by ourselves. It is also a sure sign of love, because such a man can only love a woman whom he deeply respects. Encourage this modesty, my daughters. Above all, do not laugh at it. This young man, therefore, was afraid to speak, and the delay, which is at first, I am told, pleasing and exciting, began to grow monotonous.

One day they were playing cards for money, after the fashion of their generation. The lady won; the loser paid.

"It is," he said, "half a crown. I wish indeed it were a crown."

"At least," replied the lady, "your lordship can give me a coronet."

And behold a miracle! For his tongue was loosened, and his eyes glowed, and his lips spake. They lived happy, one may add, though it is an unusual ending to a story, ever afterward.—Walter Besant in London Queen.

The Ostrich and Its Eggs.

I am rehearsing a few of the peculiarities of the creature which have made it of interest ever since the days of Job, "which leaveth her eggs in the earth and warmeth them in the dust." It would appear to be an evidence of cunning rather than stupidity for Mrs. Ostrich to adopt this very simple method of incubation. However, it has its disadvantages, for while she is away getting a good dinner her enemy, the white necked crow, spies the unguarded nest. He knows he cannot break one of those mammoth eggs and devises a shrewd plan to help him. Taking a stone in his beak he flies over the spot, calculates with bird sagacity the necessary distance and drops the stone. Plunk! An egg is broken, and he descends to his feast. This is said to be the same kind of a raven that fed the prophet Elijah. His wisdom seems almost of a supernatural order. It is said that the cry of an ostrich is like the roar of a lion, and the Hottentots often run from it in fright until they see the bird.—Detroit Free Press.

LIGHT OF THE HOME.

Plump, Noisy, Laughing Babies—Well Nourished and Growing Upon a Diet of Lactated Food.

A plump, noisy, laughing baby is perpetual sunshine in the house.

A baby full of noise and fun,
The veriest mystery under the sun,
As brimful of mischief and joy and glee,
As ever a human frame can be.

Such a baby is well nourished and growing; Such a baby is one that is fed on lactated food.

Lactated food frees mothers from long nights of anxiety. It is within the reach of all classes.

Lactated food saves every year thousands of infants' lives. It is the best known preventive of the dread cholera infantum. It is the safest, the most nourishing diet for an infant.

Hundreds of happy children have been brought up on nothing else, and the unasked for testimony that has come in the grateful letters of happy mothers has shown that wherever it has been used it has succeeded.

ACTION OF THE BANKS.

The Norwich saving societies on Wednesday, in concurrence with the savings societies of Hartford, took wise action in voting to enforce the ninety-day rule for the withdrawal of deposits. Norwich has felt the present crisis as little as any city of its size in New England; there has been no unusual demand for money at the banks, and there is no probability that there will be.

It is for the advantage of the depositors to have such a rule in force. It is next to madness to rush to the bank and withdraw, on account of imaginary evils, a large sum of money which the depositor is in greater danger of losing by having it in his possession, than he could possibly be if the banks were left undisturbed, and events left to take a natural course.

Provision is made so that depositors can draw small amounts on demand for needful purposes, and this meets every requirement.

Confidence is being steadily restored, and the prospect is that within ninety days the business of the country will be showing signs of new life, and that work and good times will mark the progress of the nation.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

Dispatches from Washington assure the country that there is going to be another chance to try, in the near future, the constitutionality of the Geary law. The opponents of the law, the telegram states, "believe Judge Harlan would side with them if he were given an opportunity to hear the argument in full, and they think Judge Blatchford was too ill at the time the first argument was made to give it the attention he ought to, and that he voted with the majority rather from inertia than conviction. "Now with a full bench and a new man in Judge Blatchford's place, it is alleged, it is more than probable that the supreme court will reverse its former action. Inertia is a bad substitute for conviction in the supreme court of the United states and if conviction should prevail once more, an opposite decision upon the same law would make the highest tribunal in this land look checkmated before the world.

The new hearing is to be upon the finding of Judge Ross of California in the case against Wong Kin Koo, that section 4 of the Geary act providing for imprisonment at hard labor is in contravention of the constitution of the United States, and an unjust and infamous punishment where no crime is committed. This judge holds that the rest of the act is valid, and orders the Chinaman deported, denying a stay of execution asked for by the defense.

It is one of the most unjust laws ever passed in this country and has been almost universally condemned.

BREEDING OFF HORNS.

The dehorning of cattle has become as popular in this country as docking the tails of horses is in England. This is regarded as a simple operation, and one of advantage to the farmer if of no particular advantage to the animals. It has become a fad, and one farmer in his enthusiasm says "the horns should be cut off because they are of no use." If he had been born in time he might have given the Creator points and prevented such a grave mistake as putting useless horns upon the heads of these domestic animals and wasting so much material. Is he sure that the Almighty did not put them there to furnish material for making combs, so that frowzy-headed men might straighten their locks and keep their hair free and their heads in better shape for ideas? We incline to the opinion that horns were created for use; and that to destroy their use is the principal reason farmers so readily accept the dehorning fad.

An Ohio farmer who has paid attention to breeding off the horns of cattle has succeeded in producing a race of "hornless shorthorns." We are not enough of a farmer to tell how "shorthorns can be hornless" or "longhorns can be nohorns," but The Country Gentleman says such an anomaly is possible and we accept the authority. Dr. Crane of Tippecanoe City, Ohio, is breeding "hornless shorthorns," and soon expects to have a herd; and he declares "that every lover of the grand old shorthorn race, who may be a 'crank' about horns, may still stick to his first love, without resort to the saw or other bloody and ineffectual means."

Probably [illegible] and the old-horned shorthorns will have to submit to the saw until hornless heads are so common that nature will forget that horns were ever of use or in fashion, and then all the calves will be born hornless, and the man with the saw will be found sitting on a stile waiting, Macawber like, for something to turn up!

DISPATCHES FROM PEARY.

Dispatches from the Peary expedition are to be read with suspicion, for doubtless the newspaper faker can be found in New Foundland as well as in Yucatan or any other remote spot; and he may be aware that the Falcon will not return till late in September to deny his stories, and he does not mind harrowing up the feelings of the friends of those who make up the company. Within a week the expedition has been twice heard from, once with an unusually open sea bound for Red Cliffs, and afterwards as having encountered a furious storm which had tossed the Falcon about so that the burros upon which Peary depended so much for transportation of goods had been ruined, and that Esquimaux dogs can not be purchased, which may materially hinder the expedition and defeat its purpose. The chances are that there is little truth in either of these statements. If the report of a storm and loss of animals is true, the second expedition does not start under more unpromising conditions than did the first when Lieut. Peary broke his leg and spent his first winter in nursing it into condition for service. He made a great record the first time with his poor beginning, and it is not probable that anything has happened to prevent him from establishing his quarters in Greenland and fully carrying out his two years' programme.

The story that he made too late a start throws suspicion upon the reports. The record of Arctic voyaging shows open water throughout July and part of August. The Proteus which took the Greely party north, did not leave Fort Conger till August 26, and that is much farther north than the Peary expedition intends to go in the Falcon.

SENATOR DOLPH'S VIEWS.

The next congress will be one of the most important since the civil war, writes Senator Joseph N. Dolph in the August number of the North American Review. For the first time in a third of a century the democratic party is in full control of the legislative and executive branches of the government. It is pledged to reverse the policy upon which the government has been conducted more than thirty years. The results of the changes which will no doubt be made in our tariff laws will greatly affect our varied industries and the prosperity of our people. The party of protection confidently expect that any legislation in the direction of free trade will result, as it claims that such legislation has always resulted in this country, in business stagnation, suspension of industries, financial disturbances, unemployed labor and general bankruptcy.

The financial question in the estimation of the administration is the one upon which legislation is most urgent. The tariff question, which was placed foremost in the presidential campaign, has been relegated to the rear. While upon proposed tariff legislation party lines will be strictly drawn, upon financial questions the case is different. The president is in favor of sound currency and of maintaining the gold basis. He is opposed to free coinage, in favor of the repeal of the Sherman law and discontinuing the purchase of silver. A majority of his party are in favor of the free coinage of silver. It remains to be seen whether Mr. Cleveland can control the democratic majority and force them to his views.

There are sufficient causes other than the Sherman law for the present financial disturbances. * * * The fear of legislation hostile to our industries, or calculated to impair the credit of the government, has more to do with the business and financial condition of the country today, than the purchase of silver, the condition of the treasury or the volume of any kind of our currency.

No factious opposition will be made by republicans in either branch of congress to the tariff or financial measures formulated by the majority. Time will be taken for thorough discussion, and republicans will place themselves before the country in opposition to every assault upon the protective system; but they will recognize that the responsibility for legislation rests with the majority. They will not be oblivious either to the fact that the logic of the situation indicates that the masses can only be set right upon the tariff question by some experience under free trade legislation.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The pool men are getting into trim to test the new pool law. The new pool law may try them!

Waterbury doesn't mind the stringent times. Her school teachers asked for an advance in their salaries and were allowed it Tuesday.

There are over nine millions in gold ready for shipment from England to this country in the next two weeks. The national banks are increasing their issue to the full amount allowed them under the law, and a more hopeful feeling is perceptible mercantile and financial circles.

The state board of health has tabooed "heart failure" as a cause of death. The new burial law does not allow its acceptance as the cause of death. And yet, if "heart failure" should get beneath the vests of the members of the board of health where would they be—they would not be able to say it was an insufficient cause.

The New York Tribune has sent nearly ten thousand poor children to country homes for a fortnight's vacation thus far this season, and eleven thousand children have been sent on day excursions. The Tribune is doing a great and good work, and if it is not adding to its long list of friends and patrons it is because human nature is less grateful than it ought to be.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation;
Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation,
Gives healthy sleep; also aids digestion
Without narcotic stupefaction.

For any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price on the market.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Constipation is positively cured by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Not by purging and weakening the bowels, but by regulating and strengthening them. This is done by improving the digestion and stimulating the liver to proper secretion of bile, when the bowels will perform their customary functions in an easy and natural manner. Purgative pills must be avoided. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Price 25 cents.

MORE CONDITIONS

Imposed by France Upon Unfortunate Siam.

THE BLOCKADE HAS BEEN RAISED.

Announcement Made in the House of Commons.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The delay of Siam in accepting the ultimatum presented by the French minister resident at Bangkok has justified the government of the republic in imposing heavier conditions.

Being desirous, however, to give further proof of the sentiments of moderation by which she has been constantly actuated, France will content herself as an indispensable guarantee for the practical execution of the clauses of the ultimatum, with occupying the river and port of Chantibun until the complete evacuation of the posts established by the Siamese on the left of the Mekong river.

Further, for the purpose of guaranteeing a continuance of the good relations happily re-established between France and Siam, and for preventing a conflict in the region of Lake Toulesap, Siam will undertake to maintain no military forces in Battombang and Siemrup; and in the locality situated within a radius of 25 kilometres of the Mekong river, starting from the Cambodian frontier, Siam will only maintain the police force

Necessary to Preserve Order.

Moreover, Siam will not maintain warships or armed boats on the waters of the great lake or the Mekong river.

A semi-official note says: "The various interviews between M. Develle and Lord Dufferin in the last few days referred exclusively to the upper Mekong question, which has been pending between France and Great Britain for years, and which was brought into prominence by the Franco-Siamese conflict. All decisions in the matter were postponed until Siam unreservedly accepted the French ultimatum.

"Acceptance having been made, France has not hesitated to adhere to the principle of a neutral, to be established by means of mutual sacrifices between the possessions of the two powers in the regions of the upper Mekong. The delimitation of the zone is reserved for a future date."

Relations Severely Strained.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The News says editorially: It would be pedantry and folly to deny that our relations with France have been severely strained. France's extremely high-handed procedure, for which there is about as much justification as there was for the partition of Poland, could not be regarded without concern by Great Britain. Much credit for the fortunate outcome is due to the consummate diplomacy of Lord Dufferin, while Lord Rosebery has certainly justified the confidence of the country.

Blockade Has Been Raised.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, announced in the house of commons this afternoon that the French blockade of Bangkok had been raised today.

LOCAL TROUBLES.

Argentine Minister Thus Describes the Revolution in His Country.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Argentine minister in London has communicated to the press the following dispatch from the government at Buenos Ayres, dated July 31.

"The revolutionary movements in the provinces of Buenos Ayres, Santa Fe and San Luis are entirely local. No voice of disloyalty against the national authority has been raised in those provinces or in any part of the republic where peace prevails.

The national authorities are awaiting the sanction of congress to bring their powerful and efficacious influence to bear to establish peace and constitutional order.

"I AM NOT GUILTY."

George Thompson's Story of His Wife's Mysterious Death.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—A reporter was granted an interview this morning with George Thompson who is under arrest on the charge of murdering his wife. The interview was had in the ante room leading from the dock of the municipal court, and was secured through the courtesy of the court officials.

When first approached Thompson declined to talk, but when pressed for his side of the affair he expressed himself in a clear and straightforward manner.

His first words were "I am not guilty, and had nothing at all to do with the death of my wife." With this statement the tears came into the man's eyes and he looked like anything but a murderer. He then told his side of the affair.

He said, that late in the afternoon he came home with a bottle of whisky, of which he and his wife and her mother all partook. The bottle was placed on the kitchen table, so he says, and then he went into the dining room and read the evening paper. This was somewhere about 6 o'clock. Shortly afterward he thought that it was about time that he watered his flowers, as has been his custom on pleasant evenings this summer, and he went out into the kitchen for the purpose of filling the watering pot. It was then, he says, he first saw his wife lying prostrate on the kitchen floor.

He filled the pot with water and finding that his wife remained unconscious, as he supposed, he poured some of the water on her, hoping to revive her, but as it didn't have the desired effect he sent for Dr. Warren, and afterward the police arrived and placed him under arrest.

This, he claims, is all that he knows about the affair, and he appears to feel badly over the loss of his wife and the predicament that he finds himself in today. Before the reporter left the room Thompson reiterated that he was not guilty and said that he felt sure that he would be able to clear himself.

Thompson is of medium height, of rather slim build, with hair tinged with gray. He is fairly good looking and appears to be a hard working man. An autopsy is being held this morning by Medical Examiner Draper on the body of Mrs. Thompson at the city hospital. Sergeant Denton and Special Officer Cleary have charge of the case and this morning both expressed themselves of the opinion that it will be found that she died from natural causes. If that be the case Thompson will be immediately discharged.

At the autopsy this forenoon Medical Examiner Draper, according to his statement to Judge Forsaith, found that the body of the woman was covered with bruises, especially her head and stomach. Of course he could not tell just how the woman's death was caused, but the medical examiner is of the opinion that the wounds on the body most likely were the cause of the woman's death.

The point in his opinion now to be decided is whether these wounds were the result of an accident or were criminally caused by her husband. This will be the question that the court will have to decide.

In the municipal criminal court Thompson appeared before Judge Forsaith. He was held on the charge of having with malice aforethought murdered his wife Mary at his home on Dundee street in the Back Bay district. The complaint alleged that Thompson had assaulted his wife on the occasion stated and that she had come to her death from a series of blows on the head.

Thompson appeared cool. He wore neither collar nor necktie. Officer Cleary of division 15 asked for a continuance of the case till Monday next on account of the absence of witnesses. Judge Forsaith asked the prisoner if he desired a hearing on the complaint. Thompson replied in the affirmative. His honor then ordered that he be committed to the common jail without bail. A hearing will be granted Aug. 7 at 10 a. m.

Seizure of Opium.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—A seizure of opium, valued at $5000, was made in Chinatown yesterday. The government has information that the opium was sent from Portland by Dunbar and Blum, two of the 15 men recently indicted there for wholesale smuggling. Dunbar and Blum, it is said, sent the opium here in hope that it would be smuggled in. The opium came down in oil boxes and was seized as it was about to be placed in the cellar of a Chinese establishment.

House, Barns and Stock Burned.

CHARLESTOWN, N. H., Aug. 2.—The dwelling house and barns in this village owned by Thomas Davis, with 30 tons of hay, two horses, five cows, calves and poultry were burned at midnight. Cause of fire unknown. Loss, $8000; partially covered by insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Davis were to have started on a trip to Ireland today.

Argentine Steamer Seized.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Herald's correspondent in Rio Janeiro telegraphs that the officials in Santa Catharina have seized the Argentine steamer Fortuna. They claimed the right to search her to find whether arms for the Brazilian rebels were aboard. The Argentine consul made a vigorous protest against the seizure.

Got Goods and Cash.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The grocery store of E. C. Perkins on Clifton street, Malden, was entered by burglars at an early hour this morning, the front door being forced open with a jimmy. The burglars blew open the safe and secured a considerable amount of money. They also took a quantity of goods.

Cottage Burned at Hull.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning the Sheriff cottage, located next to the circular bath house of the Oregon House, Hull, on the road midway between Pemberton and the yacht club pier, was totally destroyed by fire.

Demand Free Coinage.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The sub-committee on resolutions of the silver convention last night agreed to ignore all questions with the exception of that of money, and to demand free coinage and the remonetization of silver.

Furniture Concern Suspends.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—A receiver has been appointed for the Deane and Dierkes furniture company. The company's assets of all kinds are fixed at $400,000, against stated liabilities of $150,000.

Banks Require Notice.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 2.—The savings banks of this city have adopted rules requiring from depositors notice of the withdrawal of their deposits.

Big Chicago Broker Fails.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—C. B. Eggleston, one of the biggest carrying brokers on the board of trade, has failed.

Mexican Newspaper Confiscated.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 2.—The printing plant of El Democrat, a newspaper whose editors are confined in prison for the publication of alleged libellous articles, has been confiscated by the government and will be sold by public auction. The opposition papers are protesting bitterly against this action on the part of the government.

Miss Sloan Had No Friends.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., Aug. 2.—The remains of Lizzie Sloan, who was drowned here on Monday, were placed in a receiving tomb at Falmouth last evening. A subscription was raised to defray the expenses of the undertaker's services. Miss Sloan was a native of Scotland, and had no close friends in this country.

Chinese Envoy Overdue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—King Owyang, Chinese vice consul, is authority for the statement that the new minister to the United States, Yang Yew, now on his way to his post of duty at Washington, will not arrive here on the steamer Rio de Janeiro, now due, as has been announced. It is probable that the new envoy will come on the Gaelic in about two weeks and remain only a day or two.

Dredger and Tug Destroyed.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 2.—A dredging machine owned by Captain Somers was burned to the water's edge by fire early this morning. Loss, $20,000. The tug Annie C. Birdsall, valued at $10,000, was also destroyed. One of the dredging machine's crew came aboard drunk, and as the fire broke out shortly after his arrival he is supposed to have caused it.

Smuggled Watches Seized.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Special Treasury Agent Crowley yesterday seized 30 watches in the possession of the Swiss consul, to whom they had been given by Bernard Benitz, the Swiss, upon his return from Canada. It is believed that the watches were originally smuggled here, and an investigation to that end is in progress.

COMMITTEE TALK

Places Mr. Springer In His Old Position.

RUMORS HEARD AT THE CAPITAL.

Membership of Ways and Means Remain the Same.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—There is still much discussion among the representatives who have arrived in the city concerning the composition of the new ways and means committee. It is regarded as remarkable that all the members of the late committee, both Democrats and Republicans, with the exception of one—Shively of Indiana—have been re-elected. The incessant ringing of the changes on the retirement of the late chairman, Mr. Springer, and the selection of Representative Wilson of West Virginia, has given rise to all this speculation among the members.

The effort to displace Mr. Springer and appoint Mr. Wilson would necessitate the turning down of Mr. McMillin and Judge Turner, who rank Mr. Wilson on the old committee. As a place on the ways and means committee has always been regarded as which can be conferred on a member by the speaker, being equal to a chairmanship, the displacement of Springer and the turning down of Mr. McMillan and Judge Turner, all of whom have had more experience than the West Virginian, would be considered an insult to these gentlemen by all their friends.

The only alleged reason of this proposed change is that Mr. Wilson is supposed to be the president's preference for this important place. The fact is, however, the president has never made any such suggestion to Mr. Crisp nor does he or Secretary Carlisle propose to interfere in any manner with the speaker in the arrangement of all the personnel of this important committee, all, but one of the members of which are experienced in the work which it is now proposed to accomplish. They are also in complete accord with the administration and its reform notions as to the tariff.

The names of the members of this committee in the fifty-second congress and who will probably represent the

Membership of the New Committee

are: Democrats—William M. Springer of Illinois, chairman; Benton McMillen of Tennessee, Henry C. Turner of Georgia, William L. Wilson of West Virginia, Alexander B. Montgomery of Kentucky, Justin R. Whiting of Michigan, W. Burke Cockran of New York, Moses B. Stevens of Massachusetts and William J. Bryant of Nebraska. Republicans—Thomas B. Reed of Maine, Julius C Burrows of Michigan, Sereno B. Payne of New York, John Dalzell of Pennsylvania and Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois.

This was regarded as a representative committee of both parties on the different partisan and theoretical lines of protective and reform ideas. It was also composed of exceptionally strong men in parliamentary and legislative experience. The speaker, therefore, admits that it would be very difficult to improve that committee for the work which it is to perform. Secretary Carlisle, when his attention was directed to these facts, said it was a very able committee, and

Could Not Be Strengthened.

It is understood that General Bynum of Indiana will be assigned to the vacancy from that state in place of Mr. Shively.

There has been some talk of Bourke Cockran at the head of the ways and means committee, but the friends of Mr. Crisp say that there is nothing in this. It is proposed by the friends of the administration that Mr. Cockran should be made chairman of the committee on banking and currency. This committee will be conspicuous in financial legislation in the coming congress. It is therefore conceded that a representative from the city of New York, the great money center, should be at its head.

GUILTY OF CONTEMPT.

Five World's Fair Directors Fined $1000 Each—Others Less Amounts.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Judge Stein of the superior court this morning decided that the World's fair directors and officers who had been directly responsible for closing the exposition gates Sunday, July 23, had violated the injunction granted in the Clingman petition and were consequently guilty of contempt.

He ordered that the directors, Gage, Hutchinson, Henrotin, McNally and Kerfoot, should be fined $1000 each and stand committed to jail until the fine was paid.

In the case of director Victor F. Lawson the court held that the officer had voted in belief that the injunction had lapsed, and was not intentionally guilty. In view of this mitigating circumstance a fine of $100 was imposed.

Director General George R. Davis was held less directly responsible, and was fined $250, with the same provision regarding payment.

Massey, Forbes, St. Clair and Higinbotham were regarded by Judge Stein as instruments for the execution of the directors' ruling and were discharged. Director Nathan was also discharged.

Attorney Eddy, representing the fair company, moved for an appeal from the court's ruling. At the close of arguments Judge Stein granted an appeal.

BOSTON PRODUCE MARKET.

PORK—Pork provisions are a good deal disturbed by the Cudahy failure in Chicago. But the packers explain that his failure has nothing to do with the local market on actual pork. The quotations are at: Long cut, short cut [illegible] backs, $20 50; lean ends, $22 50; extra prime, $[illegible]; butt pork, $18 50; pork tongues, $21 [illegible]; loose salt pork, 11c; fresh ribs, 11c; sausages, [illegible]c; bologna sausages, 10½c; hams, 15c; smoked [illegible]c; skin back hams, 15¾c; smoked shoulders, 12c; corned, 13¼c; smoked ribs, 11c; bacon, 15¼c; pressed hams, 14¼c; [illegible] lard, 10¾c per lb, tierces and tubs; 10 lb pails [illegible]; 5 lb, 11c; 3 lb, 11¼c; choice city dressed hogs, [illegible]c; country, 7¼.

BEEF—There was an irregular trade in beef, some sellers noting a good trade, with others doing but little. The market is well sustained at: Chicago fancy steers, 7¾@8¼c; prime, 7¼@7½; good, 7@7¼c; lights [illegible]; extra beef hinds, 10½@11½c; good, [illegible]c; light, [illegible]; fores, [illegible]c; light, [illegible]c; backs, [illegible]; [illegible], [illegible]c; chucks, [illegible]c; rounds, 7½@[illegible]; rumps, [illegible]c; rumps and loins, [illegible]; short ribs, 11@13c; loins, 11@17c.

OATS—Oats are about steady, with old clipped to arrive quoted at [illegible]c, and new clipped at [illegible]c. The spot market is quiet, with the quotations at: Clipped, [illegible]c; fancy, [illegible]; No. 2 white, [illegible]; No. 3 white, [illegible]; [illegible] clipped, [illegible].

CORN—Corn is fairly sustained, with Chicago No. 2 yellow, to arrive, quoted at [illegible]; with No. 2 yellow at [illegible]c. The spot market is steady at: Steamer yellow, [illegible]c; No. 2 yellow, [illegible]c; steamer mixed, [illegible]c.

FLOUR—The flour market continues quiet. The stronger position of wheat is a better feature, but it has not been established long enough, or with sufficient force to start the flour market.

POTATOES—Potatoes are selling well, with the supply in good shape: Rhode Islands, $1 [illegible]; Natives, $[illegible]; Jerseys, $[illegible]. Sweet potatoes are in small supply and sell at $4 [illegible] for good.

CHEESE—Cheese is steady, with the market at Northern full creams, [illegible]c; fair to good, [illegible]c; western choice, [illegible]c; fair to good, [illegible]c; Liverpool is quoted at 46s 6d for white.

HAY—Hay is quiet and rather easy. Millfeed is very steady. Sack spring bran, to arrive, is quoted at $[illegible], with sack winter at $[illegible]17 50.

APPLES—Apples are in good request for good barrel lots, which are quoted at $1 50@[illegible], as to quality. Crabs are quoted at [illegible], as to quality.

BUTTER—The butter market is quiet and unchanged. The quotations noted yesterday will answer for today.

EGGS—Eggs are very firm: Western, [illegible]; Michigan, 17@17½c; Island, 11c; eastern and northern, [illegible]c.

LAMB AND MUTTON—There was a quiet lamb and mutton trade, with quotations not changed.

MEAL—Cornmeal is easier at [illegible] for bag meal and at $[illegible] for barrel meal.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings In Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 8 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market this morning opened a little more irregular. The short interest had been largely reduced, and the traders were inclined to discount upon the decreased railroad earnings. But London came stronger and was a moderate purchaser. Yesterday's developments, too, had been in the main favorable.

The engagements of gold in Europe last week, the most of which are now on the water aggregated about $[illegible], Thus far this week there has been secured $[illegible] more for shipment. Argument, or influence, or what you will, has been brought to bear on the governors of the Bank of England, and that institution has now withdrawn its obstructive measures and is doing what it can to relieve the stringency here and permit the normal movement of exchange. It is said that the Bank of England can spare $20,000,000 of gold without raising its rate or interfering with its reserve.

The local market was characterized by a good strong undertone. Boston and Maine showed the greatest improvement. Opening [illegible] at 125, it advanced rapidly to 128, though the sales were not numerous. General Electric opened 1 stronger at 45, rallied to 44 and then weakened to 43¼. Sugar was stronger, the common running up from 67½, the opening quotation, to 70, and the preferred from 75 to 77½. Atchison started off ¾ stronger at [illegible] and advanced to 14, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy opened 3 up at 74 and advanced [illegible] and Union Pacific 1 up at [illegible] and rose to [illegible]. Boston and Albany was [illegible] stronger at 187. General Electric [illegible] rose from 45 to 46 on the opening sale.

ODDITIES OF GREAT FOLKS.

Buffon's only amusement was walking.

Bach's favorite pastime was gardening.

Scaliger could not drink milk and would not sit at a table with it [illegible].

Scaliger's brother was always liable to convulsions at the sight of a lily.

Aristotle found amusement in walking on the seashore and collecting specimens.

Mirabeau loved dogs and had a famous pet, Chico, to which he was much attached.

Voltaire was afraid to sleep in the dark and invariably woke if his candle went out.

D'Andilly, the translator of Josephus, found pleasure in planting trees and shrubs.

Liszt enjoyed himself best when at the piano and would play for hours, apparently lost in rhapsody.

Charles V of France collected books and at his death in 1380 had the unusual number of 900 volumes.

Samuel Clarke was fond of robust exercise and was sometimes seen jumping over his chairs and tables.

Ptolemy Lagus was a book collector, and the Alexandrian library was a tribute to his skill in bargaining.

Cowper loved pets and had at one time five rabbits, three hares, two guinea pigs, a magpie, a jay, a starling, two canary birds, two dogs, a "retired cat" and a squirrel.

Emanuel Bach's favorite diversion was organ playing, and on more than one occasion at church service he forgot himself and played so long that the preacher, who was waiting to begin his sermon, was forced to send a messenger to him and oblige him to stop.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PEN, CHISEL AND BRUSH.

Rudyard Kipling is reported to have abandoned short story writing to devote his time to longer works of fiction.

Jules Verne, who is about to bring out his seventy-fourth novel, is said to be a native of Warsaw. His real name is said to be Olchewitz.

Forain of Paris has published in book form the caricatures which have appeared from his pencil in Figaro having for chief subject the panama incidents.

Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbs), of rising fame, has a profound and scholarly knowledge of Latin and Greek. She was formerly a newspaper art critic and is credited besides with a deeply philosophic mind.

Octave Uzanne, a distinguished French author, compiler and editor, is an intending visitor to the World's fair. While in this country he will contribute letters to Figaro under the head of "Sensations d'Amerique."

The latest piece of vandalism is the wanton destruction of Tintoretto's famous portrait of a Venetian nobleman in the palace of the doges, Venice. The report is that the picture, which is valued at $60,000, was hacked to pieces by a half crazed and poverty stricken wretch.

Kuhne Beveridge, at the age of 17 years, not only has the distinction of being the most talked of woman sculptor of the day, but of her an eminent sculptor has said that in all the essentials of her art she is more largely endowed than any other woman who has ever lived.

FIN, FEATHER AND FUR.

Horses are said to be particularly fond of the skin of the banana.

The giraffe attains a height of 20 feet and the crocodile a length of over 30 feet.

The condor, when rising from the earth, always describes circles in the air and can rise in no other way.

Kleptomania, on the Darwinian theory, can be called hereditary. Monkeys often have it in a highly developed state.

Salmon never feed during their period of river residence. Their vitality is maintained by the superabundant store of fat accumulated under the skin while on their excursions to the sea.

If a horse touches his ears in going under a low bridge or through a tunnel, he will invariably throw his head up and receive a hard knock. When a mule's ears touch anything, his head goes down.

FIGS AND THISTLES.

To hate is the same thing as to kill.

An evil thought is the mother of an evil [illegible]

Many people who do not believe in a hell live in one.

People who borrow trouble never have to go far to find it.

When the town clock is wrong, it spoils a good many watches.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

The Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg has again been divided into three divisions.

The Grand Trunk has given notice that it will issue no passes whatever during the World's fair.

The Reading Railroad company now inspects its boilers weekly instead of monthly to guard against explosions.

The position of mechanical engineer of the Big Four, which was filled by F. P. Worthington, deceased, has been abolished.

Denver has a steep grade street railway. On the down trip the car horse is put on a trailer, and the cars proceed by the force of gravity.

The block system of the Erie has been completed from New York to Chicago. The system is a complete block, and all sharp curves have special watchmen.

EDUCATIONAL ECHOES.

One sixteenth of the students in American colleges and universities are studying for the ministry.

There are 400 young women attending the state university of Kansas this year as against 180 a year ago.

The authorities of Cambridge university in England have decided that women shall be eligible for appointment as extension lecturers.

Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, who has been appointed by Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania state superintendent of public instruction, is one of the best known teachers in Pennsylvania. He is 44 years old and a principal of the Kutztown state normal school.

Settled Him.

"I hear," said the city editor, "that you claim to be able to put into intelligible print any kind of American dialect."

"That's what," said the airy new reporter.

"I'm glad to hear it. I wish about a column story for Sunday in the dialect a young woman uses when she is chewing gum and talking at one and the same instant."

The story has not yet appeared.—Exchange.

NORWICH AND VICINITY

CITY NEWS.

Mrs. Wm. H. Shields and family are at Block Island.

Roscoe P. and Clarence J. Frazier are at the World's fair.

Miss Mary McNamara of Jail Hill is spending a few days in New London.

Sumner L. Henderson and wife of Saco, Me., are visiting F. H. Patrick of Chestnut street.

Miss Mamie Connor is staying with a party of friends at the Highland house, Block Island.

Norwich wheelmen have been invited to a clambake given by the Willimantic 'cyclers in a fortnight.

Miss Mamie E. and Miss Kittie McCarthy of Blue Hill, Franklin, are visiting relatives in this city.

Misses Mary Lee and Mary Conroy and Mr. Daniel J. Lee are spending several days at Plattsburg, N. Y.

The three-masted schooner Hattie C. Luce of Rockport, Me., is discharging lumber at Dawley's wharf.

The schooner Sarah Edward of Boston lies off Allyn's Point wharf, waiting to be relieved of a heavy cargo of coal.

Mr and Mrs. John T. Clark left town Wednesday evening for a six weeks' tour of the Yellowstone National Park.

Col. Allen Tenny's cottage at Watch Hill is nearly completed, and it is probable that it will be occupied next week.

Four hundred residents of Munson, Mass., took the steamer Block Island for Watch Hill at New London Wednesday.

W. Tyler Olcott, Trinity, '96, returned Wednesday from a several weeks' visit at the World's fair and with Michigan friends.

Deputy Great Sachem S. H. Reeves of this city was present in his official capacity at the raising up of Willimantic Red Men Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Floyd Crane and son of New York are guests of Mrs. Charles D. Noyes. Mrs. Noyes' sister, Mrs. Whaley, is pleasantly quartered at Mystic Island.

The New York & New England railroad will make an excursion to Boston including a trip to Nantasket Beach or Bass Point, Nahant, and return on Friday, August 11.

Miss Clara Maynard, operator in the telephone exchange, is visiting Miss Carrie M. Jordan of Willimantic. Miss Grace Moore of Greeneville is "Hello" girl in her absence.

The Putnam base ball club, who play the Clippers on the Greeneville grounds Saturday, defeated the Norwich boys several weeks ago in an exciting contest, 3 to 2.

The steam tug Sarah J. Weed of New Haven, used as a coal hoister, was aground all Wednesday afternoon in the harbor opposite Thamesville. At an early hour this morning she was still aground.

John F. Knowlton, proprietor of the Knight block pharmacy in Danielsonville, was found dead in his room at the Central house, Sunday morning, 23d. He had taken an overdose of a narcotic, having been troubled with insomnia.

Captain Walter W. Ives of New Haven is visiting his son W. W. Ives, on Union street. Capt. Ives is a well preserved gentleman of seventy-two years, who has traveled extensively. He thinks Norwich is a beautiful city.

The Young Men's Christian Association has prepared for distribution a card stating the time, teachers and general conditions of the three educational classes, which will be organized October 17 and continue until April 1.

John B. Smith, manager of the Connecticut Valley Orchard company at Deep River, says that never have the trees been as heavily laden as they are this year, and the peaches bid fair to be of a better quality than ever has been shipped from the orchard.

The steamer City of Richmond will make an excursion to New York and Coney Island next Saturday night. All day Sunday at New York or Coney Island is promised to patrons of this trip. Tickets and state rooms at Noyes & Davis.

Norwich horses are entered in trotting events at Brooklyn by the Windham County Agricultural society's track next Saturday afternoon. Two purses have been hung up, one of $250 in a 2.35 trot and pace class and one of $100 in a 2.50 class.

Dr. C. D. Woods, director of the agricultural experiment station connected with Storrs college, has been called to Chicago to assist in making chemical analyses at the World's fair food exhibit. He will be engaged on this important mission for about weeks.

The Voluntown correspondent of The Westerly Tribune says it is said on the streets that Jones, the driver of the Norwich mail had got through driving, Saturday night, the 29th. He might as well give it up, as Whitman gets all the passengers and express matter.

Vallino Domenique, apparently rational and happy at securing his liberty, was taken to Brooklyn Wednesday afternoon by A. J. Jacck, a member of the firm by whom the Italian was formerly employed. Mr. Jacck attributed the man's lunacy to heavy drink, and anticipates no recurrence.

The Stonington correspondent of The Westerly Tribune writes: Services at Calvary church, Sunday, were unusually well attended. The Rev. E. B. Schmitt of Norwich preached two excellent and interesting sermons. Trinity church may be congratulated on having a rector of such marked ability and zeal.

Thomas R. Murray, a young New Londoner, accompanied the Konomoc fire engine company on their picnic to the Harvard crew quarters on the Thames Wednesday. While playing base ball he fell to the ground, cracking his right knee cap. The patient was removed to New London where a surgeon attended the injury.

As Charles Keep was bathing at Watch Hill Wednesday he was seized with cramps and came near drowning, as his friends misunderstood his cries for help. He was rescued in a very limp condition, and was unable to accompany his friends on the "Block Island trip," coming to this city instead.

The horse of ex-Consul Henry Bugge became frightened while standing in front of A. A. Beckwith's granary on Water street late Wednesday afternoon and dashed into Commerce street. The buggy to which he was attached struck two wagons in front of Eaton, Chase & Co's, but did no further damage than to spring their axles. The animal was stopped on Market street, none the worse for his run.

The Rev T. P. Joynt of New London, who was so largely instrumental in starting the first Catholic summer school in his city, has recently returned from this year's session of the school at Plattsburg, N. Y. The railroad company in that section has purchased a $25,000 site three miles below the town and given it to the association for grounds for the school buildings, a large auditorium, etc. Fr. Joynt reports an interesting and profitable meeting.

Appointed by the Governor.

Governor Morris has appointed William O. Atwood of Stonington a steamboat policeman, on the application of the Providence & Stonington Steamboat company, and also appointed Mr. Atwood harbormaster of Stonington harbor for three years from August 1.

The Croquet Association.

The frame building of the National Croquet association, on the Rockwell premises, is nearly finished. It is plain, but neat structure, with a suitable committee room and a main hall to meet the demands of the organization.

The association tournament begins Tuesday, August 15.

Attorney Hall's Daughter Dead.

Helen A. Hall, the 12-year-old daughter of Attorney Hadlai A. Hull, died at her home in Stonington Wednesday morning. She was a bright and promising girl and much sympathy will be felt for the afflicted parents.

In consequence of this bereavement, Mr. Hall, as prosecuting attorney for the court of common pleas, will not meet the lawyers in the clerk of court's office today, as originally planned.

J. M. Logan Acquitted.

J. M. Logan of East Lyme was brought before Justice Bailey of that place Wednesday, charged with obstructing an officer in the performance of his duty. The accused was acquitted on the ground that his act was committed while he was ignorant of the condition of affairs.

Logan is the man who tumbled Sheriff Hawkins into the water Tuesday while the latter was serving an attachment on Logan's boat.

Entertained at Kitemaug.

Welcome A. Smith entertained at Kitemaug Wednesday the members of the Grocers' association, an organization including in its membership many prominent Connecticut and Massachusetts merchants. Among the party were the Hon. N. D. Sperry, Col. N. G. Osborne, Capt. B. R. Brown, N. Albert Hooker, Dr. Henry W. Ring, Isaac Bromley, Col. F. De Fronck, A. B. Arkenburgh, Hunter Wyckes.

Cheerful New London.

The business depression, which is now beginning to affect most of the large manufacturing concerns throughout the state, has not been noticed in New London.

The silk mills there are all running on full time, as are all other factories. In the foundries business is very lively, and the companies have more orders than they can attend to at present. There seems to be no prospect that the city will be affected immediately.

Special Tours to Chicago.

Mr. E. P. Turner's special tours to the World's Columbian exposition are being extensively patronized, and he has disposed of over one hundred and fifty excursion tickets already. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jarvis, Miss E. A. Holt, Mrs. Susan Hill and Mr. Frank Ayer left town last night for the fair. The route to Chicago is by way of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, and returning homeward through Niagara, they sail down the St. Lawrence from Kingston to Montreal.

Other people leaving for Chicago on Mr. Turner's tours this month are Mrs. F. W. Robinson, Miss Julia Robinson, Mr. J. L. Harroun of Taftville, Mr. Frank Ulmer and family, ex Councilman Hezekiah Perkins and wife, Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Harriman, and Dr. Witter, wife and daughter.

A HALF DAY'S OUTING.

How a Few Hours May Be Pleasurably Spent in this Hot Weather.

A representative of this paper went over the new route to Ocean Beach Wednesday, for the purpose of giving the patrons of THE BULLETIN an idea of its advantages, the time it consumes, accommodations at the beach, etc. The steamer Gypsey, Mr. Palmer Smith, manager, was taken at 2 p. m., for the sail down the river. This pleasantly equipped little boat is licensed to carry 225 passengers, is fitted with a restaurant for the sale of light refreshments, and makes two trips daily.

By leaving at 8 30 a. m. Ocean Beach is reached in time to allow an hour's stay, the boat being due in Norwich on her return trip at 1 30 p. m. The manager will stop for picnic parties, or others, at any place along the river. On the afternoon trip down the boat reaches Ocean Beach at about four o'clock, allowing an hour's stay and reaching home about 7 o'clock.

But there are still other ways of reaching Ocean Beach. New London is reached at 2 30 p. m. and from Bank street corner electric cars run every twenty minutes to the shore, that is if they are not late. The New London people do not manage their cars as well as they do in Norwich; there is not sufficient power yet, and the mishaps seemed to come Wednesday just at the wrong time; so that it was 3 30 before a start was made for the Beach.

This electric car ride is very enjoyable, particularly after one passes Thames street. The harbor is in sight most of the time, the cars humming along a wide, well kept road, through the handsome stretch of property improved by Capitalist Lynch of New York, past the cottages of the Alexanders, Slaters, Tylers, and others, in full view of the lighthouse, and finally along the strand through the very sea-sand, with all the panorama of the sound spread before one, to the terminus of the road at the bathing beach.

A portion of the ride has been through the land of the Fort Hill Improvement company; but this Ocean park is the city's own, where the nominal charge of a nickel is made for a bathing house, and where the people can come for an hour or a day's recreation and return for fifteen cents. It makes a Norwich person envious to see this superb stretch of white beach, and to think of our local flat-irons we have dubbed "parks!"

Of course there are boaters and bathers and children innumerable busying themselves in the soft sand. Directly on the beach there is little shade; but where the electric road ends there are trees and benches, merry-go-rounds for the little ones, and a pavilion where sea food and light refreshments are for sale at very reasonable rates, and where the regulation shore dinner is supplied to parties at twenty-four hours' notice.

A plank road runs along the strand fronting a row of cottages, "mostly piazza with a house hitched on," as an observer remarked. These are built by New Londoners, the second pretty little retreat belonging to Mr. C. B. Ware of I. O. O. F. associations.

Persons by taking the same car back to town can catch the steamer Ella and make an early return with Captain Walker; by staying over one car about half an hour is gained at the beach, and there is time for the twenty-five minutes' return ride, and home on either the Block Island or the train which reaches Norwich at 5.55 p. m.

The cars are crowded at all hours, and the beach seems immensely popular. Many Norwich visitors were noted there Wednesday.

SHOLES BOUND OVER.

Held For Trial in the Superior Court in September.

The case of the State against Ransom S. Sholes, Jr., of Preston, charged with murder in the second degree, occupied the attention of Justice Hugh King, Wednesday. Amos A. Browning appeared for the state and Wm. H. Jennings, Jr., for the defense. Sholes pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The first witness summoned by the state was Medical Examiner Paddock, who conducted the autopsy upon the body of the dead stranger. He testified that he found the body to be in a state of good health, that there were no evidences of liquor found in the stomach and no mark upon the body that would indicate violence.

Prosecuting Attorney Browning then called Dr. Perkins, whom Sholes called when his victim's serious condition became apparent. He testified to his finding the man lying dead by the roadside, in the shelter of the bushes, and his subsequent order that he be removed to this city.

Michael J. Holan of 74 Oak street, one of the two thirteen-year-old boys who, while picking over their huckleberries in a field near the Conlon house, saw the affair, was the third witness called by the state. His story was substantially the same as that told Coroner Park upon the latter's investigation on the day following the stranger's death. He said while he and his companion were sitting under the boughs of an apple tree, a man came along the road to where Sholes was standing, talking with Miss Conlon, and said: "Please tell me where I can get a drink of water!"

Sholes answered rather roughly that he did not know, but Miss Conlon directed him to a brook that flowed through an adjacent field. The man then turned upon Sholes and threatened to "punch his eyes out." Sholes, the boy testified, replied in a defiant manner, and the stranger struck at Sholes with his fist, whereupon Sholes struck him in the face six times and he fell to the ground.

Frank J. Larkin was then called. He stated that himself, his brother Henry and his sister Fannie rode up to the Conlon house with Henry Hart, the Poquetanuck butcher, and saw the man lying in the road and that he drew him into the shade and ran for water to relieve him.

Joseph W. Kay, who was with the Holan boy at the time of the affray at Richard Conlon's gate, told practically the same story as did his companion, and on cross-examination the defense gained no new points.

At noon the court rested until 2 p. m.

At the afternoon session Attorney Jennings opened the defense. Young Sholes, the accused, took the stand and testified that he struck the stranger but once. The accusation of repeatedly striking or kicking the man he denied. His statement was fully corroborated by Miss Conlon.

Prosecuting Agent Browning began his plea at 5 p. m. He claimed that the action of Sholes could not be justified as an action of self-defense, and asked that the accused be bound over to the superior court for trial.

In order to complete the arguments, the court convened again at 6 30, and Attorney Jennings then addressed the judge, urging an acquittal on the very ground which Mr. Browning had opposed—self-defense.

Judge King found probable cause for holding Sholes over to the September term of the superior court on a charge of manslaughter. Bonds were fixed at $2,000, and were furnished by Ransom S. Sholes, Sr., father of the accused, who has acted as his bondsman since the preliminary hearing on Saturday, July 22.

BALCONY SUDDENLY GAVE WAY.

Sad Accident at the Yacht Club House in Chelsea, Mass.

FOUR KILLED. MANY INJURED.

It Was Illumination Night at the Club, and a Crowd Present.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—A distressing accident that resulted in the death of at least three people and injuries probably to fifteen or eighteen, occurred on the boathouse of the Chelsea Yacht club at Chelsea near the Charlestown bridge over the Mystic river.

It was illumination night at the club and in consequence of this there was a large crowd in attendance, including many ladies.

A band was playing on the pier in front of the clubhouse and many people had filled the balcony directly over the musicians' heads.

Suddenly, the balcony gave way and its occupants were thrown upon the pier and many of them into the water. The confusion that followed was indescribable, men and women shrieking in their attempts to save themselves and their friends.

An alarm of fire was sounded and the firemen who responded did grand work in rescuing those who were found floating in the water and in saving from drowning, as well as in helping to care for the injured.

The list of casualties are as follows:

Killed—J. P. Warren, band leader, 130 Pearl street, Chelsea; A. L. Pemberton, musician, Belmont street, Melrose; Mrs. Augusta P. [illegible]man, 11 George street, Chelsea; Mrs. E. P. Putnam, Chelsea.

Injured—Mrs. Mary Van Ness of Revere, badly bruised about the body; a son of same, slightly hurt, Mrs. L. E. Barnes, 18 West Third street, Chelsea, injured about the face; Miss Sadie Davis, Chelsea, depressed fracture of the skull; Thomas Mitten, musician, Cambridge, compound fracture of the arm; Mrs. T. J. Lynde, 11 George street, Chelsea, sister in law of Mr Schuman, badly wrenched and bruised; Miss Josie Grimes, injured about the face and limbs; Miss Fannie Newman, bruised; Miss Mary Billman, badly shaken up; Miss Eva Winott, badly bruised about the body; ex Councilman Charles F. Noyes of Chelsea, leg sprained and face badly bruised; Mrs. Mortimer, 130 Walnut street, Chelsea, bruised about the body; Miss Annie Farley, Fourth street, Chelsea, feet crushed; Jerry McCarty, 40 Cook street, internal injuries received while attempting to rescue Miss Grimes and Mr. Warren.

The more seriously injured were taken to the United States naval hospital and to the Frost hospital where their wounds were dressed, while many were able to go to their homes unassisted.

CORRESPONDENTS SNUBBED

President Cleveland Would Not See Them—Carlisle Sent Regrets.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Aug. 3.—This is the president's last night at Gray Gables for the present visit. Mr. Cleveland remained at home all day with Secretary Carlisle.

The president, it is understood, sent for Mr. Carlisle to come to Gray Gables before the message was read to his cabinet. Attorney General Olney stopped off this evening for an hour's chat with the president, and afterwards was driven with the Cleveland team to the station, where he took the train to Falmouth. He will return to Washington with the president. When Mr. Olney left the train at Buzzard's Bay several newspaper men were on the platform. None of them, however, wanted an interview, but Mr. Olney recognized them, dropped his head and walked along, while the scribes smiled among themselves.

The president, Mrs. Cleveland and Mr. Carlisle drove over to the village early this evening.

The local correspondents here went to the Gables tonight for their last routine call. They were not received with open arms and the president would not see them. Mr. Carlisle was asked for and he sent out his regrets.

The presidential party leaves here tomorrow afternoon by way of Fall River line for Washington. Secretary Lamont will arrive here at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from Sorento and join the party.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST HIM.

A Conductor Arrested on a Charge of Assault.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Gordon H Peet, a conductor on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was arrested in Central park today, while, it was alleged, he was acting in a suspicious manner with Maggie McCann, aged 17 and Maggie Gilday, aged 12. Maggie McCann stated that on Wednesday in Bryant park Peet gave her candy and promised her money if she would meet him in Central park. She consented and took along the Gilday girl and met him. He gave them candy, paid for rides on the merry-go-round and induced them to accompany him for a walk. She declared that he then assaulted her. The other girl corroborated her statements.

Peet seemed horrified at the charges. He said that he saw the McCann girl in Bryant park and took compassion on her because of her pinched face and poor clothes. Whatever he did was done out of charity. He met them in the park, he said, but denied the assault and said it was a conspiracy against him. He was locked up.

Peet's associates say he could not be guilty of the charge, that he has worked for the road 22 years, and has an unblemished record. He lives at New Haven, where he has a nice house and family. It is the first time he has missed his train in 20 years.

Will Try to Remove Father Hunt.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Aug. 3.—Patrick Ryan, the young man who was publicly censured at his mother's funeral yesterday by Father Hunt, pastor of the Catholic church here, was today arrested on complaint of the priest on the charge of assaulting the sexton of the church, with whom it is alleged he had a quarrel in the cemetery. He was released on his own recognizance.

Ryan is a young law student and has been studying for several years at Peterboro, Ontario. He is much respected by residents of the town. The affair has provoked much feeling and further developments are looked for. Today Ryan, with his father and several friends, went to Hartford to see Bishop McMahon about the matter. They will make an effort to have Father Hunt removed.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The treasury, in response to its counter offer of yesterday, has bought 149,000 ounces of silver at $0.7030 per ounce, the entire amount offered.

AN ELOPEMENT SEQUEL.

Lillie Pargoud's Husband Succumbs to a Sunstroke.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 3.—In May last quiet Stony Creek was startled by the report that Lillie, the 18-year-old daughter of General Pargoud of New Britain, who has a handsome cottage at the Creek, had eloped with a young man named Antony Narmoyle. The young couple had been acquainted but a short time and the social position of the young woman contrasted with that of the young man made the matter a subject of universal comment.

Narmoyle was an apprentice in the stone cutters' trade at the Norcross 'Bros'. quarry, and had come from New York in answer to an advertisement. At that time he was running an elevator in a big metropolitan hotel. Narmoyle was a good-looking young man and dressed neatly. He became acquainted with Miss Pargoud while they were waiting for the spring renovation of the Pargoud cottage.

One night Miss Pargoud was missing and it was learned that she had fled to New York with Narmoyle, where they were married. Gen. Pargoud then announced that he would have nothing to do with his adopted daughter, and since that time nothing had been heard from the romantic pair.

A few days ago General Pargoud received word from Brooklyn, N. Y., that young Narmoyle had died suddenly from the effect of a sunstroke. Since then nothing has been heard from Mrs. Narmoyle and she has not returned to the Stony Creek cottage.

[illegible] Given of Reduction of Hours.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—Notices were posted in the car repair shops of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad this afternoon announcing a reduction of hours of labor of the workmen to eight hours per day. Two hundred men living in this city are affected by the order. From an official source it is learned that the same policy of retrenchment is to be pursued by the road over all its branches. The road has now a force of 25,000 men employed in all capacities, and the annual disbursement for wages is about $2,000,000. No reason is assigned for shortening the hours of labor.

Fall River Financial Situation Assumes a New Phase.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 3.—The financial situation of the mills took on a new phase today. On account of the extraordinary dearth of small currency the treasurers of the mills were forced to send out several men into the barrooms, restaurants, groceries and other business places to get checks cashed into money of small denomination. The result is that several liquor dealers and other business men are displaying corporation checks tonight as souvenirs of a very unusual condition. Some relief is expected shortly from New York, but very little if any is hoped for from Boston. The treasurers of some mills are preparing to issue small checks to their help in payment of wages, the understanding being that they will be honored by grocers and others.

Meeting of New Haven Young Men's Republican Club.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 3.—The young men's republican club gave a largely attended dinner at [illegible], Savin Rock, tonight. The guests of honor were Senator O. H. Platt, Gen. Joseph R. Hawley, ex-Congressman Kellogg of Waterbury, and the Hon. Henry Pepke of Pawtucket, R. I. Speeches were made by these gentlemen and others.

Senator Platt said among other things that the democrats attribute the cause of business depression to the Sherman act. It was however false pretense. The senator said he should vote for the repeal of the Sherman law, but not because it is the chief cause of depression.

Senator Hawley said that he firmly believed that the future of the country would be controlled by the principles of the republican party—the party that dared to say all that it believes and to stand by all that it says.

The country, he said, is in a condition of more or less distress. Factories are not running more than three or four days a week and many are closed. The pressure upon us comes in two directions. One from abroad, because they fear our financial policy; the other at home. With proper management there is no reason why the present financial crisis could not be remedied. The present calamity is due to the absolute uncertainty as to what course the democratic party will take.

More Currency Shortly.

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 3.—United States Treasurer D. N. Morgan is in town on a short vacation, going this afternoon to his summer house at Huntington. Mr. Morgan says that Uncle Sam will furnish all the currency and in all places that he can in accordance with the law. The new issue of paper money is printed but is not ready for the new treasurer's signature. Mr. Morgan says the new money will be put in circulation in a few weeks.

Nonsensical British Talk.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Capt. John Barr of the Jubilee, brother of the skipper of the Navahoe when told today of the British talk about the Navahoe nearly foundering laughed at the idea and said: Its nonsense to think of such a thing. She won't capsize, neither will any of the rest of them.

The Cholera Spreading.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Rome correspondent of The Central News says: "Soon after the outbreak of the cholera epidemic in Naples 100,000 persons had fled from that city. The reports greatly understate the facts. Saturday 19 cases and 9 deaths were reported. Reliable private advices declare that there were 53 new cases and 26 deaths on that day, and 49 cases and 27 deaths on Monday. The official figures for Tuesday are 18 new cases and 6 deaths."

Killed While Stealing a Ride.

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 3.—A man about 25 years old was killed today in the freight yard here while stealing a ride on a train. He was about five feet seven inches tall, had black hair and mustache, wore a navy blue suit and a black derby hat. In the hat was the name, "A. H. Morton." The man had these addresses on his person: D. Hammond, 131 West South street, Duluth; D. Truel and John Myers, Company H, Twelfth infantry; Annie Pierson, 612 Twenty-fifth avenue, South Minneapolis; Miss L. Lockwood, Greenwich, Conn.; The Tucker Construction Co., 14 and 20 Whitehall street, New York.

Disastrous Railroad Wreck in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 3.—A disastrous railroad wreck is reported from San Jeronimo, on the line of the Tehuantepec Isthmus road. A passenger train, while going at a high rate of speed, jumped the track, killing one man and severely injuring several others.

FASTEST 3-HEAT RACE ON RECORD.

Sensational Trotting at the Grand Circuit in Buffalo.

23,000 SPECTATORS.

Maud S.'s 2.10¾ Record on Buffalo Track Twice Lowered.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Some sensational racing marked the third day of the grand circuit meeting and several records went by the board.

In the stake for the 2.15 trot Hulda trotted the fastest three-heat race on record, beating the best average of Martha Wilkes, and also twice lowered the Buffalo track record—2.10¾ by Maud S. Hulda S.'s mile was also the fastest ever made by a five-year-old, and the time 2.08 should be universally considered the race record, as 2.08 as made by Martha Wilkes at Evansville last year had a taint of suspicion.

Hal Pointer was the great fun for all pacing in a hard fought battle. Flying Jib was as unsteady as he was at Detroit and Cleveland caught the flag in the second and heat. Manager [illegible] great first mile and a new pacing race record for the track, which was however lowered by Pointer later in the race. Prince Herschel was a good thing uncovered in the 2.30 stake for 3-year-olds. McGregor, the favorite did not possess the speed credited to him.

Twenty-three thousand people saw the race and the weather was perfect.

Reduction in Wages During the Depression.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—The Yale and Towne Manufacturing company, manufacturers of Yale locks, hardware and hoisting machinery, gave notice tonight of a reduction in wages and salaries of 10 per cent during the continuance of the present depression in business. The works of the company will continue to operate in all departments, but there will be probably some reduction in the force and working hours. Much satisfaction is expressed that the industry will be kept in continuous operation.

Fell Overboard in a Fit.

DOVER, N. H. Aug. 3.—Willie Hughes, 18 years old, while rowing in the Cocheco river this evening, was taken with a fit and fell overboard and was drowned. The body was recovered.

Dentists Required to Register.

The dental commissioners of Connecticut, Drs. W. J. Rider of Danbury, Civilion Fones of Bridgeport, Charles P. Graham of Middletown, R. W. Browne of New London and George L. Parmelee of Hartford, have organized for carrying out the provisions of the law regulating the practice of dentistry. Dr. Civilion Fones was chosen president and Dr. George L. Parmelee recorder of the commission.

All dentists who were in practice in Connecticut prior to July 1, 1893, are eligible and are required to register, and it is necessary for them to do so in order to be recognized by the commission as being in practice. Circulars will be sent out to all applicants for registration.

Later the time will be announced when such applicants for license to practice will be examined by the commission.

Depression at Danielsonville.

A Danielsonville dispatch says: The woolen mills of C. D. Chase & Co. and of the Hopkins Manufacturing Co. at Elmville have stopped work for a few weeks. E. H. Jacobs & Co. have also shut down for a few weeks. The Aspinock Knitting mill, which assigned recently to Geo. H. Rice of Boston, will shut down for an indefinite time. The cause in each instance is the depressed state of business.

An erroneous item has been published about the state with regard to several Putnam industries: Fisher's shoe factory, instead of closing indefinitely as stated, will start up again next week with a portion of the help. Howard Knowlton & Co., silk manufacturers, who were reported to have discharged two-thirds of their men with a prospect of entire suspension, have simply discharged 15 girls out of 200 hands and are running on three-quarters time. The Wheelock Woolen mill was reported closed entirely; it is, in fact, running with partial force. All the other manufactories in the town are running on short time with reduced force.

CHEAP FUEL FOR PITTSBURG.

Great Natural Gas Well Struck—3,700 Feet Deep.

[illegible]BURG, Aug. 3.—Natural gas has been struck on the Swagler farm, in Somerset and Washington counties. It is said to be the greatest well ever drilled. It is 3,700 feet deep. The pressure was so strong that all the tools were blown out of the hole. The roar can be heard five miles away. No fittings have yet been found strong enough to close it in.

The well is owned by the Monongahela Gas company, composed of iron and steel manufacturers of the South Side. They will turn the gas into their mills. The cheap fuel will allow Pittsburg to make iron and steel cheaper than anywhere else in the country.

Experts say that instead of the gas supply petering out, there will be more gas this fall than ever.

THE LIMIT REACHED.

No More Silver Certificates to be Issued for the Present.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—No more silver certificates will be issued by the treasury department for the present as the limit prescribed by law has been reached. That is, as many silver certificates are now outstanding as there are standard silver dollars coined and in the treasury to redeem them.

The reduction in the number of silver dollars in the treasury has been brought about by the large demand recently for silver dollars from the south to move the crops in Georgia and the Carolinas and to pay off hands at work on the cotton crop. United States Treasurer Morgan's circular on the subject reads: "The issue of silver certificates being limited to the amount of standard silver dollars held by the treasury for their redemption or exchange for the present, silver dollars can be furnished only for silver certificates deposited for exchange or in return for those received for redemption. Halves, quarters and dimes can be furnished in the place of standard silver dollars in sums of $50 or more, free of charge for expressage, or by registered mail in sums of multiples of $50, registration free for drafts collectible at Washington or any of the subtreasuries.

Freight Trains Collide with Terrible Force.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—Two freight trains on the New England branch of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad crashed together in a head-on collision between Winsted and New Hartford about [illegible] o'clock this morning, telescoping the locomotive and wrecking eight cars. The trains were going at a good rate of speed and collided with terrible force.

The engineers of both trains saw the other in time, reversed the levers of their locomotives and jumped. They escaped with slight injuries. The locomotives plunged through and over each other as far as the tenders, wrecking both completely. Eight cars left the track and five of them plunged down the embankment. All of the cars were loaded, one of them being filled with oil.

The cause of the accident is yet unknown.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The receipts from internal revenue today were $4[illegible], [illegible] customs, $[illegible], and miscellaneous, $[illegible].

TAFTVILLE.

Tonight Mr. W. J. Weller, D. H. Baker, [illegible] Lillibridge, accompanied by Mr. D. Underwood of Norwich, leave for a visit to the World's fair.

Mr. Joseph Maynard, clerk in the Ponemah store, is on his vacation.

Mr. George Havens contemplates sailing for Switzerland in a few days.

Henry Trudeau is spending his vacation at Bullock's Point.

Mrs. Thomas Livingstone is visiting her parents for a few days.

Mr. M. B. Prentice and wife have returned from a visit to the World's fair.

PUTNAM.

The New Block—Reducing Running Time—Base Ball.

Work on Bradley's new block is rapidly progressing, and when finished it will be one of the finest edifices in eastern Connecticut. The structure will be 60x90 feet, and two stories high. The branch store of Reid & Hughes, Norwich, will occupy the first floor. The front of the building is built of fine pressed brick. The block will be completed about September 1st.

Wheelock's woolen mill No. 1 has reduced its running time to four days a week. The mill has been stopped nearly all summer and only started about three weeks ago.

The Woodstock academy boys appeared on Morse's lot Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, feeling quite refreshed after their long drive, and ready to do battle with the Electrics. The game was a pretty one, with plenty of excitement. The Electrics won after a stubborn battle. Following is the score by innings:

FRAUDULENT PENSIONS

Letter From Commissioner Lochren to The National Tribune.

HIGH OPINION OF COMRADES.

Does Not Believe Many Have Sought Pensions Dishonestly.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Pension Commissioner Lochren, in a letter to the editor of The National Tribune, says:

"I have not complied to your repeated request that I should cause to be made a list, showing the number of fraudulent pensions, by having one thousand cases put down on adjudited files and examined. I have not done this for several reasons.

"1. Fraudulent cases, if any do exist, cannot be discovered in that way. A fraudulent pension must ordinarily have been obtained on false or forged testimony.

"2. No one whose opinion is entitled to consideration has, as I think, the hardihood to claim that the great mass of adjudicated pension cases are permeated with fraud open and plain on paper, so that the examination of 1,000 cases would disclose an instance. And I certainly have far too high an opinion of my old comrades to believe that any number of them are scoundrels who have sought and obtained pensions dishonestly.

"Especially I believe that the pensions granted to soldiers who did actual service in the field or on account of other disabilities of service, are usually honest and well deserved. No doubt rests on this class of cases, and no examination of them are being made except where evidence is received tending to show that some party is fraudulent or has been improperly decided.

"The investigations as to the work of dishonest pensions at Norfolk, New Mexico and Iowa show local frauds of large extent. But this would be far from leading me to conclude that pension agents are generally dishonest or unscrupulous. My old comrades may feel sure of receiving everything to which the law—liberally constructed—entitles them. Partisan leaders may try to arouse feeling for partisan ends. But the execution of law upon the construction given to it by two heads of the same department of opposite politics, which construction is admitted by everybody to be correct, has no place here, and I did not hesitate to commit the work to a board of revision whose ability fitted them for it, though most of them are republicans."

Too Intimate With Her Brother-in-Law.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Ellen Tierney and Mrs. Bridget O'Neill, sisters, quarrelled tonight over the latter's husband, the former being accused of being too intimate with him. Mrs. Tierney threw boiling water on Mrs. O'Neill, scalding her fatally, it is thought. She will be removed to the hospital with terrible injuries. The Tierney woman was arrested.

A Two Weeks' Vacation.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 3.—Notices were posted in the Cocheco print works this afternoon that the works will shut down Aug. 12 for two weeks or more.

Currency Famine in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—New York city is suffering from what approaches a currency famine. Money brokers today paid premiums of $20 to $25 per $1,000 for small bills.

Embezzled Liquors, Then Suicided.

WALTHAM, Mass., Aug. 3.—Charles H. McCarron, of Somerville, was brought here and locked up this evening on the charge of embezzling nearly $1,000 worth of liquors from the Cutter Whisky company, and disposing of the same. About fifteen minutes later he was found suffering from strychnine poisoning. He was taken from the cell and died in a short time. McCarron was 24 years old and unmarried.

The Prettiest Baby in Norwich.

There is a chance for some one of the many pretty babies in Norwich to have a present of $50, as that sum is offered for the first prize, with smaller yet liberal amounts for other prizes, to the prettiest babies who have used lactated food. Full particulars forwarded free by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., sole proprietors of lactated food, known in hundreds of homes as "the food that saves babies' lives." This food should be used by every baby during the dangerous summer months. aug4-24
